Vote on merger

LEGISLATION to hold a plebiscite about investigating a future amalgamation between Grant and Mount Gambier Councils has passed.

The controversial Bill was discussed and voted in on Tuesday, despite correspondence from the District of Grant Council asking that the plebiscite be stopped.

The plebiscite will be conducted in conjunction with the upcoming council elections, with voters being asked "Do you support the examination of an amalgamation of the District Council of Grant and the City of Mount Gambier to form a single council?"

The legislation was introduced only two weeks ago, with Premier Malinauskas saying multiple people raised the idea of amalgamation with him.

Minister for Regional Roads Geoff Brock said the formal results of each plebiscite would be made public on the Electoral Commission website, including the ward results for the District Council of Grant, but reassured the public that positive results across both plebiscites did not mean the councils would be amalgamated.

Pain at the pump

FUEL prices are set to head back up in the coming weeks as the six-month fuel excise cut comes to an end.

Back in March, the then-federal Liberal Government announced it would halve the fuel excise for six months to combat rising fuel prices.

That cut expired yesterday (Thursday, September 29).

But experts say consumers should not expect to see prices go back up immediately.

RAA senior manager mobility and automotive policy and fuel spokesperson Mark Borlace said the excise is paid when it leaves the terminal gate, not when it is sold at the bowser.

GRANT High School and Mount Gambier High School are getting ready to go head-to-head in an annual competition that encourages students to engage in STEM subjects.

This year's theme is 'Revolutionary Resources', with each STEM subject - science, technology, engineering and maths - needing different approaches for success.

GHS science and STEM promotion coordinator Brianna Lush said this is the first time she has run the school's STEMIE team, but she is backing in the work her students have done.

"I think they're on the right track," she said.

Ms Lush said Covid and timetabling have been problematic over the course of the year, but the students have worked well to band together and put themselves in a good position.

She also said the competition gets students thinking in different ways and engages them in problem solving.

"We've had a couple of groups that have gone completely up the wrong track for a week or two, and then read something and realised they were supposed to be going in another direction," she said.

Picture: AIDAN CURTIS

"[STEMIE] exposes them to different ways of thinking and it's great for the region that we've got a broader catchment of schools involved."

MGHS maths coordinator Karen Henman said the school has performed quite well over the last six years and wants to keep its reputation for success in the regional showcase intact.

"It's always hotly contested," Ms Henman

"It's a little bit different this year because we've got Victorian schools coming across as well, so there's a little bit of extra pressure."

Ms Henman said her students have been stressing a little bit lately with assignment deadlines piling up at the pointy end of their STEMIE preparation, but it will pay off in the end.

“At the moment, it seems like hard work,” she said.

“When they go to present it and they look at what other schools have done as well, they see all their hard work come to fruition and they get that reward.”

MGHS Year 11 student Zeb has been working on the technology and engineering projects within the school's STEMIE team, which he thinks will be very helpful later in life.

"I was already pretty set on what I want to do, I want to be an electrical engineer," he said.

He said it is his first year taking part in STE-MIE, but he thinks the school is tracking pretty well for a good performance in the regional showcase.

Controversial Bill vote

LEGISLATION to hold a plebiscite about investigating a future amalgamation between Grant and Mount Gambier Councils has passed.

The controversial Bill was discussed and voted in on Tuesday, despite correspondence from the District of Grant Council asking that the plebiscite be stopped.

The plebiscite will be conducted in conjunction with the upcoming council elections, with voters being asked “Do you support the examination of an amalgamation of the District Council of Grant and the City of Mount Gambier to form a single council?”

The legislation was introduced only two weeks ago, with Premier Malinauskas saying multiple people raised the idea of amalgamation with him.

Minister for Regional Roads Geoff Brock said the formal results of each plebiscite would be made public on the Electoral Commission website, including the ward results for the District Council of Grant, but reassured the public that positive results across both plebiscites did not mean the councils would be amalgamated.

He said a simple majority in delivering a positive result, would lead to a comprehensive and independent investigation and community consultation process, conducted dispassionately and without political interest by the Local Government Boundaries Commission.

During the commission's process, communities of both councils would have ample opportunity to comment on their views about possible amalgamation.

Mr Brock said the plebiscite would give the community their chance to have a say.

“It is now for the District Council of Grant and City of Mount Gambier community to become involved by participating in both the

LAST DITCH EFFORT: Kylie Boston called a special meeting of the District Council of Grant last week in a last-ditch effort to have the plebiscite cancelled.

Local Government elections and voting on the plebiscites,” he said.

“My message to the people of those two councils is, tell us what you think.

“The government wants to hear from the voters of the two councils to inform its decision on whether to refer the matter to the Boundaries Commission.”

Member for Mount Gambier Troy Bell encouraged all residents to vote on the matter.

“After speaking to people across both electorates, the feedback has been loud and clear – residents want a breakdown of votes in each electorate and also, transparency in the results.

“Some important amendments have been made to the government’s initial legislation, which are reflective of this feedback and will ensure the results are independently assessed and published for the public to see.

“There is a lot of confusion around the outcome of the plebiscite and it’s my view the government could have vastly improved their communication to both our community and councils around this point.

“I have been very clear that I do not support forced amalgamations and I encourage residents in both District Council of Grant and City of Mount Gambier to have their say when the ballot hits their mailboxes next month.”

Henderson headlines Home

AFTER performing on the world stage at the 2022 Closing Ceremony of the Birmingham Commonwealth Games, Taylor Henderson will be one of the headline acts for the Close 2 Home Festival this weekend.

This Saturday is the inaugural Close 2 Home Festival at the Mount Gambier Bowls Club, with two stages and 13 live music acts from around Australia coming to Mount Gambier to help raise awareness and, most importantly, much-needed funds for mental health and suicide prevention for the Limestone Coast region.

Chairwoman Natasha Little said by using the power of live music to bring people together to raise awareness of mental health and suicide prevention, it would allow the community to talk about the issues and offer support to everyone who has been affected.

Since becoming a runner-up on Australian music show The X Factor, Mr Henderson became one of Australia's most loved artists rising to fame on the nostalgic TV show.

Mr Henderson has had two number one albums, and two number one singles topping the ARIA charts.

"With fantastic support from the artists and businesses throughout the community, we can have the opportunity to have events like this to support an outcome that can help the whole region," Ms Little said.

"Close 2 Home would like to especially thank the Music Development Office, One Forty-One and numerous local businesses with generous financial and in kind support for the event."

With gates opening at 1.30pm, tickets will only $20 with children under 14 allowed entry for free.

As well as music, entertainment has been covered with Barefoot Bowls, virtual reality from Next Gen Entertainment, the City of Mount Gambier is providing a pop-up library experience and face painting.

HEADLINE ACT: Singer-songwriter Taylor Henderson.

A variety of local food trucks will be on site, with pop up bars and a children's lolly stand.

Tickets will still be available through the Close 2 Home Festival Facebook page and can be obtained at the gate of the Mount Gambier Bowls Club when gates open at 1.30pm on Saturday October 1.

Volunteers in demand

ELSIE ADAMO

MULTIPLE Country Fire Service (CFS) stations in the region are calling out for volunteers ahead of the upcoming bushfire season.

Brigades in Tarpeena, Nangwarry, Yahl and others across the region are making a plea for more volunteers as numbers have dwindled in recent years.

