HAVE ELECTRIC CAR - WILL GO PLACES: Mount Gambier resident, Brett Mashado powers his Nissan Leaf car from an adaptor plugged into a normal household power outlet in his garage.

"It will be great for tourism," said Mount Gambier electric car owner, Brett Mashado in reaction to news that Mount Gambier will be among several Limestone Coast towns to receive new electric vehicle (EV) charging stations as part of a $12m project funded by the State Government.

Four new charging stations will be installed in Mount Gambier along with two in Beachport, four in Robe, three in Naracoorte, three in Kingston and one new station in both Bordertown and Keith.

These Limestone Coast towns will be among 140 sites across 52 rural, regional and metropolitan locations to receive a total of 536 new EV charging stations throughout the State with three quarters of the new charge points to be located in regional South Australia.

The proud owner of a 2015 Nissan Leaf electric car, Mr Mashado said while the new charging stations would not affect him, as he charges his car at home, he can see it being a boon for tourism in the regions.

"It may attract people from the capital cities with electric cars to say 'let's go exploring the regions,'" he said explaining that many people with EV's experience 'range anxiety' due to the current paucity of charging stations posing the risk that EV drivers may be stranded with a flat battery if they venture too far from their known charging points.

Health vs freedom

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

THE State's leading health organisation has said Covid-19 boosters were about health and not freedom after a regional MP stated there was a "vaccination fatigue".

Member for MacKillop Nick McBride adressed mayors from across the region last week, stating residents were deterred from receiving their third Covid shot due to a "lack of benefits".

"If you are double vaccinated and you are a close contact it lands you a seven day isolation and ten days if you get the virus and people are questioning why they need another jab in the arm if nothing changes," Mr McBride said.

He said people were looking forward to "getting out of" the pandemic as quickly as possible and encouraged Premier Steven Marshall to act as fast as possible.

"The rules may change and we may need a third jab to get into an airplane or an event but people are really looking to get out of this as fast as we can and I am hoping to encourage the Premier to move as fast as he possibly can to make that happen.

"People are questioning why they should get another vaccination if nothing is going to change."

State Australian Medical Association vice president John Williams told The Border Watch there was evidence of vaccination fatigue with residents tired of needing extra Covid boosters.

"I do hear that people have continued to do the right thing such as get their boosters, wear masks and check in where necessary but are now looking to get on with life," Mr Williams said.

"I feel the same myself and it would be great if we could just get on with life but the reality is that we can't and we can't ignore the risk of the Omicron variant."

Mr Williams said booster vaccinations were not about a matter of freedom but more about maintaining the functionality of the health system.

"Receiving a booster shot is about health and safety and people feel more free when they feel safe," he said.

"We know the medical advice is solid and people feel safer when they follow the medical advice."

"We have the freedom because we have a great health system and advice in the first place."

Mr Williams said the uptake of booster shots had been a bit slow but further encouraged South Australians to receive their third dose.

"The evidence shows it is far safer to have a third shot and we greatly know it improves things, especially for those who have AstraZeneca and a Pfizer booster," he said.

BOOSTERS FOR HEALTH NOT FREEDOM: Australian Medical Association SA vice president John Williams says the third Covid-19 jab improves health outcomes and should not be about freedom.

"South Australia has done so well and that is because of our great health care system and advice that has been given as well as the government that has followed that advice."

Future of servos questioned

AMPOL Millicent Pines service station may be closed, demolished, and sold if a development application goes to plan, despite other sites in the region waiting far longer.

The application, lodged on January 20, is requesting the decommissioning and demolition of all buildings on 218 and 220 Mount Gambier Road, Millicent, which includes the petrol station.

The company confirmed the plans this week.

“Subject to approval of the development application, the Ampol site at 220 Mount Gambier Road, Millicent, will undergo demolition and remediation works to prepare the land for sale,” a company spokesperson said.

The site is listed on the Environmental Protection Act (EPA) contamination index, for storage of listed substances.

“Pending approval of the development application, the demolition will include the removal of all infrastructure, and the remediation works will address the contaminated soil,” the Ampol spokesperson said.

“It is expected that the works will be completed in the next 12 months.”

Meanwhile, other sites in the region have been sitting closed and dormant for months.

An Ampol spokesperson confirmed that sites at Church Street in Penola and Commercial Street West and East in Mount Gambier would begin demolition and remediation works in the next 12 months but did not clarify how works were being prioritised.

Member for Mount Gambier Troy Bell said he is hopeful a different arrangement could be made to fix the “eye sore” the empty lots cause in Mount Gambier.

“These are prime locations in our town, and people’s first impressions are of an overgrown disused site,” Mr Bell said.

EYE SORE: Mount Gambier MP Troy Bell believes the disused service stations could be used by the community before they are demolished.

“There are weeds, they are fenced up, it is really a poor representation of our community.

“I am trying to work through what can be done in terms of working with Ampol or Caltex regarding these sites...one thought I had was a partnership with the Mount Gambier City Council.

“If the sites were opened up so they could be used for parking, or as electric car charging stations, Council’s contribution would be to help maintain the site until they are decommissioned.”

Ampol is not under any obligation to make use of the sites.

“I guess their motivation is different to ours,” he said.

“Ours is to ensure that our main street is a vibrant active place, and the owners of those sites, their motivation could be to develop it, or get the best price they can for it, but there may not be a concern around timelines.”

Mr Bell confirmed he is yet to have direct discussions with Ampol on the matter.

ELECTRIC VEHICLE CHARGING TOWNS: This RAA map shows where new electric vehicle charging points are to be installed in the Limestone Coast as part of a $12m State Government funded project.

Plans for EV charging points

With the new network to have no more than 250kms between charging points, this removes that ‘range anxiety’ for many EV owners.

“I can’t think of any negatives for having this new charging infrastructure,” Mr Mashado said.

“It’s much better than SA Power networks putting up more power poles and it encourages more people to buy an electric car.

“We bought this [their Nissan Leaf] so we were not dirtying the air; that was the aim,” he said adding that he and his wife Gilda had purchased the car second hand about a year ago and had clocked up 8,000kms doing around town errands including picking up their children from school.

“At school pick up, I sit in the line up with 60 or so cars all running, including four wheel drives with diesel pouring out their exhausts,” Mr Mashado said.

“Nothing is coming out of our car, not even noise; the noisiest thing is the air conditioner.”

As Mr Mashado has solar panels installed at his home, he plugs his car into a normal household power point in his garage and charges the car during the day using solar power ensuring the vehicle is completely sustainably powered.

“I haven’t spent anything on it, not fuel, nothing,” he said calculating that he would have saved about $1000 already in petrol costs.

“About 95 per cent of the time, we use this

[the Nissan Leaf] and while we use a normal car for longer drives currently, I would definitely look at another electric car in the future; I wouldn’t go back to a petrol car.”

Installation and operation of the new charging stations - the first Statewide rapid EV charging network in Australia - will be undertaken by South Australian motorists association, the RAA, after it was awarded the $12.4 million State Government grant.

The RAA said the exact locations of the sites for charging points were yet to be confirmed but would include shopping centre car parks, holiday accommodation, hotels, camping grounds and on highway rest stops.

Construction of the network is expected to begin in the middle of this year and take two years to complete.

Support luncheon cancelled

MAJOR regional fundraising event, the Limestone Coast Support Homeless People Luncheon, has been cancelled for this year after continual postponements since 2020 due to Covid-19 restrictions.

Event committee chairman Barry Stafford said ongoing restrictions meant proceeding on the rescheduled date of April 8 this year was not practical due to uncertainties regarding venue capacity, interstate travel and potential isolation for participants if someone attended and later tested positive to Covid-19.

"The impact of the Omicron Covid-19 variant, including continued restrictions on trade and hospitality venues, has forced our hand," he said.

"This would have been the fifth time we would have had to postpone the luncheon and it is with greater disappointment that we have instead decided to not schedule a new date and instead cancel for 2022.

"This is sad not only for the committee, regular sponsors and guests, but for ac.care, which relied on the fundraising to support the organisation's local services to individuals and families experiencing or at risk of homelessness."

Luncheon ticketholders will be contacted by the committee and offered refunds.

MP supports pledge

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

LIBERAL Member for MacKillop Nick McBride has welcomed the Labor Party's pledge of a $52.7m funding package for Limestone Coast health.

Announced during a recent whirlwind visit to the region by Leader of the Opposition, Peter Malinauskas, the pledge includes $9.75m for a seven-year funding agreement with the Keith and District Hospital and $8m to upgrade the Naracoorte Hospital, both of which are in Mr McBride's electorate.

Speaking last Friday at a Limestone Coast Local Government Association meeting in Mount Gambier, the local MP said Labor's funding pledge covered some "very important areas".

"I welcome the Labor Party's announcement and encourage my government to match the funding prior to the March election," Mr McBride said.

"I wasn't going to run around and say 'don't spend money' on the Limestone Coast.

"I would like to see more money spent on regional health and the likes of our hospitals and service upgrades, particularly palliative care."

Mr McBride also spoke on hospital ramping and the outcome of recent submissions on the issue.

"What is really fascinating coming out of the submissions is the bottleneck beyond the emergency department and there being no way for patients to move beyond the emergency department," he said.

"What is also really interesting is the ambulance association recognised 20,000 shifts of overtime per annum and they are saying there are not enough people.

"If you are in business and paying penalty rates and double time, you are actually spending more money than employing more people to do the job."

MACKILLOP MP NICK MCBRIDE: Wants his Government to match Labor's health funding pledge for the Limestone Coast.

He said the money was there but the problem was not being solved and it was also a matter of looking at who is responsible for patients moving through the emergency department whether it be the State or Federal government to fund the beds.

Minister for Health Stephen Wade has previously been reported as saying the Opposition's health funding announcement was "nothing but spin".

"In fact this represents less than half of what the Liberal Government is already investing in capital works alone," Mr Wade said.

"You only need to look back at recent history to see which party was delivering more for regions.

"We are outspending Labor on regional health five to one and the Liberal Government has already committed more than $200m to regional health infrastructure."

Covid voting

SOUTH Australians in isolation will be able to collect voting papers for the upcoming State election at Covid-19 testing stations or Rapid Antigen collection points.

In a first for the State, 22 PCR testing stations and Rapid Antigen Testing (RAT) collection points locations across South Australia, including in Mount Gambier, Millicent, Naracoorte, Kingston and Bordertown, will double as ballot collection points allowing close contacts and Covid-19 impacted individuals to vote safely.

If South Australians are Covid-positive, a close contact, or have Covid symptoms between Thursday, March 17, and election day on Saturday, March 19, they will be eligible to register online and will be invited to pick up a voting pack at a PCR testing site or RAT collection site.

Under the updated Emergency Management Act, Covid-19 impacted individuals will have permission to leave home to collect their ballot papers and post their completed ballots while still in isolation.

Independent for Mount Gambier Troy Bell last week participated in a sit-in at parliament calling for the Premier to reinstate parliament, in order to pass a proposed Electoral (Assisted Voting) Bill 2022 that would allow South Australians in quarantine on election day to vote over the phone.

Mr Bell said he was relieved that provisions had been made to allow people to vote, but was concerned about the toll forcing ill people out of their homes could have on their health.

"My only concern is those who are in home quarantine but are actually ill, being able to get out and vote," Mr Bell said.

"When in my mind an extension to the telephone voting system, which is used already for the vision-impaired or blind voters, could have been extended.

"It is a solution, but it will come at an expense."

Mr Bell said the planning around voting while living with Covid should have begun earlier.

"I think it is a testament to the independents who raised this issue and sought to get clarity from the Government around it," Mr Bell said.

"Up until last week there was no urgency or no talk on how those who could not do a postal vote were going to vote."

The changes to the electoral voting system have been made through updates to the Emergency Management Act, a move Mr Bell was critical of.

"I am very firm that these decisions should always be made by parliament, and not by a police commissioner under an emergency management act."

"It is a bad precedent to set, and it is one that I do not endorse."

Electoral Commissioner, Mick Sherry, said the Electoral Commission has worked in consultation with SA Health, SA Pathology, SAFE-COM and SA Police to come up with the solution.

"We have every confidence that South Australians can vote safely in the 2022 State election," Mr Sherry said.

"Allowing PCR and RAT sites to double as voting pack collection points will allow South Australians who are in isolation or have Covid-19 the opportunity to safely cast their vote this State election," he said.

Voters being allowed to leave isolation to collect and post their ballot papers so they can exercise their right to vote will be part of the approved directions.

WHAT TROUBLE: A young wallaby was found stuck in a fence at the Blue Lake Pumping Station with wildlife carers having to call in the Metropolitan Fire Service. Picture: SUPPLIED

The grass is always greener

CHARLOTTE VARCOE
charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Metropolitan Fire Services (MFS) was called to the Blue Lake Pumping Station to free a trapped wallaby recently.

The young wallaby found herself stuck between two bars after trying to flee the area with concerned members of the community calling local wildlife rescuers to the scene.

Mount Gambier wildlife carer, Julia Dangerfield tried to free the animal herself, yet soon realised it was a job outside her capabilities.

"I ended up having to get the MFS to come down and free the wallaby from the bars," Ms Dangerfield said.

"What had happened was the wallaby may have been spooked and tried to escape through the bars before getting stuck."

Ms Dangerfield said a wallaby's rib cage was able to compress to fit through tight places, but when they squeeze past, their rib cage often expands again and the animal becomes stuck between their ribs and pelvis.

"When we called the MFS we were hoping they would be able to bend the bars enough so we could get the wallaby out," she said.

"It was quite funny because when the MFS workers went to go get their tools, someone stayed behind to try and bend the bars which ended up snapping."

The wallaby was soon freed and checked by vets with the only injuries being slight bruising on the abdomen.

"Often we find wallabies stuck in farming fencing or residential fencing and it usually happens because they are spooked by a dog or something similar," Ms Dangerfield said.

"This was the first time I had ever been called to a wallaby getting stuck in the fence at the pumping station."

"But it seems to always be the wallabies that end up in this sort of trouble."

Students filling classrooms

ELSIE ADAMO
elsie.adamo@tbwtoday.com.au

STUDENTS in the Limestone Coast have returned to school this week, after many were required to undertake remote learning since the term started.

Pre-school, Reception and Years 7, 8 and 12 have been in school for two weeks, with all other levels returning to the physical classroom this week.

Limestone Coast education director Adam Box said the adjustment this week back to in-school classes went as expected.

“The transition to full schooling seems to have gone really well so far,” Mr Box said.

“I think it is important that the community and parents know that the schools and kindergartens are doing as much as they possibly can to follow the guidelines set by SA Health and the Education Department.

“At all times they are trying to minimise any Covid-19 issues.

“Their number one job is to teach kids, so that is where their priority is, but at the same time they are working extra hard to be vigilant around Covid processes.”

Mr Box said the Limestone Coast education team has been actively working to ensure enough substitute teachers are available for any staff shortages due to positive cases or close contact status.

“It has been a focus of ours, making sure we are accessing enough relief staff to work with schools,” Mr Box said.

“So far we have been successful in being able to manage, but we will be monitoring the situation over the next couple of weeks.”

Limestone Coast Local Health Network (LCLHN) executive director of medical services, Dr Elaine Pretorius, said last week a small spike in Covid-19 cases is possible.

“There might be a bit of an uptick [in Covid cases] when children come back to school, and we have seen some infections in schools,” Ms Pretorius said.

“But hopefully we will be able to keep it at the current rates.”

BACK TO CLASS: Limestone Coast education director Adam Box has been pleased with the transition back to in-class education.

City council opening up Lakes area for public in planned stages

THE Mount Gambier council opened Davison Drive, the Valley Lake Conservation Park, playground and picnic areas and Freemans Landing for public use after a fire that burned 50 hectares of grass and scrub in the Crater Lakes precinct last month.

Assessment continues and other areas of the precinct will be reopened to the public once they are deemed safe.

The Valley Lake itself is closed for recreational use until further notice.

Recreational activities are not permitted on the Valley Lake as ongoing water quality assessment continues.

Council estimated about 400,000 litres of water was removed from the Valley Lake as a result of firefighting efforts, reducing the level of the lake by about 120mm.

The lake will be reopened for activities once assessments are complete.

An arborist and engineers will continue to undertake additional assessment work in the area surrounding Brownes Lake and Centenary Tower in the coming weeks.

“Brownes Lake, Centenary Tower and the pines area are expected to remain closed for some time and Council will assess these areas when it is safe to do so,” council chief executive Sarah Philpott said.

“There are currently safety issues and considerations regarding the stability of the slope at Haig Drive.

“The fire destroyed vegetation and erosion is already occurring which means that landslides could happen on the slope during a wet weather event.

“Council will engage a geotechnical consultant to provide a stability assessment in the area.”

Are safe seats good for voters?

WITH both a State and Federal election on the horizon public attention will begin to turn to politics, with politicians vying for attention and votes.

But does being in a ‘safe seat’ electorate change how a region may be treated?

Clement Macintyre, Emeritus Professor in the department of politics and international relations at Adelaide University, says that it does.

Safe seats are defined as a parliamentary seat that has traditionally been retained with a large majority in elections, and Mr Macintyre says we have two in the Limestone Coast.

The State electorate of MacKillop, and the Federal seat of Barker can both be considered safe seats according to Mr Macintyre, while Mount Gambier, which was once also a Liberal stronghold, has become a conservative leaning seat that can swing between independents and Liberal.

“MacKillop is a rock-solid Liberal seat,” he said.

“For the last 50 years Mount Gambier has been a reasonably safe Liberal seat, but it has a recent tradition of returning independent members.”

