Hub privatisation

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

MOUNT Gambier City Council's plans to privatise the operation of the Wulanda recreation hub are well advanced and existing businesses are concerned that the playing field won't be level as ratepayers may be subsidising it.

Council chief executive Sarah Philpott revealed to The Border Watch last week that council was in the process of finalising a contract with a private operator for the $57.5m facility.

Mount Gambier privately owned sporting facilities are concerned that the private operation of the hub will result in unfair competition.

Squashbrook Fitness and Leisure owner Simon Brook said he was concerned about the recent development due to an already flooded market.

"I believe the original recommendation was not to put a fitness facility into the centre, however that has changed," Mr Brook said.

"I think that is done to try and find a way to fund the massive losses that will come from running a large aquatic facility."

Council has previously estimated that the running cost of the hub would be $1.4m each year. Mr Brook said, despite the community originally "screaming" for an indoor pool facility, the centre has now developed into a large community centre.

Pioneers remain hub loyal

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

AFTER calling the Icehouse home for 34 seasons, the Mount Gambier Pioneers remain committed to transferring their games to the city's up-and-coming sporting centre.

The $57.5m Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre will be the new home for the basketball giants with president of the club Tom Kosch remaining firm on the transfer.

Mr Kosch said the club was excited to be transferred to the new facility and players were happy for the opportunity to play in front of 1500 spectators.

It comes following a question presented to Mount Gambier City Council during this month's meeting by Cr Paul Jenner.

Cr Jenner questioned whether there was an expected signed guarantee between council and sporting associations to use the facility.

He also questioned costs associated directly with sporting associations and costs for the community to enter the facility.

Council's chief executive officer Sarah Philpott said discussions regarding the costs for the centre would come to fruition once an agreement had been made with the centre's operator.

Mr Kosch said despite the controversy regarding the hub, the Pioneers would move to the newly developed centre and hoped it would also entice state-wide teams for pre-season.

"The Pioneers hold an important position in our region in regards to basketball and we are hoping to work with whichever party operates the centre," Mr Kosch said.

"We are also happy to negotiate the leasing of the facility for when we need it as ideally we would use it for team training, individual training and home games.

HUB MOVE: Pioneers Basketball Club president Tom Kosch says the players and coaches are excited to move into the soon to be Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre.

"We would also love to have some Friday and Saturday night games throughout the coming season."

He said in regards to revenue, the club would also be willing to work with whatever revenue streams would become available.

"Ticketing is important to us as it is the lifeblood of our basketball club as well as sponsorship," he said.

"We do need to be able to maintain our revenue streams as best as we can and although we don't have any concerns around sponsorship I do think the opportunity of playing at the centre will be a positive step forward."

Mr Kosch said the club was also hoping to know about pricing sooner rather than later to allow for future plans to be put in place.

"We are also willing to work with whoever we need to so we can understand the costs associated with the facility," he said.

"Playing at the centre will provide better access for people because of its location and the extra seating will allow us to provide cheaper ticketing and allow those who usually wouldn't be able to come to do so."

Despite the eagerness, council has not yet disclosed any further information regarding the opening of the centre nor the entry prices due to discussions remaining in place with a potential operator.

Businesses concerned about hub

"There is already a big market presence of private enterprise in our industry so it is a bit concerning that the council's centre will also be privately operated," he said.

He said there are government requirements that council facilities are required not to unfairly impact private businesses.

"If the centre runs at a loss, council can just extract more funds from its constituents whereas, if we run at a loss, we go out of business, so I don't think we are on a level playing field at all."

Mr Brook said the private operation of the facility reflected a "lack of regard" for existing operators, especially for private enterprises across Mount Gambier.

"There will be a commercial rent arrangement for someone to come in and manage their facility, we don't know what that will look like and we don't know what will happen when they have decided on someone," he said.

"We do want to know what kind of facilities they are actually going to install and what they are going to charge because then, and only then, will we understand exactly what we are up against."

Owner and operator of SwimSkool Mount Gambier, Vivienne Peate said there was also going to be an impact on her business as well.

"Obviously with a new facility there will be an impact on my business but how big of an impact is an unknown quantity until the facility is up and running," Ms Peate said.

"I haven't been contacted by the council with regards to the impact the centre will have on my business and I think the council would say that it doesn't have to do so."

Ms Peate said she was not surprised to find out council had been speaking with private operators and it was her assumption that would happen from the beginning.

"All I can do is run my business to the best of my ability and offer the best product I can, whether it be swimming lessons, aqua aerobics, lap swimming or more and hope my customers remain loyal," she said.

Elected members discussed the management and operation of the centre in confidence during this week's monthly meeting.

Ms Philpott said council was in the final stages of negotiating a contract with an operator for the centre.

"This is expected to be concluded early in the new year and follows an extensive tender process and this information is in confidence due to its commercial nature," Ms Philpott said.

"Details regarding the operating model and entry fees associated with the centre are not available at this point in time and fees will be discussed further following the announcement of an operator for the facility."

Shop trade booming

THE Christmas rush started early this year, according to local retailers.

With no sign of a slowdown due to the Covid-19 pandemic, managers at Mount Gambier Marketplace have said stores are as busy as ever.

Smiggle manager, Megan Starick is celebrating her tenth Christmas working at the store.

"People are getting in early and getting things done," Ms Starick said.

"People had Christmas on their mind back in September.

"There is that apprehension of what is happening in South Australia at the moment and they are not hesitating, they are getting organised.

"I feel it is busier than last year.

"When the borders opened, we saw a lot of our familiar faces."

Ms Starick said the extra demand has meant taking on a new Christmas casual staff member for the first time.

"That has been really wonderful," she said.

"I have a young girl on who is home from university."

Owner of Harper & Co Boutique, Stacy Fennell, said the store has been busier than at the same time in 2020.

"It has been really busy, with Covid we have not really noticed much difference," said Ms Fennell.

"It is a lot better this year than last year, we still had a really good October, November and December last year too, but this year has exceeded our expectations.

"Our stock just seems to be coming by the truck load, as quick as we get it in it goes straight back out again."

Ms Fennell said most people visiting the store have been following the Covid-19 rules.

PACKED: Smiggle manager, Megan Starick said that shoppers started buying Christmas presents all the way back in September.

"Most people are, there are the odd few that do not," she said.

Maree MacLeod, manager at Lowes Australia, said she was surprised how early the Christmas shoppers arrived.

"The Christmas rush is full bore, we can really tell, we have had to pick up the pace," Ms MacLeod said.

"It is not something I was prepared for, I thought I had a couple weeks to edge myself into it, but it crept up on me.

"It has come quite a bit early."

Smiles on delivery

MICHAEL Teakle is a bit like Santa Claus this month - he's delivering Christmas cheer along with boxes of product to Mount Gambier business places.

A delivery man with Toll, Michael thought he'd add a bit of Christmas colour to his uniform this month and donned a novelty 'Christmas Elf' hat to inject some Christmas spirit into his rounds.

This is the first time in his six years as a delivery man that he has taken up the task of spreading some cheer in this way and the reaction has been positive with his appearance generating plenty of smiles and people taking photographs of him.

"I've even had photos taken with kids who were excited to see an elf," he said.

DELIVERING CHEER AND FREIGHT: Toll delivery man, Michael Teakle has been a cheerful sight in Mount Gambier this month.

Region's highest achiever

CHARLOTTE VARCOE
charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

ST MARTIN's Lutheran College student Agnes Doyle is one step closer to becoming a doctor after receiving the highest Australian Tertiary Admission Rank (ATAR) score in the South East of 97.85.

Following the release of the much anticipated South Australian Certificate of Education results earlier this week, Ms Doyle said she was over the moon with her results after putting in her maximum effort throughout the year.

"I am so surprised with being the top score in the South East, and I wasn't expecting this outcome," Ms Doyle said.

"I thought my scores were good but there were tonnes of people in the region doing SACE and I was so happy to find out everyone in the region got really close scores which I thought was cool.

"Our scores here shows that regional kids can do well with their scores too which I think is great."

South Wales and Victoria.

"I don't know what my first preference will be, I am hoping to stay in Adelaide because I know the area, I am familiar with it and it isn't too city like," she said.

"However I want to keep all my options open for now."

As for the future, Ms Doyle said she was hoping to become a doctor and would study medicine after a gap year in 2022.

"I am obviously very happy and proud of my results as I have put in as much work as possible to achieve as best as I can," Ms Doyle said.

"I am very proud of myself for really pushing myself this year and am really happy with the results."

Looking forward, Agnes said she was intending to have a gap year before heading to the big city and studying medicine.

"I think being a doctor and working in that industry will be super challenging but it is also very interesting," she said.

"I believe it would be something that I am up to and would like to do as it is also very rewarding which I think there is a good balance of in the industry."

She said the competitive yet supportive school year has helped her further her education and achieve her scores.

"As for next year's Year 12 students, I think they should remember to manage stress as best as possible because I don't think I did and despite getting a good result, it still made it difficult," Ms Doyle said.

"If students are not stressing, they will probably get the best results they can get, so it is really important for them to go into exams with a level head.

"But it is also about enjoying the year with their friends because it may be the last time you see some of them for a long time."

Fellow St Martin's students Jemima Puust also received a high score at 97.45, and Drew Baker with 90.35.

South East students score high in end of year results

CHARLOTTE VARCOE
charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

REPRESENTING a record, 15,644 students across the State completed their South Australian Certificate of Education (SACE) this year.

In the South East, Australian Tertiary Admission Rank (ATAR) scores remained high for yet another year with St Martin's Lutheran College student Agnes Doyle taking out the top spot.

Agnes received 97.85 and said she wished to continue studying to become a doctor following a gap year.

Closely following Agnes at the college was Jemima Puust who received 97.45 and Drew Baker with 90.35.

Mount Gambier High School's highest scoring student was Sarah Dally with 97.30.

Other high scorers at Mount Gambier High were Alana Menzel with 96.95 and Angel Aguinaldo with 96.45.

Ms Dally said she was shocked to see her score on Monday morning and was pleased with the results.

"I am very happy with my results, it has been a big year but now I am looking forward to having a gap year and travelling between Mount Gambier and Adelaide for training," Ms Dally said.

"I have a traineeship here at Mount Gambier High School doing the health and physical education position.

CELEBRATIONS: Tenison Woods College students celebrate completing their schooling life.

"As for university, I have applied to do a double degree in psychology and sport."

Grant High School's highest scoring student and second highest for the South East was Angus Langsmith with 97.55.

"I was in the car when I received a call from the school," Mr Langsmith said.

"They told me my results and I was shocked, I did pretty well throughout the year but didn't think I would get this high."

As for the future, Mr Langsmith said he would continue his traineeship with Water Solve Irrigation throughout his gap year before attending Adelaide University to study agricultural science.

"I have been looking forward to going to university, getting out and trying something different," he said.

Other Grant students who scored highly included Rachael Kelly with 95.2 and Wil Scanlon with 94.9.

Tenison Woods College had eight students who scored over 90.

Highest of them was Tess Wight with 95.45 who said receiving the top score was not something she had expected at all.

"I went into this year doing my best and receiving the top score was a nice way of having my efforts recognised," Ms Wight said.

"I moved up to Adelaide soon after exams with my brother and am hoping to get into Flinders University.

"I had medicine as my first preference but that can be hard to get into so I might have to get into my second preference which is paramedicine.

"I would be happy either way."

Other Tenison Woods students who scored in the 90's were Lachlan Clements with 95, Hayley Pearson with 94.40, Mykaela Thiele with 94.30, Alice Circelli with 94.15, Rajvi Purswani with 92.75, Charlotte Oliver with 92.35, and Isabella Kenny with 92.20.

Millicent High School's top scorer was Jemma Hayward with 81.8.

"I was happy because it was higher than a guaranteed entry into nursing," Jemma said.

"I was very surprised, it was a good morning."

While Ms Hayward will be beginning her studies in nursing next year, pursuing midwifery is the long-term plan.

"I have wanted to be a midwife since I was in year eight," she said.

"But the ATAR to get in is really high, so I will make a start in nursing first."

Kingston Community School student William Edwards received a high score of just below 95.

Bordertown High School student Lili Jaensch also received between 90-95.

Naracoorte High School also recorded a high score of 96.10.

Lucindale Area School's top student received a raw score of 89.2.

Kangaroo Inn Area School did not disclose their top scores, but principal Annie Matthews said she was proud of the outstanding effort the Year 12 students made in their studies.

Lobster on the menu

ELSIE ADAMO

elsie.adamo@tbwtoday.com.au

LOBSTER is on the menu this Christmas, as seafood stores in the Limestone Coast take their holiday orders.

Beachport, Port Macdonnell and Robe shopfronts are gearing up for the holiday rush, with some even offering online ordering for pickup.

Ferguson Australia is a seafood company established in the South East, operating across the state with exports around the world, their division Five Star Seafood runs a shopfront in Port Macdonnell selling local lobster.

Owner Andrew Ferguson said that at the current prices, more people may be able to enjoy a cray this holiday.

"We are hoping to see the demand increase for local lobster in the lead up to Christmas," Mr Ferguson said.

"At the moment, our concentration really is on the local market because we are expecting that to be strong at this time of year.

An underperforming prawn season nationally could mean that more people will be opting for lobster over the standard Christmas favourite.

"The price is not all that different now, so we are hoping more people may just go for the lobster," she said.

"It has become a lot more affordable, even when you are comparing the prices to something like steak."

But Limestone lobster has not always been available to the Limestone Coast locals, with some of the stores opening their doors for the first time in the last year.

A falling demand for exported Southern Rock Lobster lead fishers and businesses to turn their sights to a more local market.

READY TO SELL: Beachport fisherman Craig 'Slim' Reilly holding up some of the fresh lobster that will be sold locally.

Mr Ferguson said while exports have slowed, having the flexibility to sell lobster locally has been a silver lining.

"The marketplace is a completely different place to what it used to be," he said.

"It is good to see more of a local market.

"We offer some different types of seafood and lobster products as well, such as portioned lobster with butter ready to barbeque."

Ferguson Australia currently is selling their lobsters online, $78 a kilogram for a whole cooked fresh or frozen lobster, and $75 a kilogram for a whole live lobster.

Sky Seafoods in Robe currently has their cooked lobster for sale at $65 for a lobster less than one kilogram, $75 for a lobster at one to one and a half kilograms.

The Lobster Pot in Beachport has been taking Christmas pre-orders, extending working hours to cater for the holiday demand.

The opening of the store in 2019 gave locals the opportunity to buy crayfish that was caught in Rivoli Bay for the first time.

Lighting up Christmas for families to admire

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

CHRISTMAS spirit can be felt across Mount Gambier with many residents finalising their festive lights.

The Christmas cheer has spread this year, with residents in streets across the region showing off their lighting displays.

Monique Vallerant of Hayes Crescent, Mount Gambier, is now in her third year of putting up her festive lights and said it was the look on children's faces that kept her doing it each year.

"We do it for the kids and we love decorating the outside of our home," Ms Vallerant said.

"The community enjoys it as well which is worth it."

Her solar powered lights have gained the attraction of many on social media groups, something which came as a shock to the local resident.

"We put up a photo in the Mount Gambier Christmas Lights group on Facebook and I wasn't expecting to get over 100 likes," she said.

A list of Christmas lights from across the region is also available on the back page of this year's Christmas Spirit lift out in today's The Border Watch.

No public holiday for Xmas Day

KATHY GANDOLFI

kathy.gandolfi@btwtoday.com.au

A FAILED attempt to have Christmas Day declared a public holiday has left its proponent, Mount Gambier MP Troy Bell, frustrated and disappointed for workers and employers.

In South Australian Parliament recently, Mr Bell attempted to gain an amendment to the Holidays Act in South Australia which declares that when Christmas Day falls on a Saturday the following Monday will be a public holiday instead of Christmas Day itself.

Under the Act, public holidays for the Christmas period this year are from 7pm to midnight on Christmas Eve (Friday, December 24) and then on Sunday (December 26) for Boxing Day, Monday (December 27) as the substitute day for Christmas Day and again on Tuesday (December 28) for Proclamation Day, but not Christmas Day itself.

Mr Bell's compromise was for the five hours of public holiday on Christmas Eve to be scrapped as a trade-off for Christmas Day to be declared a public holiday.

He said his amendment had the support of the Liberals but when unions rallied against the trade-off calling instead for the retention of Christmas Eve as a public holiday and the addition of Christmas Day as a public holiday, Mr Bell's proposal failed to gain the support of Labor and the Greens.

Mr Bell said the compromise would have only applied when Christmas Day fell on a Saturday, which only occurs once every 10 years.

"I think everyone who works on Christmas Day deserves to be paid penalty rates," said Mr Bell.

"If the unions gave up five hours on Christmas Eve, they would have gained 24 hours on Christmas Day, a net gain of 19 hours.

"They already get three and a half days as public holidays - I was proposing they have four full days - but they wanted four and a half days.

"In absolute good faith I tried to negotiate this compromise; I am frustrated and disappointed that the unions could not see that this was a fair and reasonable compromise.

"It's dead in the water now, Parliament has risen so there is no chance of any changes now - Christmas Day will not be a public holiday."

ON WATCH: David Jones and Constable Chelsea McKinnon are hopeful that businesses will support the new group.

Crime prevention group for business

ELSIE ADAMO

elsie.adamo@btwtoday.com.au

MOUNT Gambier police held their first Neighbourhood Watch meeting this week for businesses, following concerns about the prevalence of shoplifting.

Held on Wednesday night, business owners, managers and community members were invited to attend the discussions at the Italo Australian Club.

Following the discussions, the group of 11 business representatives in attendance decided not to set up a formal Neighbourhood Watch program at this stage, but to continue informal discussions next year.

An informal group will negate paperwork and formalised roles while still being able to have consultations with local police, but will not have access to formalised support from a dedicated team in Adelaide.

Those present expressed their desire to formalise the group next year, after more interest from the business community was generated.

Neighbourhood Police Officer Constable Chelsea McKinnon said the meeting was set up to help facilitate a discussion between business and local police on strategies to curb crime.

"I am hoping to link everyone in and keep everyone in the loop about what is going on for us," Cst McKinnon said.

The meeting discussed the possibility of creating a private Facebook or WhatsApp group for business owners and managers to easily exchange information when incidents happen, or to share prevention tactics.

"For example, if someone did try to attempt to steal something from a store, they could get on the WhatsApp and share that information," Cst McKinnon said.

At the meeting, local business owners expressed a desire to learn more about prevention tactics, as well as education on the appropriate way to interact with shoplifters.

Police present at the meeting warned about inappropriate use of social media, such as publicly sharing images or videos online.

Cst McKinnon said as far as she was aware shoplifting was no more prevalent in Mount Gambier than other areas of the State.

Intersport owner David Jones was one of the business owners who voiced his support for starting the program and was in attendance on Wednesday.

"Shoplifting is very much a concern, at this time of year it can be huge," Mr Jones said.

"We try to tell our staff to be vigilant and watch people, but there is only so much you can do.

"It puts a lot of pressure on the staff as well."

Mr Jones indicated he had caught people attempting to shoplift in the last week.

Mount Gambier Chamber of Commerce President Hayley Neumann said she had received concerns from members about whether local police have done enough to help curb the problem of shoplifting and are looking for a more proactive solution.

An earlier meeting on the topic helped prompt the new program, after a crime and safety meeting organised by the chamber was attended by 40 business stakeholders from throughout the community.

"There had been some shoplifting around town, and businesses were putting videos and information on social media about it," Ms Neumann said.

"We were concerned that there could be implications for the shop owners for doing that.

"We wanted to come together to discuss a solution, and while we had that meeting, SAPOL advised they were looking at having a Neighbourhood Watch program."

Ms Neumann said she is hopeful the meeting will lead to a more cohesive approach to the issue.

"Hopefully businesses have some resources against shoplifting, and a way to communicate to other businesses in the area," Ms Neumann said.

"It will hopefully help us keep an eye out for each other."

The next meeting will be held in February.

EDITOR'S COMMENT

THE privatisation of the management of the Wulanda Recreational Hub by the Mount Gambier City Council raises a number of questions regarding how council will ensure that private businesses are not adversely affected.

The public has been kept in the dark as council's deliberations regarding the private operation of the hub have been held in confidence.

The Local Government Act allows councils to hold discussions in confidence and the vast majority are justified.

Last week, council chief executive Sarah Philpott revealed to The Border Watch that council was in private discussions with a possible private operator of the hub.

By law, the justification for confidentiality is that the privacy reasons of the matter discussed in secret must outweigh the public interest to know what's being discussed.

Looking in from the outside, we know that council is considering the business model for the hub.

It's questionable on how a business model for a ratepayer owned facility can remain secret.

The hub's shareholders are the ratepayers of Mount Gambier and some of these shareholders will face competition from the private operators of the Wulanda recreational centre.

There are obvious questions like; will the private operator be paying a commercial rent, pay rates, electricity, all wages associated with the hub, to name a few costs that all other businesses pay.

A level playing field is required by law as South Australian legislation requires 'competitive neutrality'.

The principles of competitive neutrality are designed to prevent councils providing any net advantage, through its control, over a private business operating in the same market. Full transparency on any private sector involvement in the hub is essential.

We know from past comments from council that the hub is expected to cost about $1.4m each year to operate.

It will be interesting to see what the private operator will be contributing.

Governor welcomed

IT was a pleasure to welcome the new Governor of South Australia to the Limestone Coast this week.

Her Excellency the Honourable Frances Adamson AC was appointed in October following positions as head of the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade and International Advisor to the Prime Minister.