CFS Regional Volunteer Officer Damon Whitwell said the decline in numbers is due to a range of factors.

"It has been a gradual decline over a number of years," Mr Whitwell said.

"Like a lot of other community organisations there have been impacts around Covid, and other restrictions in the pandemic have taken a bit of a toll as well.

"A lot of the rural brigades, once where there may have been seven or eight farms in a district now it is only half that as farms have gotten bigger, so we do not necessarily have the community members in those smaller rural areas."

It is not just volunteers that are needed, but community members who can actively respond to emergencies. Some brigades, such as Yahl, may technically have enough volunteers on the books but would struggle to put together an emergency response team on short notice due to limited availability from its members.

"It varies from brigade to brigade," Mr Whitwell said.

"In some brigades, it is total numbers that are an issue, other brigades it is the amount of people available especially during the daytime becoming a bigger issue for us."

When the CFS is called on to respond to an emergency, they will always be able to provide a team, but if there are not enough at the local brigade, it means one further away will have to be sent instead.

"We may have a delayed response time in getting help out to the community when it is needed," Mr Whitwell said.

"We will always have someone respond, but if we do not have people close, we will have to go to resources further away which can delay our time in getting help to where it is needed."

Mr Whitwell said volunteers are not being expected to be available at all times, and the position is as flexible as community members need it to be.

"We are a 24/7 emergency service, and we are a full response service, but we are a volunteer service so it is whenever people can help.

"If someone is only available to help during the day, we will happily have them on board, same if they are only available to help on weekends, every little bit helps.

"The commitment can be as much as people are able to make, they do not have to be available 24/7.

"There are some brigades around where people are not able to respond on the initial call and need a bit of notice to get things arranged...they will put their hand up to go out as a relief crew.

"With a prolonged job it gives us the opportunity to keep trucks on the ground by having people who are able to respond and come out on a second shift."

Volunteer numbers

in the larger townships seem to be stable at this stage, according to the CFS, but Mr Whitwell said more volunteers are always appreciated.

"A lot of the brigades closer to the bigger townships are not doing too bad, it is those smaller townships and areas where we are looking for people to help," he said.

"But generally across the whole region, a few extra helping hands never go astray."

The benefits to volunteering, according to Mr Whitwell go beyond helping the community, although that seems to be the major motivating factor for CFS volunteers. Fire training is of course, provided, but further development in road crash rescue, hazmat training, first aid, chainsaw use and leadership coaching is on offer for volunteers.

"There are opportunities to learn not just what people want," he said.

"The CFS is a family-orientated service, we look out for our own. You are essentially joining one big family."

Sports tune in for awards

AIDAN CURTIS
aidan.curtis@tbwtoday.com.au

A MOUNT Gambier community radio station is still on cloud nine after winning two statewide awards, along with a runner-up.

5GTR FM Community Radio has walked away from the South Australian Community Broadcasters Association (SACBA) Bilby Awards with two wins for its weekend sports show, Limestone Country Sports.

The station nominated itself for awards across a range of categories and got over the line with the Bilby for best coverage of a sporting event and best interview.

It also received an honourable mention, with producer Brad Williams getting named runner-up in the best production category.

5GTR station manager Annette Smith said these awards were a great acknowledgement for the hard work that goes into community radio.

"This is the first time since 2011 I think it is, so almost 11 years, since we've actually come away with some awards and that's a credit to the station," Ms Smith said.

"As for actually hearing and seeing your station's name pop up on the screen, it's like all your Christmases have come at once.

"You're excited because you know all the hard work that people have put into their programs to actually get to that stage."

She said it was almost like winning the Brownlow to be acknowledged by their peers in the industry, and the community had a lot to do with it.

"Without the community's input into this, these programs don't exist," she said.

"Because we're a community organisation, we need the community involved in our programming.

"It tells you that you're doing the right thing with your programming, and what you're doing, other people are finding it interesting as well. "It shows that what we're producing and what we're putting out to the general public is what they want to know about, which is great."

Ms Smith said it was "just a joyful experience" and she was really happy for the station.

5GTR will be celebrating its 40th anniversary in the middle of next year.

Glamp the new camp

AIDAN CURTIS
aidan.curtis@tbwtoday.com.au

GLAMPING in the Limestone Coast is set to expand with one tourism operator eyeing an ambitious plan for a famous Port MacDonnell site.

Coonawarra Bush Holiday Park owner Steven Moignard has seen demand for the glamping experience steadily increasing and believes expanding is a “no brainer”.

“We get full on all the long weekends, all the school holidays, and all the traditional high season times,” he said.

“When you’re booked out and people are still calling three or four days before the holidays, you know it’s money going to waste if you can’t fit them in somewhere.”

While looking to add more tents to his site in Coonawarra, Mr Moignard has been working to get approval on a site at Dingley Dell, Port MacDonnell, with big plans for it in the future.

He said he wants to start with around 20 glamping tents, but if all goes well, he wants to see a function centre put on the site as well.

“The plan is to build an $800,000 architect designed function centre with a stage and we’ll have people sitting out on the grass having picnics, literature festivals, food festivals,” he said.

“The theme there is going to be the colonial experience.

“These tents and the way we’re setting them up is very much like the 1870s with LED lights.”

Mr Moignard said he does not know what demand will be like in Port MacDonnell, but he hopes to have at least the tents set up and ready for visitors within the next two years.

PRICE RISE: Fuel prices are set to head back up in the coming weeks as the six-month fuel excise cut comes to an end.

Pain at the bowser

AIDAN CURTIS
aidan.curtis@tbwtoday.com.au

FUEL prices are set to head back up in the coming weeks as the six-month fuel excise cut comes to an end.

Back in March, the then-federal Liberal Government announced it would halve the fuel excise for six months to combat rising fuel prices.

That cut expired yesterday (Thursday, September 29).

RAA senior manager mobility and automotive policy and fuel spokesperson Mark Borlace said consumers should not expect to see prices go back up immediately.

Mr Borlace said the excise is paid when it leaves the terminal gate, not when it is sold at the bowser.

“We don’t expect [service stations] to have a 25 cent increase on the day and we don’t expect it probably for a week or two,” he said.

“They’ve got cheap fuel in the tanks, they shouldn’t be living on the ignorance of people thinking it’s just gone up 25 cents in a day.

“Depending on how quickly each service station sells it, if one sells all their fuel within a week, in a week they’re going to have the dear fuel back in their tanks.”

He said he expects regional towns to get a little bit more time, predicting up to three weeks before all service stations in town return to pre-cut prices.

“We don’t think it’ll be dramatic and we don’t think it’ll be uniform, but probably by two or three weeks it will have flowed through the whole gate,” he said.

“Within a fortnight, you’d expect to see the base prices being around $1.80 or $1.90.

“They’ve [servos] had notice of this for six months, they know that the price is going to come up, so they’ve had time to strategise what they’re going to do with it.”

While consumers can expect to see fuel prices eventually go up, Mr Borlace said it might not stay that way in the medium-term.

“It’ll be a bit of a hit, probably the equivalent of $15 it adds to a typical car fill up,” he said.

“The only good news is we’ve had a slow trending down of crude oil prices over the last five months - in fact, it has dropped $20 in the last month.

“The medium term, the world price spike will continue to trend down slowly.”