Mr Macintyre said that safe seats generally do not demand the same level of attention in an election fight as marginal or swinging seats.

“The parties tend to go into an election thinking which ones we do not have to worry about, in other words what are we certainly going to win, and what are we certainly going to lose,” he said.

“They are less likely to show up with a big loud announcement and election promises to try and win over the wavering voters in a safe seat.

“Normally a seat like Mount Gambier and MacKillop at a State level, or Barker at a Federal, would have very few resources spent on it.”

In practice this could mean more resources promised for a seat such as Mount Gambier that has the potential to return an independent.

“The Liberal party can be confident that a Labor candidate is not going to win that seat,” Mr Macintyre said.

“They would obviously prefer to win it

LIVING IN A SAFE SEAT: Emeritus Professor and South Australian politics expert Clement Macintyre said safe seats are more likely to occur in regional areas.

themselves then have an independent as independents are unpredictable, and do not always support the legislation that you want.”

Mr Macintyre is predicting that the South Australian election will be close, perhaps close enough that neither major party wins a majority, putting significant power into the hands of independents.

“Just as we saw in 2002 and 2004 it will mean the independents suddenly become critical to the formation of a government,” he said.

“Then suddenly Mount Gambier, if it returns an independent, could become of great interest to the major parties.”

“If you imagine a scenario with 23 Liberal members, 23 Labor members, and Troy Bell, you can imagine both leaders in Peter Malinauskas and Steven Marshall would be knocking on Troy Bell’s door and talking about what they could possibly do for Mount Gambier to convince him to support their side of politics.”

AGILE: Trained by Karen Brooksby, Bella showed off her skills at an agility display in Mount Gambier last weekend.

Dog skills on display

ELSIE ADAMO
elsie.adamo@tbwtoday.com.au

AGILITY skills were on display last weekend as local dogs and their owners showcased their obedience abilities at Mount Gambier's markets last Sunday.

The dogs with KAZ Agility Team attended the markets at the Cave Gardens after weeks and months of hard work preparing.

Team leader Karen Brooksby said she hoped the community enjoyed watching the demonstrations.

"It was the first time we had showcased dogs in the Cave Gardens with agility, tricks and obedience work," Ms Brooksby said.

"It was a fantastic day; the crowd was great clapping and cheering as the dogs ran the course."
"While some of the high-achieving dogs in the group do compete, mostly the members are there to have some fun and learn some training skills."
"They are regular people with pets," Ms Brooksby said.
"People mostly do it to have some fun with their dogs, and that is the idea, to try and help educate people to undertake some activities that enhance the development of their pet."
The agility training is undertaken by the dogs and owners in eight-week blocks. Ms Brooksby said she hoped the show would lead dog owners to consider further training with their dogs, whether it was with them or one of the other trainers or clubs in Mount Gambier.

"The showcase was trying to show people what is out there, and encourage them to try it out," she said.
"There are so many great dog trainers in Mount Gambier."
"Dogs are very clever; they are looking for more otherwise they will start to get up to trouble in the backyard."
"Sometimes 15 minutes of training can be just as good for a dog as a walk."

Tuk Tuk looking for home

CURRENTLY living at Moorak, Tuk-tuk the Rhode Island Red is looking for a new human to adopt her and provide her a 'forever home'.

The chook's current human, Karen Bracken is keen for the friendly bird to find a home without dogs, children, or other chickens as she is used to having only adult people as her companions.

"Really, she is more human than avian," said Ms Bracken.

"House trained, affectionate, intelligent, tolerant, responsive, craving human company, she charges out from the undergrowth to greet you as you leave the house."

"Tuk Tuk, which is the name she repeats over and over again, is able to pay her own way producing one large egg per day."

"As chooks do, she loves to accompany us around the garden landscaping in her own enthusiastic way."

"Although we love her to bits as she entertains and amuses us, we just do not have the scraps for her and are buying her corn and lettuce to supplement her mash."

City's iconic landmarks to receive dual naming

CHARLOTTE VARCOE
charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Cave Gardens will be one of six iconic local landmarks to receive dual naming in line with traditional language.

Part of an ongoing project between Mount Gambier City Council, the Bunganditj Language Reclamation Committee and Burrendies Aboriginal Corporation, the ongoing project plans to revitalise the traditional language of the Boandik peoples.

The Bunganditj language - which is the traditional language of the Boandik peoples - will be used to provide a dual name for Umpherston Sinkhole, Leg of Mutton Lake, Brownes Lake, Valley Lake and the Blue Lake with both the traditional and the European place names to be used on signage.

Following the decision made by council this week, the Umpherston Sinkhole will also have the Bunganditj name of Balumbul which means buttercup flower.

DUAL NAMING: Boandik elder Aunty Michelle Jaquelin-Furr is excited about the traditional naming of six Mount Gambier landmarks.

The Cave Garden will have Thugi which means bullfrogs.
The Leg of Mutton Lake will also be known as Yatton Loo, the Blue Lake will also be WarWar which means crow country, Brownes Lake will have the dual name of Kroweratwari which means emu tracks while the Valley Lake will have Ketla Malpi which means sacred talking tree.

Language Reclamation Committee member and Boandik elder Aunty Michelle Jaquelin-Furr said the dual naming of the areas was a positive step towards reconciliation.
"This project has been going on for a while but we have been talking about it for much longer than that," Aunty Michelle said.
"It only came into fruition last year when the council said they really wanted to get it up and running."
"We worked out what the names were for specific and important cultural areas and worked from there."
Aunty Michelle said the project allowed reclamation of the traditional language with other Boandik elders hoping the community would accept the dual naming process.
"It is important for the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people living here because it gives us a sense of pride in knowing that we are being recognised here and the language is being used," she said.

"The project tells us that we are being respected and hopefully the European names will be the secondary names and people will just use the Bunganditj names."
Labelling the project as an "important step forward" Aunty Michelle said the next dual naming she would like to see was the traditional name for Mount Gambier, Berrin, on welcome signs outside the township.
"As we travel around Australia and go to other areas we see these languages being used and it is nice to think that may be the future here as well," she said.
"This project is important for respect for the Aboriginal people here in Mount Gambier and is the beginning of our healing journey; to see the language revived and being used is really significant in the healing process."
Council's Dual Naming Policy also includes acknowledgement, celebration and preservation of cultural practices, traditional sites and significant places.

Fire at Jens

FIREFIGHTERS rushed to Jens Hotel last Friday afternoon responding to a fire that is now under investigation.

At about 3.30pm on February 11 three fire trucks, two police cars and one ambulance arrived on the scene in response to reports of smoke coming from a room in the hotel.

Firefighters climbed onto the hotel's balcony using ladders, rushing inside to contain the blaze.

Staff and patrons were evacuated and roads were closed as the fire was quickly extinguished however it destroyed an outdoor area and breached the roof space.

The incident caused traffic to be rerouted on a busy Commercial Street East.

No injuries were reported.

"THE fire is being investigated and police are asking if anyone has any information that may assist to please contact Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or online at www.crimestopperssa.com.au - you can remain anonymous," SA police said.

Top toastmaster to compete nationally

CHARLOTTE VARCOE
charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

ANDREA Braun will go onto the national stage of the Table Topic Toastmasters competition after securing first place in the regional contest recently.

Ms Braun first joined the Limestone Coast Toastmasters Club a number of years ago to improve her confidence and make new friends.

When first joining, she never believed she would be competing against others from across the nation.

Ms Braun decided to specialise in table topics - where contestants do not receive their topic of speech until reaching the podium.

"I love the challenge and excitement of not knowing what I am going to talk about and having to think on my feet," Ms Braun said.

"As soon as I get the topic, at first there are a whole range of things that go through my mind, but with the help of the club it has become easier over time."

She said since participating in the club activities her confidence has increased and taught her how to push herself, run a meeting and construct speeches.

"Before joining the club I would never have spoken in public but now I have done memorials and a lot of speeches but I also know how to run a meeting and take on different roles and we can even join the executive committee if we want," Ms Braun said.

"The next stage of the competition will be held over Zoom and I do think it is harder participating online because at least when we compete in person we can observe everyone's reactions easier, but online makes it a bit more impersonal."

When speaking at her award winning contest, Ms Braun's topic was on an activity she enjoyed.

"I spoke about swimming," she said.

"I only learnt how to swim when I was in my late 40s and it came about because my son was learning at the time.

"I asked the teacher if they did adult lessons and she did so I soon learnt a number of swimming skills."

As for the next stage, Ms Braun said she would continue to practice and gain her confidence for the upcoming contest in March.

FIRST PLACE: Andrea Braun will go onto the next stage of the Table Topic Toastmasters competition by competing with others from around Australia.

Training numbers growing

ELSIE ADAMO
elsie.adamo@tbwtoday.com.au

TRAINEES and apprentices are in demand as Group Training Employment (GTE) hits a record number of students in the region.

The company, which provides apprentice and trainee management services to businesses, trains only in the Limestone Coast.

General Manager of GTE Training, Greg Megaw, said the demand is like nothing he has seen in his 20 years at the company.

"The mixture of not a lot of Covid issues, a lot of infrastructure projects, as well as government funding, has made it that we have had record numbers of apprentices and trainees," Mr Megaw said.

"Back in 2010 we got up to around 250 consistently for a 12-month period, and we have consistently been hitting over 300 for the last six to eight months."

Mr Megaw is hopeful that more people in training will be a lift for the region.

"It has been really positive, there have been lots of opportunities for the community," he said.

"We have even had more opportunities than we can fill at times."

While the company supports students across a range of specialties, their traditional focus has been construction which has seen high demand.

"Overall traineeships and apprenticeships have proportionally gone up," Mr Megaw said.

"We have always been strong in construction and that continues to happen, but we are starting to look more into the aged care and some other areas."

The Boosting Apprenticeship Commencements program, which provides wage subsidies for businesses and group training organisations will run out at the end of next month, and Mr Megaw said the business is expecting a bit of a drop off after that.

"Most people that were seriously putting on an apprentice, will probably do it before the end of March," he said.

"Anyone taking on a trainee after that will be paying twice as much as they would pay now."

"I do think that things will decline slightly, unless the government brings out some other form of funding."

Aquifer study to store water underway

CHARLOTTE VARCOE
charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

INVESTIGATIONS will begin into the feasibility of sourcing excess water from the Limestone Coast's drainage network and storing it beneath the ground in the region's aquifer for later use by primary industries.

Announced to regional mayors during a presentation at a Limestone Coast Local Government Association (LCLGA) meeting in Mount Gambier last Friday, a feasibility study into the proposal will be led by the Limestone Coast Landscape Board in partnership with the Primary Producers Sustainable Water Group.

In-line with the Landscape Board's 'Making Every Drop Count' focus, the study will explore the proposal as a potential new way to achieve water security and sustainability in the Limestone Coast.

Project manager Glen Harrington told the LCLGA the study would include an assessment of the region's drainage network, working closely with the South East Water Conservation and Drainage Board, before researching the potential for aquifer storage.

"Most of these drainage networks are dry throughout summer," Mr Harrington said.

"After we look at managing an aquifer

STUDY SUPPORT: Local potato farmer Terry Buckley is in full support of the aquifer storage study taking place.

storage we will start saying we know where the water will be available and know what stakeholders also think about the project and whether it is feasible.

"We know there is not much water flow from interstate but we know that closer to the coast that is where most of the discharge is happening," Mr Harrington said.

"The larger drains in the Lower South East have better drainage each year and better water quality including Bool lagoon."

Mr Harrington said the proposal involves taking surplus water from ground surface - such as storm-water, drainage or local roof runoffs - and pump it underground to aquifers from where it could be extracted at a later date when water is needed; when rainfall is low.

"The methodology has potential; if there is water available take that water and store it underground," Mr Harrington said.

"Everyone in the community I have spoken to says there is so much water flowing out to sea every year and that it is just a waste."

Local potato farmer and a member of the Primary Producers Sustainable Water Group, Terry Buckley said the study would provide an understanding of potential additional water for use in the region.

"This project investigates what resource is available in the drainage network, understanding its quality, quantity, frequency and what can be sustainably harnessed," Mr Buckley said.

"If this study reveals that it is viable to utilise this drainage water to recharge the aquifer, and subsequently if the aquifer proves to be robust enough to allow extra extraction, it could provide significant new water resources for our region."

The feasibility study includes consultation with industry, community and environmental stakeholders.

Workers needed for vintage

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

WINERIES may be calling for city workers to come to the region with international workers difficult to come by as vintage season approaches.

Warmer weather and plenty of rain from last winter has set up Limestone Coast wineries for another good vintage.

Due to international borders remaining closed until February 21, Patrick of Coonawarra director and winemaker Luke Tocaciu said companies may now look to city workers to fill the gaps.

"We have seen this difficulty for the last two years and there have been challenges to get workers from pruners right through to pickers," Mr Tocaciu said.

"Due to the difficulties with international workers at the moment, we do have a mixture of contractors for labor hire for picking and hand picking which has been a challenge.

"We will try and entice some workers from the cities as well and when it gets really busy we are going to try and get some farmers to come and work the tractors for us when they have finished harvesting themselves."

Mr Tocaciu said, despite the difficulties facing the industry, the weather from the previous winter and the continuing warm weather this summer allowed for a great vintage season.

"We have had some interesting weather and some really good rainfall during winter last year which has set us up well for the season," he said.

"The water has stayed in the ground which really lets the vines take off once there is a bit of nice weather around and it is really good for the roots."

Despite a cold spring season delaying flowering, Mr Tocaciu said the quick, warmer weather fixed it up quite nicely.

"For good development of the grapes we need nice, calm and warm weather which happened around the end of November and from there it has been quite warm," he said.

"Vintage is looking a bit lighter than last season but we have similar conditions and the vineyards look really good with crop levels.

"We are looking at less crop than last year but it is still around average which is good.

"Generally if we have a large vintage the year before, the following year is smaller," he said.

"However this year looks nice and consistent."

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

PENOLA firefighters have had a busy summer period so far with volunteers attending 26 callouts since the beginning of December.

Country Fire Service (CFS) volunteers for Penola have attended all major fires and road accidents within the region, including the recent Crater Lakes Fire at Mount Gambier and the Coles fire which burnt around 3,800 hectares.

Penola CFS captain Peter Robinson said they were expecting more callouts throughout the coming months as total fire ban days become more regular.

"The Coles fire was one of our most intense fires we have seen this year so far," Mr Robinson said.

"There were a lot of crews from everywhere including the Adelaide Hills and Victoria as well."

Mr Robinson said the increase in callouts also left the local brigade in need for more volunteers.

He said volunteers were able to help in a range of ways from radio transmission to directing traffic at an accident.

"I have been involved with the CFS for around 20 years and know there is a job here for everybody," Mr Robinson said.

"We also cover a range of other incidents including pet rescue and trees on the road so people are able to assist with that.

"A great example of this was the Coles fire where the first two days were very intense and then it went to volunteers just making sure there was water on everything."

Mr Robinson said following the recent fires across the region, many community members had shown an interest in volunteering.

"Fires always bring people out of the woods and they say they want to volunteer," he said.

"Over the course of time we might only get two out of the five long-term because some people just lose interest, but it is better than nothing."

He said fires such as the recent Crater Lakes fire were the odd occasion where a full community were able to observe the work volunteers put into protecting the area.

CFS CALLOUT: Penola CFS captain Peter Robinson is calling on community members to volunteer for the local brigade after a busy start to the year.

"These fires are a wake up call for a lot of people because they don't think that fires like that can happen in town until its right in their face," he said.

"It also makes them want to help a lot more but when the fires, such as Coles, are more out in the country, it is just the surrounding community who come together."

Volunteers must also undergo a strict police check protocol prior to beginning their work with many jobs volunteers attend having vulnerable people or children involved.

"Volunteering makes a difference in the community to a lot of different people and people respect what we do as well," Mr Robinson said.

"It is very rewarding work."

Those interested in volunteering with the Penola CFS can contact the station on 87372864.

Penola's newcomers group

tyler.redway@tbwtoday.com.au

IN a first for the Penola community, a social group has been established to welcome new residents to the area.

The Friendship Group allows people who have moved to Penola to socialise with other new residents.

Established last year, the group has proven successful with a number of newly settled residents meeting monthly.

A new resident to the town and member of the group, Peter Dinmore said he settled in Penola from Goolwa due to the town's lifestyle.

"I decided it was time to move and I have always liked Penola, it's a nice little town," Mr Dinmore said.

"When you come to a new town it is difficult, but when you're in a small town you cannot do much but make friends with people."

The newly settled community member was invited to the gatherings after he attended an event in town and soon found himself enjoying the socialisation.

Mr Dinmore said the group mostly consisted of older people who have retired to Penola to enjoy its laid-back lifestyle.

"I think the youngest person in the group would have been in their 50s while the rest of us are in our 70s," he said.

"We meet for barbecues, at wineries and other venues for meals and it's great to meet new people.

"There is nothing formal about it, nobody is formally invited, so the call is put out and anyone is free to join."

People from across the country have been known to join the group for social outings and some people to choose to stay with the group for the long-term or some only for a specific event.

"I didn't know much about the town, I just arrived and I decided to give it a go and see where it led me," Mr Dinmore said.

Planning tomorrow's towns

A DRAFT Strategic Land Use Plan, aimed in part at addressing shortages in residential and industrial land in the Wattle Range Council area, has been released for public comment.

Released at Council's meeting last week, the plan details a 25 year vision for the use of land in and around all the towns in the council area.

As part of the $110,000 project, the draft plan was compiled for council by Adelaide consultants Holmes Dyer.

Council's Director of Development Services, Emma Clay told the council meeting that the plan had been prompted by the need to find suitable residential and industrial land along with a transition to a new planning code.