Community leaders and community organisations and residents met with the Governor at events such as a lunch hosted by the Mayor of the City of Mount Gambier and an afternoon tea at Port MacDonnell hosted by Mayor Richard Sage.

More than 60 people attended this event, including 102 year old Mrs Cram, who is Grant District Council's oldest resident.

These and other events held were great opportunities for our new Governor to hear first hand about issues facing our region as well as the enormous potential of the Limestone Coast.

I was also delighted that the Governor visited Timberlink Australia at Tarpeena and was briefed on the mill's operations and the company's history. Forestry is such a key industry in our community and it was great to see such a keen interest in it.

While our new Governor has only been in the job for a couple of months, she is clearly keen to be accessible and informed about local issues. I am sure many people in the Limestone Coast are appreciative that she has come to visit the Limestone Coast so early in her term.

The Governor was very personable and friendly, and very generous with her time.

It is important for regional residents across South Australia to have access to the state's decision makers which is why I am so pleased that the Opposition Leader and Labor's Shadow Cabinet is dedicated to Country Cabinet meetings. Country Cabinet meetings are a direct line of contact to the state's decision makers and that's why if we are fortunate enough to be elected in Government next year, we have committed to continuing to have cabinet meetings in our local community.

Regional residents deserve to be heard, and regular catch ups with the entire team is an important commitment to make.

Communicating with regions

COMMUNICATING with regional people is pretty simple.

We want plain simple language, with no jargon and we need it delivered the way we want it, whether it's radio, livestreamed or delivered direct to your letterbox. However, over the last twenty months, it's become pretty clear the State Government's regional communication strategy is on life support.

Over the last twenty months, time and time again I'm hearing how frustrated people are with the lack of clear and concise information from government channels.

Accurate and timely information stops misinformation - It's as simple as that.

With a State Election not far away, I'd like to see a commitment from both major parties to seriously consider the way they communicate with regional audiences.

There needs to be less talking and more listening from city-based politicians to ensure they're reaching the people they're making decisions about.

Member for Mount Gambier

SPECIAL VISIT: Boandik Lodge chief executive officer Gillian McGinty discusses the important role the Wellness Centre has upon the Limestone Coast residents with South Australian Governor Frances Adamson and Mount Gambier City Council Mayor Lynette Martin.

Governor impressed with inaugural visit

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Limestone Coast was graced with a whirlwind visit from the South Australian Governor Frances Adamson AC this week.

Her Excellency visited a range of facilities prior to attending Robe's centenary anniversary of its War Memorial.

Governor Adamson also met with Mount Gambier City Council members and Mayor Lynette Martin before touring the Boandik Lodge Wellness Centre and attending an afternoon tea with Grant District Council at Port MacDonnell Community Complex.

"I had breakfast with Mount Gambier City Council which was a really good opportunity to be briefed on what is a pretty exciting city with strong growth prospects and some significant infrastructure projects that are quite well advanced," Governor Adamson said.

"There is a striking sense of community here which is very evident to me even from Adelaide as I can see the number of nominations for awards and recipients that come from this area."

The Governor was also briefed on the up and coming Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre, stating it was a very exciting project.

"I believe the centre will be transformational for the local community and the region and expect it will attract other major sporting events potentially across the border or at a state and national level," she said.

"Council has obviously worked very hard to reach this point of construction, especially during the pandemic but the prospects are very strong indeed."

Speaking on her tour of the award winning Boandik Lodge Wellness Centre, the Governor said it was yet another fantastic facility within Mount Gambier.

"I had the opportunity to walk in and see some people going through their paces in the hydrotherapy pool and it obviously has a clear purpose," she said.

"The fact that it is enabling people to undergo rehabilitation after injury, help older people maintain mobility, enable people to prepare for surgery and many more options it is clear it has an important role in the community."

Despite the whirlwind visit, Governor Adamson said the Limestone Coast was always an attractive destination to her after previously passing through.

"I have been down to the Limestone Coast on a number of occasions during my travels to Canberra, however I have not been able to stop properly and spend a few days here so I was pleased to have that opportunity," she said.

Governor Adamson also visited a number of Christmas-based volunteers from various organisations, including the Mayor's Christmas Appeal.

"The Mayor's Christmas Appeal is a very important thing and we had a lovely time this morning meeting volunteers and wrapping presents," she said.

"I also met with Boandik Lodge residents during their Christmas lunch and found out Mount Gambier is very Christmas and community focused."

Christmas Angel dog

ANGEL, the three year old American Staffordshire Terrier, spread some Christmas cheer among residents of some of Mount Gambier's aged care facilities this week.

The former rescue dog was looking resplendent in her Christmas costume and attracting plenty of attention from passers-by in Mount Gambier's Commercial Street when The Border Watch photographed her with owner, Christine Jackson, having lunch outside Bloom cafe.

The pair had just visited The Oaks Aged Care Facility to deliver some Christmas cheer and was about to do the same at Resthaven.

A regular visitor at these facilities, Angel is a pet therapy dog and delivers happiness to residents just by being her patient doggy self.

"She'll take pats all day," said Christine who retrained Angel from a frightened rescue dog to being completely trustworthy in all circumstances.

High ATAR result in Penola

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

PENOLA High School students celebrated the end of their schooling lives with Australian Tertiary Admission Rank (ATAR) scores announced this week.

The school's top four out of nine students all received scores over 80 with Charlotte Neale taking out the top spot.

Charlotte received a score of 86 and said she was happy with the overall results following a tough year.

"Receiving this score means I should be able to get into the course I want to do," Charlotte said.

"I am hoping to do a Bachelor of Arts and major in psychology but I haven't decided on if I will do a double major or two minors and that will probably be along the lines of writing."

She said psychology and writing was something she was always interested in studying since the beginning of high school.

"Both my mum and step-mum are social workers which I think has influenced me a little and also helped," she said.

HIGH SCORES: Penola High School students Charlotte Neale and Tom Skeer celebrate their high scores with principal Lesley Okholm.

Charlotte said she was not interested in taking a gap year and looked forward to heading straight into the university lifestyle.

"I am excited about going straight into university and I think it will be good to go into a bigger population than Penola and experience new things," she said.

Fellow student Tom Skeer also received a high score with 85.4.

"I am very happy about my score and I don't know what I am going to do next year, I might go straight to university but I am unsure," Tom said.

"I am wanting to study paramedics but unsure if I will get in so if I don't I will do health science at Flinders University.

"Either way I am excited to move onto university and try new things in the city."

Both students were excited about the future alongside the rest of Penola High School's Year 12 students.

Christmas spirit reaches Penola

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

PENOLA is getting into the Christmas spirit with a spectacular range of lights on display across town.

Resident and newcomer to the Christmas light sector, Cass Jackson, of Heatherington Avenue, said the decision to light up her home was based around bringing the magic back into the festive season.

"We have only started putting up Christmas lights this year due to having a baby," Ms Jackson said.

"I have a 17-year-old too but we wanted to bring the magic back."

She said there had already been a number of people stopping in front of their house looking at the lights.

"The importance to having Christmas lights up for us is that we get to see and hear the excitement of the kids," Ms Jackson said.

Ms Jackson said there were already high-lights to having the lights on display with the family hearing a child yelling out of the car how wonderful and "awesome" the lights looked.

"I think the lights are awesome for these trying times as it gives people something good to look forward to," she said.

"We have heard some feedback from the public saying that their children loved our lights which is awesome as well."

Lit up homes are also along Clarke Street, Queen Street, Church Street and Elizabeth Street.

Winners selected

WINNERS of the much anticipated Penola Coonawarra Stuffed Santa competition will be announced today during the annual Christmas street party.

The annual event showcases creative stuffed Santas which line the streets of Penola and the Riddoch Highway.

Santas have found themselves in a number of different scenarios this year including riding a bicycle or gazing at the stars through a telescope.

The event also focusses on bringing more revenue to the local businesses of the area, so that tourists and consumers may spend more on local gifts, food and wine.

Participants have created a festive diorama of sorts and taken a photo to upload to the joint Penola and Coonawarra website with voting ending last night.

The Penola Coonawarra Christmas Street party will kick off at 5pm in the Penola War Memorial Park.

Friends and families are encouraged to come along, with a surprise visit from the jolly man himself expected.

Two wineries receive prestigious awards

TWO Coonawarra wineries have received top awards recently with Majella Wines and St Mary's Wines celebrating a job well done.

Majella Wines was awarded the trophy for the Best Shiraz and Cabernet Blend at the Melbourne Royal Wine Awards, while Mulligan's Spiced Cane Spirit was awarded a gold medal at the Australian Distilled Spirits Awards.

"We are delighted to win this prestigious award with The Musician," Majella Wines director Brian Lynn said.

"It's our biggest selling wine and has done exceptionally well on the wine show circuit since its release back in 2005."

This year, more than 3,000 entries were received from winemakers across the country to the Melbourne Awards alongside a panel of more than 35 industry experts.

Ian Mulligan, of St Mary's Vineyard, said staff were proud to let people know about the latest award for the spiced cane spirit.

"With winning the gold we were in the running for a trophy but to no avail," Mr Mulligan said.

"We can't get too greedy as we won a trophy only a few weeks back for the Mulligan's Clear Cane Spirit."

WS DeGaris Cup winner

elsie.adamo@tbwtoday.com.au

INDYA Homes was announced as the winner of Millicent High School's WS DeGaris Memorial Cup at the school's presentation night last week.

The school's premier award, the Cup is presented to the Year 12 student who has displayed exceptional academic achievement throughout the school year.

Indya said she was not expecting to be named this year's winner.

"I was really shocked," Ms Homes said.

"I was not expecting that, so it was a good surprise.

"I always was inspired to study hard, I have wanted to go to university my whole life."

Indya said she is excited to start her next academic chapter, and is planning to start her law degree next year.

"I have always been really fascinated by law ever since I was little," she said.

"I always wanted a career in something to do with law, maybe as a lawyer or as a policeman.

"I am going to do my first year online here, and then I may go to Adelaide to study my second year."

Starting at Millicent High School in Year 11, Indya said that it has been a hard, but rewarding year.

"It has been a great year."

As for the Millicent High School class of 2022, Indya had some good advice ahead of their big year.

"Study hard, and that will get you far, it will take you a long way," she said.

Councillors decide to fly Aboriginal flag permanently

kathy.gandolfi@tbwtoday.com.au

WATTLE Range Council will fly the Aboriginal flag outside its current Millicent office following a decision at its monthly meeting on Tuesday night.

The decision was made after representatives of Burrandies Aboriginal Corporation addressed the meeting and presented an Aboriginal Flag and a Torres Strait Islander Flag to Mayor Des Noll.

The deputation followed a debate on the subject at Council's November meeting which was prompted by an email from a member of the community asking why the Aboriginal Flag was not flown by Council.

At that meeting the email was received and noted following a discussion which revolved around the subject being addressed in the future with the provision of additional flag poles to accommodate the Aboriginal and other flags at the proposed new Council offices.

On Tuesday night Burrandies Chief Executive Officer Robyn Campbell acknowledged that the Wattle Range Council flies the flag only during NAIDOC and Reconciliation Week and believed it was the only Council in the area that does not fly the Aboriginal flag permanently.

"I believe all councils in the Adelaide area also fly the flag," she said.

"The oldest boomerang in Australia was found at Wylie Swamp here - so there is a significant connection.

"We have received numerous complaints from the community and request Council to fly the flag," she said.

Mayor Des Noll submitted and moved a motion for Council to fly the Aboriginal Flag daily during business hours.

"If I were of Aboriginal descent, I would be extremely hurt and feeling excluded by my community with my people's flag not being flown and recognised by local government," said Mayor Noll.

Several councillors expressed surprise at the Mayor's argument as the Council had not decided it would not fly the flag.

"Last month I talked about having five flag poles - it was not that we did not want to fly it - just that it was a timing thing," said Cr Dale Price.

"I am a bit perturbed by the language being used, we do want to recognise Aboriginal contribution and we wanted to tie it in with the new offices."

Cr Price said maybe it was time to consider a new national flag.

"I have put a lot of thought into this and to some extent we need a new national flag that encompasses everyone," he said.

"I have no idea of the design but I think a new national flag that represents modern Australia is perhaps needed."

Mayor Noll's motion was carried with a majority vote.

Council has two poles outside its Millicent office which fly the Australian Flag and the Wattle Range Flag.

The Aboriginal Flag will take the place of the Wattle Range Flag.

More time for capsule

MORE time has been allowed for entries to a time capsule that is now expected to be resealed in April.

Originally created for Millicent's 125 celebrations 26 years ago, the time capsule was opened during Millicent's recent 150th celebrations when its contents were found to be in perfect condition.

Currently in the town's library, the time capsule was going to be resealed last weekend but this will now be delayed until April to give individuals and organisations further time to prepare new stories - be it family history or histories of local organisations and other information - for inclusion in the time capsule.

It is then expected to be resealed and stored until the town's 175th anniversary in the year 2045.

Ute load of toys for children

CHARLOTTE VARCOE
charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

A LARGE trailer of toys have been delivered for children in need following another successful Limestone Coast Family Truck Show.

More than 220 toys were delivered to ac.care which is now expected to support the organisation's distribution of gifts to vulnerable children and families throughout the festive season.

Truck show committee president Peter Burchell said despite being yet another challenging year, the overall achievements of the event was granted a success.

"We were not able to contribute the same amount of monetary donations as last year, however the toy donations and response has been just as good," Mr Burchell said.

"We will still have vouchers coming in and we are going to try and move assistance further throughout the Limestone Coast such as in Naracoorte, Penola and Millicent which will encompass the entire region.

"If there are people who think they may be worthy, they are able to contact us because we are open to someone coming to us and asking for assistance even though we can only give them a small assistance."

He said the committee was already looking forward to the 2022 event and were hoping to spread the cheer wider.

"We give ac.care the toys and a monetary donation, however this year we spread the monetary donations across several not-for-profit organisations," Mr Burchell said.

"It is important for us to keep doing this each year, because the truck part of the show appreciates the industry here in Mount Gambier and the drivers who don't usually get too much recognition in the area.

"The convoy however, raises awareness and promotes the kids in our area, especially those in need.

"If organisations like ours do not give back to local charities, these charities would fold and our community would be worse off so it is important that we recognise that."

Limestone Coast Homelessness Service support worker Carmel Grosvenor said it was wonderful to receive the donations from various appeals, businesses, individuals and community groups across the Limestone Coast to help spread Christmas cheer to those in need.

"Sadly, we are seeing an increase in the number of people in need of support across the region following the uncertainty and other impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, which has also contributed to a growing housing crisis with less affordable properties available for people on low incomes," Ms Grosvenor said.

"The impact of ac.care in supporting people, especially at Christmas, was increased by donations to the appeal and throughout the year at our website."

Alongside ac.care, the 48 Army Cadets Unit, Sunset Kitchen, Spare Ya Change For Kids, Four Reasons Why, Mount Gambier RSL and 5GTRFM all received funding.

Councillor's paper bill cut

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

MOUNT Gambier City Council has decided not to reimburse $12.70 to a councillor to cover the cost of printing a meeting agenda while on holidays.

Cr Paul Jenner made the formal request for reimbursement at council's meeting this week after attending a spur-of-the-moment virtual council meeting in July this year during a Covid-19 lockdown.

At the time of the meeting, Cr Jenner was on holidays and had submitted an apology for the meeting.

However, upon discovering that the meeting was to be held virtually, he requested to join the meeting and printed the agenda - costing him $12.70.

According to Council chief executive officer Sarah Philpott, Cr Jenner only had access to his mobile phone to read the agenda.

She said council's virtual attendance policy states the elected member must be both seen and heard to officially attend the meeting and that it was not possible for Cr Jenner to attend the meeting in this manner while reading the agenda on his phone at the same time.

Ms Philpott said this was the reason why Cr Jenner had to print the agenda and, due to the virtual attendance policy, she was not able to determine whether he should receive reimbursement.

"This is why Cr Jenner has chosen to present the matter to elected members," Ms Philpott said.

Cr Max Bruins said the reimbursement should not be paid due to elected members being provided with a laptop and allowances.

Each Mount Gambier City councillor receives an annual allowance of more than $17,000.

Cr Christian Greco questioned why the matter was even being debated, with a majority of councillors agreeing with him.

Cr Frank Morello said the initial cost should be covered by Cr Jenner's yearly printing allowance while Cr Kate Amoroso reiterated the fact Cr Jenner had only a small device to read the agenda from.

The motion for Cr Jenner to be reimbursed the $12.70 was lost with only Cr Amoroso voting for it.

Declaring a conflict of interest, Cr Jenner was not present for the discussion nor the decision surrounding the agenda item.

CLAIM FOR PRINTING: Cr Paul Jenner wanted to claim $12.70 for printing.

Mount Gambier airport expansion allowing for hangars

elsie.adamo@tbwtoday.com.au

THERE is more room for growth at Mount Gambier airport, as recently completed taxiway upgrades will allow for more hangars to be built.

Completed last month, the project is part of the final stages in a busy time for the airport which has seen large renovations over the past three years.

Private plane owners lease land from the airport to build hangars along the taxiway, giving them easy access to use the runways.

Mount Gambier Airport Manager Ian Fritsch said the taxiway surpassed their original plans.

"Because of the grant we were able to bitumise and weatherproof it, originally it was just going to be gravel," Mr Fritsch said.

"It will mean a better facility for those that use it."

And there may be more using it than originally planned, with demand for hangar spots far outweighing what was anticipated.

"We only thought it would be one for a while, but we have another one with three more still to go in," Mr Fritsch said.

Grant District Council executive officer Darryl Whicker said the upgrade will allow for the facility to continue to grow.

"A taxiway to enable transport from aeroplanes on hangars, that was achieved through federal and state government funding," Mr Whicker said.

GOING QUICK: Darryl Whicker and Ian Fritsch review the redevelopment plan, which has already seen five spaces leased at the new taxiway.

"They were installed to help the continued growth of the airport, and we have had good take up in interest in people developing hangars as a result.

"What it enables is ongoing growth of the airport, to attract more tenants and commercial operators to be able to build a hangar.

"You need that type of infrastructure set up, if you are going to attract people."

The upgrade was originally budgeted to be paid by council, but due to unplanned money coming in from grants, it will mean that other updates to the airport can now be brought forward.

Just over $44,000 will likely be reallocated from the taxiway budget to the Airside Line Marking updates, as current markings are no longer in line with the most up to date standards.

"It is part of our preventative maintenance schedule, but the lines faded a little bit early and there was a new manual of standards that was released," Mr Whicker said.

"Whilst we are currently compliant, if we start the painting we will need to come to the new standard."

Painting the runways and providing parking for the Royal Flying Doctor Service will be the priority over summer.

But the improvements may keep coming, with Mr Fritsch flagging hopes to add a freight section to the airport in future.

Shifting sand at Southend

AT a cost of $40,000, work to replace sand eroded from Southend’s foreshore is now complete allowing the beach to be reopened.

The beach was closed to the public following a strong storm in July which caused major erosion of the frontal dune at Southend.

Undertaken by Wattle Range Council, with the support of local contractor Bowman Earthmoving, the sand replacement work was funded by the Coastal Protection Board. Mayor Des Noll said: “It is wonderful that we have been able to address this issue prior to the busy summer period.

“These beaches are so important to both the community and tourists, so we are pleased to be able to undertake these works.

“I would like to thank the Coastal Protection Board for allocating funds to allow Council to address this issue for the community.

“We acknowledge that this is only a short term solution and that we will require further decisions and a significant financial commitment to address the longer term issues of coastal erosion.

“In the interim, we are pleased that we have been able to reinstate this small but important section of our coastline,” he added.

The next step will be for Council to discuss longer term solutions for coastal erosion with the communities of both Southend and Beachport that were recommended in a recent study of our local coastal environment.

Hospice care volunteers call

tyler.redway@tbwtoday.com.au

MOUNT Gambier's In Home Hospice Care program is looking for male volunteers to help its clients, 75 per cent of whom are men.

The not-for-profit organisation was established last year with a $149,000 grant from the State Government and, at the end of November, it was reported that volunteers had given 170 hours of their time to those in need.

Trained volunteers started to provide care in mid-August to local clients who made the decision to receive care and treatment at home rather than at a hospital.

Hospice care volunteer Craig Ferguson said he decided to join the program due to a personal friend needing palliative care in hospital.

"I had a friend who was in hospital and went through the process of dying," Mr Ferguson said.

"I could see what palliative and in-home hospice care did for her and I could see what the family members needed as well."

Mr Ferguson added it was satisfying knowing he was able to assist those in need.

He said the idea of more men volunteering for the service would be a positive step forward and reminded the community it was available to all.

Fellow volunteer Kathy Griffen said despite her client being a female, she was also supporting her patient's husband.

"He is in need of male companionship and it is hard for the two of them," Ms Griffen said.

She said volunteers needed to be able to play it by ear, with patients constantly changing plans due to health issues.

Hospice manager Ms Sandi Elliott said three men trained in its initial group and community members interested are encouraged to contact the centre.

Petrol price crackdown

A BLITZ on rural fuel retailers will ensure petrol stations in South Australia's most loved holiday spots are complying with the state's real time petrol price monitoring trial in the lead up to Christmas.

Minister Josh Teague said Compliance and Enforcement Officers from Consumer and Business Services (CBS) would be undertaking spot checks, with a focus on regional areas.