Mr Borlace advised people to continue using apps to compare fuel prices near them to find the cheapest option to save money where possible.

Thank you

DEAR Editor,

I write to thank all those who assisted and donated to the Big Aussie Barbie last week.

The Big Aussie Barbie campaign is all about getting together to raise funds for the Prostate Cancer Foundation Australia and encourage discussions about prostate cancer, especially with men over the age of 50 years.

This year marks the eighth annual Big Aussie Barbie at my Mount Gambier office to raise money for research and importantly, awareness of prostate cancer.

With the addition of last week's fundraising efforts, the Mount Gambier Big Aussie Barbecue has now raised more than $7500 across the years.

Thank you again to the Limestone Coast Prostate Cancer Support Group for cooking the barbecue, and to our generous sponsors from Baxter Hire, Bakers Delight, FT Shelton & Son Butchers who continue to support us year after year.

A huge thank you also to the team at Key 2 Sale, who made a donation of $1,000 to support our cause as part of their 'Key 2 Kindness' initiative.

Thank you to all those who came along to support the cause and, to all Australian men, particularly those over 50, get your PSA checked by your GP, it may just be a decision which saves your life.

Benefits of sport

GRAND finals, the recent Birmingham Commonwealth Games, team jumpers and scarves – these are all a reminder of the importance of sport. And maybe a nudge to each of us to encourage our kids to participate in community sport?

Many of us were celebrating Jess Stenson's gold medal win in the women's marathon at the Commonwealth Games. But Jess's passion for running began in community sport in her home town of Naracoorte, where she also participated in netball, basketball, tennis, athletics and school cross-country.

Medals and trophies are certainly worthy of celebration, and I spoke about our Commonwealth Games achievements in Parliament recently. But participating in community sport brings so many other great benefits. Kids learn great life lessons, including teamwork, looking out for each other, striving to be their best and picking themselves up after setbacks.

And, of course, we all know that sport is good for both physical and mental health.

Local sport also brings communities together. Sport transcends social, economic and cultural barriers, providing common ground where we can get to know each other, socialise and work together for a shared benefit. All of this results in community spirit, increased co-operation and a more cohesive community.

I'd like to congratulate every local sporting club and their devoted volunteers for the contribution each of you make to the local community. You do a great job, and it is much appreciated!

EDITORIAL

The day we've been dreading has arrived - the fuel excise cuts finished this week.

In March, the then-LNP government cut the fuel excise by 22.1 cents per litre, giving us some relief at the pump. But now that has ended and we can expect to see prices at the bowlers creep up over the next few weeks.

While we don't need to rush to the pumps straight away, we will all start to feel the pinch, especially those of us in the regions, who tend to travel longer distances and have limited public transport options and with less competition for petrol stations to keep prices lower.

Unfortunately, the temporary excise cut did nothing to address the long-term problem of high fuel prices and as much as we've all enjoyed the temporary relief, at a time when costs are rising, more needs to be done to combat high fuel prices. Petroleum companies are making record profits, during a period of already increased cost of living pressures.

The government and consumer bodies need to come up with real solutions to try and lessen the hit on the pocket when it comes to fuel.

A little support makes a difference

THANK you to the people impacted by dementia, community members and healthcare professionals who marked Dementia Action Week 2022 from 19-25 September.

Across Australia, individuals and organisations supported our campaign, 'A little support makes a big difference' to increase understanding about dementia and help eliminate discrimination. On behalf of the estimated 487,500 people living with dementia in Australia, we thank everyone for their support.

While Dementia Action Week is only one week each year, the conversation and action to eliminate discrimination continues year-round. For information and tips on how you can continue to make a difference in your community, please visit discrimination.dementia.org.au

Radiotherapy update?

I NOTICE there has been no further news on the radiotherapy machine at the Mount Gambier Hospital.

I believe a private group was willing to establish and run it.

So what is the hold up?

This machine is so important to cancer sufferers.

They would not have to travel to Adelaide (a five-hour drive) and stay somewhere for up to six weeks, some only being under this machine for 10 minutes a day, five days a week.

Do the maths. They are away from family and friends and are not well.

Yes, I believe you can get treatment at Warrnambool but it may still be daily treatment and travelling back and forth for some is out of the question.

If you have or know someone who has cancer, speak out for them so our hospital can get this machine.

SOUTH Australia is slowly getting closer to having its first Cross-Border Commissioner more than three months after legislation for the position passed the state's Upper House.

Minister for Primary Industries and Regional Development Clare Scriven said the recruitment process for a Commissioner is "progressing".

"It's important that we attract someone with the right experience and calibre for the role, and I'm pleased to confirm we have secured the recruitment company to undertake the recruitment process," Ms Scriven said.

"This will include candidate attraction, application analysis, short listing, reference checking and assisting with panel interviews."

Ms Scriven said the role will be "crucial" in identifying issues and trying to find solutions for both people and businesses living and working in cross-border communities.

"The role description includes strategic leadership, stakeholder management skills, ability to lead negotiations and a strong understanding of cross-border issues, just to name a few," she said.

"I am looking forward to a lot of interest coming in the Commissioner role as advertising is rolled out over the coming weeks, via local, state and national channels.

"I expect to be able to announce the successful applicant towards the end of the year."

Independent Mount Gambier MP Troy Bell said he welcomed the news the recruitment process was progressing after advocating for a Cross-Border Commissioner for six years.

"This is the first of the State Government's election commitments to be honoured and an important one for our community and wider region," he said.

"The importance of this role is two-fold; a decrease in red tape and increased productivity for businesses and also, significant improvements for communities living close to a state border.

"Transport, tourism, industry linkages, agriculture, fishing and forestry, pest management and control —there are a whole range of areas where I see a cross-border commissioner playing a critical role."

Mr Bell said the role should be based in Mount Gambier and he looks forward to working with the new Commissioner when they get appointed.

Trail now open

COUNCIL has reopened the Blue Gum Trail in Mount Gambier's Crater Lake precinct, following the Crater Lakes fire in January this year.

To ensure the safety of trail users, council felled almost 50 pine trees that died in the months following the fire, and to reduce fuel load, much of the timber was mulched and removed from the precinct.

The area is now accessible following significant risk assessments undertaken by consultant engineers since the fire recovery began, and the inspections will continue for some time.

Signage is in place to remind trail users that the area is in fire recovery and not to leave the tracks.

Council requests the public ensure their safety by obeying all signage and avoiding closed areas as they can still pose a risk.

Since the fire, council has enabled a staged reopening of areas where the risk to the public has been reduced.

The crater rim from the stairs to Centenary Tower and the back section of Carinya Gardens Cemetery are the only remaining zones closed to the public.

OPEN TO PUBLIC: Blue Gum trail is now open for trail walkers.

LIMESTONE COAST POLICE NEWS

P-PLATER LOSES LICENCE FOR SPEEDING

A P-PLATER was clocked at more than 150 km/h in the State's South East on Tuesday morning.

Just before 9.30am on Tuesday 27 September, a Limestone Coast Highway Patrol detected a vehicle travelling south on the Riddoch Highway, Naracoorte at 153 km/h.

The driver, a 20-year-old Woodcroft woman, who held a provisional licence, was issued with an infringement notice of $1850 for speeding plus a further $491 for breaching the conditions of her provisional licence.