"The 25 year plan is about how we grow and where we grow," said Ms Clay.

"This report details the pros and cons for sprawling as opposed to intense development - would we rather see the urban areas intensified or allow them to spread with possible impact on farming land."

In a report tabled at the council meeting with the draft plan, Ms Clay said: "In recent years, the demand for housing has steadily increased across the Wattle Range region, particularly in the main service centre of Millicent as well as the townships of Penola and Beachport.

"Demand, coupled with inappropriate zoning that restricts the supply of housing, has resulted in scarcity of suitable residential land.

"Council is also under pressure to facilitate the provision of suitably located land for industrial uses in both Beachport and Southend.

"Without a coherent strategy, growth of townships and settlements in the council area has been haphazard and fragmented.

"The transition from the Development Act 1993 to the Planning, Development and Infrastructure Act 2016 has also resulted in some zoning anomalies within our region.

"Council now faces several challenges including interface issues; inadequate power, water, and general infrastructure; unequal access to services as well as emerging environmental risks from flood inundation, rising sea levels, coastal erosion and bushfire.

"The plan will provide a 25-year strategic roadmap for land use planning with integrated consideration of infrastructure, servicing, community facilities, transport and all other factors which go into making liveable and thriving communities.

"The plan will also be used to initiate future amendments to the Planning and Design Codes which may include zone changes in some areas."

In September last year, the consultants began the process of putting the plan together by spending three days touring the area, meeting with council staff and holding an elected member information gathering workshop.

The consultants also interviewed key stakeholders.

A further workshop with councillors was held in December.

Ms Clay told the council meeting that the report produced thus far would become the basis of community consultation for the plan.

"The community will be consulted on thoroughly with two rounds of consultation," she said.

The consultants will conduct these consultation sessions with feedback incorporated into the plan which will then be re-released for public comment prior to its adoption.

The first round of community consultation sessions is expected to be held soon

Exceptional volunteers recognised for service

TWO Millicent men were recognised for their exceptional volunteer service to the Royal Flying Doctor Service (RFDS) recently.

At a function at Millicent's Somerset Hotel late last year, John Chalmers and John Clarke were recognised with Meritorious Service Awards.

Mr Clarke's award was awarded posthumously having passed away in late 2020.

The awards were recorded in the RFDS summer edition of its newsletter. The newsletter recorded that John Chalmers had joined the RFDS in 1997, was an inaugural member of the Millicent and District RFDS Support Group.

Mr Chalmers had been President of the volunteer group for 14 years until his retirement from the role in 2020.

"Instrumental in organising many major fundraisers for the group such as bowling and golf days, wood raffles, open gardens and trivia nights, Chalmers has been at the forefront of the group from its first days, ably assisting with raising over $460,000 over the last 25 years," the RFDS newsletter said. "It was also rare to attend an RFDS Millicent event without seeing the late John Clarke carrying out multiple jobs and helping with coordination on the day.

"After joining the Group in 2008, Clarke assumed the role of Treasurer the following year, a position he held for the next decade.

"Among many contributions, Clarke put a great deal of time and effort into expanding the Donation Tin program, making it an important source of revenue for the group.

"Clarke truly was a dedicated RFDS volunteer who is greatly missed by all."

Burr trees cut down

TREE removal, scheduled as part of the Wattle Range Council undertaking upgrades to service roads 2 and 4 in Mount Burr, began last week.

After consultation with the Mount Burr community, the trees removed will be limited to only those essential to allow the service road upgrades to go ahead.

Groups encouraged to apply for grants

COMMUNITY and sporting groups are encouraged to apply for grant funds in a third round of Wattle Range Council's financial assistance program.

The decision was made at the January meeting of council, at which elected members awarded more than $11,000 to eight organisations across the district from the second round of the funding program.

Successful second round applicants included:

- South Eastern Fishermen's Association - $1,517.50 for the purchase of a defibrillator to be installed at the Beachport boatyard;
- Nangwarry Museum & Community Hall Inc. - $2,000 to install a new air-conditioning unit;
- Mount Burr Trails Inc. - $616.50 for trail signage, promotional materials and seating;
- Penola PA & H Society - $828 to purchase umbrellas for outdoor tables;
- Beachport Surf Life Saving - $1,900 to install a cover over existing storage containers;

- Rivoli Bay Sailing Club - $1,600 to paint clubrooms;
- Millicent Croquet Club - $1,235 to erect a shelter; and
- Penola Amateur Swim Club - $2,000 to purchase new lane ropes.

Following consideration of these applications it was noted that funds of $32,000 remained uncommitted and Council resolved to offer a third round of financial assistance grants to Wattle Range community and sporting groups. Funds are available on a dollar-for-dollar basis up to $2,000 and Mayor Des Noll said council supports applications for all sorts of projects, from minor equipment purchases, right up to larger infrastructure installations or event support. "Now is the time to put your hand out and seek some much-needed assistance in ensuring your club is getting the support it needs," he said.

Applications for this additional round of funding close on February 28.

EDITOR'S COMMENT

CREDIT where credit is due.

The two major political parties love trading blows on a regular basis.

Ask each of them and they will tell you that the other has never come up with a good idea.

Usually, the one-liner clichés are thrown out dispelling the virtues of the opposing camp's idea.

But not MacKillop Liberal Government backbencher Nick McBride who has thrown his weight behind Labor's health pledge to the region and has called on his own side of politics to match funding for our health system here in the Limestone Coast.

As you could imagine, the Liberal Party in Adelaide would be furious at Mr McBride's comments.

His comments would alienate himself from the Liberal Party leadership and create a political wedge within the Liberal Party ranks.

So does it matter?

Probably not.

It's well known within Liberal Party circles that Mr McBride already has a strained relationship with the Premier – so he has nothing new there.

On the other hand – there would not be a reasonably minded person in the region that would not support additional funding for upgrades to our health system – so no votes lost for Mr McBride locally, in fact, probably a nett gain.

Fairly simple local politics.

Although, looking at the bigger picture, Mr McBride needs to recognise that it's his own team that is lacking in pledging additional funding to the Limestone Coast for health services.

Mr McBride's honesty is to be commended but he needs to take that fight to Adelaide.

He would only be preaching to the converted locally; it's the Adelaide-based politicians that need salvation.

With the election officially starting this week, with the Writs being issued this coming Saturday, we can be confident that before March 19 there will be plenty of debate about health services in our region.

Petition delivered

DURING Mental Health Awareness month in October last year I wrote an opinion piece for The Border Watch about the 'shadow pandemic' and the need to improve mental health services for our community.

In that piece, I spoke about the Federal Government's 'Head to Health' initiative rolling out across the country and suggested that the Limestone Coast should be included in the rollout.

Since then, the Limestone Coast community has shown its support for that proposal.

I returned to Federal Parliament last week armed with almost 3000 signatures collected over the past couple of months and presented that petition to the Minister for Health, Greg Hunt, requesting that Mount Gambier be chosen as one of the locations around the country to become home to a 'Head to Health' satellite centre to service the mental health needs of the local community.

Accompanying the petition were a number of letters of support from Limestone Coast community organisations.

Much like the push for a Mount Gambier Headspace facility that I championed in 2016, as a community we are again working together to ensure we put the strongest possible case forward to the Federal Government for a Head to Health facility in Mount Gambier.

I'm doing my best to argue this case on behalf of my community because, sadly, I know that one in five Australians and nearly half of all adults will experience a mental or behavioural condition in their lifetimes. Over 65,000 Australians make an attempt on their lives each year, and for each life lost to suicide, the impacts are felt by up to 135 people, including family members, work colleagues, friends and first responders.

Giving the community the services required to tackle their individual mental health issues when they arise will make for a happier, healthier Limestone Coast community and the flow on benefits of that are immeasurable.

Member for Barker Tony Pasin presents Health Minister Greg Hunt with the Head to Health petition.

I had an extremely productive meeting with the Minister, and I am told that the locations for the satellite Head to Health facilities will be announced shortly.

My fingers are crossed - I hope yours are also.

Old roads past their life

kathy.gandolfi@tbwtoday.com.au

SOME roads in the region are more than 10 years past their normal life span, according to State Member of Parliament for MacKillop, Nick McBride.

Speaking at the January meeting of Wattle Range Council, Mr McBride was invited to address the elected members on a number of issues including roads.

He referred to a meeting which he hosted in Naracoorte last November with the Minister for Infrastructure and Transport Corey Wingard (via electronic means), along with representatives from the Department of Infrastructure and Transport, government road construction contractor Fulton Hogan and representatives from each of the region's councils.

The meeting followed Wattle Range Council advocating for change after receiving numerous complaints from the public, mostly relating to the sealed arterial road network that is managed by the State Government, including writing to the Premier and the Minister.

"The meeting has got traction right to the top," Mr McBride said adding he had run into the Premier not long after the meeting in the halls of Parliament House and the Premier had stopped and spoken about the roads in the South East saying he had just had a meeting and the Premier acknowledged that "there are a lot of old roads that need a lot of money".

"I thought that was excellent feedback," Mr McBride told the Council meeting.

Mr McBride said that he understood the life of a road was about 40 years.

"Some of ours are at 57 years," he said indicating that they were past their normal life.

During Mr McBride's 40 minute presentation to the public meeting, he answered a number of questions from councillors.

One of them was from council's Deputy Mayor, Moira Neagle who asked of the Liberal MP a question related the safe nature of the MacKillop seat.

"I had the unfortunate need to be in Adelaide and I could not get over the amount of road works going on there and I thought, it would be good to live in a swinging seat," she said, asking for a response.

In responding, Mr McBride asked members of the media present, of which there were three, to "put down their pens" indicating that he did not wish his response to be reported.

The representative of The Border Watch did put down her pen during the answer given by Mr McBride and in the following days asked for an official answer from Mr McBride's office.

The official written answer provided by Mr McBride read as follows:

"Maintaining and fixing our road network is a high priority for me," Mr McBride wrote.

"I understand that my Government faces challenges from MP's across the State, who wish to see as much money as possible spent in upgrading roads in their electorate.

"It is my view that maintaining a safe road network is a necessity, regardless of if the electorate is a safe Liberal seat.

"I have had recent discussions with Local Government representatives and the Transport Minister highlighting the decline in the condition of roads in MacKillop.

"After shining a light on the issue the Transport Minister is more aware of the maintenance backlog in the area and Government is working on solving this issue.

"I have, and will continue to have, honest discussions with the Transport Minister and the Premier in an effort to secure as much funding as possible for my region's roads."

Minister Wingard, in a letter tabled at Wattle Range Council's December meeting responded to a letter from Mayor Des Noll about the condition of the roads in the South East.

The letter referred to several projects being undertaken and more recent information provided by the Department advised that bridge barrier replacement work was completed in July 2020 at several locations on Clay Wells Road between Robe to Penola.

Shoulder sealing on the 55km section of Clay Wells Road between the Southern Ports Highway and Callendale Road, along with the upgrade of safety barriers at six bridges and the installation of auto tactile line marking, was completed in early 2021.

The Department also advised that a south-bound overtaking lane will be constructed on the Riddoch Highway between Edenhope Road and Coonawarra with these works expected to begin this year and expected to be completed next year.

Also this year, safety barrier upgrades will be undertaken on Mount Burr Road.

"Mile Hill Road, Kangaroo Flat Road, Overland Track, Mount Burr Road and Southern Ports Highway are all currently included in the Department's resurfacing program for 2022-23, with timing to be determined," said the Department spokesperson.

The sale will offer a lot of items that have only been used for a few seasons and present new, including the 26 tonne chaser bin, wool press, silos, lick feeders and shearing plant.

There will also be well in excess of 10,000 quality wooden potato boxes and onion boxes.

The sale is starting at 9am on farm at Glenroy SA (Rabbits Rd via Penola) and will be interfaced with AuctionsPlus online.

Grain group's new boss

AUSTRALIAN-BASED grains supply chain expert and experienced corporate leader Nigel Hart has been appointed as the new managing director of the Grains Research and Development Corporation (GRDC).

GRDC Chairman John Woods said a comprehensive search for a new managing director had successfully resulted in the internationally recognised and well-known agricultural sector identity stepping into the leadership role.

"We are pleased to have Nigel joining GRDC as a high calibre leader with more than 25 years' experience in senior executive roles with organisations such as global agribusiness corporation Archer Daniels Midland and GrainCorp," Mr Woods said.

"Strategically GRDC is well positioned to continue to deliver effective and efficient research, development and extension and Nigel's experience and understanding of the grains sector both within Australian and internationally will add significant value."

Mr Hart will begin as Managing Director on April 4.

The incoming Managing Director, who has recently been engaged in specialist consulting roles for a number of grains industry organisations, said he was looking forward to the opportunity to join GRDC.

"Within Australia and internationally GRDC is recognised for spearheading cutting-edge research, development and extension in the grains sector and I am thrilled to have an opportunity to be a part of that," Mr Hart said.

"I have had a long involvement with the Australian grains sector – at many levels from on-farm experiences to working as Global Director for an international agribusiness organisation with destination markets across Asia, Europe, South America and the United States.

"I hope my experience and understanding of the grains sector will add value to GRDC and together with GRDC staff we will continue to drive innovation and best practice in Australia's grain sector."

NIGEL HART: Appointed as GRDC's new Managing Director.

Dancing with destiny

Angie Kent is a contestant on the news series Dancing with the Stars: All Stars. She tells Danielle McGrane why she's decided to return to the dancefloor.

Angie Kent doesn't shy away from a challenge, that's why she's taking part in Dancing with the Stars: All Stars, despite the tough competition.

"When I first saw the line-up I just thought 'Oh my God, Courtney Act,' she's just everything," Kent said.

"Who can go up against Courtney Act? That's royalty right there."

Kent will be taking part in the show alongside Act and a host of celebrities who have come back for another chance at glory, including Cameron Daddo, Bridie Carter, Kylie Gillies and Grant Denyer, to name a few.

While the competition will be high, the real challenge according to Kent is mastering the steps.

"It's so hard to do ballroom dancing, I don't think people realise how hard it is," she said.

"There's so much to it. You've got to position your feet, your arms and your head for different dances – there's so much to remember and then on top of that you're learning all the steps as well. So it's quite hardcore."

Kent took part in Dancing with the Stars in early 2020, and was voted out after a dance dedicated to her late grandmother.

She's hoping to last a bit longer this time and has put a lot of work into preparing for the show.

"We had four weeks of rehearsals and in that time you had to learn every single dance for the entire show, so in that time I learnt six dances in four weeks," she said.

It helped that she's been reunited with dancer/choreographer Julian Caillon, who she partnered with the first time she took part.

"Julian was my first partner and then I got to have him again which was great because we already had such a nice friendship from the two years before, so we didn't have to go through that awkward 'getting to know you' stage again, which was helpful," she said.

Caillon is also in charge of choreographing the pair's routines.

"Julian does it all," Kent said.

"They're amazing, all the professional dancers on the show do all the choreography and they are incredible."

Caillon should also be well versed on what dances Kent is most comfortable with from their first outing.

"My favourite style would probably have to be the cha cha or the tango," she said.

"I feel like you can show off your personality more when you've got a cha cha or a tango number whereas the other slower ones are all about technique and emotion which can be quite hard when you're not a professional and you're a bag of nerves."

Kent is a darling of the reality TV world. She was first introduced to the Australian public through Gogglebox, which she appeared in alongside her friend Yvie Jones.

Smooth moves: Angie Kent and dance partner Julian Caillon are back for more on Dancing with the Stars: All Stars.

After that, she took part in I'm a Celebrity... Get Me out of Here! before becoming the Bachelorette. Reality TV has kept Kent very busy, but she also realises it probably took its toll on her when she first took part in Dancing with the Stars.

"I wanted to come back and do this show again because the first time I did it Yvie and I had just got off Gogglebox, then we got thrown into the African jungle, then I was the Bachelorette and then I was offered Dancing with the Stars and I was so exhausted," she said.

"I kind of felt like I had to do Dancing because I was on this roll, but I just wasn't myself."

At the time, Kent had just finished being on The Bachelorette.

"I had a new relationship in the public eye," she said.

"I was so tired and I just didn't get to give it my all."

But now, the timing felt right for a return to Dancing with the Stars.

"So I thought 'two years have passed, I'm in such a better headspace. I'm going to go back this time and I'm going to have fun and not feel like I have to do it, but instead I want to do it,'" she said.

"I was more myself this time, more rested and ready to enjoy the adventure and not be so tired."

While she hasn't been doing back-to-back reality TV shows, Kent has kept herself busy over the last two years. She released a memoir – If You Don't Laugh You'll Cry – landed a role in an upcoming horror film, The Possessed, and is enmeshed in the world of podcasting.

"I've got a couple of podcasts with Nova [that] I'm loving, and I was in my first movie, which I loved doing, so I've been keeping myself nice and busy," she said.

"When opportunities come up I go with whatever serves me in the moment. I really love writing and podcasting."

But she's unlikely to turn up as a competitor on another reality TV show, at least not for a while.

"I feel like I've had enough of reality," she said.

"Dancing with the Stars was a good one to do because I really wanted to do it for myself and it's so much fun to learn but I think I'm past competitive reality TV. I'm pooped."

Although, she's not closed the door to the genre completely.

"Never say never, but I won't be doing any love-based reality TV shows, I'll tell you that much," Kent said.

"Anything to do with matters of the heart can be quite tough on one's soul if you're a sensitive soul, and I am a sensitive soul."

She does however have a strong connection with her original reality TV partner, Yvie Jones, and the pair have found new ways to continue to work together.