"This blitz comes as South Australian consumers face high prices at the pump, just as families get set to pack up the car and head away for Christmas holidays," he said.

"Officers will be conducting unannounced inspections at petrol stations across the state, including popular holiday locations like the Eyre and Yorke Peninsulas, Limestone Coast and the South East," he said.

Minister Teague said motorists should consult a real-time fuel price app to make sure they're getting the best deal.

"Every dollar counts at this time of the year. Using an app that uses real-time data can help you hunt down a bargain at the bowser," he said.

"There are a range of apps available to help motorists choose the cheapest option such as Fuel Price Australia, PetrolSpy, MotorMouth, Pumped, SA Bowser: Should I Fuel? or the RAA App.

"These apps use our real-time fuel price data, so you can rest assured knowing you're getting the most up to date price information," he said.

Consumer and Business Services Commissioner Dini Soulio said inspectors had conducted more than 500 checks on service stations in both regional and metropolitan areas since the start of the scheme in March.

"Petrol stations have had plenty of time to get used to the new reporting system," Commissioner Soulio said.

"With Christmas just around the corner, we are now cracking down on those who aren't complying.

"CBS has issued three expiation notices, and more than 80 complaints have resulted in CBS issuing warnings to retailers following the detection of a suspected breach.

"Of these warnings, 25 complaints related to retailers in rural areas - so this issue isn't just restricted to metropolitan service stations," he said.

Commissioner Soulio said the public had played an important role in keeping fuel retailers accountable.

"CBS has received more than 440 complaints since the scheme kicked off - and 108 of those relate to rural retailers," he said.

"We're very thankful to South Australians across the state for continuing to raise issues of non-compliance with us," he said.

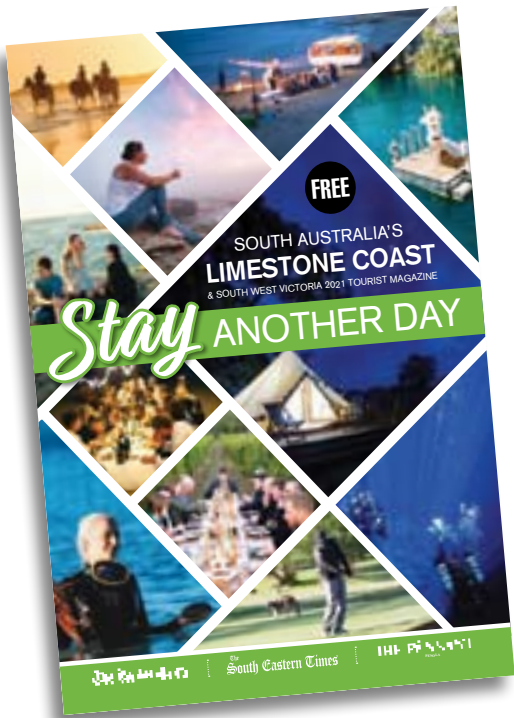

The SA Fuel Pricing Information Scheme requires retailers to update their price information to a central aggregator within half an hour of posting it. Those who fail to comply could face penalties up to $10,000.

AdBlue supplies on the way

NATIONAL Farmers Federation Chief Executive Tony Mahar says the Federal Government and suppliers have provided advice that there is sufficient supplies of the diesel additive, AdBlue.

“The NFF issued a mayday call to Government after concerns were raised about an Ad-Blue shortage due to a limited supply of urea,” Mr Mahar said.

“We understood there was already up to six weeks of AdBlue on hand in Australia, and we have been assured new supply has been secured from a wide range of sources including Indonesia and the Middle East. Local supplies are also being boosted.

“This now must be business-as-usual in terms of AdBlue supplies on hand, noting its very short shelf life.

Greater certainty around supply is a relief to farmers who are harvesting a record winter grain crop and to the greater supply chain, which is operating at full capacity ahead of Christmas.

Mr Mahar said the AdBlue concerns had reiterated the need for an industry-government advisory board on critical supply chains (beyond the AdBlue issue) and the imperative to invest in the development of improved domestic manufacturing capabilities for key inputs such as fertiliser and chemical.

“For the past 18 months, farmers have been on a rollercoaster of angst fueled by uncertainty of access to the plant protection products, fertilisers and machinery they need to get the job done.

“We cannot leave these issues to chance anymore, we need our best and brightest from industry and government to anticipate and scenario plan for any potential imminent or future supply chain disruptions and build contingencies to ensure our industries and the Australian economy can withstand such headwinds.”

Mr Mahar also noted the ‘tremendous’ news today that Incitec Pivot Fertilisers (Incitec Pivot) had acquired a majority stake in Australian Bio Fert Pty Ltd (ABF) and would build Australia’s first largescale plant to develop and deliver a new category of sustainable fertilisers for Australian farmers.

“This is just the sort of development Australian agriculture needs more of to reduce our dependency on imported inputs. The NFF congratulates Incitec Pivot, under the leadership of President Stephan Titze, on its vision, investment and commitment to advancing the interests of Australian farmers.”

‘We hope, aided by the Government’s Modern Manufacturing Fund, to see a whole lot more home-grown manufacturing ventures established, ideally in regional Australia,’ Mr Mahar said.

Markets

NARACORTE CATTLE Tuesday December 14

NUMBERS lifted in the last market of the year as agents yarded 1,324 head of liveweight and open auction cattle.

These sold to the usual field of trade and processor buyers with a slightly larger contingent of feeder orders and restockers.

Quality dipped on the previous weeks sale with pricing mostly being easier with some sections of the younger types remaining close to firm as cows and vealers were discounted this week.

Vealers were small in number with the steers selling to 532c with the heifers making from 525c to also 532c/kg.

Yearling steers to the trade made from 584c to 600c with similar heifers making from 385c to 570c/kg.

Feeder orders sought steers from mainly 525c to 584c with a top of 600c as the heifer portion made from 550c to 600c/kg.

Grown steers and bullocks ranged from 428c to 505c to the processors with feeders operating from 450c to 535c/kg.

Grown heifers to the trade made from 410c to 456c with feeder activity from 455c to 505c as manufacturing steers sold from 360c to 380c/kg.

Heavy cows ranged from 340c to 370c with the lighter selection making from 300c to 325c with some restocker interest to 360c as bulls returned from 310c to 350c/kg.

NARACORTE SHEEP AND LAMB Tuesday December 14

Overall numbers increased this week as agents yarded 7,326 lambs and 4,002 sheep to total 11,328 head with lamb numbers remaining steady as more sheep coming forward caused the increase.

The usual trade buying field attended along with a number of active restockers where quality continues to dip as more lambs show signs of being dry in the skin and needing the attention of a shearer.

Weight and condition across the pens fell away as well while a few good shorn lambs are starting to appear.

Pricing was softer this week with lambs easing $5 to $8 as the sheep lost $5 to $10/head.

Light lambs to the trade made from $125 to $168 with the restockers sourcing light woolly lambs from $110 to $165 and similar shorn lambs from $106 to $174/head.

MOUNT GAMBIER SHEEP AND LAMB

Wednesday December 15

NUMBERS eased as agents yarded 8,103 lambs and 224 sheep to total a combined 8,327 head overall.

These sold to the usual array of trade and processor buyers along with a number of active restockers. Quality continues to fall away although there were some good fresh lambs with weight and condition, however these are becoming scarce with a large number of lighter types coming forward with dryness in the skin starting to show up.

The market sold to improved rates this week with most sales ranging from 830c to 860c/kg cwt.

Light lambs to the trade made from mostly $122 to $160 with some strong restocker interest from $118 to $176/head.

Medium weighted lambs sold from $185 to $215, ranging from 840c to 860c, with heavy pens making from $235 to the market high of $261/head with these heavier types making from 830c to 850c/kg cwt.

Sheep numbers were few as they mainly made from $131 to $178 with a top of $190 and hoggets reached $165/head.

Rams returned from $100 to $142/head.

Yarding: 639 Change: -712

MOUNT GAMBIER CATTLE

Wednesday December 15

NUMBERS fell by over half as agents yarded 639 head of live weight and open auction cattle.

These sold to the usual array of trade and processor buyers however not all of these were fully active over the offering.

Quality was similar to the previous sale with the market selling from firm to a little easier in price.

Vealer steers to the trade made from 540c to 567c with similar heifers making from 490c to 560c/kg.

Yearling steers went mainly onto feed from 466c to 575c with heifers also to feed on making from 520c to 570c with some of these yearling heifers attracting trade interest from 438c to 460c/kg.

Grown steers and bullocks made from 425c to 460c with the feeders active from 438c to 505c/kg.

The trade operated on grown heifers from 418c to 444c with feeder support from 434c to 465c as manufacturing steers ranged from 360c to 381c/kg.

Heavy cows made from 355c to 375c as medium types ranged from 320c to 345c and lighter pens made from 280c to 320c/kg.

Bulls ranged from 330c to 340c/kg.

GLENBURNIE LIVESTOCK REPORT 15/12/21

Only a token offering of cattle were yarded this week at Glenburnie. The trend for all cattle was softer, linked to processors having enough stock around and heading into the summer holiday period. Vealers yarded again showed some excellent B muscle and prices remained at 500-575c per kg for steers and 480-540c per kg for heifers. Bullocks sold to 452c, cows 320-360c, light choppers 210-260c per kg.

Note: Producers are reminded to check cattle consignments for NLIS ear tags on their properties as replacement emergency tags are expensive.

BULLS: Sold at 9am by Jordy Heinrich.

Bull yarding decreased in the market this week but with a much better quality yarding of bulls to firm trends. Best bulls 342c per kg.

Quotations: Belgrave, Mumbannar Poll Herr bull 342c 1130kg $3864.60.

BULLOCKS: Drafted & Presented by Auctioneer Andrew Whan & Liam Durcan.

181 yarded in a very mixed run. This week the top end quality was good with more inferior types yarded. Most bullocks sold between 420-465c per kg.

Douglas & Lockett, Mil Lel Simmental steer vealers 550c $2183.50, sisters 518c $1813.

COWS: Drafted & Presented by Auctioneer Liam Durcan and Jordy Heinrich.

127 cows yarded which sold to softer demand to be 8-10c per kg back on last week. The heavy beef cows sold from 335-360c per kg while small plain cows made 260-335c per kg.

Quotations: IJ & VK Freebairn Angus cows 360c $2538. Rainbow Waters Angus x cows 324c $1749.60. Bruces Farm Hereford cows 355c $2396.25.

SHEEP & LAMBS: Drafted & Presented by Auctioneer Liam Durcan & Scott Miller.

8543 sheep and lambs sold at the last market for the year. Another similar draft of lambs to the previous week. The regular buyers group was well supported by strong restocking enquiry. The heavy export lambs held up well with only a slight decline in prices. 30kg+ lambs from $255 to $261 and 26 to 30kg from $235 to $244. The heavy end trade lambs 24 to 26kg sold from $220 to $239 being fully firm. A large selection of trade lambs was on offer, these 20 to 24kg lambs were in demand from $190 to $221, with large runs on offer. The lighter trade lambs were, and is, showing signs of the season. Restockers kept values true, with the best selling from $168 to $177 and most sales hovering around the $150 mark.

Quotations: S Sugden 14 lambs @ $260. Belkella 59 lambs from $215 to $240 S. Richards 14 lambs $237. PF & BA Burchard 20 lambs $188. FW Uphill 26 shorn lambs @ $205. Bassendean 909 lambs from $150 to $186.

MOUNT GAMBIER STORE SALE 10/12/21 REPORT

The first of Vendor bred Autumn drop weaner calves were sold with prices passing all vendors expectations, with the tops of the Angus steers soaring past $2300 per head. A feature of the sale were the large runs of annual drafts of quality local weaners. Competition was wide spread, clearly appreciated by the ability to buy both quality and numbers. Best heavy steers sold to $3000 with many pens $2600 to $2800. Steer weaners $2300 to $2500 for 320-370kg. Light weight weaners 260-300kg $2000 to $2200. Weaner heifers also sold to extreme rates with Angus heifers $2000 to $2200 with Hereford heifers $1720 to $2160.

Quotations: Some great sale results: AB & WM Paget, Kingston 24 Angus steers $2287. ER & GF Flint, Kingston Shorthorn steers $2135, 21 heifers $1922. # PALISADE ALLROUNDER

BY DEREK OGDEN,
MARQUE MOTORING

BELIEVE it or not, there are some people who wish to maximise vehicle seating capacity without being held hostage to the LCV-like people mover or rugged off-roader.

These folk need look no farther than the Hyundai Palisade, a sports utility vehicle capable of carrying up to seven or eight people.

Now, with a name in the origins of a pal-ing fence or line of lofty cliffs, the Palisade, for 2022, is taking up more ground by the addition of a third variant – the Elite – dividing the entry-level Palisade from the range-topping Palisade Highlander.

All siblings come with petrol, or diesel power in two- or all-wheel drive.

Available as a seven or eight-seater, the Elite features a 10.25-inch touchscreen multimedia unit with satellite navigation and 12-speaker Infinity Premium sound, heated front seats a single panel glass sunroof, rear privacy glass, a power tailgate and wireless smart phone charging. LED lights are positioned front and rear and 20-inch alloy wheels complete the look.

The entry-level Palisade 3.8 GDi petrol 2WD is priced at $55,000, plus on-road costs, the similar Elite chipping in at $61,500, while the range-topping Highlander 2.2 CRDi diesel AWD sells for $75,000.

On test was the Palisade Highlander 3.8-litre GDi, four-cylinder petrol, eight-speed automatic, front-wheel drive, eight-seater SUV.

STYLING

Despite old-style design, side on, the Palisade carries its almost five-metre length well, with wagon-like proportions doing nothing to trouble, or excite, the discerning eye.

New to the big SUV are body-coloured bumpers, with 20-inch so-called Calligraphy alloy wheels fitting in nicely. Oh, and there is a full-size spare under the rear.

INTERIOR

In eight-seat configuration, the Palisade has plenty of room up front. While the third row, which is sold as a three-seater, falls short of adult dimensions, it is relatively easy to gain access, the second row sliding forward up to 220mm.

However, seat backs in the second and third row need quite a tug to raise or lower manually. And both back rows in eight-seat versions have a 60:40 split, so it's not as easy to carry long items when the outer seats are in use.

Boot volume is 311 litres with all three rows in position, which increases to 704 litres with two rows in use. Towing capacity of 2200 kg is nothing to write home about.

Seven USB ports, four 12V sockets and up to 16 cup holders, including four in the each of the second and third rows, are conveniently at hand.

In addition to the previous beige and bur-gundy surroundings, the Highlander now offers optional black Nappa leather without a price increase.

INFOTAINMENT

Palisade has an Infinity premium audio system, access to Apple CarPlay and Android Auto, plus wireless smartphone charging, and seven USB points scattered around the cabin.

ENGINES / TRANSMISSIONS

The Palisade upgrade continues with the choice of a 3.8-litre V6 petrol engine, with two-wheel drive, or 2.2-litre turbo-diesel, with all-wheel drive. Both are mated with an eight-speed automatic.

SAFETY

Advanced safety technology includes radar cruise control with stop-start, lane-keeping assist, rear cross-traffic alert, and blind zone warning with intervention.

There are stress minimising cooling air vents for all three rows and head protection comes from curtain airbags covering all three rows of seats. There are three IsoFix child seat positions, meaning five seats nominally could be fitted, but it would be a squeeze.

DRIVING

With such a big vehicle, fuel consumption becomes increasingly linked to the loads being carried. Hyundai says 10.7 litres per 100 kilometres is the average for the Palisade in the combined urban / highway cycle.

With all eight seating positions taken, the test vehicle tipped petrol consumption over 12 litres per 100 kilometres in a mix of town and country conditions.

While other eight-seat SUVs are based on a heavy-duty four-wheel-drive 'ladder frame' chassis, the Hyundai Palisade is built like a car.

That means its centre of gravity is lower and steering and suspension should be more like the average passenger vehicle. Travelling in stop-start city low-speed conditions, this is the case.

Sharp cornering at speed is a different matter. The big unit needs a deal of due care and attention to keep it on the not-so straight and narrow. A lesson soon learnt.

Turning circle, at 11.8 metres, for a vehicle of this length, is surprisingly taut and the width (a tad under two metres) means the car can handle the average shopping centre parking spot with room to spare. The backside, however, does tend to stick out into the aisle.

Drive modes – Comfort, day-to-day driving, eco fuel saver, sport spices up things, and smart switches on to algorithms turned to the driver's most recent behaviour patterns.

All Palisades are covered by Hyundai iCare, the company's leading customer care program, offering owners a lifetime service plan, five-year unlimited kilometre warranty, complimentary roadside assist for 12 months on new vehicles, 1500 km complimentary first service, a dedicated Customer Care Centre and myHyundai, an exclusive website.

Customers using Hyundai servicing also receive roadside assistance for up to 10 years, 10 years of sat nav updates and more.

11TH GENERATION HONDA CIVIC AUST SPECIFICATIONS

BY EWAN KENNEDY,
MARQUE MOTORING

HONDA Australia has announced pricing and specifications for its 11th generation Civic.

Initially it will be offered as a single, highly specified VTi LX grade powered by an uprated 1.5-litre turbo-petrol four-cylinder engine producing 131 kW of power and 240Nm peak torque, driving the front wheels through a continuously variable transmission. It will have a national drive-away price of $47,200.

Other models will follow later and we will publish information on them when they announced.

When compared to the specification of the outgoing Civic VTi-LX, the new model has:

- Blind Spot Monitoring
- Rear Cross Traffic Alert
- Knee airbags for the driver and front passenger
- Traffic Jam Assist
- Driver inattention monitor
- A 9-inch Advanced Display Audio touch-screen system
- Wireless Apple Car Play
- Qi-compatible wireless phone charger

- Bose premium sound system with 12-speakers
- Over the Air (OTA) display audio software and navigation map updates
- Pop-up bonnet safety system
- Acoustic windscreen
- Heated auto-retractable door mirrors
- Plasmacluster ion-based air purification technology
- Suede-inset seat trim with seamless paneling
- Four-way electrically adjustable front passenger seat
- Rear passenger air vents
- Ambient door trim and front footwell lighting

“The 11th-generation Civic represents a step-change for Honda in the small car segment, with the all-new model elevating key aspirational elements of the Honda brand such as craftsmanship, premium quality and intuitive design,” said Mr. Stephen Collins, Director, Honda Australia.

“On the eve of its 50th anniversary, Honda's designers and engineers have taken the Civic to a whole new level, producing a car that is more advanced, more sophisticated and more premium than ever before.”

SIZE UPGRADE: Latest Honda Civic has grown in size and has sleek rear styling.

Drama close to home

As Five Bedrooms returns for a third season, actress Katie Robertson talks to Danielle McGrane about what her character Ainsley has gone through and what's special about this show.

There's been a lot of life imitating art with the show Five Bedrooms. Take actress Katie Robertson for example. As season one of the show ended, she realised she had more than a little in common with her character Ainsley.

"I actually fell pregnant at the end of series one so when we were filming the episode where Ainsley finds out that she's pregnant and tells Lachlan [Hugh Sheridan], that same week I found out that I was pregnant," Robertson said.

Luckily, the real-life timing worked out well for the actress.

"We finished filming, which was good because I was starting to feel sick and then I had a year off so I managed to have my son George, and then we went back and started filming season two when he was about 11 weeks old," she said.

For most of the season, Robertson was able to bring George on set to take care of him while he was still a small baby.

"I was lucky that Kat [Stewart, her co-star] had paved the way before me because she had both her children while she was filming Offspring," Robertson said.

"She just came to me with all the advice that she had figured out so I had a lot of support from her."

"And the whole production wanted it to work for me so they scheduled breaks every three hours. We had a little nursery set up in one of the trailers and he became this set baby. At lunch time I'd say 'Where's George?' and he'd be in the make-up bus with the girls or with the caterer. He just became a part of the crew."

Robertson has really been tested emotionally on Five Bedrooms. In season two, her character Ainsley goes through a stillbirth and the actress felt those scenes were one of the greatest challenges of her career.

"It doesn't get much more harrowing than that," Robertson said.

"But it was written so beautifully. I remember different members of the crew would walk out of the trucks at lunchtime and have tears down their faces, everyone was so instantly affected by reading this episode so it felt like this privilege."

As a new mother, she accessed a lot of real emotion to film those scenes.

"I think having George, my emotions were so raw and everything was on the surface so as an actor I was so open," she said.

"I could go into work, do what I needed to do and then go home and cuddle my healthy, happy baby. I was really careful to not take home anything that wasn't mine, that was Ainsley's story and so many other women's stories, so my job was to tell that story as well as I could and then go home and be really grateful for what I had."

In season three, Ainsley is in a much better and stronger place than she was in the first season. She's in a relationship with Simmo (Johnny Carr) and is a more confident version of the character we first met.

"Ainsley has what she thought she always wanted, which is that big love and romance," Robertson said.

"She really was searching for that, and she's found that, but it maybe isn't quite what she expected. And particularly since she lost her baby Evie I think a lot of her dreams have changed and evolved."

"Old Ainsley had this really optimistic and idyllic view of the world and I think those rose-coloured glasses have been shattered through everything she's been through and I think she's dealing with that."

But she's come a long way, not just because of what she's gone through but because of the people around her – her four housemates played by Kat Stewart, Doris Younane, Stephen Peacocke, and Roy Joseph.

"If you look at Ainsley in season three compared to where she was in season one, it's such an evolution and a maturing," the actress said.