She was also issued with a six-month immediate loss of licence.

TRAFFIC ARREST AT ROSETOWN

A LIMESTONE Coast man was arrested after allegedly failing to stop for police on Friday night.

About 9.50pm on Friday 23 September, police attempted to pull over an Audi travelling north on the Princes Highway, approaching the township of Kingston SE.

It will be alleged the driver did not stop but instead turned off the car's lights and accelerated to a speed of 130 km/h.

The Audi was located abandoned in First Street, Rosetown a short time later and the alleged driver was arrested leaving the scene in another vehicle.

The 37-year-old man from Kingston SE was charged with failing to stop, driving in a manner dangerous to the public, driving while disqualified, driving unregistered, uninsured and with unassigned plates, unlawful possession and breach of bail.

He was refused police bail and appeared in the Mount Gambier Magistrates Court on Monday 26 September, where he was remanded in custody until 22 November.

The new Women’s and Children’s Hospital

Big plans, better care for the long term.

The State Government has announced details of the new Women’s and Children’s Hospital, located near the Royal Adelaide Hospital at the SAPOL Barracks site. This new location provides both hospitals with room for future expansion, when we need it.

The new Women’s and Children’s Hospital will be 25% bigger than the current hospital, and built on a larger site providing flexibility now and into the future.

It will be a state-of-the-art facility that will give South Australian families access to the most advanced hospital care, technology and medical research for generations to come.

Women's & Children's Hospital

The Royal Adelaide Hospital

The new Women's and Children's Hospital

A bigger Women's and Children's Hospital is something we all need.

I've worked as a doctor at the Women's and Children's Hospital for more than 20 years. It's been a rewarding time, and the hospital is an important asset within our state's health system. But, with our population growing and our health requirements growing too, I can see our current hospital starting to feel the pressure.

A brand-new Women's and Children's Hospital is exactly what our state needs. It will provide a state-of-the-art hospital that's better for clinicians and patients alike.

The original plan for the new Women's and Children's Hospital proposed having it co-located with the Royal Adelaide Hospital. This announcement will now see the hospital located separately, providing space for a larger, better-equipped Women's and Children's Hospital and room for both hospitals to expand in the future.

My colleagues at the Women's and Children's Hospital and I have all been working to ensure the new hospital will meet our state's needs in terms of treatment spaces and resources. I'm confident the new Women's and Children's Hospital will serve our state now, and for many years to come.

Classic Sunday road trip

IT was like a trip through time on Sunday, with a number of old cars lining up in the city.

They were in town for the Mount Gambier Veteran and Vintage Car Club 'Not Australia Day' Tour, which saw cars from all over the state and across the border come and join in the fun.

Normally held on the Australia Day weekend, Covid disrupted the event which has been held since 1965 at that time.

The tour attracted more than 50 entrants with vehicles ranging in age from 1925 (Dodge Buckboard) up to almost modern.

American, French, German and Australian makes represented in the list and there were sedans, convertibles, roadsters and a couple of beautiful trucks amongst the entry.

Participants came from intrastate and interstate Clubs with Strathalbyn, Milang, Goolwa, Adelaide, Riverland, Portland, Casterton and Hamilton joining many local members.

Entrants visited a local Truck repair shop on Friday, the Kalangadoo Farmers Market, the Kalangadoo Railway Station Museum on Saturday morning and then held a public display on Sunday morning at Lady Nelson Discovery Centre before leaving for a tour of a Mount Gambier Stone quarry.

A barbecue lunch and presentation of Shannon's Insurance Awards topped off a great weekend.

Notice of low-flying helicopter

THE Limestone Coast Landscape Board wishes to notify residents in the localities of Kongorong, Carpenters Rocks, Nene Valley, Blackfellows Cave, Eight Mile Creek, Port MacDonnell, Donovans Landing, Wye and the Glenelg National Park that we will be undertaking saltwater intrusion aerial monitoring from Saturday October 1, 2022 for up to 14 days.

The low-flying helicopter pilots will avoid flying over farmhouses, sheds, and dwellings, keeping a distance of up to 300m away.

Further information can be found by calling the Limestone Coast Landscape Board 8429 7550.

Farmers investing

AN increase in agricultural sector lending activity has led to encouraging signs of farmers wanting to expand and invest in their own businesses.

Australian Bureau of Agricultural and Resource Economics and Sciences (ABARES) executive director Dr Jared Greenville said the increase in debt for farms was no reason to cause concern.

"Because of higher property values, farm business equity has remained steady," Mr Greenville said.

"Higher commodity prices and two record-breaking seasons have meant farmers have higher incomes to pay down their debts in the short term."

Mr Greenville said as a result of this, farm incomes would be less vulnerable to rising interest rates than what they would have been in the 1990s or early 2000s.

"Debt is used by farmers for a range of purposes, including purchasing land, plant and equipment and for providing ongoing working capital," he said.

"The main reason broadacre and dairy farms borrowed money in 2021 was to fund land purchases.

"That shows Australia's farmers are taking advantage of two record-breaking seasons and are looking to expand and invest in their businesses."

He added all states in Australia had increased signs of lending to the agricultural sector, but found stronger signs in Queensland and New South Wales with 7 per cent.

"However, it's good to keep these figures in context. A high proportion of aggregate debt is held by a small number of very large farm businesses that generate high cash flows to finance debt," Mr Greenville said.

"In 2020-21, 5 per cent of broadacre and dairy farms accounted for around 47 per cent of aggregate debt, whereas nearly 50 per cent of farms had very little or no debt."

Focus on improving soil

LIMESTONE Coast Landscape Board is encouraging farmers to engage with the new Soil Extension Officer, dedicated to improving soil health for primary production.

Ehsan Sayad has been appointed to the role in the Limestone Coast and is relishing the opportunity to work closely with land managers and primary industry groups to achieve improved soil health and productivity gains in the region.

The role assists land managers with interpretation of soil test results and discussing the latest science to assist making decisions on best practice sustainable land management. The role is part of a new network of Soil Extension Officers across the state – with support and opportunities for collaboration provided by both state and national communities of practice.

This has been made possible by funding from the Australian Government as part of the National Soil Strategy through the National Landcare Program.

Chair of the Limestone Coast Landscape Board Penny Schulz said funding for such roles was a real boost for South Australia.

"The LC Landscape Board has been pleased to play a lead role in attracting Commonwealth funding for soil health to South Australia," she said.

"Soil health is such a vital component to productivity gains for this state as well as revitalising soils, and the Limestone Coast primary producers have a real opportunity to take advantage of the program and learn as much as they can," she said.

Land managers will be able to access a number of soil extension services. The first of these on offer is a soil sampling and testing activity. Southern Cross University will be conducting soil sampling and testing to successful applications.

Land managers can make initial enquiries of Ehsan at the Limestone Coast Landscape Board on 8429 7550, or enquire and apply directly to Southern Cross University via their website scu.edu.au/pilot-soils-program, email soiltest@scu.edu.au or phone 02 6620 3489. Land managers will be required to share their data under the National Pilot Soil Monitoring and Incentives Program.

Farm Monitoring from the sky

THE Limestone Coast Landscape Board (LC Landscape Board) will be launching a new project aimed to increase its understanding of where and how resilience can be built into Limestone Coast water resources to support primary production.