"Yvie and I have our podcast – Two Girls, One Pod. We're loving doing that together. We're back together since we stopped Gogglebox at the end of 2018," she said.

"And if Gogglebox ever wanted us to come back and do a special season we would probably be open to it, but there's no talk of that."

■ Dancing with the Stars: All Stars, starts Sunday, 7pm, Seven/Prime7

PICK OF THE WEEK

A PERFECT SPY

Friday
THE BOURNE ULTIMATUM
Nine, 8.40pm, M (2007)

Thinking person's action hero Matt Damon returns as Jason Bourne, the renegade spy with a serious grudge against his former CIA employers. Director Paul Greengrass returns for the third in the series and mounts a heart-pounding thrill ride that will leave you gasping for breath as the amnesiac assassin travels from the rooftops of Tangiers to the streets of Manhattan in his ongoing quest for exoneration. Ably filled with a cast of the old (Joan Allen, Julia Stiles) and the new (Paddy Considine, David Strathairn, Albert Finney), this Oscar-winning, adrenaline-pumped adventure is possibly the finest of the smash-hit trilogy. ★★★★★

Bourne to run:
Matt Damon takes his fight to the top brass in The Bourne Ultimatum.

ABC TV Plus, Friday, 8.30pm, M (2006)

Given it's movie awards season, Christopher Guest's classic satire is as perfectly timed as ever. The brains behind This is Spinal Tap and Best in Show conspires with his regular cohorts – including Parker Posey, Harry Shearer and Fred Willard, along with Schitt's Creek darlings Eugene Levy and Catherine O'Hara (pictured) – to distill the hype and horror that comes with Oscar buzz. The plot revolves around three actors who believe their roles in a low-budget drama are the talk of the town. ★★★★★

Nine, Saturday, 8.30pm, PG (1978)

After his success in Saturday Night Fever, John Travolta was a man in demand – and the perfect choice for the role of greaser Danny Zuko for the cinematic adaptation of Jim Jacobs and Warren Casey's stage musical. Danny indulges in some "summer lovin'" with Sandy (Olivia Newton-John, pictured, centre), but when the two find themselves classmates after summer, Sandy is not cool enough for our Danny and his group of cronies. Full of song, dance and car races, Grease is definitely the word. ★★★★★

7Flix, Saturday, 8.40pm, MA15+ (2017)

Hugh Jackman (pictured) dons Wolverine's claws for the final time for this surprisingly thoughtful addition to the X-Men universe. It is the not-too-distant future, and a bitter Logan is trying to keep a low profile as he cares for the ailing Professor Xavier (Patrick Stewart), whose deteriorating brain is wreaking havoc all over the place. Into this desolate reality comes a young girl (Dafne Keen), the first new mutant seen in dozens of years – and she has a connection to our brooding hero. ★★★★★

TERMINATOR: DARK FATE
7mate, Sunday, 7.30pm, M (2019)

While this may be the sixth film in the Terminator juggernaut, it is undoubtedly a return to form thanks to originator James Cameron in the writer's chair, Linda Hamilton (pictured) back as trailblazing action hero Sarah Connor, and of course, Arnold Schwarzenegger as T-800. This newest version brings all the goods you have come to expect: epic battle scenes, amazing special effects, and a rag-tag crew of humans and super-humans alike out to save humankind. ★★★

THE PREDATOR
7mate, Monday, 8.30pm, MA15+ (2018)

Believe it or not, the fourth film in the gruesome Predator franchise is actually the highest-grossing instalment of the extra-terrestrial hunter saga. Thankfully, this chaotic sequel doesn't take itself too seriously and, at 107 minutes long, is blessedly brief. The carnage begins when a boy accidentally triggers the return of the alien Predators to Earth. US Army sniper Quinn McKenna (Boyd Holbrook, pictured) and a ragtag team of ex-soldiers fight to prevent the end of the human race. ★★

THE FAMILY FANG
SBS World Movies, Tuesday, 7.30pm, M (2015)

Annie and Baxter (Nicole Kidman and Jason Bateman, both pictured) didn't have your average childhood. Their parents (an always-brilliant Christopher Walken and Maryann Plunkett) are controversial artists who used their children as props in countless performance pieces that drew a mix of adoration and scorn. Now, as adults, Annie and Baxter go in search of their missing parents. Is it another hoax? As Annie and Baxter play detective, their family dysfunction is brought to the fore. ★★★

The Guide

Postcards from the edge:
Grand Designs New Zealand host Chris Moller checks out a Piha clifftop build.

PICK OF

GRAND DESIGNS
ABC TV,
Sunday, 7.40pm

Many believe no one can top Grand Designs' Kevin McCloud. The host and writer of the incredibly long-running British series, following people building their version of the dream home, has just clocked up 22 seasons. McCloud lives and breathes design, and has a charmingly arrogant persona to boot. It's the sixth season of this NZ offshoot premiering tonight, and host Chris Moller embodies a laidback, inquisitive attitude, with his series boasting some of the most amazing designs; just quietly, he gives McCloud a run for his money. In this episode, an ambitious couple knock down their Piha beach hut to build something grand, but you can bet it won't be easy.

GARDENING AUSTRALIA ABC TV, Friday, 7.30pm

More than just about gardening and plants, this beloved Aussie stalwart is blooming with a cast of passionate presenters who obviously live and breathe flora and fauna. After a summer break, Gardening Australia returns, and it's a celebration of the New Year. Lovable host Costa Georgiadis (pictured) discovers a plant-swapping scheme and Jerry Coleby-Williams shows how to grow, harvest and roast your own coffee. Sophie Thomson demonstrates how a small-city home can be bursting with life.

MASTERMIND AUSTRALIA SBS, Monday, 6pm

Mastermind is the sort of show that makes you smarter; how many TV series can boast about enlightening the population? This week, the fourth season premieres, and host Marc Fennell (pictured) promises the questions he flings onto the contestants will be harder and more head-scratching than ever. "This year, the contenders are sharper, the topics are wilder, and the questions are harder," warns Fennell. Buckle up for the ride down the rabbit hole of information.

WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE? UK SBS, Tuesday, 7.30pm

David Walliams (pictured) is a man of many talents: from comedian (Little Britain), to actor (Big School), talent show judge (Britain's Got Talent) and modern-day Roald Dahl (he's sold millions of children's books), it's fair to say that his life is fascinating. But will his family forebears prove as alluring? Walliams' ancestors prove to have interesting and moving stories. Walliams uncovers his paternal great grandfather's traumatic experience on the battlefields of World War I.

Avoid the typical wait times - Niche Homes is ready to start your build sooner than you think Niche Homes was established by Mark & Yvette Versace (pictured right) with the vision of creating dream homes, paying meticulous attention to detail and working side by side with the client to ensure the finished product was the perfect merger of the Niche Homes quality craftsmanship and the needs of the client.

The business was built on the cornerstones of personalised service, strong supplier relationships and construction industry expertise and the duo was building up to 10 homes a year.

And they will continue to be the foundation of the business as it upscales, adding a foreman, customer liaison officer and accounts manager so the Niche Homes experience can be enjoyed by even more clients as they look to double their output.

"We understand that building a home can be daunting, so our job is to guide you through the entire process," Mark said. "Our job is to provide answers before you have even thought of the questions – to anticipate and be proactive with information. Our job is to truly listen."

It is also to bring their expertise and Yvette brings her eye for detail through her interior design and styling skills, while Mark, freed up by the building up of the Niche Homes team, can do what he does best

- catching up with clients and making sure they're happy.

The personalised service is just one advantage of putting your dream home in the hands of Mark, Yvette and their team – another is the wait time. The difficulties in accessing building products and trades have been well publicised but with Niche Homes there is no 18month to two year wait to get your home started because they can start turning your dreams into bricks and mortar within four months.

Niche Homes offers 15 base designs and with their more than two decades of experience in the industry they can bring any style home to life, from a timeless classic inspired by the aesthetics of country living to cutting edge modernism where sharp lines are offset by the use of natural light and the warmth of timber.

Making your home visually stunning and perfectly functional while utilising natural building products and bringing the outdoors, indoors, ensuring your home becomes an integral part of the natural environment.

Niche Homes will walk you through every step of the process and can't wait to start creating the home you have always dreamt of.

Wayne Little - On Site Foreman

Wayne is Niche Homes' man on the ground, supervising each project and bringing with him more than two decades of experience in the construction industry. Providing technical advice as well as getting on the tools for any of the carpentry and finishing work, Wayne is one of the new faces that has helped Niche Homes increase its output.

Jason McCrorie - Customer Liaison

Jason is across every aspect, of every Niche Homes project, working with trades, suppliers, and clients to facilitate an easy transition into a new home. He has more than 10 years experience as a business owner and painter and more than 10 years experience in project management. Attention to details and personalised service is at the core of Jason's role.

Lyndall Zobel - Accounts Manager

Lyndall has been with Niche Homes for four years, bringing her 25-plus years experience in finance and accounting, specialising in the building and construction industry. Lyndall provides invaluable support to Mark & Yvette in business administration so they can focus on what they do best - designing and building quality homes for their valued clients.

58 Riddoch St, Penola

HISTORIC COBB & CO

Located on premier Riddoch Street, in the historic precinct of Penola, can be found 58 Riddoch St; A commercial premise offering business ventures new or old an attractive freehold. The historic Cobb & Co building has a story to tell, a throwback to a bygone era. Built in the 1850's, this charming building was once a cheese and butter factory and later tearooms, restaurant and food manufacturing and distribution facility. Today, the two are joined by a single-story weatherboard-clad service section, comprising male and female toilet facilities and a recently upgraded commercial kitchen.

A veranda of generous proportions ties the spaces together and makes an undercover thoroughfare through to the large open garden (1,086m²) at the rear. Here, out of the weather and with an outlook over to the Mary MacKillop Interpretive Centre, would make an ideal alfresco extension for a wide range of possible uses.

Set on a substantial 1,086m² corner allotment with dual access, ample street parking and plenty of land to make more improvements; This one-off property is versatile and flexible - a rare find with multiple spaces (and plenty of space) at play.

IDENTITY CRISIS

INVENTING ANNA
Streaming, Netflix

The luxury lifestyle is very often free to those who can afford it, and very expensive to those who can't. But in 2013, one woman challenged that notion, pretending to be a German heiress and stealing the hearts – and money – of Manhattan's social elite.

Living as Instagram-famous socialite Anna Delvey, rumoured to have a fortune of more than US$60 million, the young woman conned wealthy New Yorkers, banks and hotels out of tens of thousands over a four-year period – she was even on the verge of a deal worth tens of millions at the time of her 2017 arrest.

This glamorous, lavish series from production powerhouse Shonda Rhimes (Grey's Anatomy, Scandal, Bridgerton) goes inside exactly how Anna Sorokin (Julia Garner), a 20-something Russian-born conwoman, managed to pull off her daring fraud.

The 10-episode "semi-fictional" account of this implausible true-crime story charts the efforts of New York Magazine journalist Vivian Kent (Veep's Anna Chlumsky) – a reporter working to salvage her career – to get to know the real Anna. However, the harder she tries, the more attached she becomes, with Sorokin's simultaneously charming and contemptuous allure plain to see.

Ozark star Garner spent time with the real Sorokin, visiting her in prison to try and understand the enigmatic grifter and perfect her distinctive, hard-to-place accent, a move which pays off in spades. Garner's Anna is confident, aloof and incredibly entertaining as she runs rings around a who's who of New York.

Fake it 'til you make it:
Julia Garner as high-society swindler Anna Sorokin.

GOOD GRIEF
Streaming, ABC iview

Combining the power of a play and the immediacy of a film, this involving drama follows friends Cat and Adam (Fleabag's Sian Clifford and Starstruck's Nimesh Patel, both pictured) as they try to cope with the tragic death of a loved one. The intimate hybrid format brings viewers into their claustrophobic bubble of grief to powerful effect.

SCREW
Streaming, BritBox

From BAFTA-nominated writer Rob Williams (The Victim, Killing Eve), this brutal, darkly comic drama follows a group of prison officers, aka "screws", working in the fictional Long Marsh Prison. Derry Girls star Jamie-Lee O'Donnell plays fiery new recruit Rose, who goes head-to-head with C-Wing stalwart Leigh (Nina Sonsanya, pictured right with O'Donnell).

I WANT YOU BACK
Streaming, Amazon Prime Video

Unexpectedly dumped by their partners on the same weekend, Emma and Peter (Jenny Slate and Charlie Day, both pictured) instantly bond over their twin heartbreaks. When they learn that their exes (Scott Eastwood and Gina Rodriguez) have moved on, the pair concoct a desperate plan to end their new relationships and get them back.

BEL-AIR
Streaming, Stan

From the streets of West Philadelphia to the lavish mansions of Bel-Air, Will (newcomer Jabari Banks, pictured) is a long way from home in this dramatic reimagining of beloved sitcom The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air. Set in the present day, there's no catchy theme song here – just a young man learning the meaning of family and the power of second chances.

KIMI
Streaming, Foxtel On Demand

A thriller that taps into our darkest fears about technology, Kimi is all about Angela (Zoë Kravitz, pictured) a data analyst who interprets recordings from a virtual assistant – think Siri and Alexa. When Angela hears evidence of a violent crime that was recorded by a Kimi device, she risks her own safety to investigate.

Your year ahead
We each come into this world with our own unique talents and our own special tasks to perform. And this year, it's definitely your turn to shine. 2022 highlights career and business travel, accompanied by prestige and new financial opportunities. After March, the time's right to make a major purchase or start saving for something special. Perhaps even consider a down-payment on property or a special luxury. You may spend a little extra, but don't settle for second best. You're on a winning streak. At the same time, you're nudged towards friendships and a happy social life.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr 20)
That famed Aries charm will get you everywhere this week. You're out to inspire and impress. When you present such a positive attitude, people just naturally do more things for you and with you. Sounds so simple, really. Strange that more people don't get it. Those looking for romance have every chance of finding love.
Best Day: Friday 25th

TAURUS
(Apr 21 - May 20)
Your competitive spirit shows a more aggressive edge this week, and this will serve you better than simply falling in line with others. You delight in your new-found ability to harass and hustle until you finally get your way. Even if the occasional obstacle challenges your confidence, the cosmos is on your side, and spurs you on.
Best Day: Sunday 20th

GEMINI
(May 21 - Jun 21)
This week, happy synchronicities start to happen. If you can't see signs of this, it may be that you're still recovering from recent tensions. The planets now put all their energy into helping you identify and fix long-standing problems. The eventual outcome: genuine joy and satisfaction, both at home and at work.
Best Day: Saturday 26th

CANCER
(Jun 22 - Jul 22)
Life may continue to feel like an uphill struggle, with challenges causing frustration. Should things not go to plan, relax. Calm that anxious mind and you'll find the strength to battle on. From adversity comes victory and a supreme sense of satisfaction. It's only a matter of time before current problems ease.
Best Day: Tuesday 22nd

LEO
(Jul 23 - Aug 23)
Leos now crave admiration and acknowledgement - you want the focus turned towards you. The biggest contributing factor, however, is self-confidence. You must consider yourself worthy enough to defeat any contender. You're a born talker, Leo, and this week you have the right opportunities to do it well.
Best Day: Sunday 20th

LIBRA
(Sep 23 - Oct 23)
Power down the computer and leave the mobile on charge. Sometimes you simply have to give yourself breathing space, Libra. At the same time, rethink your career direction. Should others ask for financial help, steer them in the right direction but keep them well away from your personal piggy bank. Lavish any luxuries on yourself instead.
Best Day: Tuesday 22nd

VIRGO
(Aug 24 - Sep 22)
You've been moody for a while now, Virgo - perhaps feeling a tad emotionally or financially abandoned. This week the cosmos presents even more demands. You may have to wrestle with extra challenges or there's unfinished business to complete. Remember though, that you're truly adored and those who truly love you will never let you down.
Best Day: Thursday 24th

SCORPIO
(Oct 24 - Nov 22)
Periods of high stress can make us feel like we're losing it, as can being surrounded by people whose values are very different from our own. For most of us, the key to survival in a week like this is to step back, take a deep breath and regain your composure. Only then should you decide what course of action to take.
Best Day: Monday 21st

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov 23 - Dec 21)
When on the attack, most Sagittarians fire first and ask questions later. Sometimes, however, you can be too quick off the mark. This week, check all facts before marching into battle - as someone could be planning an ambush. Unstable relationships may fall; new romance looks set to flourish - great news if you're back on the singles scene.
Best Day: Wednesday 23rd

CAPRICORN
(Dec 22 - Jan 20)
Don't know about sticks, but this week it's verbal stones that could break your spirit. If someone is being deliberately cantankerous, conflict could follow. Someone needs to be the peacemaker. Let it be you. Lead by example, Capricorn - it's a role you usually play well. Of course, there are more challenges than usual to cope with.
Best Day: Saturday 26th

AQUARIUS
(Jan 21 - Feb 18)
It's a "now or never" kind of week. You're determined to put yourself on the map - right here, right now. Even if your current job is stable, you crave more success, more money, just plain "more". With vitality recharged, you're ready to resume plans previously put on hold. Just don't rush it, or you'll force things to happen before their time.
Best Day: Monday 21st

PISCES
(Feb 19 - Mar 20)
What you love so much - work, career and family - have all been in a long process of transformation and, at times, it's been a struggle. Cast off these worries, Pisces - as all the heaviness starts to lift. The planets offer fresh insights and new solutions to old problems. You finally start to relax.
Best Day: Saturday 26th

Entertainment

Homemade Jam carries on

A 'LIVE and Local' music program, known as Homemade Jam, will continue in Mount Gambier this year with opportunities for musicians, venues and the community to participate in and have a say about the current state of live music locally.