"I think that evolution is down to several factors. There's the

The whole concept of the show is that these five people who barely know each other buy a house together. It's a great premise for a show, but also a novel way of navigating a tough housing market.

"I think it's really relevant," Robertson said.

AINSLEY HAD THIS REALLY OPTIMISTIC AND IDYLIC VIEW OF THE WORLD AND I THINK THOSE ROSE-COLOURED GLASSES HAVE BEEN SHATTERED THROUGH EVERYTHING SHE'S BEEN THROUGH

loss and the grief that she's been through, there's no way that hasn't affected her world view on a cellular level so that's there. But also these people who are in her life, and them showing up for her and their influence. I think she feels the most comfortable in herself that she ever has."

"My husband and I are trying to buy a house and we've realised we've been priced out of most areas we'd want to buy in. So I think it's a very real option for first home buyers to get into the market. It's a really valid way to go. Is it that far a jump from renting and having a house share with other people?"

While Robertson hasn't bought a house with her castmates, she says there is a sense of kismet to their casting.

"What I love about this show is that they're totally different people and we are also in real life," she said.

"We're so different and at such different stages in our lives yet there's just something that bonds us. There's a real respect and genuine enjoyment of each other's company. I think it was luck and the casting people got it right in our case. Because it could also go so badly."

But she's hopeful that there are many more seasons of Five Bedrooms to come.

"I really feel we are not done with these people," she said.

"We've just got so much scope and there's so many more stories that these characters can explore that I think are relevant, but also just funny and entertaining. We're just hitting our stride now and the writing just gets better each season."

PICK OF THE WEEK

Young love:
Toheeb Jimoh
and Julia Brown
in Anthony.

GONE TOO SOON

Sunday
ABC TV, 8.40pm, M (2020)

This timely and tender tale imagines the adulthood of Anthony Walker, whose life was tragically cut short when he was murdered in a racist attack aged just 18. In consultation with Anthony's mother Gee Walker, BAFTA Award-winning writer Jimmy McGovern (Time) examines the impact on the devout Christian teen's murder by exploring what could have happened to his family and friends had Anthony (Ted Lasso's Toheeb Jimoh) still been around to realise his dreams and change people's lives for the better. Told in reverse chronology, the film begins with adult Anthony accepting an award for helping his friend Mick (Bobby Schofield) turn his life around by overcoming alcohol addiction. A particularly heartwarming thread envisages a love story between Anthony and a young lady named Katherine (Julia Brown). The questions McGovern, and director Terry McDonough, pose in this powerful work will stay with viewers long after the credits have finished. ★★★★★

LAST CHRISTMAS
Nine, Friday, 10.20pm, PG (2019)

There's no shortage of festive viewing options this holiday season, but a rom-com this cute and heart-warming could never be on the naughty list. Directed by Bridesmaids' Paul Feig, Game of Thrones star Emilia Clarke (pictured) plays Kate, a wannabe singer whose various misfortunes have led to a job in a year-round Christmas store. But things start to look up when she meets Tom (Henry Golding, Crazy Rich Asians), a handsome man who brings out the best in her. ★★★★★

DADDY'S HOME 2
Nine, Saturday, 7.30pm, PG (2017)

The simmering hatred that powered the first instalment of this silly comedy series has given way to acceptance, with Dusty (Mark Wahlberg) and his kids' perfect step-dad Brad (Will Ferrell, pictured, right, with Wahlberg) calling a truce on their war. When they spend the holidays together, the blended family is joined by Dusty's macho dad Kurt (Mel Gibson) and Brad's touchy-feely father Don (John Lithgow). A change in plans sees the four men head to a luxury resort with the kids – chaos follows. ★★★★★

SPY
7Flix, Saturday, 7.30pm, M (2015)

The comedy genre has been given a facelift of late, heralding a new era of features that are as entertaining as they are intelligent. Much of that effect can be attributed to Spy's leading lady, Melissa McCarthy (pictured). Here she plays a maligned pencil-pusher working for the CIA who's often overlooked in favour of the shoot-'em-up agents in the field. But when her partner (Jude Law) goes missing in action, it's up to her and her undercover alter egos to infiltrate a smuggling ring. ★★★★★

PARASITE
SBS World Movies, Sunday, 8.30pm, MA15+ (2019)

The first foreign language film to win the Best Picture Oscar is a genre-bending social commentary about an impoverished South Korean family. Director Bong Joon Ho blends elements of comedy, drama and horror as Kim Ki-woo (Woo-sik Choi, pictured, right, with So-dam Park) takes drastic measures to reach his goal of a lavish lifestyle – infiltrating the home of the wealthy Park family and slowly replacing their servants with his family members. It's a masterclass in satire. ★★★★★

WHAT WE DO IN THE SHADOWS
SBS World Movies, Monday, 9.20pm, M (2014)

This Kiwi mockumentary, a sort-of prequel to the series of the same name, follows the lives of Viago (Taika Waititi, pictured), Deacon (Jonathan Brugh) and Vladislav (Jemaine Clement) – three vampires who are just trying to overcome life's obstacles, such as paying rent, trying to get into nightclubs and resolving flatmate conflicts. Filled with throw-away humour and funny moments of the ghoulish kind, this slightly bonkers offering is worth a watch, even if you're not a sucker for vamps. ★★★★★

THE 40-YEAR-OLD VIRGIN
7Flix, Tuesday, 8.30pm, MA15+ (2005)

Co-written by Steve Carell (pictured) and based a character created for The Daily Show, this romp stars Carell as Andy, a man who has had many successes in life, but has never gone all the way. He has just fallen in love with Trish (Catherine Keener), but doesn't want sex to complicate their relationship. His mates want to spice up his life a bit, so they concoct a few schemes to help Andy, whether he likes it or not. Carell brings a naive charm to Andy, and the greatest laughs are his. ★★★

KELLY CLARKSON: WHEN CHRISTMAS COMES AROUND
SBS Viceland,
Saturday, 8.30pm

GARDENING AUSTRALIA: CHRISTMAS SPECIAL
ABC TV, Friday, 7.30pm

Before you wonder where you'll get your garden inspiration and nature fix from after the team packs up the shovels and seeds for another year, settle in for an abundance of Christmas cheer and savvy, creative garden ideas. Presenter Costa Georgiadis perpetually exudes a festive cheer and here, he dons Santa's red hat in an episode jam-packed with Yuletide joy. Costa visits Jimmy and Jane Barnes at their country home, while Jerry explores fragrant frangipani. Hannah makes a handmade snack with nasturtium leaves and Jane recommends plants to attract insects.

Go big or go home – that should be the mantra of all Christmas specials, and American singing powerhouse Kelly Clarkson won't disappoint with this festive spectacular. Hot on the heels of releasing her Christmas album, When Christmas Comes Around, you can expect this stage show, filmed at Universal Studios Hollywood, to be meticulously styled. Her own songs will be sprinkled in with festive classics, along with special guests including Ariana Grande, Jay Leno, Melissa McCarthy, Leslie Odom Jr and Amy Poehler, as well as some Oprah-style, feel-good giveaways.

We held our annual big morning tea with the representatives from each organisation that we have donated to as part of our initiative for 2021.

Each organisation's representative got the opportunity to connect with other local organisations and together, we all acknowledged their outstanding efforts towards making a positive difference in our community.

As part of our Key 2 Kindness initiative, we donated $2500 for the month of November to the Christmas Community Lunch Fund. While our Charity Ball has been postponed multiple times, we finally got to donate $2200 for the month of July to the Mount Gambier Hospital Palliative Care Unit.

Key 2 Kindness is currently in the planning stages for 2022, if you would like your organisation to be considered as part of our initiative in the New Year, please email admin@key2sale.com.au

More Than Meets the Eye

Pretty as a picture, nestled behind an in-bloom cottage garden you will find 31 Cameron Street; An expansive solid stone home on some 981m2 that ticks so many boxes.

A superb location - Sporting and recreation facilities located directly to the rear in McCorquindale Park, the town centre a short walk away and the high school at the end of the street. No wonder Cameron Street is so popular.

The house itself is much larger than you would expect from the facade. Inside, an impressive extension to the rear of the house takes this property to the next level. Comprising of a master bedroom with contemporary ensuite and built-in robe, studio / home office and extra large living area. Here & in the studio, sliding glass doors integrate seamlessly with a huge and equally impressive outdoor area. This entertainers delight is seriously packed with features. The original part of the home houses a combined kitchen / dining. Here too, a second living or parents retreat with the all-important slow combustion fireplace – A must for the Southeast. This, together with reverse cycle A/C and ceiling fans will easily keep the home comfortable year-round. The 6.5kW solar system & 11.4kW battery (yes this house is smart) will mean power bills will be a thing of the past.

There is lots to love about this property and absolutely zero for you to do – Everything has been done for you.

Development Opportunity in Historic Penola

TDC are please to present to the market a rare opportunity to secure a large, attractive allotment in the centre of historic Penola; The gateway to South Australia's famous Coonawarra wine region and a must-visit tourist destination.

The location is amazingly central. Only metres away - the main street shops and eateries easily accessible via the town square, and the state heritage listed Petticoat lane and historic Mary McKillop centre are just around the corner.

This premier property is versatile, flexible and ready to build on now; Level, high and with attractive mature trees and hedging. This unique parcel of land would be an ideal location for your forever home, boutique accommodation or for the astute investor – a development opportunity; A pair of townhouses on separate titles (STCA) would be the toast of the town.

The allotment offers a good sized 1,037m2 with 22m frontage to Young Street & 45m frontage to Arthur Street – including crossovers to both. SA water and common effluent is available, and there is good fencing on two sides.

The regional movement is real and happening now. Parcels of this nature rarely become available, and this one surely won't last long. Please contact Meg Redman for more information 0407 740 034.

- CHARACTER - - POSITION - - RENOVATIONS - - 1350M2 LOT, 2 TITLES - & MOTIVATED VENDOR

75 WEHL ST NORTH, MOUNT GAMBIER

Miller Whan & John is proud to present one of Mount Gambier's finest 1930's Californian Bungalow homes. Ideally positioned on top of the hill overlooking the city with a double l/u garage at the rear, the property is within easy walking distance to city shopping.

Renovated and freshly painted, this fine home occupies the front section of the large 1350m2 allotment with 2 titles. The rear section of the lot could be developed (STCA) by building a home/villa with easy access to the street. This delightful home with its character detail including a majestic entry & central hallway, leadlight windows, fireplaces, timber floors and high ceilings, delivers plenty of space in a functional floorplan while offering versatile living and entertainment options. Gas heating and ceiling fans provide comfort all year. Comprising 4 spacious (double) bedrooms - (one with built-in-robos & one with a walk-in-robe and ensuite with a spa bath), an up-dated family/guest bathroom, separate WC and a large external Laundry.

The feature-packed renovated Kitchen with breakfast bar integrates with the large open-plan living and dining area which leads to a fabulous north-facing covered deck and barbeque area - large enough for entertaining large groups. The R/H front bedroom could serve as an intimate and quiet formal living room or home office away from the family living areas.

Surrounded by mature trees and attractive gardens this property is sure to attract a lot of attention.

Our Vendors are motivated to sell so don't miss this rare opportunity to own this value-packed home and land with 2 titles.

Investors note: The property is currently tenanted with a reliable tenant willing to stay.

Glenburnie Primary School

8.5km to Mount Gambier

Glenelg Highway

5995 Glenelg Highway, Glenburnie

The perfect allotments

WHY not take the opportunity to have a horse, a few cattle opposite your child's primary school. Located only 9kms East of Mt Gambier off the Glenelg Highway on Kromelite road, these three allotments are a rare opportunity to purchase a very attractive allotment in a tightly held rural area.

Lot 1 consisting of 26.57 hectares (65.65 acres) has double road frontage to the Glenelg Highway and Kromelite road and is opposite the Glenburnie Primary School. The allotment has an original stone cottage which is surrounded by old established English trees. There is a stone shed, cattle yards and hay shed as well as a bore which supplies water to the farm.

Lot 2 consists of 26.57 hectares (65.65 acres) and fronts onto Kromelite road. There is a shared water point which will have a twelve month agreement to supply and some nice gentle undulation offering multiple building sites (STCC). There is power along Kromelite road and is opposite the Glenburnie Primary School.

Lot 3 consists of 27.85 hectares (68.82 acres) and fronts onto Kromelite and Hillcrest Road. A single windmill waters the property and again some nice undulation offering multiple building sites (STCC). Power is available along Kromelite Road.

Overall, the location close to the Glenburnie School and only minutes from Mount Gambier makes these allotments a great location to build your dream home (STCC) or add another parcel to your existing property.

LIMESTONE COAST
PROPERTY GUIDE

It's important not to let your emotions cloud your judgement when making such a big decision.

Pictures: ISTOCK

Tips for home-buying success

BEING a first home buyer can be a confronting experience. You're entering into the transactions cold, often trying to trump other more experienced buyers and grappling with your hopes and limitations.

While there are many things that can go wrong, there are five typical mistakes to watch out for. Here are the most common trip-ups and how you can overcome them.

Not enough research

Not taking the time to research is one of the biggest setbacks any buyer can face, be they a first-timer or a multiple property owner.

Research comes in many forms, some of which can include paid-for reports. Other research is less tangible, and often involves visiting the area and inspecting local properties. First home buyers are advised to give themselves enough time to explore the market, both online and off, before diving into a purchase.

Tip: Create yourself a research plan that involves heading to auctions in the months before you are ready to put money down onto a property.

Buying on emotion

It's natural to feel emotional about purchasing property. After all, it's likely you'll be living in this dwelling for a lengthy period of time and calling it your 'home'. You are also most likely making a significant financial commitment to the project. These aspects always come with emotions involved. This can range from desperation and excitement to pride and fear.

Tip: If you don't trust yourself to keep your emotions in check, either pay a professional to buy for you, or find a trusted acquaintance to play your 'devil's advocate' questioning your decisions. Remember, taking a five-minute step-back now will save you plenty of money in the long run.

Relying on those who are not experts

Younger first home buyers, especially, are prone to asking their parents, friends and those they don't know online for help. While these three avenues can prove very useful, it's important that you are aware of the source of the information, why it is being provided and how it relates to you.

Tip: Ensure who you are speaking to is qualified, and if you're not paying them then know how they get paid and their motivations for giving you this information.

Overextending financially

Being aware of what the bank will lend

Utilise the help of experts in the real estate field to help you navigate your purchase.

Make sure you're realistic about what you can afford when looking at property.

you is one, very critical, element to purchasing. However, being aware of what you can realistically afford is just as important.

Tip: Set yourself up a financial plan ahead of time to see if you can afford the mortgage repayments. Also bear in mind extra unexpected costs, and speak to a professional about insurances for the worst case scenarios.

Pantone's Colour of the Year has been announced as Very Peri. (Covet House)

2022 Colour of the Year - Vibrant purple

By Elle Cecil

PANTONE'S 2022 Colour of the Year has recently been announced: Pantone 17-3938, a lively blend of red and blue, also known as Very Peri. A rich purple, Very Peri's "courageous presence encourages personal inventiveness and creativity," according to Pantone.

"As we move into a world of unprecedented change, the selection of Pantone 17-3938 Very Peri brings a novel perspective and vision of the trusted and beloved blue family, encompassing the qualities of the blues," says Leatrice Eiseman, executive director of the Pantone Colour Institute.

"At the same time, with its violet red undertone, Pantone 17-3938 Very Peri displays a spritely, joyous attitude and dynamic presence that encourages courageous creativity and imaginative expressions."

The Pantone Colour Institute highlights the best seasonal colours, forecasts colour trends around the world, advises companies on colours best suited to products and branding, and ultimately decides on its Colour of the Year after heavy deliberations.

Requiring thorough consideration and analysis of top trends and fashions, Pantone's expert judges have been scouring the world for 23 years to decide on the Colour of the Year. Finding beautiful colours in weird and wonderful places, Pantone influences the development of businesses, branding and products.