In partnership with the Goyder Institute for Water Research, the project will explore whether there are opportunities to manage water from the extensive drainage network in the region to address risks to primary industries and groundwater dependent ecosystems.

The collaborative approach will be led by research teams from the CSIRO, Flinders University and, the University of South Australia.

As the launch of the collaborative partnership begins, the CSIRO will be undertaking a geophysical airborne electromagnetic (AEM) survey over the region's southern coast line, with the data collected being used to understand the extent of inland seawater intrusion.

CSIRO deep earth imaging lead Dr Tim Munday said while the helicopter would be flying as low as 60m above these areas during the survey, the pilots would not fly over farmhouses, sheds, and dwellings, keeping a distance of up to 300m away.

"The signals generated by the helicopter AEM system are weaker than those emitted from mobile phones and TV antennas," Mr Munday said. LC Landscape Board general manager Steve Bourne said Groundwater resources in the area supported support extensive irrigated primary production, social assets and iconic wetlands of regional, national and international significance.

Commencing early October 2022, the geophysical airborne electromagnetic (AEM) survey is expected to take at least 7 days and will utilise a low flying helicopter which will tow a frame slung beneath it in order to conduct the survey. The circular frame carries the AEM equipment which measures changes in conductivity of the ground which will indicate the depth of the water and its salinity.

The survey will run over 1,300 parallel flight lines across the lower Limestone Coast over the localities of Kongorong, Carpenters Rocks, Nene Valley, Blackfellows Cave, Eight Mile Creek, Port MacDonnell, Donovans Landing, Wye and the Glenelg National Park.

The aerial monitoring is also a part of the LC Landscape Board's broader water resource management approach of 'Making Every Drop Count'.

Singles make waves

New reality series The Real Love Boat sends some of Australia's most eligible singles on the romantic voyage of a lifetime. Host Darren McMullen tells Siobhan Duck why it isn't all smooth sailing DARREN McMullen has never been afraid to rock the boat. Which is why, as host of Channel 10's latest dating series The Real Love Boat, McMullen had no interest in going into his high seas TV adventure as Osher Günsberg 2.0.

Unlike Günsberg – who only suavely oversees rose ceremonies on The Bachelor and its various spin-offs without getting bogged down in any of the romantic drama – McMullen threw himself wholeheartedly into the whole messy business of looking for love on TV.

"I think it's what makes the show very different," he says of this tumultuous new dating show which sees 12 singles wooing each other whilst cruising the Mediterranean.

"I mean, you'll never see Osher going nuts at one of the Bachelors. It's real and I think people respond to authenticity nowadays more than ever, and I think the great thing about the show is we did make something really different where it wasn't just glitzy and glamorous or a safe description of what a relationship is like. It's warts and all and I like that."

From The Bachelor franchise to Love Island, Married at First Sight, Farmer Wants a Wife and Beauty and the Geek, there's no shortage of dating shows on the box. As a result, some viewers have understandably become more cynical about the motivations of the contestants. Are they really there to find the one? Or are they simply there to get their 15 minutes of fame and a swag of Instagram followers in the process?

Sensing that viewers might be suffering from dating show fatigue, McMullen wanted The Real Love Boat to feel less glossy and manufactured than the rest and so, in addition to showing raw emotion, he also pushed for the bloopers to be left into the final cut.

"We wanted to break that fourth wall and let the audience in on the mistakes, which is why you'll see a cat walking across [the set during a key moment]," he says.

"We had to push for a lot of that stuff to stay in at first, but I think everyone's on the same page now."

The result is a show which feels like it doesn't take itself as seriously as some of its competitors. But make no bones about it, that doesn't mean that the quest for love isn't the real deal. In fact, The Real Love Boat has already created genuine matches at sea that have continued once the contestants returned to Australian shores.

Cruise control: Main, Darren McMullen hosts The Real Love Boat; above and right, the passengers arrive in the first episode.

McMullen can take some credit for that. Over the course of the show, his role expanded from host to impromptu dating coach and counsellor when he found himself overseeing a dinner for the 12 contestants.

Once he'd taken his place at the table, McMullen found himself interrogating the lovelorn passengers about their motivations.

"I had come straight off Celebrity Apprentice and so I was used to getting berated by Lord Sugar every day," he says with a wry laugh.

"I think I brought some of that Apprentice energy with me. I was just really going after the contestants, making sure they were all here for the right reasons. Letting them know that I wasn't going to take any s---. I wasn't going to hear any lies."

"I told them that the second I thought they were selling me a red herring. I would sniff it out. And I would know they're lying. And if they were going to do that, they might as well pack their bags and leave the ship."

"I think the producers rather enjoyed that chat. So, from then on, I did the rest of the Captain's Table [dinners]."

McMullen says the contestants were initially shocked by his tough-love approach to hosting, but believes it eventually forced them to become far more genuine and candid about the process.

"I think a lot of them had just been on autopilot with their answers, saying stuff like: 'I really like this girl, we are meant to be together,'" he says.

"And I would just say: 'I don't even think you believe your own bulls---. You are talking s---!' Talk to me like a real person."

He suspects now though, that some of the contestants – who are largely in their mid-20s – weren't really mature enough to share the kind of intimacy needed to find their forever person.

It's a situation that McMullen understands all too well, acknowledging that when he was younger, he also made some bad choices that resulted in the breakdown of his relationships.

"But, you know, I try not to be too hard on myself," he says.

"You have to realise you are human and that you have a lot of growth to do and hopefully not make the same mistakes again in the future."

"I think I'm in a place in my life where I can wear my heart on my sleeve and say I've messed a lot of relationships up. Although some of them weren't necessarily a good fit, some of them probably were and, through my own immaturity and my own f---ups essentially, I've kind of killed what could have been a phenomenal relationship."

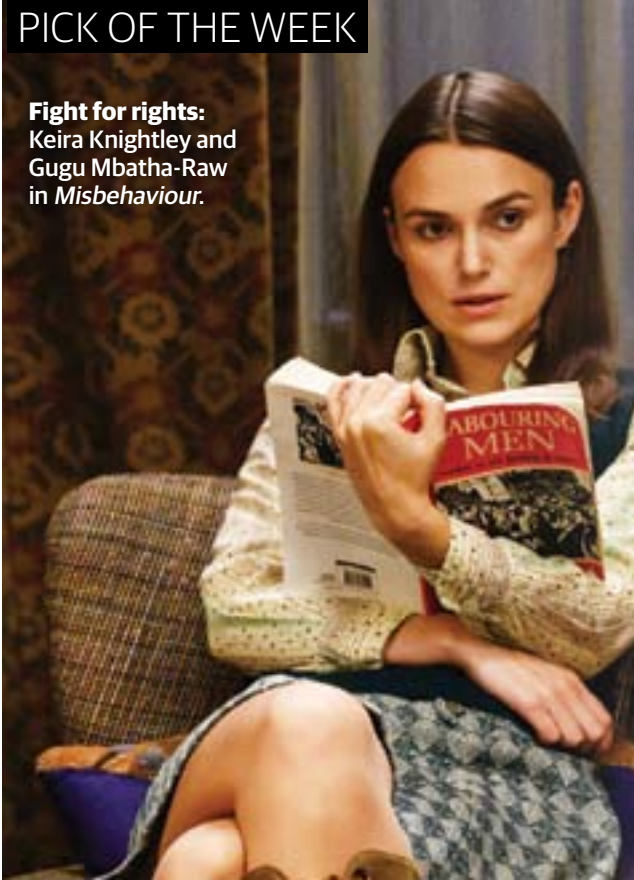

"I wear that, and I own that and all I can do is learn from those mistakes and be a better person than before."