"Homemade Jam kicks off this year with a call out to the community to take part in an important survey that seeks to gather feedback and information to ensure the tradition of great live music continues in the city," City of Mount Gambier Live Music Project Officer Monica Hart said.

Mount Gambier is the first community in regional South Australia to host the Live and Local program, featuring a range of unique performance and professional development opportunities for the live music community.

The program last year culminated with local musicians performing in unusual spaces in the city as part of the Homemade Jam Micro Music Festival.

STREET MUSIC RETURNS: Local Mount Gambier three-piece band The Stokes at Confession during the recent round of Homemade Jam events.

"The Homemade Jam Micro Music Festival sessions were a great success and shoppers were surprised and excited to encounter musicians playing in spaces such as the Lifeline Op Shop and Spot on Fishing Tackle on a Saturday morning," Ms Hart said.

A dedicated professional development program presented by music industry professionals from Music SA and the Australasian Performing Right Association Limited and Australasian Mechanical Copyright Owners Society (APRA AMCOS) on topics that empower musicians, business owners and curators to grow their business, performance and event skills will take place on March 5 and 6 at the Riddoch Arts and Cultural Centre.

"The industry round table will take place on the evening of Tuesday March 8 where we will ask local industry stakeholders to consider what does a thriving live music scene look like and how do we realistically achieve that vision," Ms Hart said.

The feedback gathered from the discussions will be used to help formulate a Live Music Action Plan for Mount Gambier.

Locals can participate in the survey and find out more about the professional development and industry round table forums at www.haveyoursaymountgambier.com.au where photographs from the Homemade Jam sessions can also be viewed

Kingston street art in running for award

A KINGSTON mural has been shortlisted for an Australian Street Art Award in the Best External Mural category.

'Wind Dance' by Sarah Boese is an augmented reality mural which means it is not just a static mural but with the use of a mobile phone application (app) a scan of the mural will bring the artwork to life.

'Wind Dance' was commissioned by Kingston District Council in the wake of the Keilira bushfire which burned more than 25,000 hectares in the Kingston area at the end of 2019.

The mural commemorates the disaster and captures the personality of Kingston through a number of themes.

The artwork has also increased visitation and tourism for the community.

Ms Boese said inspiration for the mural came from a lot of community consultation including with school children.

"It took me ten nights in total to put the mural together and because augmented reality was part of the brief I had to incorporate that into the work somehow," Ms Boese said.

The Adelaide-based artist worked closely with animators to bring the mural to life where she painted and supplied two-dimensional elements to make the mural move.

"The community response was very good and a lot of residents were excited about the mural," she said.

"They had fun at the unveiling which was great because it meant the mural was well received."

Enjoying working in the country town, Ms Boese said she had not been to the Limestone Coast since she was a child.

"I used to go camping in Robe but haven't been to the area in years," she said.

"When I was putting the mural together people would come and have a chat and there were a lot of nice and supportive comments which was wonderful."

Speaking on the award nomination, the artist said it was sweet the mural had been shortlisted for State-wide acknowledgement.

"I am hoping the nomination will lead to more traction for Kingston, especially if it wins," Ms Boese said.

"It would be great for the town and seeing as though I have never won a competition for my murals it would be a wonderful compliment."

The award winners will be announced during an online presentation on March 5.

Engaging with senses

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

INSPIRING writers will have a chance to try a new style of writing with Sydney-based poet Gloria Demillo coming to the region.

The workshop, 'Engaging the Senses', will focus on enhancing mindfulness and meditation for attendees to engage the senses to help write their stories.

Performance work will also be highlighted during the three-hour workshop where attendees will learn breathing techniques, body movements, expression and how to use a microphone.

Being the first time in Mount Gambier, Gloria said the workshop would encourage others to learn a new avenue of writing and themselves.

"The workshop will use different techniques including meditation, performance warm ups and getting used to writing with-in themselves," Gloria said.

"It is a big part of the learning process and allows them to start describing what they feel and how they feel it."

Gloria said the workshop was based on personal writing experiences.

"When I was 16 or 17 and didn't know how to express myself I started writing poetry which gave me a sense of community and connection," Gloria said.

"I do hope that people who come along to the workshop are able to learn a new avenue about themselves and feel safe to do so and be creative while also enjoying that creativity."

Gloria said the workshop, aimed at people under the age of 30, would be a safe space for people to come, write and share experiences.

"It can be for people who are skilled or beginning their writing journey which is great," Gloria said.

The workshop will be held on March 5 with tickets on sale now on the Writers SA website.

The venue for the event is yet to be determined.

More new roses for 2022

BRIAN WAGNER
Kalangadoo rose grower

OUR list of new releases is very interesting this year, and these are more varieties that we are budding now for winter orders.

We have them growing in the field, if you want to come to our rose farm and see how they perform.

Just give us a call to arrange your visit on 08 87393321 or send an email to hello@wagnersrosenursery.com.au

Cayenne

The velvety red colour of Cayenne's large, slightly double flowers makes this small shrub rose an eye-catcher. With its very even dense bushy growth – 100cm high x 70cm wide - this extremely healthy compact plant is ideal for mass planting or low hedges.

Deano

It's a classic Hybrid Tea rose, with large blooms in a very soft pink with darker, decorative centres. The flowers are borne mostly solitarily, but some small clusters also occur.

It's a beautiful Australian rose, bred by Richard Walsh. Growing up to 130cm high x 60-70cm wide.

Suitable for garden display, cut flowers or exhibition, it's a healthy and vigorous bush.

It was named in honour of Dean Stringer, a well-respected Australian rosarian.

Impala

Named after an African antelope because like its animal name sake this rose is tough and busy, Impala's strength lies in its ability to repeat flower quickly.

The neat and dense bush is always covered in buds and blooms, with glossy green disease resistant leaves as a base to the clusters of flowers.

Each smallish bud is of a classical pointed shape of intense apricot which softens to lighter shades similar to the colouring of the Impala.

A single mature plant would stand out as a focal point, planted in groups or as a demarcating border or hedge, it will be the highlight in a garden - it grows up to 80-100cm high.

Chameleon

As its name suggests, the colours of Chameleon shift as this miniature rose ages - from yellow through to pinks and reds.

Growing en-masse up to 70cm high, this incredibly healthy and hardy bush gives the effect of a bright rainbow rose.

Snow Kiss

With blooms slightly larger than the classic

miniature rose, this compact healthy bush is covered in masses of double flowers that contrast nicely with the dark green foliage.

Snow Kiss grows up to 40cm high and it's perfect for pots and small gardens.

My Little Angel

It's an exceptionally healthy miniature awash with a sea of small mauve blooms that flower late into winter.

Nearly evergreen, you will not be disappointed with the tough growing ability of this beauty, 40cm high x 40cm wide.

Another great variety for pots and small gardens.

Love Affair

You will fall in love with this wonderful play of colour.

Large, fragrant rosettes hold well on the bush in a swirl of pink and apricot.

Blooms are produced in masses with an average of 15 buds per stem.

Love Affair is a healthy upright bush with mid green leaves on strong canes, growing up to 80cm high.

SATURDAY Open Pennant action returned to the Mount Gambier Bowls Club's Bob Cranwell Centre, where the Division 1 Blues played host to the fourth-placed Naracoorte in a top-four shaping game.

The Blues were in search of the maximum 12 points to secure the double chance and they did it in style.

The rink of Brian Francis, Michael Spong, Bryan Vorwerk and Jeff England continued their excellent season by defeating the Eric Pitt led rink 29-18.

Steve Farrell's rink including Jim Philpott, Kym Jones and Gary Widdison out-played the rink skippered by Ian Williams to win 26-19.

The 12 points were secured by the rink of Tim Radley, Darryl Raneberg, Gary Hocking and Ian Von Stanke with their 22-18 victory.

The Blues now only need to win one rink in their Round 14 clash with Mount Gambier RSL Blue to secure second spot on the ladder.

The Division 1 Reds travelled across town to take on arch rivals Mount Gambier RSL Red.

In front of a good crowd, the game was close on the three rinks all day.

The rink of Bill Bremner, Peter Radley, Brad Errock and Daniel Langdon were off to a strong start to take the early lead.

The local rink skippered by Neil Tobin fought back and the result was still in question playing the last end.

A superb bowl by skipper Langdon helped the team secure a 21-18 win.

The rink of John Reppin, Peter Clark, Greg Carpenter and Tony Bowditch had a real battle on their hands with the local rink skippered by Chris Waugh taking an early lead, looking comfortable at the break.

The Bowditch team fought back and was able to cut the deficit to three shots for a 21-24 loss.

The rink of Mick Ashby, Kristy Errock, Peter Reppin and Adam Wilson started slowly against the local rink lead by Dean Wilkinson, trailing 2-9 after six ends.

Wilson rallied his team and a run of ends turned the game, for a narrow lead at the break.

On resumption the Wilson team took nine shots in the first two ends to take control of the game.

The final score of 26-21 helped the Reds take the game by five shots with a 68-63 overall victory.

The Division 2 team had the tough road trip to Kalangadoo, where visiting teams rarely enjoy success.

The locals again enjoyed playing on their own green, winning two rinks to secure the 75-54 win.

The rink of Jim Butchart, Neil Blakey, Geoff Collins and Bob Cranwell adjusted well to the conditions to defeat the Peter Lowe skippered local rink 23-21.

The two points were the only success for the day as they now prepare to play Naracoorte RSL under the roof in their last game of the year.

The final round of Division 4 was played Saturday with the Reds playing the visiting Millicent Blues.

With the Reds playing for top spot, they enjoyed success on all three rinks, winning 114-57.

The stars of the day were the rink of Kathryn Gray, Raymond Hutchesson, Diana Harris and John Kentish who enjoyed a very good 45-14 win.

Also enjoying wins were the teams skippered by Ron Cox, winning 36-20 and Eddy Smith taking the victory with the score of 33-23.

The result secured top spot and will now play a home final against Millicent Red in the first week of the finals.

The Blues in Division 4 travelled across town to take on Mount Gambier RSL Red and found the hosts in good form.

The rink of Neville Gilbertson, Eddie Otter, Ross Kilsby and Don Fraser made their opponents fight hard in a close game, going down 19-24.

The Blues finished their season with the 90-48 loss but with three wins for the season will hope to build on that performance to push up towards the top of the ladder next year.

The win lifted the Bay side off the bottom of the ladder for the first time for the year.

In Division 3 Port MacDonnell 66-10 defeated Naracoorte 64-2.

Chris Negline, Victor Perryman, Kevin Osman and skip Danny Gaut lost to the Bev King side 25-13.

While the Bay struggled against the bottom-placed side, Kel Butler and Terry Seiler had enough to cover the loss by Danny Gaut.

In Division 4 Port MacDonnell was no match for the Mount Gambier RSL, going down by 31 shots.

Port MacDonnell 58-0 lost to Mount Gambier RSL 91-12 at Mount Gambier RSL.

Terry Stone, Lyn Vanderley, Marilyn Sutton and skip Bill McGregor lost to Lyn Chirgwin 42-13, Ben Tilley, Graham Hutchesson, Kevin Norman and skip Rod Sutton lost to Bob Solley 24-21, while Darryl Sims, Bruce Bain, Cheryl Doddridge and skip Robyn Burley lost to Lindsay Moyal 25-24.

Congratulations go to Heather Richards on winning the singles Champion of Champions at Penola on Sunday, a great result for the Port MacDonnell club.

Richards defeated Lucindale's Cheryl Ferguson, Mount Gambier's Christie Errock, then Beachport's Jill Preston in the final to claim the honours for season 2022.

McCallum kicks more goals

FORMER East Gambier premiership player Matthew McCallum has begun kicking goals in his new sporting career, as a golfer.

The 27-year-old, who decided to hang up his footy boots after a fourth concussion, topped the leaderboard in Saturday's stableford competition at the Mount Gambier Golf Club with 41 points.

"I played golf when I was in high school ... I think I got my handicap down to about 13," he said.

"But I gave that away and played footy, and then in summer I used to go up to Swan Reach and do some wakeboarding and water skiing."

With only a handful of competitive rounds under his belt since returning to the golf course last year, McCallum played off a 17 handicap on Saturday, and notched up a decent 19 points on the front nine.

But he quickly built some momentum with three-point pars on the 10th and 11th holes, before adding an invaluable four-pointer on the par 4 12th thanks to a superb drive, a handy pitch from about 50 metres and a 12-foot putt that found the bottom of the cup for birdie.

He had the chance to build on that after reaching the 13th in two, but a three-putt cost him a point, although he made up for that with more three-point pars on both the 14th and 15th holes.

A super score looked possible after he reached 37 points with three holes to play, but a double bogey, bogey, bogey finish restricted him to 41 points, although that turned out to be the equal best of the day, finishing ahead of William Rowland on a count-back.

"I three-putted 16 as well as the 13th and I really didn't have much luck with the putter on the front nine either," McCallum said.

"I reckon I left about five shots out there so hopefully I can get down to about 10, or maybe even single figures."

The win saw his handicap cut by two strokes to 15 and his 41 points gave him victory in B Grade, finishing a single point ahead of recent winner Darren Keding.

Rowland's 41 was good enough to take out

C Grade, again just one point ahead of Nick Seager.

In A Grade it was Jim Leane who claimed top prize with a relatively modest 38 points.

Playing off a seven handicap, Leane was on fire early, just one over par off the stick through 14 holes.

But he stumbled with double-bogeys on the 15th and 16th holes for no addition to his tally, before recovering with pars on the final two holes to finish with 38 points, one ahead of Peter Fox and Gordon Clark, Fox taking second on a count-back.

Leane's win in A Grade did not come out of the blue ... he finished fourth in last Thursday's stableford competition with 39 points.

On that occasion he managed just 16 points on the front nine, but caught fire on the back nine, shooting an even par 36 to add 23 points to his tally.

That was good enough for fourth behind runaway winner David Turnbull who came in with 43 points, three clear of Peter Lock and Trevor Williams, Lock taking second on a count-back.

The 81-year-old Turnbull is always in the first group to tee off every Thursday and Saturday, playing alongside fellow octogenarians Lyndsay Copeman and Bob Dalgarno, and Graham Greenwood, the "youngster" of the group at 74.

"We love each other's company and I'm having a bit of a purple patch of form at the moment which makes it even more enjoyable," Turnbull said.

Turnbull had a solid 20 points on the front nine, but four-point pars on the 10th and 14th holes proved the difference on the way home.

Not a long hitter, his short game was on show on those two holes, chipping to inside two feet on the 10th and to about 20 feet on the 14th before sinking an excellent putt.

Lock did a great job to finish second, shooting 76 off the stick from his eight handicap to come in with 40 points.

PURPLE PATCH: David Turnbull might be 81, but golf is keeping him young and he claimed a win at Attamurra last Thursday. Picture: SUBMITTED

Club champion shows class in Summer Cup

MOUNT Gambier Golf Club's current women's club champion Kerry Pedlar continued her solid form with a win in Round 2 of the Summer Cup last week.

Playing off a 10 handicap, Pedlar completed the stableford round with a score of 39 points to claim the Division 1 honours.

Pedlar faced plenty of opposition from a field of 39 golfers in favourable conditions, with nine playing to their handicaps or better.

Her 80 off the stick included a birdie on the sixth hole, plus an impressive 11 pars.

As a result, the next game she plays off single figures for the first time.

Her splits of 18/20 included just the one wipe, with seven three-pointers.

Lorraine Bruhn won Division 2 with a score of 40 points off her 38 handicap.

Her consistent golf returned splits of 21 and 19.

An excited Lizzie Clements was relegated to second place on a count-back after also returning to the clubhouse with 40 points off a 45 handicap.

Nine players received a ball in the ball run-down - Di Norman, Jill Johnson, Andrea Pegler, Jennifer Van Rijthoven, Heather Barry, Lorraine Stratford, Jan Shanahan, Lyn Hudson and Carol Davis.

The specialty prizes were given out to the players who had the best points on the front nine and they were A Grade's Norman with 21 points, Vicki Clark with 18 points Clements with 22.

The pro shot on the par 3 eighth hole went to Norman.

Meanwhile, 22 women played a stableford round on Saturday in perfect conditions, with a few tricky pin placements to add some challenges.

Conquering the course in easy fashion was 24-handicapper Camilla Knowles, who has been away on a long break from golf but returned in style with a very consistent round of 44 points, with splits of 22/22.

Knowles had no wipe-outs for a legitimate 89 off the stick, her best career score.

On the par 5 17th hole she carded a birdie, along with five pars overall.

Second place went to 14-handicapper Helen Gregory, ahead of Carol Davis on a count-back.

Both players had splits of 21/18 for their 39 points and the count-back came down to the last three holes.

Gregory registered 8 pars on her card.

TOP PERFORMERS: Division 2 winner Lorraine Bruhn, runner-up Lizzie Clements, Division 1 winner Kerry Pedlar, runner-up Leanne Hunt.

Legends of the game set to descend on Attamurra

GOLF fans in the Limestone Coast will have a great opportunity to see some of the legends of the game in action next month when the MG Plasterers SA Seniors PGA Championship is contested at the Mount Gambier Golf Club.

Former Australian Open champion Peter Senior heads the list of nominees, which also includes the likes of Mike Harwood, Glenn Joyner and David Diaz.

Senior is perhaps most famously remembered for his win in the 2012 Australian Open, the success sandwiched between victories by some of the game's biggest names including Adam Scott, Geoff Ogilvy, Rory McIlroy and Jordan Spieth.

The tournament will offer a $25,000 purse and will be played over 36 holes on Monday, March 28 and Tuesday, March 29.