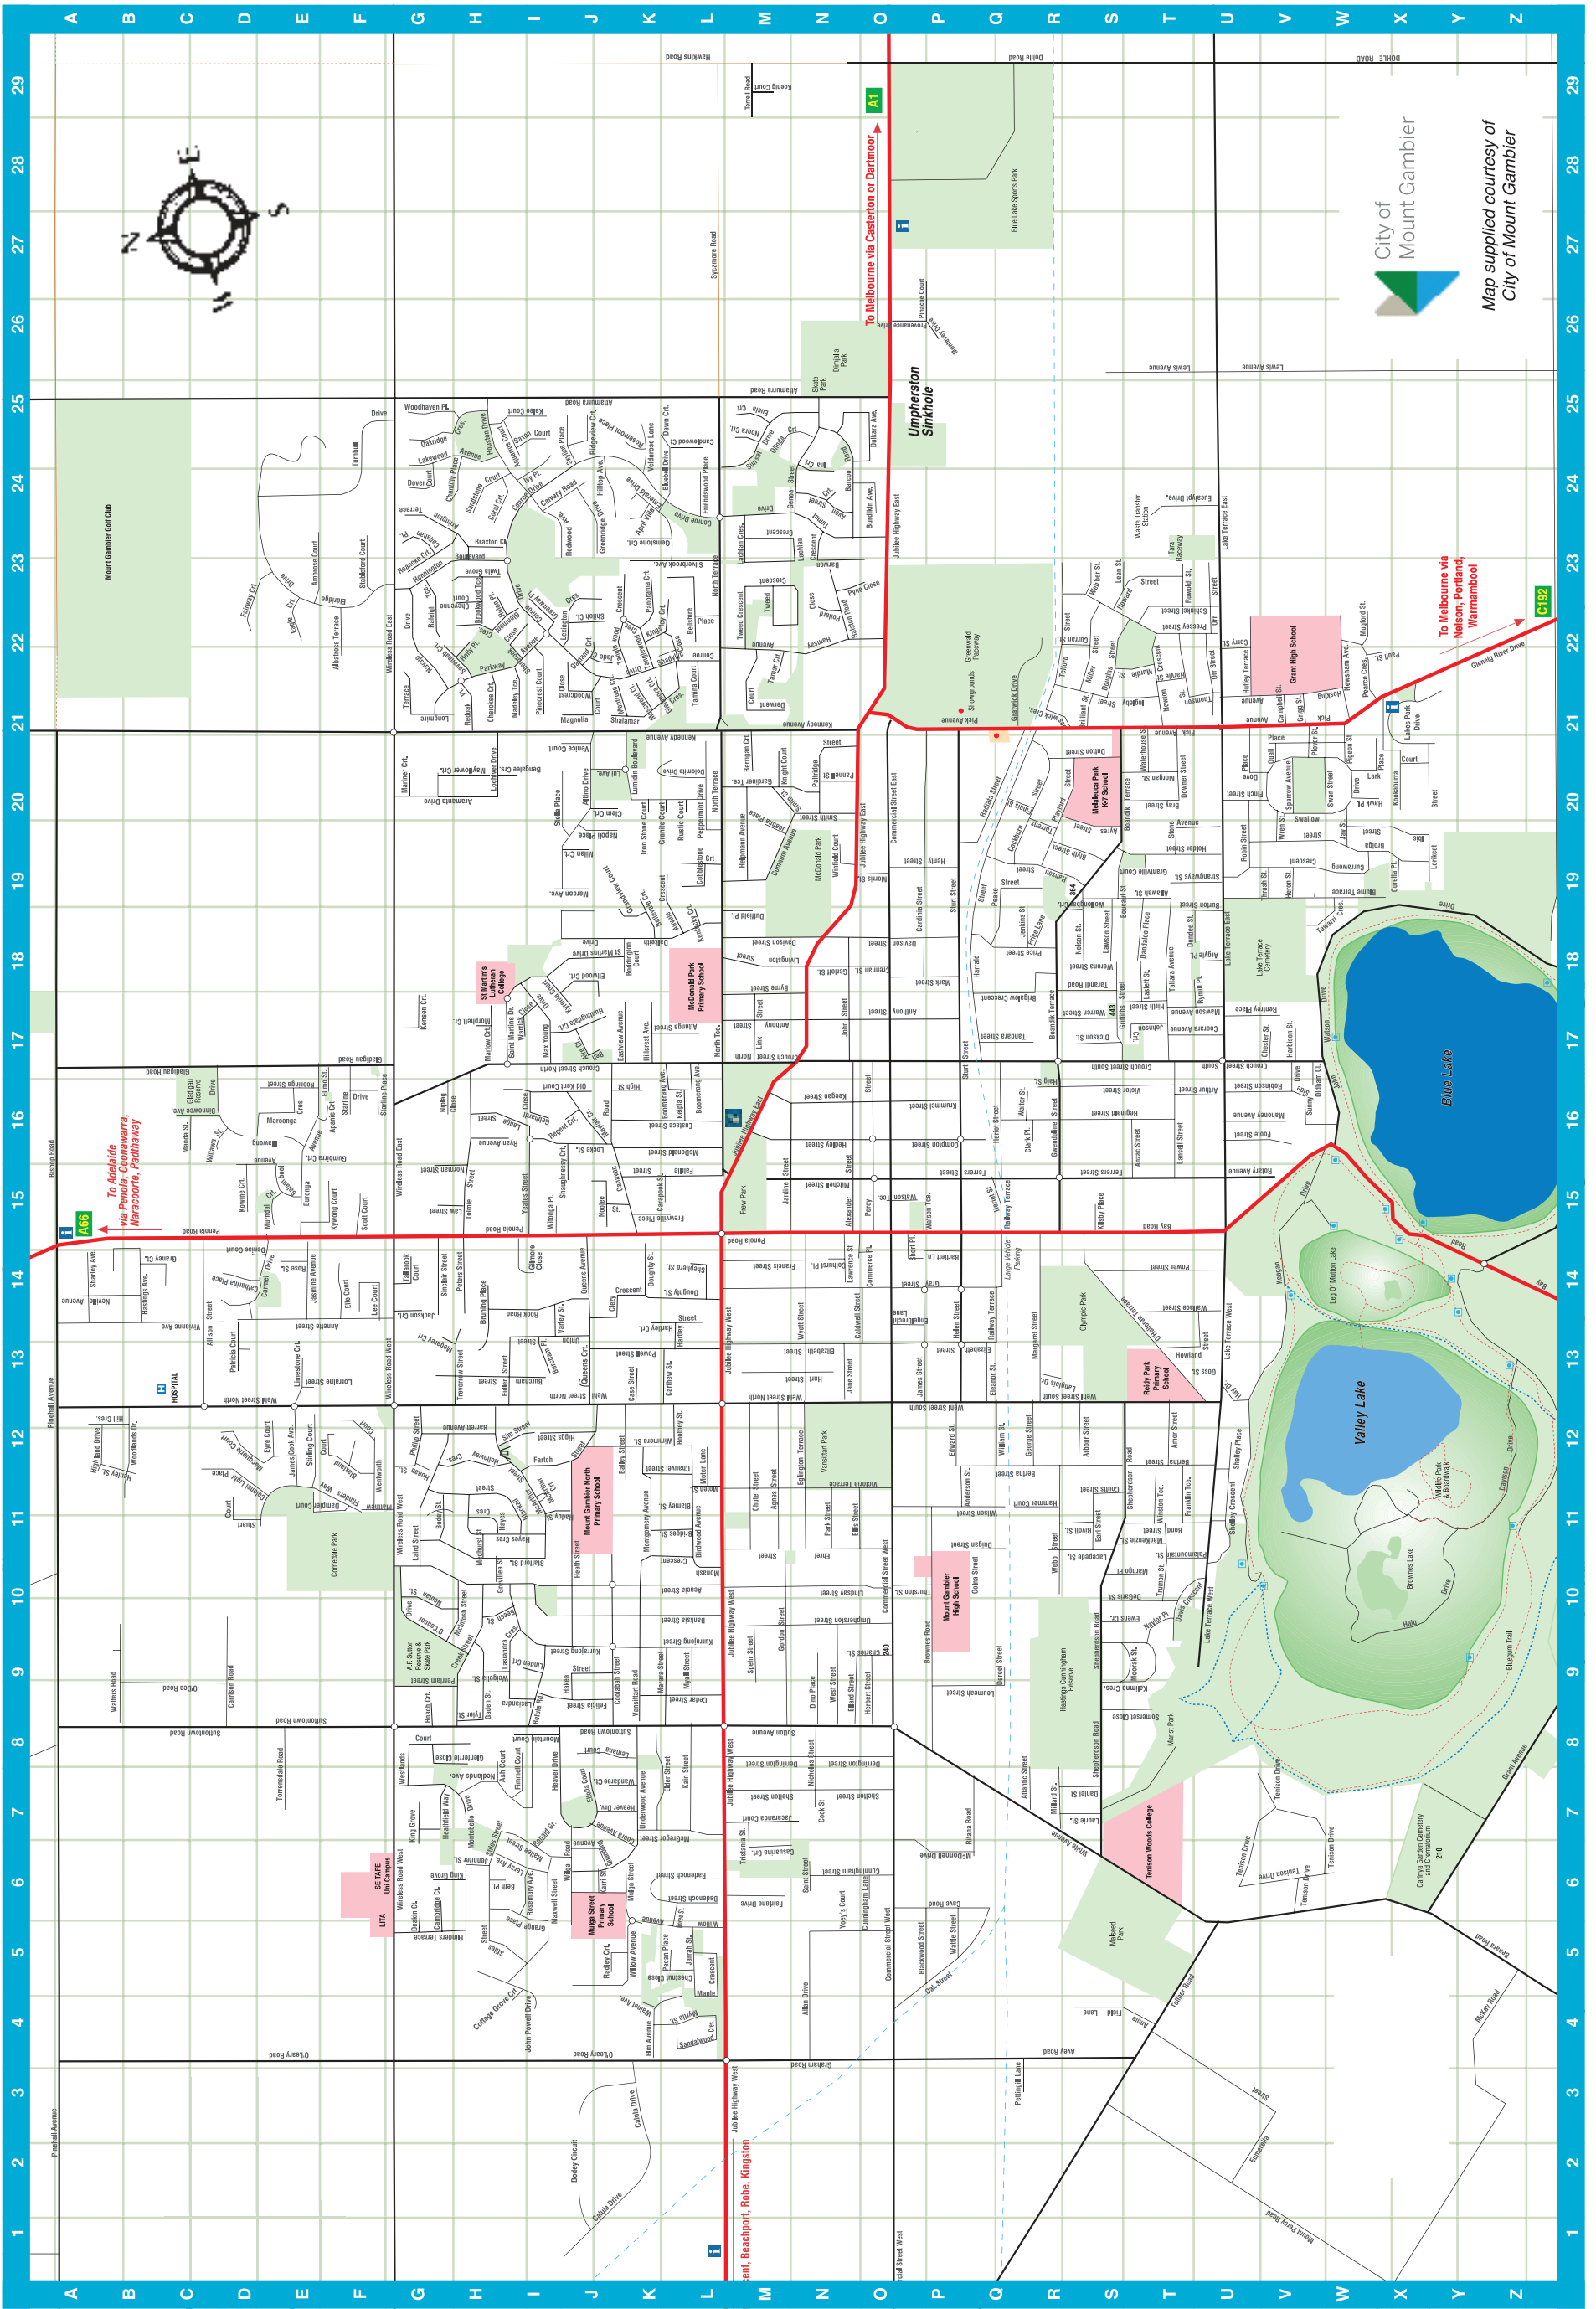

For more information on the Colour of the Year and the Pantone Colour Institute, visit www.pantone.com.

Very Peri is a bold and rich combination of red and purple. (Covet House)

LIE OF THE LAND

LANDSCAPERS
Streaming, Stan

Stan.

Having won the Best Actress Oscar as Queen Anne in The Favourite, and both a Golden Globe and Emmy for her turn as Queen Elizabeth II in Netflix's The Crown, you'd be forgiven for thinking there wasn't much ground left for immensely talented Olivia Colman to cover. And yet, the actress outdoes herself here as Susan Edwards, a mild-mannered English housewife accused of a terrible crime.

Along with her husband Christopher (David Thewlis, Fargo), Susan becomes the focus of an extraordinary police investigation when a pair of dead bodies are discovered, buried in the back garden of a house in Nottingham. The case, inspired by real events, draws national media attention, in part due to the seemingly ordinary couple's complete and utter normalcy.

As it turns out, the pair have been on the run from reality for over 15 years – sharing a fantasy world of Susan's invention. An avid fan of old Westerns and classic cinema, Susan imagines herself and Christopher to be Hollywood heroes, a middle-aged Bonnie and Clyde.

It falls to lead investigator Emma Lancing (Kate O'Flynn) to weed through the couple's bizarre delusions and find the truth.

The darkly funny four-part limited series is created and written by Ed Sinclair, Colman's real-life husband, who wrote the script with his wife in mind. In the hands of Japanese-English director Will Sharpe (The Electrical Life of Louis Wain, Flowers), Landscapers blossoms into an exhilarating and surreal cinematic experience

'Til death do us part:
Olivia Colman and David
Thewlis in Landscapers.

Streaming, Paramount+ Paramount+

Based on the graphic novel Monster on the Hill by Rob Harrell, this entertaining family flick goes inside the world of monster wrestling, where Winnie (voice of Geraldine Viswanathan) wants to follow in her father's footsteps by turning lovable underdog Steve (Will Arnett) into a champion worthy of taking on reigning titan Tentacular (Terry Crews).

FIREBITE
Streaming, AMC+ AMC+

Helmed by Aussie auteur Warwick Thornton, this fantasy-horror series about Indigenous slayers vanquishing vampires in the outback is like nothing you've seen. Rob Collins (pictured) and Shantae Barnes-Cowan (Total Control) star as Tyson and Shanika, two hunters on a quest to eliminate the last colony of vampires in the middle of the South Australian desert.

THE GRAND TOUR PRESENTS: CARNAGE A TROIS
Streaming, from Friday, Amazon Prime Video

James May, Jeremy Clarkson and Richard Hammond (pictured, from left) dive into the world of French car culture. However, thanks to the pandemic, they do it from the UK. Starting in Wales, the trio make their way to the English Channel in all manner of wacky vehicles.

PUFF: WONDERS OF THE REEF
Streaming, Netflix

An extraordinary glimpse inside the life of an often-overlooked creature, this unbelievably intricate documentary follows a baby puffer fish living on the Great Barrier Reef as it learns to survive and thrive through its first year of life. Bridesmaids star Rose Byrne narrates as scientists, cinematographers and filmmakers take us into Puff's exquisite world.

YOUNG ROCK: A CHRISTMAS PERIL FOXTEL
Streaming, Foxtel On Demand

Your year ahead
Sometimes there's no rhyme or reason to this whole "reward" thing, with benefits seemingly arriving from nowhere. A hint of romance, extra cash and the strong suggestion of a well-deserved holiday arrive in this coming year's parcel of cosmic goodies. And if you've felt the chains of restriction lately, you're given the opportunity for a clean break. There's also likely to be a noticeable change in the way you spend extra leisure hours, as health awareness starts to creep in. But should an occasional inclination for taking risks surface, go with it. Many will be surprised by your newfound strength of spirit.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr 20)
Sometimes a little good news is all that's needed to lift our spirits and leave us feeling more positive. And when we feel so good, we should pay it forward. Perhaps, too, this week you are the messenger. Delivering happy news to others can bring immense pleasure to all concerned. So go ahead - grant a Christmas wish, if you can.
Best Day: Friday 24th

TAURUS
(Apr 21 - May 20)
It's a week to put your life back on course. If energy levels are low, take a few days break to recharge your batteries before the festive celebrations really set in. Year's end quivers with excitement. Start working your social list and make sure you grab all the cash on offer. After what was a difficult year, you deserve every reward.
Best Day: Sunday 19th

GEMINI
(May 21 - Jun 21)
Apart from the occasional moment of uncertainty, a delightful week awaits. On the whole, most Geminis feel energetic and confident. Better still, friendships and finances also feature highly; and if you come across as being a tad over exuberant, you'll be forgiven. It is the festive season, after all.
Best Day: Thursday 23rd

CANCER
(Jun 22 - Jul 22)
You're blessed with a fabulous festive season, Cancer. Work duties don't totally disappear, but this week they're mixed with plenty of time to mingle. Many zodiac neighbours are still struggling but, mostly, you're spared this. Quite rightly, too. You've been through enough hardship during what's been a very difficult year.
Best Day: Monday 20th

LEO
(Jul 23 - Aug 23)
Merry Mars is magnanimous this festive week. An open-wallet policy is sure to keep everyone happy, except perhaps your creditors. Still, if you're ever going to overspend, it might as well be now. Social invitations are also unlikely to be ignored. With special thanks to an exuberant Jupiter, it seems you have a delightful time ahead.
Best Day: Saturday 25th

VIRGO
(Aug 24 - Sep 22)
With most enjoying the silly season, there could be a noticeable lack of Virgos in the conga line. Instead, you're determined to claim a triumphant year's end - but there's a danger of overload. By all means, finish your tasks - but still give festivities a look-in. Your reward? A special sentimental tie may be renewed. A fabulous end to a busy year.
Best Day: Tuesday 21st

LIBRA
(Sep 23 - Oct 23)
Self-control and the festive season run at odds with each other. For now, any sense of discipline disappears under a pile of gift-wrapped parcels. But you should also steal some quiet time for yourself. A starry-eyed Jupiter sends adoring thoughts to your love sector - and what better time for an unscheduled fling? Keep those Christmas stockings handy.
Best Day: Sunday 19th

SCORPIO
(Oct 24 - Nov 22)
With all the positive planetary aspects happening now, it's a classic week for love at first sight. A special invitation might delight you. Or you might spontaneously do something - perhaps a surprise visit to someone you love? However, this could also be an accident-prone time for you or loved ones, so stay vigilant.
Best Day: Saturday 25th

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov 23 - Dec 21)
Whether you're exploring romance or being flirtatious, this week, Sagittarians are ready to take wilder risks. Thankfully, it's the right time of year to do just that. It's in the new year that you'll be jostled back into the workforce. Meanwhile, the festive season couldn't be a better time to disconnect the autopilot and feel the thrill of free-fall.
Best Day: Monday 20th

CAPRICORN
(Dec 22 - Jan 20)
Many Capricorns have been craving some time out - to leave work out of sight, and mind. Finally, the cosmos grants you permission to do just that. Even if it's just for this final festive fortnight of 2021, see to your own wish list. Go ahead, Capricorn - gather together all your friends and family and simply, play.
Best Day: Wednesday 22nd

AQUARIUS
(Jan 21 - Feb 18)
The mood is a festive one, although some family members may draw you into those predictable end-of-year spats. Better news: an unexpected financial reward. Love also looks exquisite as the year unwinds. When the cosmos aims its desires towards amorous Aquarians, erotic temptation pulses through every vein.
Best Day: Thursday 23rd

PISCES
(Feb 19 - Mar 20)
Always the romantic, you enjoy love. Just as well, as year's end seems keen to play sexual broker. Best news: your natural mojo is at its most appealing. For some, the past gets back in touch - though you should steer clear of previous ill-starred entanglements. Rapture or wreckage, Pisces - you're in for a raunchy time. Unpredictable, too.
Best Day: Friday 24th

Talented student pics win

ELSIE ADAMO
elsie.adamo@tbwtoday.com.au

GRANT High School student and budding photographer Maggie McKinnon won an international photography award last week.

Her photograph 'feline', won both First Place and People's Choice in the Under 18 category at the 2021 Asia Pacific Photography Awards.

One winning photograph wasn't enough, with Maggie receiving third place in the same category for her photo 'flower'.

It is not about the awards for Maggie, who said she was more excited to receive feedback from the panel than win the big award.

"That is why I entered it, because there was really good feedback from the professionals in the field," Maggie said.

"The feedback was mostly technical, how to edit and use technique, it was useful for me.

"I just like the artform, it is not about winning every time."

Her winning photo was taken one afternoon in her own backyard.

"It was for a school project, our cat was just sitting next to our spa," Maggie said.

"I thought it would make a good match for the competition, it is something a bit different, which is what everyone always looks out for.

"I submitted it, and did not expect to win it.

"The flower photograph was taken on Christmas day with a ring light a couple of years ago."

Maggie said she is still finding her style, but especially enjoys portraits, people and nature photography.

"Anything with detail, I do not like landscapes at all as there is nothing moving, there is no expression," she said.

"I have done a couple of paid photoshoots which I have enjoyed.

"If I pursue it, I would be interested in international photographic journalism."

But you may not see her work entered in competitions anytime soon, as Maggie said she has no plans to submit any future photographs now she has won a regional, national and international award.

Maggie's interests have also led her to interview and photograph over 40 prominent Mount Gambier individuals and compile their stories into a photobook.

"It was just people in the region who had stories, it was a lot of interviewing and journalism," she said.

Maggie said local businesses have expressed interest in selling her photobook if she was to get them printed.

"I would like to continue on with it, but I just do not know how to go about it yet," she said.

New exhibition hits Port Mac

CHRISSY Pudney's most recent artworks of 2021 will be showcased at the Port MacDonnell Community Complex until early next year.

Ms Pudney's primary intention in the new work is to explore the potential of sourcing items and materials which have already exhausted a purpose.

This includes beach debris, ghost ropes and bailing twine which have all featured in the creations.

Many of the pieces exude an air of both beauty and sadness with human-created rubbish both accidentally and deliberately finding its way into waterways and oceans.

Ms Pudney combs the beaches for the marine litter with only a small portion of what she finds making it to the final artwork.

"It is such a feeling of satisfaction after the process of gathering, cleaning, sorting and creating," Ms Pudney said.

This exhibition is the culmination of periods of work throughout the past twelve months, both here in the Limestone Coast as well as on her travels to Queensland and back.

She also has featured a collection of new ceramic pieces created whilst camping in the Central Highlands of Queensland.

The exhibition will be on show over the festive season with Ms Pudney inviting the public to join her at the gallery for a conversation and afternoon tea on January 9 from 1pm until 2.30pm.

"À Partir du Sol 2021" will be on show at the complex until February 27.

EXHIBITION OPEN: Chrissy Pudney's exhibition will be showcased at the Port MacDonnell Community Complex until February next year.

ON THE WAY: Bob 'Bongo' Starkie will keep up the Skyhooks' music alive while he performs the classic 70's tunes at the Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre next month.

Bob 'Bongo' Starkie Skyhooks show live

THE guitarist with one of Australia's most loved bands, Skyhooks, will be entertaining the audience at the Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre on January 29.

Bob 'Bongo' Starkie will keep up the Skyhooks' music alive while he performs the classic 70's tunes.

Mr Starkie was inducted alongside his band mates into the ARIA Hall of Fame in 1992, cementing Skyhooks' legacy as one of Australia's finest acts ever.

Skyhooks formed in Melbourne in '73, acquiring their flamboyant lead singer Graeme 'Shirley' Strachan a year later, the band would end up touring and recording for nearly 30 years.

Now as a celebration of Skyhooks' legacy, Mr Starkie has put together a new band with the intention of keeping the group's music alive.

After sold out shows in Melbourne, Adelaide and Sydney, Mr Starkie's Skyhooks show hits Whyalla in January delivering all of Skyhooks' hits, plus some rarities.

This occasion will mark the first time in almost 40 years, since Mr Starkie last performed in Mount Gambier with Skyhooks.

Busy year at Gardenarium

WOW, what a year again and especially so for us at Gardenarium and The Limestone Coast Group... and where to begin on what has been happening over the past year is impossible... I think it's a case of what haven't we done!

Another bumper year for the entire Nursery with online sales going through the roof especially to NSW and Vic but we are proud of what we have achieved in servicing these customers needs with plants throughout their numerous lockdowns and hopefully bringing a bit of brightness to their gardens and lives.

There is numerous health benefits of gardening and this has been experienced across the nation so its good to know more and more people have dabbled in and around the homes with budding green thumbs.

This will be my last editorial segment for 2021, gosh what a year to reflect on again and it has certainly come around rather too fast for my liking and everyone with all the dramas.

That said, I think the consensus is that we are going to have a bumper Christmas with everyone being allowed to be together and enjoying themselves.

Welcoming our Western Victorian customers back into the nursery over the past two weeks to get their Gardenarium fix has been a joy to see.

With the late/non-existent spring, and patchy weather ever since, I don't think the plants know what to do either.

With not too many sleeps left to Christmas it's time to head down to Gardenarium for their 25-70% off pre-Christmas sale.

You can still layby now for Christmas and leave picking up until Christmas Eve if you wish, especially plants and living Christmas trees which have been thrown into prominence both locally with our story by ABC South East radio and following on from that you may have seen our proprietor on ABC Weekend breakfast Television last Saturday being interviewed again about living Christmas trees and how to maintain them indoors through Christmas and then taking them back out into the sun gradually adjusting the sun and heat to the outdoors.

Our range is selling faster than ever so if you haven't chosen one now is the time to get one and decorate a real tree which adds so much more to Christmas than a plastic tree.

The Old Potting Shed Gift shop within Gardenarium is bursting at the seams with a new collection of glazed indoor pots, sensational garden tools from Burgon and Ball in the UK, wall art of every kind for indoors and out, statues, hanging pots, the list goes on.

The farmyard and corrals are full again with an array of pigs, sheep, cows, ducks and chooks even meerkats to name a few.

The Limestone Coast Advanced Trees part of the company is also as full as ever, even with the strange weather, and we have up to 50% off trees until Christmas Eve, including mop tops and weeping cherries which are ideal Christmas gifts for those after a really stunning feature in their garden.

Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without hydrangeas and we have masses of stunning mature plants in all colours, ranging from intense blue, to purple, red, pinks and whites, as well as the new release dwarf varieties and the beautiful New Double Pink called Miss Saori. These are ideal indoors for a short time, as decorations to your outside entertaining areas or as a fantastic Christmas gift.

This year we have increased the numbers of fruit trees in most categories, especially dwarf and semi dwarf which now out-sell full sized trees for their more compact nature and bare as much if not more fruit than full sized trees that can easily be netted, these are an ideal gift for Dad, mum and new home owners wishing to start a new orchard and all 25% off in the pre Christmas sale.

Cherries and blueberries are popular eating choices over Christmas as well as our recently released dwarf mulberry and of course Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without raspberries.

The ever popular String of Pearls, including the rare variegated one, String of Dolphins and Chain of Hearts and Chain of Turtles in hanging baskets and we have increased our range of on trend indoor plants hugely Wollemi Pines are back again after a long drought and are ideal to decorate for Christmas trees for a short time indoors, for outdoors on the patio or to plant in the garden as a living fossil.

Along with Norfolk island pines in our annual range of live Christmas trees which has had two new varieties added for 2021 available in several sizes, be quick as they are selling fast.

The gift shop is bursting with ideas for non-gardeners also, with outdoor clocks, all sorts of china jardinière's and pots, terrariums, some intricately made garden art in metal made out of all sorts of old tools and welded together garden art pieces giving unique and interesting one offs like a laser cut Aussie fire pit and windspinners.