■ The Real Love Boat, starts Wednesday, October 5, 7.30pm, 10 and streaming, 10 Play

PICK OF THE WEEK

Fight for rights:
Keira Knightley and Gugu Mbatha-Raw in Misbehaviour.

Friday
MISBEHAVIOUR
ABC TV, 8.30pm (2020)

Based on a true story, Keira Knightley leads this feel-good, polished political comedy about the events that unfolded at the Miss World Pageant in London, 1970. Director Philippa Lowthorpe (The Crown) lightheartedly celebrates the women's liberation movement, and explores racism and gender, telling the story of a group of angry young women who concocted a plot to interrupt the live broadcast of the pageant. Greg Kinnear is terrific as the chauvinistic Bob Hope, the iconic American comedian who hosted the event, along with Rhys Ifans as the clueless organiser, but it is the women who rightfully steal the show. Also starring Keeley Hawes (Bodyguard) and Gugu Mbatha-Raw (The Morning Show), Misbehaviour is fearlessly fun. ★★★★★

FORREST GUMP
Seven, Friday, 9.30pm, M (1994)

Tom Hanks (pictured) is the titular hero, a small-town simpleton who grows up from humble beginnings to lead an extraordinary life that parallels some poignant moments in American history from the '50s through to the '70s. Hanks is totally convincing and worthy of his Best Actor Oscar success. It's hard not to play along with this undeniably great piece of storytelling and entertainment from director Robert Zemeckis (Back to the Future). Warm and fuzzy, but very effective. ★★★★★

WONDER WOMAN
Nine, Saturday, 7.30pm, M (2017)

Directed by Patty Jenkins, who helmed the Oscar-winning Monster (2003), Wonder Woman is a compelling and stunningly shot exploration of the origins of the female superhero. Gal Gadot (pictured) commands the screen as the titular character, with a welcome emphasis on her strength and conviction, rather than her beauty. Set during World War I, Gadot is in her element as the fierce warrior trying to stop a global threat, while also discovering her true destiny. ★★★★★

X2: X-MEN UNITED
Seven, Saturday, 10.30pm, M (2003)

In a decidedly darker sequel, a twist of fate sees the benevolent Xavier (Patrick Stewart) and his nemesis Magneto (Ian McKellen, pictured) join forces – at least temporarily – to silence the sinister General Stryker (Brian Cox), who has been assigned by the US president to deal with the mutant "problem". It's no holds barred as Wolverine (Hugh Jackman) and the superheroes prime for a showdown with Stryker and his lithesome sidekick Deathstrike (Kelly Hu). ★★★★★

TENET
9Go!, Sunday, 7.30pm, M (2020)

Director Christopher Nolan (Inception) returns with yet another visually stunning, time-bending sci-fi film. CIA agent "Protagonist" (John David Washington, pictured) is recruited to recover a missing artefact at the Kyiv Opera House. Having proven his loyalty, the Protagonist is adopted into a top-secret mission and cast into a battle against foes that move both backwards and forwards through time and use guns that unshoot bullets – providing a unique take on the genre. ★★★★★

TERMINATOR 2
7mate, Monday, 8.30pm, M (1991)

James Cameron's all-conquering sequel to his 1984 sci-fi classic occupies the same iconic status as Stanley Kubrick's 2001 and George Lucas's Star Wars series. Arnold Schwarzenegger returns as the cyborg protagonist to defend the Connor family (Linda Hamilton, pictured, and Edward Furlong) against a liquid-metal killing machine (Robert Patrick), and hence, prevent a nuclear apocalypse. Like Arnie's classic phrase, "I'll be back", to be short and to the point, the special effects are extraordinary. ★★★★★

FEAR
9Go!, Tuesday, 7.30pm, M (1996)

He proved that every inch counts in Boogie Nights and served notice that he's a bona fide action hero in Three Kings, but Mark Wahlberg's true acid test was in this Cape Fear rehash for teens. The former Calvin Klein model/rap sensation plays a violent young man who unleashes his wrath upon the family of his 16-year-old ex-girlfriend (Reese Witherspoon, pictured with Wahlberg). James Foley's perfunctory direction is replete with standard psycho-drama ingredients. ★★★★★

The Guide

PICK OF THE WEEK

KEEP ON DANCING
ABC TV, Tuesday,
8.30pm

GOOD WITH WOOD
SBS, Friday, 7.35pm

Former Bake Off host Mel Giedroyc (pictured) brings her unique brand of wide-eyed wonder and cheeky commentary to this hands-on reality competition series. The calibre of Giedroyc's timber-based puns is a joy to witness as 10 British woodworking enthusiasts enter the Welsh woodland workshop for the first time in tonight's second-season premiere. They will showcase their sawing, turning and joining skills to create dining tables inspired by a country of their choice, hoping to carve out their place in the next round by impressing the new judges, design historian Tom Dyckhoff and wood sculptor Sophie Sellu.

SPICKS AND SPECKS
ABC TV, Sunday, 7.40pm

Pink-haired comedian Cal Wilson (pictured) is a perennial favourite guest on this long-running and much-loved musical quiz show. Tonight, Wilson showcases her music knowledge once again before she puts home bakers to the test as the new co-host of The Great Australian Bake Off. She's joined by former The Voice Australia contestant Thando and one half of the electronic music duo Peking Duk, Reuben Styles, along with fellow stand-up Nath Valvo. Host Adam Hills and Myf Warhurst and Alan Brough banter in the way only old friends can, before a stirring performance from Melbourne-based international outfit Ausecuma Beats.

Seven, Monday, 9.10pm

The writers of 9-1-1 are a creative bunch. Pumping out disaster stories ranging from the silly to the obscene, the title for the premiere of season six can only be seen as unashamedly tongue-in-cheek. In "Let The Games Begin", viewers will no doubt be expecting the unexpected and, as usual, 9-1-1 delivers over-the-top disaster fare. Athena (Angela Bassett, pictured) and the 118 must rise to the challenge when a blimp encounters mechanical failure and its engine catches fire outside a jam-packed sports stadium. Meanwhile, emotions run high when Maddie (Jennifer Love Hewitt) and Chimney (Kenneth Choi) go to couple's therapy.

HOME BUILDERS

It's great to be home

Purchasing A Block of Land?

Purchasing A Block of Land?

- What to look for.
- How to attain the best outcome for your new home.

When contemplating building a new home, the first and most important step in the purchase of a block of land.

If you are considering a new home build your block of land is more important than the actual plan of your home.

We have all looked at a plan and thought this is a great plan, its just perfect for our budget and lifestyle. All ok so far!!

Then comes the difficult part to try and work that plan onto a block of land. The correct way to approach this is to design your home to suit the block you have purchased and not attempt to "squeeze" the plan you like onto the block you have purchased.

Step 1: Site Assessment and Soil Report

When purchasing your block of land, the most important step is to acquire a site assessment and a soil report. This can be carried out by a qualified engineer and usually costs around $500-$600.