Part of the Australian Legends Tour, the tournament has not been contested for the past two years because of COVID-19.

The Tour includes as many as 60 one and two-day events in all Australian states, as well as New Zealand and Fiji.

Mount Gambier Golf Club professional John Martin said he expected some of the players to arrive early and potentially play in the club's regular Saturday competition, as well as having a practice round on Sunday.

"A lot of these guys are still capable of putting together two quality rounds," Martin said.

"If the conditions are good I wouldn't be surprised if you need something like 10-under for the two rounds to win.

"Someone like Peter Senior is still a world-class player and it's possible we'll get some more big names like Peter Lonard and Peter Fowler."

Harwood, who has 34 professional wins to his credit around the world and Joyner have both posted multiple wins on the Legends Tour, while Diaz is a four-time winner on the Australasian PGA Tour.

Sponsorship opportunities are still available on three holes and enquiries should be directed to Martin on 8725 1619.

Captain's Trophy a success

THE Blue Lake Golf Club held its first Captains Trophy day on Saturday which was deemed a huge success.

Sponsored by the respective men's and women's captains, David Adkins and Helen Myers, there were extra novelty holes and the chance for all players to double up on the prizes for outright win, grade wins and place-getters, as well as long drives, pro shots and nearest to pins.

Close to 140 players contested the event and in a break from tradition, prize winners were presented with their prizes at a function later that night, well attended by more than 80 people at the bistro for dinner and a chance to win more prizes.

With all due respect to over all winner, Robert Martland, he often has to take second stage to his wife Rosemary, who normally takes the accolades with her 8-handicap.

However, if ever there was a time for Robert to steal the limelight it was the inaugural Captains Day and it will be his name that takes pride of place as the first winner in the men's division.

With the course set up to offer no favours, Martland was already two under his handicap of 21 at the turn thanks to his pars on the second and ninth holes.

It was only the benign par 3 fifth hole which had given him any trouble, with his only double-bogey for that nine to turn with 44.

Another par on the 12th hole split bogeys, while a birdie on the 15th set him up for the win.

However, the hands got a little tight on the last hole as he eyed off the finish line, but managed to curtail the damage with his only other double-bogey, still closing with 42 for a round of 86-21-65.

A Grade winner Jarrod Ryan would have wished there were a few more holes to play, almost catching Martland with a closing nine of 36 off the stick.

Unable to convert any of his birdie attempts on the front nine proved costly for Ryan, turning with 39 but opening the back nine with par, par, birdie, birdie had him on track to snatch the trophy.

Two bogeys on the last two holes saw him settle for the grade win.

There was a three-way tie behind Ryan for the last two podium places, with Rob Ellis, Anthony Riddoch and Steve Jelly all finishing on nett 69.

After a fairly average 42 off the stick on the front nine, Ellis was all over the place on the back, alternating pars with a bogey, two double-bogeys and a birdie to finish with a 39 to finish in second place.

Riddoch matched Ellis over the back nine, also throwing in his own birdie on the 14th hole but his handicap of eight meant his 37 could only see him settle for third.

The smooth swinging Steve Jelly was the unlucky golfer to miss out, quite content to have played under his handicap of seven but would regret the double bogey on the 13th hole which cost him in the count-back.

Craig Donaldson returned to form just in time to take out the B Grade win with his round of 83-16-67.

After a good opening nine of two under his handicap, Donaldson would have hoped for a bigger finish than just the grade win but three double-bogeys on the inward nine took its toll.

He almost made amends with a birdie on the 15th but he will be left with feeling he may have left some shots out on the course.

Another count-back was required to separate second and third, with veteran Kevin Howell and Matthew Kurzman both finishing on 68.

Despite a double-bogey on the last hole, Howell's consistency was the deciding factor in gaining second with his splits of 42 and 40, while Kurzman, despite being in the box seat after a 41 on the front, let it slip with an inward 45 to be relegated to third.

Ben Mackay almost let the C Grade win slip out of his hands with a triple-bogey on the last hole but he had returned a strong front nine to set up the win.

Thanks to a birdie on the ninth hole, Mackay made the turn with 43 and a par on the 10th had him setting his sights on the outright win.

However, a rough middle part of the back nine brought him down to earth but he will still be ecstatic to have shot under par and take the winner's spoils.

While both Adrian O'Donnell and Jamie Burnett had birdies in their rounds, O'Donnell's two came on the back nine which was the difference in the count-back for second and third.

O'Donnell had splits of 46 and 45 while Burnett could only match with a 48 in his nett 70.

The unfortunate Jelly leads the list of place getters who all took home double their ball prizes.

He was joined by Michael Watts, Callum Harvey, Barry Humphries 70, Russell Lingham, James Parker, Tim Smith, Garry Von Duve 71, David Lamont, Marc Dalton, Jim Ferrazzola and Josh Gale on 72.

Gale also cleaned out the eagle's nest with his three on the 17th hole, while Brad Talbot and David Johnston won the respective pro shots on the fifth and 16th.

Nearest the pins were won by John Brown (A Grade), Roger Gale (B) and Burnett (C).

Novelty events were won by Gordon with his second shot on the ninth hole and long drives went to Ryan, Kurzman and O'Donnell in their grades.

Steen set to return to the top grade action

TUESDAY'S midweek stroke competition at the Blue Lake Golf Club saw Tony Steen display some cold, hard steeliness to take the win with his round of 78-13-65.

Having recently dropped out of A Grade, Steen was out to finally put a round together and fight his way back into the premier division.

All looked on track with a pair of opening pars but a double-bogey on the third hole was evidence of some rust in his game.

Another couple of pars saw him eke out a respectable 41, with a superb birdie on the 14th hole enough to bring his game home strongly, closing with a neat 37 to take the win.

Second-placed Chris Hoggan has the game any aspiring golfer would do well to emulate, embracing timing and power and both of those were evident on Tuesday.

An opening birdie had him out of the blocks quickly but he gave that back on the eighth hole with an unexpected double-bogey.

His 40 off the stick still had him under his handicap and he went one better on the inward nine with the help of five consecutive pars.

After a scratchy finish to his front nine, the last thing Milton Bignell was thinking about was being involved in a count-back for a podium prize, even more so with another triple-bogey on the 10th.

But he showed the fortitude he is renowned for and knuckled down, bouncing straight back with a birdie on the 11th hole.

From then on the only other hole to give him any trouble was the par 3 16th but he still managed to close five strokes under his handicap on that nine, ending up with a 91-23-68.

Any time a scratch golfer finds himself in a count-back they know they are going to struggle to get the chocolates and that is the exact situation Dan Christian found himself in.

The head greenkeeper could be found back at the bar shaking his head in disbelief, shooting a two-under the card splits of 34 and not featuring in the prize list.

The joys and frustration of playing off scratch.

Tyson Ploenges is beginning to understand how Christian feels, shooting a 73 off the stick and being rewarded with a ball prize.

Along with Christian and Ploenges, other ball winners were Jim Ferrazzola 71, Wayne Dunford, Trevor Finnis, Bert Kamphuis, Russell Lingham and Andrew Ferguson all on 72.

Ian Bown took out the pro shot, while Ploenges was rewarded for his excellence with the putter.

Consistency the catalyst

THE Blue Lake Golf Club women competed in their inaugural Captains Day on Saturday, sponsored by Helen Myers, with all prize money doubled as well as the chance to put their name first on the trophy.

Attracting a large field of 23 players, most struggled to play to their handicap but the winner on the day was Johanna Gogan, playing off a 33, as her consistency proved the catalyst for the win.

While not setting the course on fire, Gogan knew if she could improve marginally on her outward nine a possibility of a win was there and that was what she did, shaving three strokes off for a round of 103-33-70 to fight off Jayne Oberer and Fiona Punton who all tied Gogan's nett 70.

Oberer showed she has the talent to take her game to the next level with successive pars on the fourth and fifth holes but unfortunately she could not replicate that on the inward nine, parring only the par 3 14th.

Her closing 54 put her back into the clutches of a count-back and thankfully for her that par was the difference between second and third, just edging out Punton by the single stroke.

There were novelties galore up for offer, with Ronda Edwards cleaning up most of them.

She won the long drive on the 18th hole, plus the pro shot on the fifth and 16th in her division.

The other prizes were won by Sue Agars (nearest the pin on the second hole), Rosemary Martland (long drive on the fourth), Jorja Morale (NTP on the 12th), Di Perryman (second shot on the 15th) and Oberer taking out the long drives on both the fourth and 18th holes.

Big year for leading trainer

GREYHOUND RACING

ONE greyhound that enjoyed his day back at Tara Raceway last Sunday was the David Peckham trained Aston Olenna, the inaugural 305-metre track record holder with a time of 17.49 seconds.

The 37-kilogram fawn dog has been off the scene since early December when, as a $2 favourite, he fell in the SA final of the National Straight Track Championship at Murray Bridge.

Recently, at the Angle Park Greyhound of the Year dinner, he was announced the 2021 SA Short Course Greyhound of the Year.

Last Sunday, the Mount Gambier Greyhound Racing Club's 2021 Ian Badger Trainer of the Year award was presented to Peckham and the 2021 Mount Gambier Greyhound of the Year award to Cap Abbott's Another Pick.

Given that Aston Olenna had commenced his racing career at Tara Raceway prior to winning the Murray Bridge Straight Track Championship and the SA Straight Track Cup, the local club extended an invitation to Peckham to bring the dog along.

Aston Olenna's Short Course GOTY win, as well as inclusion in the GRSA 100 Club (as was Tracie Price), wrapped up a big year for Peckham who ended the Tara Raceway year with

At the presentation, Peckham made special mention of owners Ray Borda (Aston greyhounds) and the Nineofus Syndicate.

But he also acknowledged all the owners who had contributed to make his a record-breaking year.

In a year that had seen plenty of kilometres clocked up, he thanked Christine Yourgules for her help at the Allendale East kennels and her assistance when travelling to away tracks.

Allen, also a former leading trainer, was awarded life membership of the Mount Gambier Greyhound Racing Club in 1998.

“It must have been 30-odd years ago but I still remember David coming home all excited one day and telling me that chief steward Michael Robinson had just granted him a trainer's licence,” the proud father said.

Price sets sights on Group 3 cup with track record holders

GREYHOUND RACING

COMPTON-BASED leading greyhound trainer Tracie Price, still chasing his first Mount Gambier Cup, looks set to play a major role in this year's inaugural Group 3 event.

Another four winners - Zoe's Way, Starlight Dusty, Giant's Flash and Rhonda Lily - at last Sunday's Tara Raceway Category 2 meeting marked the return of the 512-metre track record holder Giant's Flash.

The son of Banjo Boy x Navada Flame defeated Phil Lenahan's Summer Classic contender Lektra Rhino by four lengths in the Klaassens Contractors Stake (512m) in 29.39 seconds - three lengths outside the record.

Later, Price said he hoped to have his strongest-ever Mount Gambier Cup line-up which could also include Giant's Flash's litter sister Minnie Banjo, the 400-metre record holder at Tara Raceway.

“Look, she's very fast early and after a recent post-to-post trial here I'd be surprised if she can't run out a pretty quick 512 metres,” he said.

From a Mount Gambier Cup point of view, Worrolong part-owner and trainer Steve Bartholomew was also more than happy with Mary Bridget's win in the Progreyhoundtips.com Stake (512m).

Having her first run over the distance since the end of October, the brindle bitch was always travelling like a winner, eventually running away with four lengths to spare over Rotate in 29.70 seconds.

“I thought she did the job pretty well and there should be further improvement yet,” said Bartholomew, who trained Galactic Athena, winner of the 2019 Mount Gambier Cup.

“We'll continue to monitor her progress, but at this stage we have the cup in mind.”

Greyhound Racing SA's announcement last week that the Mount Gambier Cup (512m) had been elevated to Group 3 status corresponded nicely with the news that Carlin & Gazzard MG, through sales manager Adrian Jones, had finalised a major sponsorship deal.

As part of the deal, the long-time local award-winning new and used car dealership will sponsor the Mount Gambier Cup, the final of which will be run on Sunday, April 10.

Run continuously since 1981, the cup assumed Listed status in 2018 and carried first prizemoney of $15,000.

The elevation to Group 3 status will see winning connections receive $25,000.

The Murray Bridge Cup final (455m), which will be run on Sunday, March 20, will also assume Group 3 status.

The two clubs will now come into line with the Gawler Greyhound Racing Club which runs its Group 3 Gawler Cup in November.

The two bonuses that had previously been in place for the Murray Bridge and Mount Gambier Cups will continue - a $5000 bonus if the same greyhound is successful and a $5000 trainer bonus if the same trainer wins both cups (not necessarily with the same greyhound).

Local racing set for return

DAVID GILBERT

david.gilbert@tbwtoday.com.au

FOLLOWING a break of more than 20 months, racing is set to resume at Glenburnie next Wednesday, February 23.

Six official trials were conducted last Friday and, to the satisfaction of all concerned, the course proper received the much awaited tick of approval from jockeys and racing officials.

In attendance from Adelaide were Racing SA Chief Operations Officer Vaughn Lynch and chairman of stewards Johann Petzer.

The six jockeys to put the gallopers to the test were locals Kaye Walters and Geoff O'Loughlin along with four from Adelaide (Anna Jordsjo, Emily Finnegan, Alice Lindsay and Eran Boyd).

"It's onwards and upwards for racing to proceed next Wednesday at Mount Gambier," Lynch told The Border Watch.

"The track was presented perfectly, the jockeys reported a good coverage of grass and the horses hardly marked it."

Mount Gambier racing club CEO Brett Watson was pleased with the return.

"By the time we race next Wednesday, horses will have worked on the course proper on three different occasions," he said.

"We are looking forward to welcoming everybody back to the races next Wednesday and we have already taken several luncheon bookings."

If Mount Gambier Racing Club officials are expecting the public to swarm back to Glenburnie after the prolonged absence, then they may be in for a shock.

Here's hoping they do arrive in droves as the facilities at Glenburnie for the members and public are second to none for a rural racecourse.

However, crowds so far this season at meetings in the Limestone Coast, with the odd exception, have been poor.

Seven races have been programmed, including the Greg Richardson Memorial in honour of the former committeeman and keen racing identity.

For those visitors or locals who may have forgotten, Glenburnie racecourse is that vast expanse of land on the south western corner of the intersection of the Princes and Glenelg highways, some eight kilometres east of the city.

LOOKING THE GOODS

Tatiara trainer Darryl Dodson has always had the happy knack of producing a horse every now and again that has been good enough to win in the city.

Last racing season Dodson won four metropolitan races, two of them with Just Chipping Away.

He now has a galloper who is showing enormous promise to suggest he may be the best galloper Dodson has had in his stable since Texan Warney.

Young Jimmy is doing everything right at present and now boasts the excellent record of four wins and a third from five starts.

Following a debut third at Oakbank last December, Young Jimmy has chalked up four successive wins and is going through his classes with aplomb.

A maiden win at Naracoorte over Christmas was followed by two wins at Penola in January in BM 58 and BM 64 grade.

The six-year-old gelding faced easily his biggest test last Saturday in Adelaide in BM 68 company over 1200 metres.

An outside barrier (12) and a significant betting drift ($10-$15) meant nothing as Young Jimmy jumped brilliantly for apprentice Ben Price and prevailed in a blanket finish by a long head to give Price the second leg of a winning double.

"We will wait a week and see how his humour is," the quietly spoken Dodson said in relation to Young Jimmy's immediate racing future

WINNERS KEEP COMING

Since Christmas, the winners have been rolling in at regular intervals for Glenburnie co-trainers Bob and Kane Post.

In that period the Posts have been in the winner's stall on seven occasions, four of those in country Victoria.

Their latest success was at Werribee last Sunday when the consistent performer Melissa Kate ($7.50) finally broke through to win her second race at start number 25.

Two recent thirds at Warrnambool and Donald showed Melissa Kate (named after Wayne Walters' two daughters) was close to another victory.

Not that the win was achieved easily at Werribee as the five-year-old mare only won by a nose for jockey Kate Walters.

HALIDON NO LONGER A RACING VENUE

As it has turned out, last year's annual race meeting in September at Halidon for the Mindarie-Halidon Racing Club was the last time - according to Racing SA - the club will race at the track in the scrub between Taillem Bend and Loxton.

In its wisdom, Racing SA opted to close Halidon as a venue, but there was a backlash against the decision from most in the racing industry.

The decision was reviewed by the board of Racing SA last month and they have stood by their original decision to close the track.

The Mindarie-Halidon Racing Club has been offered the opportunity to stage its meeting at Murray Bridge, 100 kilometres away.

In my opinion it is a howler of a decision by Racing SA and a nail in the coffin of country racing in SA to cease racing at Halidon.

It was one of the truly great country race meetings in South Australia, if not Australia, as I witnessed last year when crowd capacity was reached (how often do you see that these days?) and people were turned away.

A dejected Mindarie-Halidon racing secretary Krystina Durdin said the club had received a letter from Racing SA advising of the latest decision but that no official reasons were outlined as to why the track was closed.

LET THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG

It has been a much quieter start for the local racing season for Naracoorte trainer Sue Murphy and, as we enter the second half of the season, Murphy sits in fifth spot on the premiership ladder with seven wins but only two wins behind the leader Darryl Dodson.

Murphy bounced back into winning form with a double on Naracoorte cup day last Sunday week and Wimmera racing journalist Josh Miller let the cat out of the bag for punters to back one of her winners, Hi Smokey.

Murphy slipped over the border to the Horsham jump outs and Hi Smokey caught the eye with an all-the-way win, easily beating proven Melbourne gallopers Flying Mascot and Lunar Fox.