Gardenarium is well known for its range of birdhouses and feeders and this year is no exception with three new ranges on offer, some colourful metal and timber birdhouses, dovecotes and, of course, birdbaths, all of which were too many to put on our website www.gardenarium.com.au so you will need to call in and have a look.

Our range of outdoor furniture has been added to this season with the introduction of ceramic outdoor dining tables in natural and grey wood look, along with an expansion to our teak outdoor table ranges with backless benches in two sizes, that are handmade with traditional construction that will last generations, these can also be used on their own in the garden.

The new children's picnic bench setting has also been very popular giving the kids their own table for eating outside.

A lot of our outdoor furniture lines in travertine stone, ceramic and teak, as well as our famous cast aluminium three-piece settings.

Many of the products we sell are from poor, underdeveloped countries and, in particular, the range of driftwood creations we have each year are from pieces of driftwood harvested from the beaches by local villagers in the typhoon hit areas of the Philippines.

Each village is allowed to harvest a certain amount of driftwood thrown up from the typhoons and craft them into the wonderful pieces we sell, from Christmas decorations to spheres, planters and decorative wreathes, and a brand new range of birdhouses in several styles, see website for photos.

I am continually amazed at their creativity given the adversity. I urge everyone to dig deep this Christmas by buying a piece of driftwood artwork or ornaments that will last forever.

Cast iron boot scrapers are finally back and Sloggers clogs and boots for both men and woman are all minimum $10 off with many 30, 40 and 50% off and ideal for a Kris Kringle and for everyday wear in this current weather.

Managers and staff at Gardenarium & The Limestone Coast Group of Companies would like to take this opportunity to wish all our customers and readers a very Happy Christmas and relaxing New Year.

We will be closing from 4.30pm Christmas Eve until January 4 for a well earned break with our families after what has been a crazy year for our online sales area of the business and here in the nursery and hope you can all wait until then to see us again.

Happy Christmas.

ADVERTORIAL

A Little Ray of Giving

RayWhite.

This festive season, Ray White will continue its successful charity drive 'A Little Ray of Giving' for the tenth year running.

This holiday campaign is a tradition for the brand, and serves as an opportunity for hundreds of local branches to connect with their communities while raising awareness and much-needed resources for worthy causes.

As a charitable initiative, the campaign will see Ray White Mt Gambier partner with AC Care to help people, families and groups who may need some extra support and care during the festive season.

"This campaign has always been a real highlight of our year. It gives us a chance to reach out to the people around us directly in a way that benefits people with less advantages, and get them things they need during a demanding time of year," said Tahlia Gabrielli.

The Ray White Mt Gambier team is calling on Mt Gambier to show their generosity and give to AC Care, by sending their donations to Ray White Mt Gambier.

Those who wish to donate a gift just need to inform the Ray White team if the gift is for a male or female and nominate an age group, located at 2A & 2B Mitchell Street Mount Gambier. The office will have their special giving tree in their front window and will be collecting gifts from Friday the 10th of December 2021, until Monday 20th December 5pm.

TRADESPERSONS & MAINTENANCE SUPERVISORS & PLANNERS EVEN-TIME SHIFT ROLES (DAYS)

Nyrstar Port Pirie is an integrated multi-metals recovery plant with the flexibility to process a wide range of lead rich concentrates and smelting industry by-products such as commodity-grade lead, copper cathode, silver dore and sulphuric acid – resources for a changing world. Nyrstar is a leading global multi-metals business with our Corporate Headquarters located in Budel, the Netherlands. Nyrstar has mining, smelting and other operations located in Europe, the Americas and Australia and employs over 4,000 people. In July 2019, Nyrstar's operating business became majority owned by Trafigura, a market leader in the global commodities industry, providing a stable long term platform for its market leading operations worldwide. Visit www.nyrstar.com

Ask yourself – “Is it time for a change in these challenging times?” Do you want to relocate (with your family) to a regional city - with financial relocation support - and enjoy the sea, sports and the outdoors? Do you want to work an even-time day roster - with additional shift payments - that provides blocks of days off longer than merely a weekend so that you can enjoy what the region has to offer? Do you value living in town or nearby in the district for a short commute to town and being home every night?

Do you want to work with a company that has a progressive approach by investing in advanced analytic tools that enables more effective preventative maintenance. These roles have a real influence and impact in supporting the investment in asset management and continuous operations. All this and career opportunities - technically and in leadership?

If you have read this far you may be interested in the following opportunities. So, send us an email or call us on (08) 8638 1688 for a confidential discussion:

- Tradespersons – Boilermakers
- Tradespersons – Electrical/Instrumentation
- Maintenance Supervisors (Team Leaders)
- Tradespersons – Fitters
- Maintenance Planners

Some benefits you can expect include competitive salary, subsidised dental care; corporate health rates; subsidised health & fitness membership and study leave assistance.

Known as the 'City of Friendly People', Port Pirie's relaxed family lifestyle offers excellent facilities, accommodation and schooling options with all the major amenities. This is your opportunity to enjoy regional coastal living combined with capital city convenience.

Please forward your resume, including copies of relevant qualifications to portpirie.recruitment@nyrstar.com, with the position title in the subject heading. Only successful candidates will be contacted.

Big smile for young angler

FISHING

THE weather over the weekend was a bit breezy to kick things off but as we got deeper in, the winds died off, the sea flattened out and plenty of us made our way to the water.

Some excellent catches have come through so far and it looks like most people found the fish.

The offshore crew loved the weather on Sunday - the wind dropped out to virtually nothing while the sea did the same and the fishing was red hot.

The shark fishing in the 60-80m zone has been exceptional yet again, while the reef fish mixed in with them are brilliant.

Some nice terakhi, snapper and latchets have been boated too.

There were some small school tuna caught over the weekend off Cape Jaffa which is an excellent sign of things to come.

The fact we are seeing fish already with - I would imagine - not too many boats out there looking is very encouraging.

The weather did not quite settle down enough to allow the boaties to hit the shelf like they would have hoped but the forecast on the horizon has a few thinking about dusting off the gear, so watch this space.

Surf fishos had a fair bit of wind to contend with on Saturday evening, but those who fished through it managed a feed.

Snapper from the beach have been excellent this season and being able to take one home for a feed has been nice too.

There is still the requirement to log your catch with PIRSA but the process is quite simple.

There has been a handful of gummy shark caught this week off the beaches and they have been spread out from Piccinninni through to Browns Beach, Nene Valley, Carpenter Rocks and Canunda.

The size is varied from right on legal, up to those bigger 8-10-kilo fish.

Salmon have been in fairly good supply again this week.

Fish to a couple of kilos have been landed by lure and bait fishos across the Limestone Coast, so it is great to see anglers still targeting them in the warmer weather.

Whiting numbers have been tip top again this week.

I have seen some stonking fish again this week, some of the bigger examples over 55cm, which is an absolute beast of a King George, but also many of those perfect eaters, the 38-45cm fish that we love down here.

There has not been any secret this year - they are right where they should be.

Sand holes on the edges of weed beds anywhere along the coast have been productive and the land-based guys are also getting in on the action.

Off the rocks at Blackfellows Caves, or along the beach at Carpenter Rocks, you will not be far from the action.

Garfish have been back on the menu this week.

Some nice fish from Cape Douglas and Livingstons Bay have put a smile back on the faces of anglers again.

Size is still impressive and even if the numbers appear to be down, the size makes up for it.

There have been some nice gar caught inside the Port MacDonnell breakwater too boaties and the jetty fishos - just get some burley happening and they will pop up.

There have been a few nice mullet caught in the Glenelg River this week.

The hot spots have been the bottom of Taylors Straight and up at the Rose Caves but keep the sounder on and see where they are.

The Glenelg River Angling Club held its last competition before the Christmas break over the weekend and although there were no mullet caught by club members, there were plenty of bream and some nice perch.

Youngster Evie Cram picked up her first bream over the weekend and the smile on her face in the picture tells the story of how proud she is.

Hopefully we see the fish start to spread out a bit more over the coming weeks so we can all get down and have a crack.

Looking forward to this weekend, it looks like it is going to be fishable early, before wind and swell picks up on Saturday afternoon.

Hopefully it is not as bad as the forecast reads, but we will wait and see.

Until next week, safe fishing.

Two big wins at the plate

BASEBALL made a return to the Friday night time slot at Blue Lake Sports Park last week with Centrals victorious over an inform South Indians.

Centrals drew first blood with a run crossing home plate in the first innings.

The second inning followed suit when Centrals again scored a run to make it a two-run lead after two bats.

The game was slowly escaping South as Centrals crossed two more in the third for a four-run lead.

However, South found another gear and bought home three runs to make a game of it.

After five innings the game was all tied up after South bought another two runs home, with an entertaining clash unfolding for the crowd.

A pitching change saw Ethan Chuck replaced on the mound for Centrals by his number-one cousin Dylan Chuck and it was a move that did not favour the Indians.

The runs dried up as Chuck kept the Indians run-less while the boys in Black and White piled on six more over the last three innings to make it an 11-5 ball game.

Big performances came from Kylie Mclean, Dylan Chuck and Nathan Meinck with three hits each, while for South it was Damien O'Dine who returned with a bang for the Indians with two hits and club champion Dean Hamilton pitched well on the mound.

Meanwhile, Saturday afternoon Millicent/Federals traveled to Blue Lake Sports Park to take on a Tigers outfit looking to bounce back to form.

A bumper crowd led by David Chant in full voice saw Tigers start slowly and appear flat.

Millicent took full advantage of some sloppy fielding and struck first.

Ellis Cushion started his first Division 1 game on the mound for the visitors and he looked comfortable and in control.

A pitching duel was taking place and after the fourth innings it was still the Bandits by a single run.

Tigers eventually found their mojo in the fifth inning and scored a quick-fire three runs to claim the lead.

But that was just the beginning for Tigers as they again scored three runs in the sixth inning and the lead was suddenly five.

Cushion was replaced on the mound by Jack Hateley in the seventh inning which Tigers appeared to enjoy as they knocked in four more runs to take the game to a nine run margin and show some real fight and class with the bat.

When the Tigers' lead reached 10 runs plate umpire Meinck call game.

Big performances for the game for Tigers saw Tyler Horrigan with two hits and four RBI's, while Hayden Jones and Brayden Morton also chalked up two hits.

For Millicent/Federals it was Roy Hutchinson, Craig Chittellborough and Cushion who lead from the front.

Southern Ports time to shine

IT was a huge weekend for Round 9 in Southern Ports Tennis with the weather shaping up for a nice summer's day with plenty of Christmas cheer across the venues.

The Lucindale Wombats will hope their loss on the weekend to the Eagles will not hurt them too much as they have held onto third place, but the Eagles have overtaken Millicent/Beachport to sit in fourth place.

The Eagles had a comfortable 15 sets to nine win over the Wombats, but the Wombats were up against it with their captain Eliza Hanbury out and another top player, but a great win by the Eagles to keep their sights set on a Division 1 or Division 2 berth.

The Kingston Crays would have been pumped to not only gain the bragging rights over the Kingston Dolphins in the local derby, but they also claimed their first win.

The Lucindale Koalas had another comfortable win over the Cockatoos, continuing to show they will be tough to beat and have pulled a few games clear in second spot.

Naracoorte had a convincing win over Millicent/Beachport but it definitely was not a walk in the park, with many close results but the majority went the way of Naracoorte.

The last grudge match for the round was the Robe Roosters against the Robe Rebels who played for the Lewis Ling Cup.

Ling is a nine-time Division 1 winner of the Southern Ports, as well as a long-time valued member of the Robe Tennis Club.

The final result being 14-10 with the Roosters holding the cup at the end of the day.

A few tight mixed doubles started the day but Andrew Brown and Isabelle Sneath worked well with each other to win six games in a row after losing the first game to get the first set on the board for the Rebels.

So much build-up came around the "Regnier Bros Showdown," but it was Jed who kept his cool and taught his younger brother Egan a lesson, winning 6-0.

Tim Malone also dug deep from 3-5 down to win 7-5 against the big serve of John Agnew.

The Roosters had a 10-8 lead going into the doubles for the day.

Emma Vasek and Lisa Hall had a great battle to get over the line 9-7 to Isabelle Sneath and Lucy Perkins.

The last doubles of the day were the top women, with the Rebels girls winning 9-7.

The winner of the Lewis Ling Cup were the Robe Roosters, winning 14-10.

The local derby between the Kingston Crays and the Dolphins saw the Crays chalk up their first win of the year.

The entire Mules family made up half of the Dolphins' side.

The mixed doubles saw the Crays win five of six sets, with James Lehmann and Nicola Crane winning a tie-breaker over the new couple to the club of Rob and Kirsty Starling.

Angela Lawrie and Erika Watson played a good hour marathon, with Lawrie claiming the victory.

Two young boys played their first official match together, with Jacob Mules claiming a 6-4 over Hudson Menz.

Their fathers then faced off, with Matt Menz claiming the win over Shaun Mules 6-3.

Some more close games followed to finish the day in the doubles, with the Crays jubilant after their first win.

The weather turned up the heat as Naracoorte travelled to Furner.

The mixed doubles started with three tight sets.

Beachport's top pair of Jake Harris and Melissa McGrath showed their experience on the court, defeating George White and Poppy Moyle-Read in a tie-breaker.

Simultaneously, Naracoorte pair Daniel Moos and Kelsie Moyle-Read scored a 7-5 win over Timothy Loveday and Lisa Duldig.

At the end of the mixed doubles, Naracoorte held a 4-2 lead.

In the singles, Naracoorte stood up and showed why they are the top team, securing 10 of 12 singles.

McGrath showed her leadership with a 6-4 win over undefeated Poppy Moyle-Read to win their third set.

However, the match of the day went to George White and Jake Harris.

The hard-hitting affair delighted spectators, with White claiming a 6-4 win.

The doubles kicked off with two comfortable wins to Naracoorte.

Beachport's top and bottom men's doubles scored two more sets for their team, while the Moyle-Read sisters put another on the board for Naracoorte.

At the end of the day, Naracoorte defeated Beachport 18-150 to 6-100.

The Lucindale Koalas had a 15-9 win over the Lucindale Cockatoos.

The day was away to a flyer for the Koalas who won five of the six mixed doubles.

The singles was much tighter with a few thrilling tie-breakers.

Mitchell Baker won 7-5 in the tie-breaker against Bill Longbottom, with Chandler Smart who stepped up to number one, nipping at the heels of Tim Durik to hold onto the Koalas' number one spot, beating Bradley McCarthy in a tie-breaker.

There was a big upset in the men's doubles when Smart and Adrian Maywald wiped McCarthy and new recruit James Phillips off the court 9-0.

It was the blunt end of the team that kept the Frances/Lucindale Eagles' finals dreams alive against the Lucindale Wombats.

Best players for the Eagles were Flo Burgwin, Cynthia Watt, Bob Williams, Angus McTaggart and Sophie Ford in the 15-9 victory.

Warmer weather welcomed

SUNDAY'S warm conditions were welcomed by 22 South East Senior tennis players who travelled to Wattle Range to enjoy a hit of tennis and lunch in the bush setting.

Heather Pitt claimed the women's honours from Trish Douglas, while Peter Evans took the men's win over Alan Schultz.

The next event on the calendar will see the Seniors descend on Blue Lake Sports Park on January 16, 2022 at 11am.

Robe social bowls keeps brisk pace

LAST week's social bowls at the Robe Bowls Club attracted 23 players for the ROBE Mitre 10 sponsored event.

The format included two games of 12 ends, with two two-game winners.

Pat Lynch and Paul Truelove claimed the honours with 57 points, ahead of Stephen Kennett and Trevor Wagner on 56.

The women's Pennants were played at Robe and both Division 2 and 3 won all rinks.

In Division 2 Robe defeated Port MacDonnell 64 shots 8 points to 30-0.

Judy Phillips, Josh Waddell, Helen Dawson and Judy Birmingham defeated Cheryl Doddridge's team 38-15.

Kerrie Boyd, Helen Lynch, Bronwyn Matthews and Valma Jennings defeated Marilyn Sutton's team 26-15.

In Division 3 Robe defeated Naracoorte 54-8 to 34-0.

Maria Cooper, Nola Peel, Tracey Gray and Ann Moore defeated Mary Kirkland's team 27-20.

Robyn Dahler, Clare DeLaine, Pam Robinson and Jan Fisk defeated Colleen Fox's team 27-14.

Saturday's Open Pennant saw both Division 1 and 3 played in Millicent with mixed results.

In Division 1 Millicent was defeated by Robe 68-2 to 78-10.

Peter Roachock's team was defeated by John Scudds' team 29-22.

Pat Lynch, Peter DeLaine, Dean Burgoyne and David Robinson defeated Wayne Ross's team 17-32, while Stephen Kennett, Glenn Wright, Peter Gregory and Harold Manton defeated Bryon Roper's team 27-28.

In Division 3 Millicent Red defeated Robe 103-10 to 60-2.

Neil Whelan's team defeated Ali Douglas's team 33-15, Peter Varcoe's team defeated Dean Woodward's team 43-17 and Paul Truelove, Bill Cook, Mark Murphy as well as Dean Nankivell defeated Glen Tilley's team 27-28.

Championships will be played in the new year, starting with the men's and women's Fours on January 2.

Mixed bowls success

ROUND 10 Lower South East Bowls midweek open action continued last week with both teams on the road.

The Reds travelled across town to take on the Mount Gambier RSL Reds and with wins on both rinks enjoyed a comfortable 56-36 victory.

The rink of Bill Bremner, Kym Jones, Bob Cranwell and Gary Widdison had a good 31-20 win over their opponents with the Ian Von Stanke rink taking a 25-16 victory.

As a result, the 12 points takes the Reds to the top of the ladder with four rounds to play.

The Blues travelled down Bay Road to take on the Port MacDonnell Blues and were able to win one rink but suffered a narrow 46-44 loss.

Barb Milstead, Colin Potter, Eddy Smith and Ron Cox won a tight contest 24-22 to return home with two premierships points.

The Blues currently sit in fourth spot and await Mount Gambier RSL Red in Round 11.

The women's competition continued Friday with Mount Gambier travelling to Penola where they found the locals in fine form.

Penola won both rinks to enjoy a 60-31 victory.

Gaylene Leggett, Barb Butchart, Kerry Pedlar and Beryl Versluis made their opponents work hard for their 21-19 win.

The women's return home to play Naracoorte RSL in Round 11 in a must-win matchup.

Saturday's Lower South East Bowls Open action played at the Bob Cranwell Centre saw Mount Gambier claim two wins.

The Division 1 Reds hosted Mount Gambier RSL Blue and despite missing some key players were able to secure the maximum 12 points with wins on the three rinks.

John Reppin, Michael Spong, Tony Renzi and Tony Bowditch started the game well, scoring the first 14 shots and went on to record an impressive 34-14 victory over the Wayne Legutko skippered RSL rink.

The Blues travelled across town to take on the RSL Reds and were able to win one rink but it was not enough to secure the victory.

The rink of Jim Philpott, Kym Jones, Gary Widdison and Steve Farrell continued their good form from last week to win a tight contest against the Neil Tobin led locals going on to win 20-19.

In a close game the hosts were able to secure the valuable 10 points with the 69-58 victory.

A trip to Penola was the venue for the Division 2 trying to get their season back on track.

This venue has not been kind to Mount Gambier bowlers and the Round 10 clash was again an unsuccessful trip.

The rink of Neil Blakey, Maryka Heaver, Perria Davis and David Babb scored a 21-20 win over a strong local rink skippered by Scott Degenhardt.

In Division 4, the Reds travelled to Mount Gambier RSL to take on the local Reds.

In a team effort, they returned home with 11 points after an 83-61 win.

The stars of the day were Ron Kuhl, Rex Klaasens, Carlo Bertetic and Eddy Smith who scored an impressive 35-14 win against Graham Crowder's rink.

The result proved to be decisive as Ron Cox's team scored a narrow one-shot win and the John Kentish led rink played out a 23-23 draw to secure second spot on the ladder with four games to be played.

At home under the roof the Blues enjoyed the conditions where they played Port MacDonnell and were able to secure an 86-62 win.

Alison Mitchell, John Hughes, Ross Kilsby and Don Fraser dominated their opponents to win 38-16.

Archers set stiff competition

PREPARATIONS for the annual Blue Lake Archers invitational tournament have begun, set down for January 15, 2022.

The traditional addition of an indoor event the night before and a clout round on the following day will round out a full weekend for visiting archers.

Nominations via the electronic platform of Archers Diary are now open.

Meanwhile, local archery events over last weekend covered a double indoor round and a short outdoor round.

On Friday night a double run of Australian 18-metre events was on offer to the archers that included a rapidly-improving prospective member of the club.

Ian Harris pressed his outdoor bow into service for the indoor.

While the bow was not set up for the indoor events he persisted to record respectable scores with 261 the first round and 253 in the second.

The finishing order for both rounds were identical, the difference between the rounds limited to the winning margins.

Paul Freeman trailed home the double winner Graham Lock with 289 and 286, the margin for round one was seven points with lock at 296.

Lock opened up the margin in the second round to 14 points with a score of 300.

On Sunday the club members were happy to run a quick event for the afternoon, a tongue-in-cheek quick renaming of the 60-arrow Soggy Sunday to Sunny Sunday seemed appropriate and the event proceeded under almost-perfect conditions.