This is money well spent as it will give an accurate report on the type of soil which will determine the extent and cost of your home's foundation and concrete floor.

The cost of a "M" classification instead of an "A" or "S" can be anywhere between 15 and 20 thousand dollars depending on the size of the foundations.

Check with your builder before signing any contracts on land as they will have a "local knowledge" of the types of soils in the Mount Gambier area.

Do not sign any contract for land until you have at least made a preliminary investigation with a builder.

The presence of rock and clay is a sure-fire sign that your home will cost up to twenty thousand dollars more to construct because of this type of terrain. Sand and loamy soils achieve the best soil reports as they are generally non-reactive.

Step 2: Orientation

Generally, east/west facing blocks are considered in my opinion are the best to build on. This is the most important not only for your own comfort but also when calculating the energy rating for your home. All homes in Australia have to reach an energy rating of "6 star" and this is done by facing your home in such a way to utilise the warmth of the sun in winter and the shelter from the extreme heat in summer, especially on West facing windows which attract heat and make your home uncomfortable.

Other ways that a "6 star" energy rating can be attained is to increase the thermal rating of insulation in the walls and ceilings and also to double glaze some or all windows and sliding doors.

This is of course is more costly and that is why you should have your home designed after your block purchase to maximise the best orientation for your budget and lifestyle.

Step 3: Extreme sloping/steep blocks

Although a block that you are looking at may seem level enough to build on there are some points you should consider.

1. Check the height of floor level in relation to the street kerbing height to ensure that the driveway is not going to be too steep.
2. The impact of "cut and fill" in relation to height of retaining walls.
3. Engineering will have to be undertaken to address these issues. Potential extra costs can be avoided by talking to your builder and taking some levels prior to buying the land.

Summary

1. Design your home to suit your land.
2. Do not sign any contracts or pay deposit before receiving a soil report and site assessment.
3. Orientation of your home to acquire the "6 star" energy rating.

Get ready for summer

WANT your lawn and yard looking their best now the warmer days have returned? Smash through this list in the glorious sunshine and reward yourself with a cold glass or wine and beer and a barbecue.

Aerate

Don your aerating sandals. Loosen up your compacted soil and allow water, nutrients and air to get to your lawn's roots.

Barbecue

Dust off the cover. Check you've got gas (after your tidy up, you may want to fire your barbie up). Clean the grill and plates. Don't forget to clean the fat catcher.

Compaction Bonus.

If you've already aerated, you've taken care of compaction. If not, see aerate.

Decks

Clear them and scrub them. If you've got to reseal, then you've got a little more work to do.

Dethatch

What's thatch? If your lawn is really spongy, you've got a build-up of thatch. If you can wait (or want to skip a job, because you're keen to prepare your beef for a barbecue), hold off until the end of spring, as this is the best time to dethatch. Mow low to remove the thatch, but always only on warm season grasses.

Fertilise

If your soil's consistently above about 14 degrees, then it's time to give your lawn a feed. A slow-release granular fertiliser, such as Lawn Solutions Premium Fertiliser is recommended.

Furniture

Knock off the cobwebs. Dampen a rag and wipe off the dust and debris. Your wood furniture may need a reseal.

Leaves

Rake up your leaves and place them in your compost.

Mower

Now's the time to service or get it serviced. If you're doing it yourself, sharpen the blades and discard your old fuel.

Pre-emergent herbicide

If your lawn is free of weeds, good job! To keep it that way, apply a pre-emergent herbicide, such as OxaFert to combat potential infestations of, for example, oxalis or summer weed.

Soil

If you've aerated and taken care of compaction, you're almost done. You can consider using wetting agents or water storage crystals to maximise water efficiency.

Top-dress

If your lawn's a little uneven, throw a bit of soil on top. Make sure the leaf blades are still poking through. Top dressing helps to reduce thatch and improves drainage, too. You can delay this task, too, as the best time to top dress is in late spring/early summer.

Umbrella

Hopefully you have no more than a little dusting to do here.

Weeds

If you've got any, then pull them out by hand. If you don't have any, apply a pre-emergent herbicide so you don't get any!

Water

Water your lawn as little as possible and when you do, water deep. Long, infrequent soaks are better than light, frequent applications.

Zoysia

If your lawn is beyond repair, then take a look at Sir Grange (Zeon Zoysia). It's great in the shade and drought tolerant too. Or for a more affordable option, consider the ever popular Sir Walter.

Congratulations on making it to the end of the list! Celebrate and get on to sizzling your steaks for your first barbecue of the season.

THE REAL DEAL

LUXE LISTINGS SYDNEY
Streaming, from Friday,
Prime Video

There are real estate programs that show high-end-yet-attainable ways to design or renovate, those which check out incredible architectural feats, and then in a league of its own, sits Luxe Listings Sydney. With multi-million dollar property deals on the table in each and every episode, the – usually waterfront – palatial homes showcased in this elite real estate reality series get more elaborate each year.

Returning for a third season, agents D'Leanne Lewis, Gavin Rubinstein, Monika Tu and Simon Cohen duel for the most coveted properties in Sydney as the harbour city's market grows more cutthroat than ever.

A hit both in Australia and overseas, Luxe Listings' popularity has even earned its high-powered agents a few celebrity clients in need of luxurious escapes – singer-songwriter Delta Goodrem (below, with Rubenstein) also returns this series, with Gavin and Simon setting up a wager as they compete to find a luxury home fit for a national treasure. The incredible options the pair find have to be seen to be believed. – Lauren Mitchell

Hot property: Sydney agents Simon Cohen, Monika Tu, D'Leanne Lewis and Gavin Rubinstein.

QUEER FOR FEAR
Streaming, from Friday,
Shudder

Spooky season is just around the corner, and what better way to ring it in than by learning about the intrinsic links between queer culture and the horror genre, both in literature and on screen. Over four parts, the star-studded docuseries examines the likes of Psycho, The Rocky Horror Picture Show, Carrie and more.

THE GREATEST BEER RUN EVER
Streaming, from Friday, Apple TV+

Amid widespread anti-war sentiment, New Yorker Chickie (Zac Efron, pictured) decides on the most outrageous way possible to show his appreciation to friends serving in the Vietnam War – travelling to the frontline to personally deliver the soldiers a can of American beer. Based on a true story, this heartfelt comedy is totally absurd, yet engaging.

BLONDE
Streaming, Netflix

Joyce Carol Oates' 2000 novel serves as the basis for director Andrew Dominik's bold reimagining of Marilyn Monroe's life. Ana de Armas (pictured) is mesmerising as the fragile star in a controversial exploration of her public and private personas that charts her rise to stardom and romantic entanglements, blurring the lines between fact and fiction.

HOCUS POCUS 2
Streaming, from Friday, Disney+

Nearly three decades since their last outing, the wonderfully wicked Sanderson sisters are set to be resurrected once more in this bewitching sequel. When three young women accidentally unleash Mary, Winifred, and Sarah (Kathy Najimy, Bette Midler and Sarah Jessica Parker), they have just one night to stop the witches and save modern-day Salem.

THIS ENGLAND
Streaming, Foxtel On Demand

Going behind closed doors as the UK government grapples with the first few months of the COVID crisis, this insightful and painstaking drama is filled with countless true stories of the pandemic's first wave. An unrecognisable Kenneth Branagh (pictured) plays British PM Boris Johnson.