In his Winning Post column prior to the Naracoorte Cup, Miller wrote Hi Smokey ran a second quicker than any other winner that morning and went on to mention Hi Smokey was going to run and be hard to beat at Naracoorte.

Punters latched on to the information and Hi Smokey was backed from $10 into $3.70 favourite, and ran his rivals off their legs to win by nearly three lengths.

HAD HER SUPPORTERS CHEERING

Some good bets were won on the Steve Fennell trained Miss Peggy O'Neill at Ararat trots on Sunday afternoon in the NR 52-56 pace.

The five-year-old mare started the $3 favourite, backed in from $4.40 and led all the way to beat fellow local Yappas Courage by half a neck to make it three wins from her past five starts.

Thankfully, the final Tuesday night meeting of the season for local harness racing is next Tuesday, February 22 before returning to mainly Friday night fixtures.

LED ROM GO TO WHOA: The Steve Fennell trained Miss Peggy O'Neill made it three wins from her past five starts with an all the way win at Ararat last Sunday, holding off the fast finishing fellow local Yappas Courage.

JUNIOR PODIUM: Runner-up Sean Tye, winner Molly Opperman, fourth place Glenn Tye, third place Eddie Buckland.

SENIOR PODIUM: Fastest time Nick Kidman, race winner Mike Bakker, runner-up Justyna Grosse, third place Troy Mustey.

Fresh route to evade heat

WITH the forecast early in the week predicting high temperatures on Sunday, the Mount Gambier Cycling Club committee elected to change the race route from Tantanoola to the regular Caves Road course and begin earlier than usual to avoid any extreme weather.

It did not dampen the enthusiasm of the racers who nominated, with 29 senior riders lining up for the 25km race.

The forecast north-westerly wind had arrived for the race, so the riders would enjoy a tail wind run down to the turnaround mark, but a head wind on the return journey.

Four junior riders began the racing with a 10km handicap race.

Glenn Tye was the first rider to leave, beginning with a 90-second gap between himself and the duo of Sean Tye and Eddie Buckland.

They were to be chased in turn by Molly Opperman who began after a further 60 seconds had elapsed.

Only 4km into the race it became apparent Opperman was in the zone and it was not to be Glenn Tye's day.

At the turnaround mark Opperman had already caught and passed the other three riders and set off in search of the finish line.

After initially trying to hold her wheel for as long as possible, Sean Tye and Buckland set themselves for a final sprint to determine the podium placings, with Tye leading Buckland over the line, followed by Glenn Tye.

Following the junior race, the first senior bunch prepared to set off to provide something for the other riders to chase.

Leading the way was Jonathon Kidman, Ainsley Curtis, Dianne Major, Louise Abraham, Damian Buckley and Jason Buckland.

After some strong performances in previous weeks they were given just a three-minute head start over the chasing group of Jen Buckland, Rick Heaven, Troy Mustey, Mike Bakker, Justyna Grosse and Chris O'Donnell.

They were followed two minutes later by Mick Childs and Elmer Buckland, then a four-minute gap until the group containing Bruce McLaughlin, Gerard Coote, Liam Fielding, John Cranwell and Nathan Rokebrand began their chase.

A minute later Spek Peake, Harry Opperman, Phil Stasiw, Patrick Langsmith and Craig Andre began their race, followed two minutes later by Rob Mann, Jami Buckley, Riley Hill and Matthew Opperman, with Nick Kidman riding solo from the rear a further minute later, 13 minutes after the first riders had set off.

Speeds were high for all riders on the outward leg, taking advantage of the tail wind.

Most groups were able to maintain their cohesion, but unfortunately for Jen Buckland and Heaven, they were unable to hold on to the rest of their group over the initial bumps but tried to latch on to the faster packs chasing.

O'Donnell also found the energy gel he consumed before the race disagreed with him and had to withdraw.

At the turnaround, the limit riders were able to turn first, but the chasing trio of Grosse, Mustey and Bakker were close behind.

The combination of the headwind and the arrival of the next group split the limit group apart, with Curtis and Damian Buckley latching on to the train with 11km remaining in the race.

The groups were coming together with approximately 5km to go, when Elmer Buckland unfortunately clipped the wheel of the rider ahead of him and fell.

Managing to keep clear of the chasing riders, he had some grazing and was given first aid at the site by some riders and the follow car.

For many of the riders the race continued, with combined groups working to chase down the five riders in front.

However, the gap was just a little too large, with Bakker (48:57) taking the victory ahead of Grosse and Mustey.

Nick Kidman claimed fastest time (51:15 elapsed, 38:15 race time).

IT was a tough day for Penola bowlers in Saturday's Open bowls Pennants.

The Division 2 side lost to Mount Gambier RSL by 30 shots, 44-74, Division 3 went down to Millicent Blue by seven shots, 75-68 and Division 4 lost to Naracoorte by 21 shots, 60-81.

The Friday Pennants return Friday after a week off to play the last home-and-away game.

Division 1 heads to Millicent to play Red, Division 2 hosts Millicent and Division 3 travels to Robe.

Saturday's Open Division 2 side plays Naracoorte at home and Division 3 travels to Mount Gambier RSL.

LADIES CHAMPIONSHIP PAIRS RUNNERS-UP: Jean Rogers and Kathy Brooks.

LADIES CHAMPIONSHIP PAIRS WINNERS: Christine Skeer and Heather Lambert.

Slide down the ladder

IT was slide down to fifth position for Robe Bowls Club's Division 1 and 3 Pennant sides, with just one game remaining for the season.

Despite the home green advantage, Robe's Division 1 side went down to Mount Gambier RSL 58 shots, 2 points to 71-10.

Peter Gregory, Glen Wright, Stephen Kennett and Harold Manton were the only team to win, defeating Ron Ploenges' team 22-19.

Peter Roachock's team were defeated by Strawb Masters' side 17-28 and David Robinson's team went down to Wayne Legutko's 19-24.

In Division 3 Robe 74-2 were defeated by Mount Gambier RSL 79-10.

The only winners were Josh Waddell, Bill Cook, Jo Sykes and Gordon Brown 26 shots to Ian Moulden's team 23.

Dean Woodward's team were defeated by Joy Bilney's team 31-33 and Deane Nankivell's team went down to David O'Donnell's 17-23.

The Robe Caledonian and The Pastry Place were the sponsors for last Thursday's social bowls, with some visitors joining in.

Third on 34 points were Lorraine Denning, Peter DeLaine and Deane Nankivell, second on 36 were Mark Murphy, Trevor Wagner and Bill Cook, while the winners on 36 points were Terry Reidy, visitor Gary Cove and David Robinson.

Perfect weather for tennis

IDEAL conditions greeted Southern Ports tennis players for Round 13 of the season on Saturday.

The results saw some movement on the ladder, with the Koalas going down to Frances in an upset 14-10 result.

As a result the Koalas went from second to fifth on the ladder, while Frances climbed up fourth place.

The Wombats had a solid 17-7 win over Millicent/Beachport and moved into second spot.

The Robe Roosters faced an in-form Kingston Crays side and claimed the win to move up a position to third spot, while Kingston dropped to eighth.

Despite struggling to fill a side, Naracoorte continued its dominance with another strong 16-8 win over the Cockatoos.

Tie-breaks were the order of the day at Frances, while three-set winners were Trevor Smart (Koalas), along with Flo Burgwin, Craig Jones, Riley Staude and Sophie Ford for the Eagles.

Robe produced some tight results early, along with some long sets to keep the spectators entertained.

At the end of the day the Roosters claimed five of six doubles to win the day 17-7.

Three-set winners were Alex Clements, Tim Malone, Simon Ferguson, Barb Hensel and Breanna Ferguson for the Roosters, while Bianca Cunneen was the only one for the Crays.

Both the Wombats and Millicent/Beachport missed some players, with the final score reflecting the struggle from the latter.

The Wombats claimed the win 17-7, with some tight contests throughout the day.

The mixed doubles were reasonably one-sided, with the Wombats claiming all but one set.

The singles were a little closer but enough for Millicent/Beachport to mount a real challenge.

Confidence was low on Saturday for both the Cockatoos and Naracoorte after a week of scrambling to find players.

Naracoorte claimed a strong 16-8 win set up with a 5-1 lead after the mixed doubles.

The singles were more even but in the end Naracoorte was simply too strong.

The next two weeks will see wins crucial as the ladder tightens up.

The match of the round will see a Lucindale showdown between the Wombats and Koalas.

The Wombats want to lock in second spot, while Koalas are only sitting fifth by a single point so will need to secure the win to creep back up the ladder.

FOCUSED: Jane Fitzgerald focuses on a forehand return during the weekend's round of Southern Ports tennis.

Pictures: SUBMITTED

The Robe Roosters will look to fill their best side to claim a win over the dominant Naracoorte.

A win will keep the Roosters in the mix for the top five.

The Robe Rebels will be pumped as they climbed to seventh and sit just four points off Millicent/Beachport but will have a tough task against the Eagles.

Finally the sixth-placed Millicent/Beachport face eighth-placed Kingston Crays in a must-win for both teams, which should provide an entertaining clash.

BIG SERVE: Leanne Graetz serves during Round 13 of Southern Ports tennis.

Ocean or river, plenty of fish were biting

JAMIE COATES

FISHING

A WARM and calm weekend across the South East spurred plenty of anglers into hitting the water in search of a few fish.

The ocean and river guys did well, so there is plenty to report from all angles.

The offshore crew found good numbers of blue eye and gemfish in the deeper water over the shelf, along with a mixed bag of ocean perch and mixed sharks.

In a bit closer we are still seeing the great run of shark continue.

I have seen gummy and school shark both over 20kg this week and the numbers have been brilliant.

I know of some crews who have caught and released more than 20 sharks in a session over the last couple of weeks, so get stuck into them while you can.

The reef fish out there have also been in good numbers this week.

Snapper, terakhi, knifejaw and flathead just to name a few have all been excellent.

There is still no tuna news anywhere locally yet, but now there are plenty of fishos talking about it, so I reckon we will see anglers out having a crack very soon.

Inshore fishing has been excellent again for most.

The snapper, the whiting and even the squid have all been in great numbers and they are well spread out.

Whiting to 50cm, snapper to 65cm and big kilo-plus squid have been boated this week and it really does not look like slowing down any time soon.

The hot spots so far have been Danger Point, Racecourse Bay, Port MacDonnell breakwater and Carpenter Rocks.

The land-based guys targeting the same species have found their success at Deep Creek, Nene Valley and Carpenter Rocks.

It is great to see so many people getting down and having a crack off the beach and it makes it even better when you can take home a feed of delicious fresh fish.

The surf fishos have had a busy weekend across the South East with the South East Amateur Surf Fishing Club holding a competition, with plenty of fish caught.

The winner was Ryan Crute with a nice gummy shark and second place went to Graeme Ploenges with a nice snapper.

There has been news from all over the place this week - fish from the other side of the Glenelg River by anglers who do not mind walking into the beach, through to Piccininni, Browns Beach and Carpenter Rocks.

There has been a handful of salmon this week in varying sizes from under-size through to a couple of kilos.

Baits are still the best bet, but if you find a concentrated school of them, by all means throw a lure around.

The gar numbers are again pretty good, with more and more fishos reporting those bigger fish.

There have been fish from Livingstons Bay, Cape Douglas and the Petrified Forrest to name some of the more common areas, but lots of the smaller and lesser-fished bays are also worth a look.

As per normal, mullet, tommy ruff and silver trevally have all been in good numbers in the same spots, so mix it up a bit.

The Glenelg River is starting to produce a few more fish now.

The mulloway news has been pretty light on, but there have been some nice fish from this last week.

The Isle of Bags and Simsons area on the river have been the hot spots for mulloway, but you know what they are like - there today and gone the next.

The bream and estuary perch have been in good numbers and they have come from right down the front on the sand flats, to the way upper reaches and in the sticks.

Regardless of your favourite style of fishing, you should manage a few.

The forecast for the coming weekend looks like the wind will be staying light, but the swell increasing.

Land-based and up the river should be excellent.

DOUBLE PLAY: Millicent/Federals catcher Tom Winkley makes an out at home base then looks for the double at first.

Diamond 1 back in shape

THE return of baseball to Diamond 1 at Blue lake Sports Park was well received on the weekend, with Division 1 double-headers set down to test the damaged outfield.

The main field was back to playable after serious corella damage, thanks to a huge efforts from volunteers.

Saturday afternoon saw South play host to Millicent/Federals in the first of two games.

South got out of the blocks first in the third innings with a run across the plate.

However, Jack Hateley was back to his best for the visitors with three hits and turning a rare feat with a triple play to get Millicent/Federals right amongst it.

The Bandits continued to pressure a South outfit who just could not shake them and after the time was up, it was South by a nose, with the final score 4-3.

Game 2 saw more of a batting game, with runs flowing.

A change in rotation and positional plays were evident and a number of errors started to effect both sides due to fatigue.

South found themselves on the back foot with Millicent/Federals putting four runs across the plate in the first bat of the game, which left South coach Bruce Morale with some thinking to do.

Millicent looked a class above with the bat in the second game and held a 13-4 lead with just South left to bat in the game.

However, South would not die wondering and when they clicked, they clicked.

Run after run crossed the plate and suddenly it was close.

South found themselves with a runner on second and third, with two out and needing just one run to level the score after plating eight in the fifth inning.

Unfortunately it was heart break for the Indians as Millicent held on and secured its second win of the season.

Sunday baseball returned to Mount Gambier for the first time 20 years and it was the top sides of competition going head-to-head.

Centrals simply are a class above the rest and have a great system in place.

Tigers are right on their heels and need to click to get the results they are chasing.

The crowd was witness to a finals-like atmosphere and a fiery contest between two clubs.

It was Tigers who pounced early to bring home two runs and put the pressure on Centrals.

Centrals, as always, bounced back and crossed three runs in the first inning to lead.

From there it was a tug-of-war game.

Tigers hit back with another two runs but again Centrals were able to respond.

The two sides went toe-to-toe and tensions were at boiling point.

Centrals proved why they are top of the ladder when they plated another three runs to take a 9-5 lead.

Tigers just could not get the runs home, leaving a huge 12 runs on base and let the game slip by, with the points going to Centrals 9-5.

Game two was all Centrals, as Tigers were flat and lacked drive.

Centrals took the advantage early, while Tigers again failed to capitalise with runners in scoring position.

Centrals found the gaps early and held a strong 4-1 lead, which in the end was the final tally.

For Centrals it means a grand final berth already in the bag, while Tigers coach Karl Ransom accepted Centrals are the best in the competition for a reason.

LOOKING FOR RUNS: Wanderers' Rej Smith looks to cream a ball during the weekend's round of softball at Blue Lake Sports Park.

Tough day for softballers

CORCORDES United overcame both Covid-19 and their opposition in Wanderers on Saturday, taking the win despite missing pitcher Dana Jones and key play-maker Codie Jackway.

Wanderers welcomed back Em Hart and Leanne Little and both reached base in an opening innings which saw Wanderers score three as Montanna Millard looked to find the strike zone.

Concordes replied with two runs thanks to RBI's from Hannah Taylor and Bec Von Duvé, who shone with the bat, recording three hits on the day.

Lily Clifford-Finch placed a perfect hit to the vacant right field area for a triple to open the second innings for Wanderers and was scored along with Hart, bringing Wanderers to five runs.

However, that was the end of their scoring as Millard tightened the screws as the game progressed, wracking up five strikeouts after a slow start.

Concordes kicked into gear in the final innings with consecutive hits including a triple to Millard, a double to Taylor and singles to both Von Duvé and Amber Lindquist to pile on eight runs to end the game 14-5, despite the match being tight for all-but 10 minutes of playing time.

Rej Smith pitched accurately for Wanderers but could not stop the hot bats of Concordes, who hope to secure a top-two finish and claim a double chance in the finals.

Similarly affected by player outs, Concordes White fell to a spirited Demons outfield 7-1.

Demons took their opportunities with both hands and deserved the win, producing enough hits against the fill-in pitchers of Sam Brown and Jo Hopgood to get the runs on the board.

Concordes could not create any momentum with the bat and apart from two hits to Linda Dodds and doubles to Brown and Maddie Bowd, they did not trouble the scorer much.

This was mostly due to the excellent pitching of Jordi Gower, catching of Bree Ridding and fielding of Cody Manning.

Despite their frustrations Concordes will not be too concerned about the result and will look forward to their players returning and rebounding in their last two games before finals.

League champion, Wanderers' Rej Smith backed up in the heat by throwing every innings of their double-header, showing pure grit and determination against Warriors

Blue and also scoring one of her team's two runs for the day via a clinical double to left field in the first innings.

Em Hart was scored having previously lined a triple to centre which scored speedster Fiona Finch.

Apart from Lily Clifford-Finch's single in the fifth, that was all she wrote for Wanderers batters against Blue's pitcher Leyna Bruggemann.

Easily the best play of the day went to Jasmine Disselbach who executed a 9-3 and anyone who was watching would have thought it was a grand final with the excitement generated.

She also smashed a ball to short, surprising even herself, after having legged out a single to third base.

Disselbach's crisp high fives lifted the Blues energy, along with the supportive cheering of Elly Hogben and McLean in the outfield.

McLean added another cracking single to her season tally, along with Melissa Chuck, who has been on fire with the bat and dominating RBIs.

Jarvo Queale had a day out with the bat. An early shot looked destined for the home run fence but found the left field line meaning Queale had to run out two bases.

Vicki Taylor was calm and composed at second base for Blues, making two key plays and getting on base each time.

Daena Wombwell also had patient at-bats, picking two walks while catching in the heat.