Highlight of the afternoon was Peter Donhardt landing his first outdoor event All Gold scores for the 50-metre range.

To ensure the feat did not go unnoticed by his fellow archers, Donhardt successfully repeated the feat two ends later.

To top off the day, Donhardt was the winner with a total of 605 on adjusted scores, leading Lock home on 591 by 14 points.

Indoor archery continues at Blue Lake Gymnastics Club, Malseed Park Friday at 7.30pm, followed by outdoor archery at Corriedale Park 12.30pm Sunday.

Australian Indoor 18 metre, Round 1, handicap scored, benchmark 300 points: Graham Lock 296 (off the bow 284); Paul Freeman 289 (276); Ian Harris 261 (246).

Australian Indoor 18 metre, Round 2, handicap scored, benchmark 300 points: Graham Lock 300 (off the bow 288); Paul Freeman 286 (273); Ian Harris 253 (239).

Sunny Sunday outdoor round, handicap scored, benchmark 600 points: Peter Donhardt 605 (off the bow 482); Graham Lock 591 (552); Paul Freeman 588 (545).

Festive season approaches for Night Owls

AS Christmas fast approaches, so does the end of the Millicent Bowls Club's Night Owls competition for the year.

Last week again saw plenty of touches, with Ian Slape (Beanz Team) 5, Ross Warren (Jack Attack) 4, Robin Thomas (Scrappers) 3, Nick Waring (Gizzies Crew) 3, Pam Packer (Birdies 3) and Nigel Ross (Sunnies) 3 all on target.

In Red division Rovers (Mick Pedler, Stephen Skeer, John Buhlmann, Rodger Buckmaster) defeated the Beetles 28+12 to claim the honours.

Other winners were Tant Tigers 28+6, Untouchables 28+3 and Max's Four 27+7, with Jack Attack and Sparkies having a draw 18 and 14.

Blue division went to Grand Hotel (Jamie Vearing, Bill Chapman, Jim Taylor, Chris Vearing) who defeated Rotary 30+16.

Other winners were Birdies 29+12, Maccas 28+17, Somery Seniors 27+2 and Awesome Foursome 25+3.

In White division Lions Roar (Ralph

Other winners were Miss Fitts 28+8, Gizzies Crew 28+5, The Pups 27+2 and Sunnies 25+5.

RED DIVISION WINNERS: Roger Buckmaster, John Buhlmann, Stephen Skeer. Absent - Mick Pedler.

BLUE DIVISION WINNERS: Jim Taylor, Bill Chapman, Chris Vearing, Jamie Vearing.

WINNERS: Peter Varcoe and Eddie Hann.

Champions decided for men's pairs

THE Grand Final of the Millicent Men's Handicap Pairs was played on Sunday December 12 between Malcolm Wright with Sam Schofield and Peter Varcoe with Eddie Hann.

Both teams won their way into the grand final after winning four rounds.

Varcoe's crew had to give Wright's team a three-shot start, with the handicap for players in each team added up and divided by two to give the overall handicap.

Wright and Schofield started on 10 shots, while Varcoe and Hann started on seven.

The game was played over 12 ends and by the fourth end, Varcoe and Hann were four shots up at 14-10.

At the eighth end the score was 17-16 Varcoe and Hann's way against Wright and Schofield, however on the 11th end Wright's team dropped five shots and were not able to recover in the last end, giving Varcoe and Hann the title of Handicap Pairs Champions for the season of 2021/22.

RUNNERS-UP: Malcom Wright and Sam Schofield.

Open fours attracts players

THE Millicent Bowls Club held its annual Open Fours competition last week, with the format of one game of 12 ends in the morning and two games of pairs over the lunch period, with one pair playing 10 ends while the second pair had lunch, then the reverse took place.

A total of 18 teams took part, from Mount Gambier, Mount Gambier RSL, Port MacDonnell and Kingston.

Claiming the honours was a mixed team of two Mount Gambier players, Brian Verwork and Ian VonStanke, with two Millicent players, John Scudds and Iain Campbell with a total score of 119 points.

Second was a Millicent team of Steve Carnellor, Eddie Hann, Terry Lonergan and Rob Chambers with a score of 112.5.

Third with a score of 110.5 was another Millicent team of Andrea Radley, Robert Radley, Brian Goode and Elaine Goode.

In fourth place was another mixed team with, Steve Farrell, Graham Crowder, Garry Feast and a Millicent player Aaron Emonson with a score of 89.5.

Best first game went to the team of Adriana Ross, Ian Ross, Mary Clifford and Denis Clifford.

Best second game went to Derek Bowering and John Drew.

Best third game, Sarah Ross and David Nuske and best fourth game went to Rod Gibbs, Jim Campbell, Andre Reinders and Lurlene Reinders.

FOURTH PLACE: Gary Feast, Steve Farrell, Graham Crowder, Aaron Emonson.

THIRD PLACE: Elaine Goode, Andrea Radley, Robert Radley, Brian Goode.

WINNERS: Brian Verwork, Ian VonStanke, Iain Campbell, John Scudds.

RUNNERS-UP: Terry Lonergan, Eddie Hann, Steve Carnellor, Rob Chambers.

Second time lucky for Cup?

DAVID LEWIS
GREYHOUND RACING

IT was back in 2018 Kongorong trainer John Little's Springvale Alysa, after a 29.79 seconds heat win, finished third behind Hutch and Cryer's Plugger in the Williams Crane Hire Christmas Cup final over 512 metres at Tara Raceway.

Three years on and still chasing his first feature race win, Little will now be hoping it is a case of second time lucky as far as the Christmas Cup is concerned when Bungaloo Anne lines up in this Sunday's final.

The white and black bitch has been a real revelation in recent weeks.

Last Sunday's all the way win by 1¾ lengths in the first of two heats over Departure Gate in 29.70 seconds was her third consecutive win.

Bungaloo Anne, who is raced by the Bungaloo Syndicate which comprises Little, Liz Newberry and Kevin Mullan, makes for an interesting story.

"It was in 2015 that I spotted this unnamed well-bred bitch by Fear Zafonic x Sun's Up advertised for $500 from her first win," Little said.

"I thought she was probably worth a go but, to be honest, there was a time when I didn't think there would be a first win.

"Later named Bungaloo Sunset, she did finally get it together at Tara Raceway though and eventually won seven races.

"As it turned out, the 2015 Christmas Cup was won by Fear The Rascal, also a son of Fear Zafonic out of Shannah's Star - a litter sister to Sun's Up.

"I figured Bungaloo Sunset might be worth a litter.

"So after much pedigree study I came up with the lightly-raced stud dog called Pure Titanium who won six races and still has relatively few pups on the ground."

Later, Little whelped the litter in June 2019 and reared the pups at Kongorong before breaking them in at Tara Raceway.

"I have to say, they've turned out to be a bit of mixed bunch," he said.

"Bungaloo Anne has now won 11 races at Tara Raceway this year and has been by far the most successful.

"And a win in this week's Christmas Cup final with Bungaloo Anne would certainly cap off a terrific year for us."

Alysa's first litter for the syndicate.

Whelped in October 2020, the three dogs and three bitches are by Fabregas.

Following Aston Marlon's win in the second heat of the Christmas Cup, Allendale East trainer David Peckham will now be chasing his fourth win in the event.

He won the inaugural cup in 2011 with Napoleon Wiz and again in 2013 with Bourne Again.

In 2019 he was successful with Squishy Pea in race-record time of 29.63 seconds.

Aston Marlon, a 36 kilogram son of Aston Dee Bee and Aston Regas, also brought up his third successive win when taking up the running from Beatific down the back before holding on to win by a length in 29.99 seconds.

Compton trainer Tracie Price has two finalists - former WA chaser Shamrock Boy and Tangelo Fire both finishing third in their respective heats.

Price will also be chasing his fourth Christmas Cup.

Who's Doing What won the event in 2014, Fear The Rascal the following year, while Golly Gumdrops - who whelped to Mepunga Blazer in September - was successful last year.

Moorak trainer Jason Newman, who has enjoyed a good finish to the year, also has two finalists after Departure Gate and Beatific both turned in solid efforts to finish second in their heats.

Other Christmas Cup winners have been Lika Gem (2012), Glenville Jester (2016) and Hit The Runway (2017).

Greyhound Racing SA Racing Manager, Shaun Mathieson, confirmed due to the Christmas Cup heats being run as non-quadralla legs, the final would be a six-dog race.

From a racing perspective, the Mount Gambier Greyhound Racing Club's 2021 Christmas Meeting will feature finals of the Williams Crane Hire Christmas Cup, the Santa Sprint (400m), the Peter Whitehead Memorial Maiden (400m) and the Christmas Challenge (600m).

This will be a family oriented day with canteen, bar and TAB facilities along with a kids' playground complemented by outdoor games including Noughts and Crosses, Connect 4, Building Block Tower Game and a Bag Toss.

Early Christmas present

DAVID GILBERT

david.gilbert@tbwtoday.com.au

THE time for receiving Christmas presents is still just over a week away but try telling that to some members of the Mount Gambier club on Penola Road.

Their Christmas gift came early for 18 of its members last Sunday afternoon when the locally-owned and trained Sebonna won the biggest race of his career so far.

Sebonna ($3.60-$4-$3.70) won the $31,800 Bordertown Cup over 2000 metres to make it six wins from 16 starts since joining the Yahl stable of Peter Hardacre in early 2020.

That solid winning strike rate is a far cry from the gelding's first start for Hardacre at Penola in April last year when Sebonna stayed in the barrier stalls and took no part in the race.

The now-promising stayer was formerly trained in New South Wales by Kim Waugh, wife of former Aussie star cricketer Mark Waugh.

"I went to a Melbourne Cup luncheon at the club a few years ago and Peter Burchell came up with the idea for some members of the club to become involved with racing a horse," Hardacre explained.

"In the early days when he stayed in the barriers, we wondered what we had here as he was petrified of the riders and very anxious.

"He has always had a bit of quality about him and we were hopeful of him running a big race in this year's Naracoorte Cup back in February but he hurt a leg in the week leading up to the race."

Regular rider Karl Zechner had the mount at Bordertown and a near-perfect ride saw Sebonna power to the lead at the furlong pole and win running away with 1.8 lengths to spare.

"The Bordertown Cup win qualifies Sebonna for a start in the $102,250 final of the Southern Speed series to be run over 2,000 metres at Morphettville on Boxing Day," Hardacre added.

"That will determine his immediate racing future and, should he measure up, Sebonna will continue racing in Adelaide.

"Short of that, he will return to the South East and be aimed at some local cups such as the Coonawarra Cup at Penola next month and then the Naracoorte Cup in early February."

Zechner can be expected to retain the ride on Boxing Day but a new jockey will have to be found for Sebonna in the new year.

While the South African born jockey has had increasing success here, he is relocating to Queensland for family reasons.

Zechner ended the day at Bordertown in a blaze of glory by riding the last two winners, including a ride-of-the-day effort aboard But Beautiful.

It was a memorable day for the five owners of Sebonna who made the trip north as they were feted by Bordertown officials after the cup and celebrations are tipped to continue tonight at the Mount Gambier club when the cup trophy goes on display.

CUP FIELDS A WORRY

While nothing can be taken away from Sebonna's splendid victory in the Bordertown Cup, the size of our open class cup fields continue to be a worry for local racing administrators.

Three scratchings on race morning meant only five horses fronted the starter in the Bordertown Cup.

Back in February, the Naracoorte Cup had just four runners and recent Mount Gambier cups (if you can recall back that far) have been very light on numbers also.

Sebonna upset the chances of a home town cup victory with Tatiara trained gallopers (Shock Alert and Wings Of Pastrami) filling the placings.

It was not all doom and gloom for the locals as Bordertown trainer Jeff Searle started cup day in a blaze of glory, winning the opening two races with Wonaeamirri and Saint Kitts.

Apart from Hardacre, fellow Mount Gambier trainers Lee Creek (Star Jan) and Richard Nicholson (Deforce) had success on the eight-race card.

AIMING FOR BACK TO BACK WINS: The Bill Drury trained Noosa Beach is gunning for two wins within a week at tonight's local harness meeting after leading all the way to win at Stawell last Sunday.

Disappointingly, attendance last Sunday was the smallest for Bordertown cup day since the club was granted TAB status in 2000 and even less than last year when stricter Covid-19 regulations were in place.

THRILL OF A LIFETIME

It is a huge step from winning a race at the Greenwald Paceway to competing in an Inter Dominion final.

So, it was the thrill of a lifetime for local owner/breeder/trainer Des "Whistle" Glynn and his wife Heather to be trackside at Menangle (NSW) last Saturday night to see their pacer Majestic Cruiser compete in the $500,000 final.

Majestic Cruiser won here on December 8, 2017 and was later transferred interstate to young trainer Jason Grimson who had two runners in last Saturday night's big race.

In the final, Majestic Cruiser ran sixth picking up $7,500 prize money while stablemate Boncel Benjamin ($51) was second across the line but got the race on protest.

It seems hardly a week goes by without a local pacer winning in Adelaide and last Saturday night it was Naracoorte trainer Greg Scholefield back in the winner's stall with perennial winner Stratofortress in the NR 60-71 pace.

Once driver Corey Johnson was able to lead after 50 metres, it was virtually all over for Stratofortress ($2 fav.) who went on to win his eighth race at Globe Derby Park this year.

There were a couple of local winners on Stawell cup day last Sunday, with the Bill Drury trained and David Drury driven Noosa Beach ($7.50) winning the opening event.

Bill Drury had a drive in the race but was dislodged when Your A Shocker fell in the score up behind the mobile.

Your A Shocker was a late scratching and Drury fortunately escaped serious injury.

Then the promising pacer Steele ($1.50 fav.) from the Steve Fennell stable had no trouble leading all the way in the NR 52 pace over 785 metres.

In a vote of confidence for the future of harness racing, Fennell is branching out to become a full-time harness trainer.

TROTS HERE TONIGHT

Father Christmas will be one of the highlights of the final local harness meeting for 2021 at the Greenwald Paceway tonight.

With a late start, it is anticipated the jolly old man will arrive by pony express around the starting time of the first race (8.30pm).

Also there will be a jumping castle to keep the younger ones entertained.

SECOND LOCAL CUP SUCCESS: Local trainer Peter Hardacre now has two local cup victories to his credit after winning the Coonawarra Vignerons cup (pictured) with Tahnee Tiara (2019) and last Sunday's Bordertown cup with Sebonna.

Only one Victorian stable will be represented tonight (Rebecca East) as entry to South Australia currently involves more red tape than ever before.

As one Victorian journalist suggested this week, and he is quite correct, it is probably easier to get into North Korea than South Australia.

GOT HER PRIORITIES RIGHT

At 95 years of age, most people would agree the Queen has done an outstanding job in her 70 years of reigning over Great Britain and the commonwealth countries.

The Queen has always loved her racing and I was amused recently she reportedly only picks up the phone on a regular basis to speak to two people.

One is Princess Anne (no surprise there), however the other person was a bolt out of the blue, namely her racing manager John Warren.

The article did not elaborate just what Warren's job specifications involved, whether it was keeping her updated on the racing scene and the horses she has an interest in, or perhaps even giving her a race tip or placing a bet for the great lady.

Fast round start pays dividends

DAVID Quinn started with three successive pars in Tuesday's stroke competition at the Blue Lake Golf Club, well under his 19 handicap.

Even with a bogey on the fourth hole, it was comparable to a par or three points in a stableford competition because of its high difficulty.

With a couple more bogeys and another par on the seventh hole, Quinn managed to turn with a 40 off the stick to aim for a win.

It was only the 14th hole which gave him any trouble, this time with a double-bogey due to more tree interference.

Quinn's three pars helped and while his 42 was not quite as good as the front nine, his 82-19-63 was still well in front of second place.

It was tight for the minor placings, with Colin Stratford, Andrew Ferguson and Ian Bown all tied on 67.

Stratford prevailed in a count-back.

After a birdie on the long par 3 14th hole, Stratford almost gave it all back on the next par 3 but finished par, par for a four-under 39 over the back nine.

Ferguson did all he could to snatch second place with a one-under 34 off the stick, including birdies on the last two holes but fell one short of Stratford.

Missing out on the placings altogether, Bown can blame bogeys on the last two holes for his chance for the silverware.

Joining Bown in the rundown was Geoff Munt, Tim Bates, Russell Lingham, Ray Patching, Greg Cooper, Tyson Ploenges and David Dowie.

Numbers increase for event

THE fields for the women's Saturday events continued to increase which was evident again on Saturday for a stableford event at the Blue Lake Golf Club.

Featuring close to 20 starters, the winner, Beryl Mahoney, was well received on her return to the course after a recent spell.

Mahoney put her best foot forward on Saturday, scoring on every hole.

Starting with an opening three points, she made good time on the fifth hole by scoring a par.

She continued with 19 points over the front nine but had a better performance over the inward nine, once again starting with a three-point hole before closing with another 21 points.

Mahoney needed all those 40 points to see off second place Lee-Anne Medhurst on 39 points.

Medhurst scored a birdie on the first hole but scored no points on the second.

She bounced back with a consistent three or two points from then on to turn in a credible 21 points.

Perennial prize winner Rosemary Martland added to her bounty once again, this time in third place on 38 points.

Martland had set herself up for another win after opening with 21 points and with frequent pars over her back nine she had a win in sight.

She walked off with a double bogey on the last hole.

Mahoney's 21 points over the back nine took out the novelty event.

FRIENDLY COMPETITION: Division 1 winner Lynda Nannings, Division 2 runner-up Jaynee Oberer, Division 1 third place Bev Pascoe and Division 1 runner-up Helen Myers. Picture: SUBMITTED

Blue Lake women pushing handicaps

A COOL change arrived at the Blue Lake Golf Club for a single stroke competition but it did not deter the 26 keen women from participating.

It was a welcome back into Division 1 for Lynda Nannings with her nett 66, score of the day, playing five strokes under her 29 handicap.

Consistent front and back nine scores of 48/47, which included only one par on the fifth hole, was enough to beat captain Helen Myers for the top of the podium.

Myers also committed to consistency with a nett 68 off a 22 handicap with splits of 46/44 and included pars on two par 3s, the fifth and 14th.

In third was Bev Pascoe who, after spending a couple of months in Division 2 and taking out the championship, is another player back in Division 1.

Pascoe signed for 98/28/70 which included pars on the first and fifth holes.

Division 2 winner Lyn Gill used every bit of her 45 handicap to master the course and shake off her rivals, signing for a nett 71, with 60 on the outward nine but able to reel it in by four strokes on the sloping inward nine with a 56.

In second place was Jaynee Oberer, who scored 106/34/72 which included a par on the par 4 dog-leg ninth hole.

Closely followed in third place was Lesley McPherson, who scored 103/30/73 with pars on the first, fourth and fifth holes.

Nearest to pin second shot winners on the par 3 fifth hole were on the 16th hole with Josie Ashby from Division 1 and Lynette Hirth from Division 2.

The pro shot on the fifth hole was won by McPherson.

Another stiff pin competition

PLAYERS took full advantage of tee and pin placements for a stableford event at the Blue Lake golf links, the best Adrian O'Donnell with 43 points for a clear victory.

O'Donnell started with an opening par to give him three points straight off the break and with his generous handicap of 28, he even cashed in on the third and fourth holes where he struggled but still managed a point or two.

From then on it was threes all the way to turn with 23 points.

The back nine was much the same, scrambling points on the 10th and 11th before righting the ship with two successive three-point holes.

He stumbled on the par 3 16th hole, the only wipe on his scorecard.

Adding another 20 points over the back nine saw him a comfortable winner.

In A Grade Gavin Coon showed his recent elevation was merited, claiming the win with 41 points.

Coon started well with pars on the first two holes but kept his best for a great par on the difficult fourth hole to give him a well-earned three points.

Despite messing up the sixth hole he still managed to score a point to turn with 19.

Two three-point pars to open his back nine were slightly tempered with just one point on the 12th but he bounced back well to finish with three pars and a birdie over the last four holes for 22 points.

It was tight for the minor placings with Trevor McLean and Marc Dalton separated by a single point.

McLean did all his scoring on the front nine thanks to a one-under par 34 off the stick including birdies on the seventh and ninth holes for an outward 22 points.

While he added another birdie on the 15th he could not quite maintain the form and finished with a further 17 points.

Dalton can expect to be just shy of the magical scratch handicap next time he ventures out.

He opened with a pattern of two birdies and pars to have 11 points after four holes.

Dalton was on track for a sub-par opening nine with just the one bogey on the fifth hole, but tree interference on the ninth saw him scrub the hole.

He had the same result on the 10th but then came back with four pars and four birdies to close with 20 points and take third prize.

David Johnston set the bar high early with 41 points on the board, which held the win for the B Grade despite some late chargers.

It was a close win, with James Roughana and David Adkins tied on 39 points.

With an extra ball prize for the best back nine, early starter Adkins thought he had it with his closing 22 points holding on for the novelty event.

However, Roughana overtook him late in the day with 23 points over the inward nine, for his birdies on the 10th and 15th holes.

C Grade placements took place with some of the newer members, Jamie Burnett and Jordan Williams, taking first and second place while life member Doug McPherson took third.

Burnett was consistent with splits of 20 and 19 points, scoring on all but one hole, while Williams was either walking off with three points or none at all.

In total Williams had 10 three-point holes, but it was the four holes with no scores that prevented a win.

Scores of handicap or better were needed to take home a ball prize, led by the unlucky Jamie Walters who missed out on a B Grade prize due to a count-back.