Bec White smashed one up the middle for an RBI, while Bruggemann was relieved to have regained the skill to catch a fly ball while striking out six hitters in five innings.

Blues need to win most, if not all, of their remaining matches to have a chance at making the finals, while Wanderers remain alive in the finals hunt.

Concordes United 14 d Wanderers 5. Safe hits - Concordes United: H. Taylor, B. Von Duvé 3, L. McCallum, M. Sutherland, M. Millard, A. Lindquist 1; Wanderers: L. Clifford-Finch, E. Hart, F. Finch, L. Little 1.

Demons 7 d Concordes White 1. Safe hits - Demons: C. Manning 2, B. Ridding 1; Concordes White: L. Dodds 2, S. Brown, M. Bowd 1.

Warriors Blue 10 d Wanderers 2. Safe hits - Warriors Blue: A. Queale 2, M. Chuck, S. McLean, J. Disselbach 1; Wanderers: L. Clifford-Finch, E. Hart, R. Smith 1.

Warriors White v Warriors Blue postponed to next weekend.

Format to attract juniors

THE Lower South East Hockey Association is set to run a new introduction to hockey program for juniors, Hookin2Hockey.

The five-week program, commencing on February 25, aims to introduce new players to the sport and give juniors and parents alike the chance to trial hockey and be introduced to clubs before the season commences.

All equipment is provided by the league, with players only requiring their own mouth guard to participate.

Junior co-ordinator Ali Shephard hopes to see the junior competition thrive this year after a couple of tough years due to Covid-19 disruptions.

“Lower South East hockey, like all sports, has had to face many challenges throughout the pandemic, but we have managed to maintain our junior competition every year, even playing a 10-round season for the kids in 2020 when most other sports were cancelled,” she said.

“In 2022 our renewed focus is building our junior grades up again, being both Under 12’s and Under 15’s, and we look forward to welcoming as many new players as we can through this great new initiative.”

Participants will benefit from the best junior coaches in the league and will have the opportunity to learn everything from the basic skills for beginners through to match play and more advanced drills for those that have had some previous experience.

Hookin2Hockey is just $35 for five sessions, which will be run on Friday nights from 5-6pm on the turf at Blue Lake Sports Park.

Hockey SA and LSEHA hope to break down the perception that hockey is an expensive sport.

“With the use of sports vouchers, most kids can play a whole season of Under 12’s for as little as $10-$20, with no weekly match fees, no spectator fees and with clubs providing full uniforms as well,” league president Lochie Nisbet said.

NEW START: Thomas Shephard (back left), Ali Shephard, Monique Shephard (front left), Lucy Hopgood, Clare Hopgood are keen to see new players for hockey this season.

LSEHA also recognises and accommodates the kids who play netball and football, scheduling junior competitions at times to avoid clashes so kids can try both sports in their junior years.

At the conclusion of Hookin2Hockey the league hopes to run Let’s Play Hockey, which is a more games-based program, from April 1 until April 29 (excluding Good Friday).

The program is designed for new players (5-12 years old) or existing Under 9’s, which would give kids nine weeks of experience before the season starts if they chose to participate in both programs.

To register for the program go to www.hockey.org.au/hookin2hockey or contact Ali Shephard for more details on Isahajuniors@gmail.com or 0408 899 719.

Blue skies but tough conditions

A BLUE, cloudless sky did not guarantee a gentle day on the water for the boats of the Port MacDonnell Sailing Club.

The forecast for 19-20 knot winds was accurate and, with the chop, it was a hard but exhilarating afternoon’s work for the 10 boats that took to the water.

Race officer Dave Evans and Chris Jacobs on the rescue boat set a classic course for the two races, which also made up part of the club’s Austral 20 championship.

It was a tight start line, with Noalex, Sherwin Road crossing first, with Austral20, Mirage close behind.

The fleet stayed tight, with all 10 boats starting in the same direction to the first mark.

The fleet spread out after rounding the first mark and Sherwin Road, skippered by David Carlyle, held onto the lead to take line honours.

Sonata Sport, Harmony with Don McLennan at the helm came across the line second.

The conditions did not ease off for the second race and Sabre, Billy, with Nick Watson at the tiller, retired before starting as the conditions were too rough for the small, single-person boat.

It was a closely-contested start line for the second race, with new boat Pinky at the front of the fleet.

Mirage crossed the start line first, with Sherwin Road close behind.

Austral 20, Windy Fred, with skipper Tom Paltridge, and Mirage, skippered by Dennis Illman, had a good tussle during the second race with Windy Fred coming out on top.

Austral 20, Salt Peter with Robin White at the helm also found some competition against Court 650, Pinky, with Jen Jones as skipper, before the Austral 20 pulled away on the last lap.

Line honours in race two also went to Sherwin Road and again Harmony came in close behind.

Stephen Dyble’s Austral 20, Minty and Chris Lynch on Noalex, Sandrine both had breakages and were unable to finish the second race.

Results on class basic handicap

- Race 1: Billy (N. Watson); Sherwin Road (D. Carlyle); Windy Fred (T. Paltridge); Papillon (M. Ferguson); Pinky (J. Jones); Sandrine (C. Lynch); Minty (S. Dyble); Mirage (D. Illman); Harmony (D. McLennan); Salt Peter (R. White).
- Race 2: Windy Fred (T. Paltridge); Sherwin Road (D. Carlyle); Mirage (D. Illman); Pinky (J. Jones); Papillon (M. Ferguson); Salt Peter (R. White); Harmony (D. McLennan); DNF: Sandrine (C. Lynch); Minty (S. Dyble). DNS - Billy (N. Watson).

It was a new track for Johnson but one he simply mastered in his Subaru WRX. Hot on his trail was Sean Day, father of Legend of the Lakes champion Dan Day. Dan was in attendance to watch his father compete in the immaculate Subaru WRX 22B and he did not disappoint. Sean Day was embroiled in a tight battle with Limestone Coast driver Nicholas Cagney in a Mitsubishi EVO. The pair were separated by less than a second, with Day's time of 3:25.60 was enough to claim second place from Cagney with 3:26.11. Various classes saw many makes and models represented to ensure something for everyone, from the fast 4WDs to the smaller Hyundai Excels, Toyota Corollas and many others in between. Day's Subaru drew plenty of attention when it was unveiled at the Legend of the Lakes last year and was just as keenly followed at Twin Peaks. Other oddities also drew attention, such as a miniature Chevrolet Coupe and a US Legend car, both enjoying the two separate hill climbs held in the Limestone Coast. Race director Paul Height said the weekend went well, with few incidents and plenty of enjoyment. He said a change of format this year added an extra challenge to the event. Normally in a hill climb the fastest time for the weekend wins. In the pas, with Twin Peaks, two courses are run, with the combined score on any day the winner. However, this year it changed to include the fastest combined times on both days. "Basically if a car went fast on Saturday and it rained on Sunday no one was going to beat the time," Height said. "Now we do like a Heat 1 for Saturday and a Heat 2 on Sunday. "You combine the two times and that gives you the overall time, so if the weather is not that good on Sunday you still have to go out and run." Just like the Legends of the Lakes Hill Climb, Twin Peaks has grown in popularity. Height said that is partly due to the format with the two separate courses. "Everyone who enters loves it," he said. "There is nowhere else they race where you do one course, then line straight up for the second course. "One course is technical and the other one is a higher horsepower course so you get two variables of the race on one day, straight after the other." The weather provides another variable, along with sand blowing onto the courses from the beach. It all adds up to a challenging and entertaining event. And of course the times have tumbled, with drivers learning the course and their respective intricacies, reaching speeds well over 150kph. "Last year's winner, his time on the second course, which is the fastest course was 52 seconds," Height said. "This year they were down to 48 seconds, which is really fast." Overall Height was pleased with the event, with its own unique setting as a major drawcard. "You sit back and look over the ocean and relax," he said. "It is a great view and a friendly atmosphere."

Sports Park pitch ravaged

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

BLUE Lake Sports Park is still under attack, with ravenous corellas wreaking havoc around the picturesque venue. In good news, baseball returned to Diamond 1 on the weekend, after the recent attacks had rendered the main venue unplayable. Games had been transferred to other venues, including Diamond 3 at BLSP, which appeared virtually untouched. Volunteers rallied to ensure play could return in a timely fashion to Diamond 1, with sand utilised to patch the outfield. Division 1 double-headers were played on both Saturday and Sunday to put the grass to the test and it came up trumps. However, other locations at BLSP have also suffered. While there is ample time before hockey kicks off in the region, the main water-based field has also been under attack. While the synthetic turf may not appear too tasty, it has not been left by the corellas, with extensive damage to marking lines around the field. The cost of repairs could be in the vicinity of $25,000, with suggestions the surface is currently unsafe for play. The South Gambier football oval was also affected somewhat but the Limestone Coast women's Football League has still been able to utilise the ground.

A recent story in The Border Watch suggested the corella problem on cricket's main turf wicket suggested the South Gambier club was on top, with roughly-fashioned scarecrows and plastic hoses resembling snakes helping deter the birds. However, just a few weeks down the track the corellas have again wreaked havoc, with the pitch destroyed and now unplayable for the remainder of the season. Mount Gambier and District Cricket Association president George Kidman said he has been told to forget about the venue for the remainder of the season. As a result a Barber Shield Round 10 home game for South over the next two weeks has been moved to North Sportsman's home venue of Marist Park. Kidman said a big flock of birds must have moved in and even driving around the ground trying to move them on did not work. The corellas clearly discovered the scarecrows and snakes were not real and no threat, before moving onto the wicket and devouring the grass cover. It is the second year in a row the wicket has been attacked, with last season's incident able to be repaired to finish the season. This time there is no chance of play until next summer, with Round 10 the final minor round before finals and the damage to the wicket too extensive. Kidman said the association would work with council to see what could be done moving forward.

DEMISE OF A SCARECROW: The Blue Lake Sports Park turf wicket has suffered significant damage by corellas, with scarecrows strategically placed to deter the birds now of no use.

THE Limestone Coast Women's Football League was split over two venues and two days for Round 3 of the season, with Kybybolite setting the scene for a big Friday night at their home venue.

It was simply one-way traffic for the entirety of the game, with the Cats unable to make an impact.

Kyby was simply relentless, on the back of a seven-goal haul to Della Hannaford.

Sarah Jude, Tyler Atkinson, Georgia Gill, Hannaford, Georgie Maggi and Mykaela Walker were named best for the victors as they pushed hard to the final siren.

Zhane Crawford, Lauren Sykes, Ree Humphries, Emma Lynch, Madison Mutch and Chantelle Johnston were best for the Cats.

Penola 3.2 (20) d Mundulla 1.0 (6)
In the following Friday night fixture, Penola came from a scoreless opening term to claim the win over against Mundulla.

Mundulla opened proceedings with a major score in the first quarter but that was all she wrote.

From there it was all Penola, as the Eagles matched the score in the second term, then continued to build, with a major score and a minor in each of the following quarters.

Angela Broad kicked two goals for the victors, while Dana Koch was the sole contributor for Mundulla.

Caroline McGrath, Nell Eastough, Paris Ackland, Heidi Berkin, Emma MacDonald and Broad were best for the victors, while the honours for Mundulla went to Casey McElroy, Natalie Twigden, Zoe Hawker, Kaylene Nuske, Ashleigh Vincent and Kellsie Turner.

Kongorong 6.6 (42) d Kalangadoo 5.0 (30)
The competition moved to Blue Lake Sports Park on Sunday where Kongorong picked up its first win of the season in a tight battle against Kalangadoo.

The 12-pint victory came on the back of a strong first term, where Kongorong was out of the blocks fast, with three straight goals before Kalangadoo knew what was happening.

Kongorong kicked 5.4 (34) in the opening term to Kalangadoo's one straight goal.

The second quarter was a tighter affair, with Kalangadoo adding a further major score while holding Kongorong scoreless.

The Magpies picked up their work rate in the third term and put on two more goals, with the Hawks only able to add a solitary minor score.

With just 11 points in the contest the game was up for grabs heading into the final stanza.

However, both sides kicked a major score, while Kongorong added another minor as well to ice the game.

Amanda Bowd top scored for the Magpies with two goals, while for the victors, Stevie Collins also bagged two goals.

Best for Kalangadoo were Wanita Robinson, Bowd, Kellie Wallace, Emmason Ilsley, Narelle Ryan and Alexandra Lloyd, while for Kongorong, Collins, Jasmin McKinnon, Kate Wright, Tamika Mullan, Janita Galloway, Stevi Clayton were given the nod.

South Gambier 32.15 (207) d Millicent 0.0 (0)
It was a clear whitewash for South Gambier on their home ground against Millicent.

The Saints could not match the rampant Demons, held scoreless for the game while home side added scores at will.

Even with a 158-0 lead at the final break, South refused to lay down and added a further eight major scores in the final stanza to put the league on notice.

Madison Zuijveld led the charge with six goals, Melanie Bateman contributed five, Kendall Saffin and Alice Tentye three each, with a host of others contributing two or singles.

Bateman, Zuijveld, Tentye, Lauren Frost, Saffin and Shelby Auld were named best for the victors, while for Millicent, Megan Tilby, Michelle Robinson, Darcey Allen, Kalli Brown, Alannah Pratt and Chloe Gronn received the honours.

Runs a scarcity in Round 9

MIL LEL d WEST GAMBIER

A TIMELY half-century to Jack Miller helped Mil Lel record a first-innings victory over West Gambier in Round 9 of Barber Shield cricket on Saturday.

Mil Lel looked to chase down the meagre total of 137 set by West on the opening day of play but it was all-but a foregone conclusion.

Todd Carpenter had set the scene on Day 1 with a handy 30-run knock but struggling at 6/76 at stumps, Mil Lel needed something special and that came down the order.

Darcy Williamson and Miller combined to put on a 38-run partnership to edge closer to the required runs for victory.

Williamson was bowled by Kyal Chapman for 11 runs off a steady 61 balls with the total at 114, while William Rowland fell for just two runs with nine still needed for victory.

Mitchell Little joined Miller in the middle and when he fell for a 19-ball duck, the target had been reached.

Miller was the final wicket to fall, bowled by Justin DeJong for 52 off a steady 117 balls and Mil Lel finished with 158 runs in the 64th over.

Chapman did much of the damage with the ball with four wickets.

West hit back somewhat in the second innings, finishing the day at 9/146 off 43 overs but it would have no effect on the outcome.

PENOLA d NORTH SPORTSMAN'S

Up at McCorquindale Park North Sportsman's was unable to chase down the 131-run total, bowled out for a lowly 90 runs in the 46th over.

With Brad Robinson out and just eight runs scored on Day 1, the Tigers faced a big task and it looked on track early.

Jake Schutz and Matthew Robinson looked set but with just 35 runs on the board the latter was sent back to the sidelines, caught off Lachie Jones for seven.

From there it began to fall apart for North, as the wickets began to tumble and as a result the runs were hard to come by.

Just three runs later the incoming Elliot Fisher was bowled for two runs by Conrad Slabber.

One run later Schutz was gone for 17, lbw to Slabber, and much of the Tigers' hope of victory.

The usually-reliable Michael Johnston faced just five balls for a duck, before North settled thanks to Mitch Lewis and Justin McConnell.

The pair put on 30 runs before McConnell was judged lbw to Jones for a handy 17, while Lewis followed soon after, caught off Jack Mul-lan for 21.

From there it was a matter of time before Penola claimed first-innings points, which came in the 46th over.

SOUTH GAMBIER d EAST GAMBIER

It was a strange day of Barber Shield cricket at Scott Park on Saturday, with South Gambier claiming first innings points, then holding out a fast-finishing East in the second innings.

East began day two at 4/44, chasing a meagre 100-run total set by South on day one.

With the top four out on day one, East looked to Ben Hentschke and Emerson Marks to push the total along.

All looked on track as the pair compiled a 31-run partnership but it all turned pear-shaped from there.

Hentschke was bowled by Jakob Opie for 18, followed soon after by Steven Cameron for a duck, caught off the bowling of Robert Drenthen after facing just six deliveries.

Marks played a steady hand, facing 55 deliveries for his 15 before also falling to Drenthen.

Another two ducks followed, as Dion Stratford and Travis Younghusband added to Drenthen's haul.

At 9/78 to task had become somewhat tougher and no more runs were added to the total before Ben Robinson fell for five, caught and bowled by Daniel Loupos.

Drenthen was impressive, with figures of 5/22 off 18 overs.

With plenty of time left to play, South looked to consolidate in its second innings.

However, apart from a 70-run knock at the top of the order by Loupos, no other South batsman reached double figures.

Marks was the wrecking ball, claiming five scalps to deny South any chance to build a total and provide an outside chance of an outright victory.

He ripped through the middle order to finish with 5/17.

Kevin Thomson claimed three wickets and suddenly South was reeling.

The half-century to Loupos was the saving grace, as South posted a total of 106 runs but left time for a last-ditch effort for East.

Unfortunately time was the enemy but East used what little time was left to mount a challenge.

Leigh Von Duve and Stratford were off to a lightning start, with a 39-run stand before the former was out for 20.

Stratford remained unbeaten on 43 off 25 balls but in the end just 10 overs were available, with East posting 83 runs.

Top weekend

trevor.jackson@btwtoday.com.au

PERFECT weather greeted 70 entrants in the 2022 Twin Peaks Hill Climb at Port MacDonnell.

It was the seventh running of the hill climb, originally planned as a low-key event.

That may well have been the plan, but as is the case with any motor racing event, times tumble as return drivers challenge themselves over the course of the weekend.

This year Douglas Johnson set the pace, with an overall time of 3:22.73 in the 4WD Saloons category.