While he did not finish in the prize list, Daniel Christian performed well with his two on the 12th hole while pro shots were claimed by David McKenzie on the fifth and Adkins on the 16th.

Michael Millhouse and Tim Smith won their respective nearest to pin prizes.

Former footballer tees up

FORMER talented footballer Darren Keding has wasted no time making his mark in his new sport, leading the way in Saturday's par competition at the Mount Gambier Golf Club.

A handy golfer as a junior in Adelaide, Keding got his handicap down to 17 in his mid-teens before "footy and cricket took over".

He spent three years with North Adelaide before playing for more than a decade in the top amateur competition in Adelaide.

After relocating to Mount Gambier in 2009, he still did not play golf, instead electing to coach juniors at South Gambier where his two boys were playing.

He was also involved with Centrals Baseball Club but with the boys grown up and finished in the juniors at the end of this season, it was time to find something else to do with his Saturdays.

His first few games did not set the world on fire.

In fact, two weeks ago he had 101 off the stick but on Saturday it all came together with an incredible score of +8, three better than anyone else in the 119-strong field.

Keding did not have a group to play with in the morning.

It looked like he might have had to play a practice round by himself but after a last-minute cancellation, he jumped in with regulars Tony Geddes, Jack Jennings and Brad Von Duve.

Playing off a 22 handicap, the trio must have wondered what was going on when Keding parred the first six holes to move to +6.

"I actually wasn't hitting many greens in regulation but my chipping and putting was awesome," he said.

After halves on the seventh and eighth holes he made another par on the ninth to make the turn at an incredible +7 after shooting 38 off the stick.

The 54-year-old was not able to keep up that pace on the back nine, making bogeys on the 10th and 11th holes before dropping his first shot for the day courtesy of a double bogey six on the par 4 12th.

It turned out to be a temporary hiccup, with pluses on the 13th and 14th holes quickly getting back to +8.

He was able to maintain that score on the way home, easily good enough to top the leaderboard, take out C Grade and lose five strokes off his handicap.

"I love my footy, but I'm really loving golf," Keding said.

He was not the only one in the group to have a good round.

Geddes came in with a +5 to take out B Grade and Jennings signed for a +2 which was good enough for the runner-up spot behind Keding in C Grade.

The A Grade division was taken out by Peter Lock who had an excellent +5 off his 11 handicap, three clear of Craig Wirth.

Runner-up in B Grade was Garry McCormack with +4, while the round of the day was turned in by Darren Bilney who finished with +1 after shooting two-under par 70 off the stick.

Meanwhile, Thursday's stableford competition was won by veteran Paul Kenny who came in with 41 points, two better than Peter Edwards, Shane Brook, Greg Hudson and Brian Norman who all signed for 39.

Playing off 12, Kenny had three-over par 39 off the stick for 21 points on the front nine, a score that could have been even better had he not made a double-bogey six on the ninth hole.

His back nine was solid, five pars and four bogeys adding another 20 points to take out the top prize.

Edwards took second place on a count-back, while Brook, who played off a four handicap, shot an impressive one-over par 73 off the stick for his round to just miss out on the runner-up prize.

Christmas cheer at Attamurra

AN ambrose format over nine holes with a Christmas theme attracted 60 women to the Mount Gambier Golf Club last week.

Dressed brightly in Christmas attire and adding to the fun day, the women were challenged with driving on one hole with a hockey stick, putting with a plastic putter, left handers using a right handed club and vice versa, as well as putting with a croquet mallet.

A small group of women who have recently taken up golf under the guidance of playing member Helen Gregory - Sue McPherson, Beth Mahony, Kirsten Johnson and Liz Clements - were announced winners with a score of 21-1/2 nett.

Runners-up, also mostly new golfers, with a score of 23-1/4 nett were Helen Gregory, Mandy Roberts, non-golfer Sue Szopory and Janine Duke.

Long drive winners were golfer Hope Bliss and non-golfer Wendy Earl.

Nearest the pin winners were golfer Faye Mainwaring and Szopory.

Mainwaring also won the pro shot.

The Happy Wanderers were Yvonne Shirley, Maxine McGregor and Marie Douglas.

Another feature of the day was the presentation of the Handicap Championship trophy and prizes by sponsor Anne Schrapel to the winner, Bev Pedlar and runner-up Karen Forster.

The Olympic Trophy, sponsored by Lime-stone Holdings, was presented to up-and-coming player Jess Parsons after her three consistent rounds played in November, completing her successful year.

Meanwhile, pleasant conditions and fairways running assisted 21 women when they played a par round on Saturday.

Steady player Helen Gregory produced a top round with 5-up to take the winner's prize.

Series final done in style

STUNNING summer weather greeted the Mount Gambier Cycling Club members who had nominated to ride the Christmas race as the final event of the 2021 Kidman Law Co Spring/Summer series.

There was hardly a cloud in the sky and a slight easterly wind had the riders excited for a tailwind finish to the race.

The race itself was to be held on the Caves Road course, over a distance of 30km.

The Under 11/13 riders were the first to greet the commissaire for their 10km race, with Eddie Buckland given a 2:15 minute head start over the chasing Molly Opperman.

Both took advantage of their small frames to get as aerodynamic as possible on the outward leg into the headwind.

Opperman ate into the lead Buckland enjoyed before the turnaround, but with perhaps one eye on the State Junior Track Titles fast approaching, she chose not to press home her power advantage.

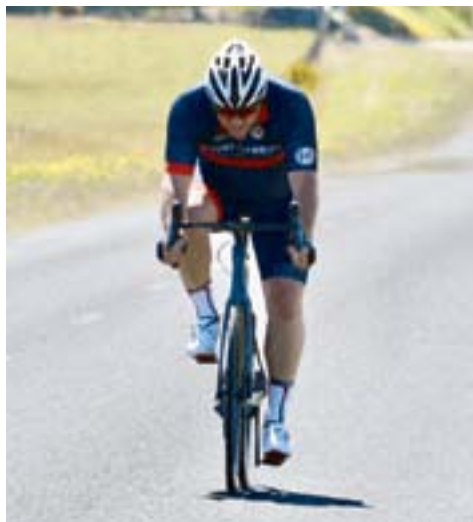

Buckland continued to ride strongly on the return leg, powering to the finish line in a time of 21:45.

Opperman arrived two minutes and 21 seconds later, allowing Buckland to also take fastest time honours by just six seconds.

For the Seniors, 22 riders greeted the commissaire, including one whose introduction to the club was the Crank the Crater event in the previous weekend.

The first group to leave consisted of Dave Delaland, Jen Buckland and Jason Buckland, followed four minutes later by Elmer Buckland and Mike Bakker.

group of Paul Brooker, Bruce McLaughlin and Phil Stasiw departed, with just two minutes separating them from Rohan Mason, Spek Peake, Dean Zeven and John Cranwell.

A further two minutes delay ensued before Matthew Opperman - on his CX bike - joined Harry Opperman and Craig Andre in pursuit.

The second-last group to leave had a further two minutes to wait, now 15 minutes from the time that the initial racers had left, which consisted of Ash Herrewyn, Rob Mann, Riley Hill, Patrick Langsmith and Jami Buckley.

They were followed a further two minutes later by the final pairing of Dave Bryant and Nick Kidman.

TOO FAST: Nick Kidman sprints to the line to claim fastest time.

The slight headwind notwithstanding, the pace was on from the start and any rider who was unable to keep with their group were going to be faced with a tough solo time trial. Unfortunately for Jami Buckley and Langsmith, such was their fate as the pace of their group began quite high.

While separating from their group at different times, they had managed to catch up to each other and work together for the final 20km.

The remaining riders managed to hold on to their respective groups to the turnaround, but the slight bumps close to the turnaround took the energy out of some of the riders who were unable to keep up with the faster competitors.

Out in front for 28 km of the 30km race, Delaland and Jen Buckland continued to work strongly together but then, as if sensing the presence of riders close by, Delaland found another gear and set off towards the finish line.

His efforts were rewarded as he came over the brow of the hill towards the finish line with a strong margin to the next riders and celebrated his first victory in a Mount Gambier Cycling Club race.

Behind him, Jen Buckland was not so fortunate, caught on the descent to the finish line by Elmer Buckland and Bakker, who crossed the line in second and third respectively, leaving Jen Buckland in fourth place.

Kidman claimed fastest time honours.

Presentations were held back at the clubrooms, where a Christmas morning tea was provided, with family and friends joining the festivities.

Delaland was presented with the trophy for winning the Christmas race, with the sponsors also providing prizemoney for the podium placegetters for both junior and senior races.

As the race also doubled as the final race of the Kidman Law Co Spring/Summer Series, presentations were also made to the top-five finishers in the series, with Elmer Buckland crowned series champion.

This weekend some of the club's junior riders - Molly Opperman, Niel van Niekirk, Patrick Langsmith, Jami Buckley and Kai Arbery - will participate in the SA Junior Track Championships at the Adelaide Superdrome.

"My last big competition for cycling was early this year in Ballarat but due to the pandemic there has been next to no competitions held which is really annoying," she said. "I got into cycling 10 years ago because my father was into triathlons which was a big thing for him, so my older siblings also became interested. I would go and watch them all compete which made me want to start competing in sports rather than watch."

Wight said there had been a number of highlights across her cycling career so far, including her first performance at the elite track race in Brisbane.

"Cycling has taken me all across Australia, I have actually raced a little bit of everywhere because where the nationals are held changes for juniors all the time," she said.

"I love racing and beating personal bests but meeting new people from across the country is also great."

Not sure whether she will pedal back into competitions, Wight said she was just eager to get back on the bike and experience cycling in the big city.

"I will definitely participate in local racing in Adelaide and see where that takes me but it is a competitive sport and I just want to see where things go," she said.

Giving advice for future Year 11 and Year 12 students, Wight said organisation was key to a successful balance between sport and study.

"Students need to just remember to be super organised, because sports can take up a lot of time," she said.

Tough season shaping up

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

MOUNT Gambier Lakers men suffered another loss in the Country Basketball League season on the weekend, going down to Horsham Hornets by 13 points.

It was another tough road trip for the side, with the Hornets too strong in all-but one quarter.

The opening two stanzas went in favour of the home side by eight and two points respectively, while the Lakers turned that around in the third to claim the quarter 21-17.

However, the Hornets were back on top in the final quarter with a 23-16 result and an overall 79-66 victory.

It has been a tough start to the season for the Lakers men, yet to taste victory as they occupy the bottom rung of the ladder.

They opened the season with a two-point loss to Portland Coasters which was their closest game to date.

A second-game nine-point loss to Terang Tornadoes compounded the poor start, followed by a forfeit to the Surfcoast Chargers.

The Lakers are finally at home this weekend, with two games pencilled in at the Icehouse.

They host the Colac Kookas on Saturday at 6pm, with a 2pm Sunday game against the Hornets.

It will be the last chance to put their season back on track prior to a Christmas break, with games to resume on January 9, 2022 with another home game against the Warrnambool Seahawks.

In contrast, the women sit second on the ladder, undefeated so far.

They had a bye on the weekend but face a double-header this round.

The Lakers head to Warrnambool on Saturday to face the Mermaids, followed by a home game at the Icehouse on Sunday against the Horsham Hornets at 12pm.

ON TOP: Mil Lel will look to retain its top position in the Dycer Constructions Big Bash Twenty20 cricket season when play resumes in early January, 2022.

Marshall to return in 2022

AS the 2022 NBL1 basketball season approaches, the Castec Rural Pioneers men continue to add to their roster.

The club this week announced the return of 22-year-old Nick Marshall after a successful debut season with the Pioneers in 2021.

In his first season Marshall played solid minutes in all matches, with an average of 16.61 points per game at a 45.98 per cent success rate from the field, along with six rebounds per game.

Marshall is currently is a contracted development player with the Adelaide 36ers and has had court time in two recent matches.

Pioneers head coach Richard Hill said he was pleased to see Marshall return to the Pioneers.

"Nick's improvement and talent has been recognised by the 36ers with him deservedly being signed as a development player for the 2021-22 season," he said.

"Nick has a great attitude and work ethic and I expect he will continue to improve and provide us with size, versatility and high-level talent on the wing."

The Castec Rural Pioneers and the OneFortyOne Pioneers women will commence their 2022 NBL1 South campaigns in April 2022.

RETURNING: Nick Marshall will be back in action for the Pioneers in the 2022 NBL1 season.

AS cricket in the region heads to a Christmas break, Mil Lel sits atop the ladder in the Dycer Constructions Big Bash Twenty20 competition.

With two rounds completed Mil Lel leads West Gambier and Penola, all with two wins, while East Gambier rounds out the top four.

Mil Lel kicked off its season with a win over Millicent, which went right down to the wire.

Mil Lel put on 113 runs from its 20 overs, with Millicent managing 108 in a tight finish.

In Round 2, half-centuries to William Rowland and Josh Smith saw Mil Lel post 135 runs against South Gambier.

South was unable to match that, bowled out in the 18th over for just 93.

West Gambier's opening round saw a comfortable victory over Gambier Central.

Central was bowled out for just 63 runs in the 17th over and it took just seven overs and one wicket for West to reach the required target.

In the second round West made short work of North Sportsman's, bowling the Tigers out for 83 in the final over.

In response the Roos reached the target in the 15th over for the loss of five wickets.

The remaining undefeated side Penola claimed its first win of the season against South, with the latter reaching a defendable 148 runs on the back of a half-century to Daniel Loupos.

His quick-fire 62 runs of just 46 deliveries ensured Penola would have to dig deep to secure the win.

The Eagles were up to the task, with a half-century to opener Mark Smith setting the chase up and they cruised to victory after 18 overs.

Smith's 53 came off 31 balls, while fellow opener Jack Mullan smashed five boundaries and three sixes to finish with 45 runs from 28 balls.

In Round 2 Penola needed to pull out all stops against Millicent to secure the win.

Chasing 138 for victory, Penola reached that in the final over, with Michael Waters strong in the middle order with 42 runs.

East and North sit in fourth and fifth respectively and with one minor round to play in the new year, they will need flawless performances to ensure a finals berth.

Round 3 kicks off on January 13, 2022, with West and Penola to go head-to-head at Frew Park in what should be the match of the round.

However, the clash between East and West will provide plenty of entertainment over at Scott Park.

Disrupted but still on track

TREVOR JACKSON

A CHANGE of date for the upcoming Triple Crown event, which includes the Borderline Speedway, was this week announced.

The Triple Crown features the SA Speedcar Title, Wingless Sprints Summer Slam and Formula 500 Dash for Cash series at the Borderline Speedway, Simpson Speedway and Premier Speedway.

The Borderline Speedway was set to host night two of the series on Saturday, January 8, which has now been changed to Friday, January 7.

The event will then head to Simpson on the Saturday night, culminating at Premier Speedway on Sunday night.

With uncertain border restrictions still affecting cross-border activity to some extent, the decision was made to ensure teams could compete at all three events without the need to isolate, should the restrictions be increased in the near future.

Borderline Speedway president Cary Jennings said a similar change was implemented last season with a positive outcome.

"We had it last year and ran on the Friday instead of Saturday and it worked out all right," he said.

"Because of the border restrictions the Wingless Sprints asked to look at changing it again, so after many discussions we did try to help those Victorians."

Likewise Jennings said he is hopeful the border restrictions will not disrupt the upcoming Sprintcar Speedweek, with the Borderline Speedway leg to be held on December 28.

"We hope the border stays open and those Sprintcar drivers can get here," he said.

The disruptions have also taken a toll at the national level, with the Australian Sprintcar Championship, which was to be held at the Perth Motorplex in February 2022, postponed.

The ongoing border restrictions and uncertainty for competitors and spectators to travel were the major mitigating factors in the decision.

The next Australian Championship will now be held at the same venue but in 2023.

ON TRACK: Changes have been made the Borderline speedway January Triple Crown meeting, now on a Friday night, rather than Saturday.

Wingless Sprints put on a power show

AFTER an action-packed night of racing at the Borderline Speedway, Tyson Martin was crowned SA Wingless Sprint champion.

Martin greeted the chequered flag first in the A Main feature ahead of Joel Chadwick and Jack McCarthy.

While not a Limestone Coast driver, Martin certainly has ties to the region, with his mother a Gartner and his father a former Street Stock racer, which provided plenty of excitement for family and friends.

Best of the Limestone Coast drivers was Mitchell Broome with fifth place after amassing the second-highest points score throughout the heats with some consistent efforts.

That put him in second on the grid for the A Main but an early mistake saw him drop a few spots before again moving forward.

However, a serious accident delayed proceedings after just five laps were completed.

Jake Ashworth was involved in a roll-over which triggered a multi-car accident.

It included Mount Gambier's Rory Button, who, along with William Caruso was unable to continue, while Mount Gambier's Kirby Hillyer discovered a flat front tyre during the break, which forced him to the back of the grid for the restart.

The accident pushed the event close to an hour behind schedule but thoughts were with Ashworth who was taken to hospital and released on Monday.

Throughout the night there were plenty of action-packed heats, with the local drivers on the pace but unable to score a heat victory, while the eventual podium finishers set their respective runs up early.

Martin began his night well with a win in the opening heat, ahead of Jake Ashworth and Luke Storer.

In Heat 2 Daniel Storer crossed the line first ahead of Broome and McCarthy.

Down to Heat 4 and Button was on the pace, second behind Brett Ireland and ahead of Caleb Evans.

Broome was again the bridesmaid in Heat 6, second behind Evans, while Hillyer popped up in third place in Heat 7.

Broome finished second in Heat 10, while Hillyer scored another third place in Heat 11.

Time for summer break

TREVOR JACKSON
trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

THE final round of Barber Shield cricket before the Christmas break was completed on Saturday, with Penola, Mil Lel and North Sportsman's all claiming first-innings victories.

EAST GAMBIER v NORTH SPORTSMAN'S

In what turned out to be the match of the round, East Gambier succumbed to North Sportsman's at Scott Park.

Chasing a target of 212 for victory, East was off to a solid start with a half-century opening stand.

Leigh Von Duve and Kevin Thomson appeared comfortable at the crease, picking off the loose balls and steadily building a handy foundation.

Von Duve was first to go, lbw to Elliott Fisher with the total at 62.

Thomson was joined by Steven Cameron and the pair immediately settled in for the long haul.

Thomson was next to go with a steady 55 off 176 deliveries, but the incoming Dion Stratford could only offer 10 runs to the cause, bowled by Isaac Mulraney.

With a strong foundation laid, East was in the box seat, but from there it all went pear-shaped.

Emerson Marks was the only other Bulldog to reach double figures with his 11 runs as an East victory looked more doubtful with each passing over.

In the end the Bulldogs were all out in the final over just eight runs short of the first-innings points.

JOB TO DO: Nick Walters held up his well during Saturday's round of Barber Shield cricket.

PENOLA v WEST GAMBIER

Up at McCorquindale Park, Penola was simply too strong for West Gambier, with a solid victory on the back of a strong first-innings score.

With the bat Penola set West a target of 246 for victory, but the visitors were never in the hunt.

Wickets tumbled with regularity, with no West batsman passing 23 runs.

With just nine runs on the board Jack Geddes was back on the sideline for just one run, while the incoming Alex Hill could only muster two.

Five runs later opener Justin DeJong was bowled by Lachy Jones for 16 and the run chase was on shaky ground.

Jake Blackwell hung around for 42 balls for his 12 runs, but Sam Willis could only offer five from 29 deliveries.

From there Sam Coxon dug in with captain Richard Crute but after a partnership yielding 27 runs, Crute was out for 22.

Coxon went onto reach West's highest total with 23 to his name off a steady 104 balls.

SOUTH GAMBIER v MIL LEL

South Gambier almost pulled off a victory over Mil Lel at Blue Lake Sports Park, but four batsmen ensured the visitors reached the required target with relative ease in the end.

South was defending just 146 runs from the opening day and needed wickets fast.

That came in the form of Josh Smith, who was dismissed for just seven runs with the total at 12.

The incoming Carey Megaw was run out for six, but stayed at the crease long enough to allow opener William Rowland to find a few quick runs, with the team total then at 37.

Todd Carpenter came and went for just one, while Rowland eventually fell just shy of his half-century with 46.

When Darcy Williamson departed just five runs later, at 5/69 Mil Lel looked anything but confident.

Nick Walters and Craig Lock pushed the score along, with a timely 47-run partnership which turned the game around.

Walters departed for 17 but his work holding up and end and rotating the strike had Mil Lel up and about, with a chance of victory now in sight.

Henry Smith joined Lock in the middle and the runs continued to flow, as the pair reached the target and compiled a 48-run partnership and the victory.

Smith eventually succumbed for 32, while Lock reached his half-century with 50 runs to his name.

Jakob Opie was best with the ball for South with figures of 3/50 off 21 overs.

The Barber Shield will now have a short break, with play to return on January 8, 2022 with a one-day fixture.

Award a surprise

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

YOUNG Mount Gambier athlete Tess Wight has received a prestigious award following an extensive career in cycling.

At just 17-years-old Wight received the Governor of South Australia Commendation 2021 award due to her ongoing cycling and sporting achievements combined with her SACE achievements.

Wight said she was told about the nomination, stating it was a surprise to her then, let alone being a recipient.

"To receive the offer in general I was speechless because I don't study or do sport to achieve these types of nominations," Wight said.

"Receiving the award was a nice reward for my achievements and I did not expect it at all."

Wight said she took a break from cycling throughout the year to focus on completing high school, yet was still happy with her past achievements.