FUNDING GIVEN: Pinehall Avenue is one of the road upgrade projects being funded.

UPGRADES TO BEGIN: Pinehall Avenue will soon be worked on.

Upgrading ‘special roads’

COUNCILS across the Limestone Coast will be looking to get started on road upgrade projects after funding was announced.

The Local Government Association of South Australia (LGA) has announced 23 councils across the state will share in $16.2 million in grant funding.

These grants form part of the Special Local Roads Program, which pools a portion of councils’ federal road funding to better distribute money where it is needed.

Of that funding, City of Mount Gambier has been allocated $212,000 for work on Pine Hall Avenue, while District Council of Grant has been given $140,000 for Cafpirco Road.

Naracoorte Lucindale Council, Kingston District Council and Tatiara District Council have also received funds for local road projects.

LGA chief executive Clinton Jury said the program is unique to South Australia.

“[It is] essential for providing our state’s councils with vital funding for projects that they otherwise may not have the capacity to finance on their own,” Mr Jury said.

“Through this annual funding round, councils are supported to carry out important upgrades on rural and metropolitan roads across the state, making them safer and better for their communities.

“The LGA is proud to advocate annually on behalf of our member councils to ensure the allocation of program’s funds is directed towards projects where this financial assistance will have the greatest impact.”

Mr Jury said the program should be beneficial to councils over time, from improving freight routes to reducing congestion in tourist-heavy areas.

“From the Eyre Peninsula to the Limestone Coast, and everywhere in between, this funding will assist councils to deliver improved infrastructure that will make commuting across our great state safer and easier,” he said.

Roses' stamp of approval

AUSTRALIA Post has just released four new collectable stamps dedicated to Australian bred roses.

We are thrilled to say we have been a part of this important project supplying some of the images for the production of two of the stamps and booklets and cards.

These new stamps are now available from participating Post Offices and online.

With thousands of different rose varieties growing around the world and many international breeders releasing new varieties every year, we can certainly say that our country is now showing its talent and is coming out with interesting creations for the Australian market.

Most of the varieties we grow and sell at Wagner's come from breeders based overseas, but since 1880 some Australian passionate rosarians started breeding new roses and we now have an interesting number of good rose varieties made in Australia created to perform well in our specific climate and growing conditions.

To celebrate Australian bred roses, Australia Post selected four popular varieties which we highly suggest as we know they perform very well.

- Lorraine Lee, bred by Alistar Clark in 1924: its strong pointed buds open to soft salmon pink cupped blooms. It repeats flowering through the season, it has rich glossy green foliage and is extremely hardy.
- Governor Marie Bashir, bred by Paul Hains in 2015: a soft pink rose with a coral centre and delicate fragrance, named in honour of Professor The Honourable Dame Marie Bashir AD CVO, former Governor of NSW.
- Dusky Moon, bred by Richard Walsh in 2016: it's a strong growing healthy shrub with cup-shaped, highly fragrant blooms that come in small and large clusters, displaying a dusky mauve colour with a white reverse. Winner of the Silver Medal and the Australian Bred Rose of the Year Trophy at 2020 National Rose Trial Garden of Australia.
- Lady of Australia, bred by Bruce Brundrett in 2016: it's a unique floribunda rose with classical-shaped bright yellow flowers, showing ruffled petals when fully opened, fading to lighter yellow/cream on the outer side and revealing beautiful yellow stamens. Named 'Lady of Australia' to celebrate the wives of the Governors-General of Australia, received a Gold Medal and many other awards at the National Rose Trial Garden of Australia in 2018.

Other well-known and prolific rose breeders were Dr Bruce Chapman, Bob Hamilton (created Black Magic in 1953),

Lady of Australia.

Governor Marie Bashir.

Lorraine Lee.

George Thomson - from South Australia and a strong passion for roses growing in the southern climate - and Graham Sargeant, who created the multi-awarded and miniature mauve variety Gra's Blue.

All these roses and breeders are listed in our Australian Roses Collection and proudly promoted not only by us and other commercial rose growers in the country, but also by The National Rose Society of Australia.

At Wagner's we grow over 40 different Australian-bred roses and we are committed to increase our collection every year, adding those new releases that we think will perform greatly in your gardens.

Dusky Moon.

COVERS NEW GROUND

BY DEREK OGDEN,
MARQUE MOTORING

FOLLOWING the performance upgrade to the i30 and i20, the most recent model to get a booster is the most unlikely – the Kona sports utility vehicle.

Lifted from the underpinnings of the Hyundai i30 hatchback, it's hard to fit it into the pantheon.

For a start, there's no all-wheel drive, so it is a high-riding hot hatch rather than an SUV.

Front-wheel drive only has helped keep the weight down, enabling a claim by the maker of a zero-to-100km/h figure of 5.5 seconds, just a tenth slower than the i30 N hatch.

Two models have come to Australia – Kona N and Kona N Premium – priced from $48,000 and $51,000, plus on-road costs respectively.

Metallic paint adds $595 and matte paint $1000.

Both are powered by a 2.0-litre turbo-petrol four-cylinder engine, mated with an eight-speed dual-clutch transmission, serving up 206 kW and 392 Nm through the front wheels.

The standard Atlas White Kona N test car turned heads more than once.

The front followed the Hyundai N tradition with the black grille, following the rally team, being based on a chequered flag.

The Hyundai 'H' and performance 'N' were in there for good measure.

Below is another grille, less of a stand-out, while an LED headlamp set-up features on either side capped by strips of LED daytime running lights.

The rear roofline incorporates a discrete spoiler, while the dominating features are twin trumpet-tipped exhausts totally in keeping with the brassy note emanating from them when the engine is fired up.

In profile, the features probably responsible for the onlooker interest mentioned above, are unique 19-inch alloy wheels shod with Pirelli P Zero HN tyres, playing host to bright red brake callipers.

All these captivating aspects of the standard Atlas White Kona N test car exterior were linked by a fine red line skirting the lower body.

The Kona N inside is far from basic.

Sports seats, with a nice line in fabric and contrasting stitching, are bucket-style up front, while the second row can take three grown-ups.

Leg room there is average to skinny depending on the position of the front occupants.

Fancy suede/leather coverings are left to the Premium model.

The steering wheel is the exception, with leather wrapping giving the driver a touch of luxury.

The Kona N Premium also weighs in with auto-dimming rear-view mirror, head-up display, front parking sensors, powered, heated and ventilated front seats, heated steering wheel, glass sunroof and ambient lighting.

The driver has the benefit of a new 10.25-inch digital instrument cluster, while another 10.25-inch display screen in the central dashboard supplies information on vehicle systems and wired Apple CarPlay and Android Auto, plus factory fitted satellite navigation.

Quality audio is served up with DAB+ digital radio being blessed with an eight-speaker harman/kardon sound system.

Wireless phone charging caps off the line-up.

Power is provided by a 2.0-litre turbo-petrol four-cylinder engine putting power to ground, via an eight-speed double clutch automatic transmission, to ground through the front wheels.

Standard equipment includes autonomous emergency braking with detection of the presence of pedestrian or cyclist, adaptive cruise control, blind spot warning, lane keep and lane follow assist, rear cross-traffic alert and auto high beam.

Driving the Kona N was full of ups and downs.

The stiff suspension picking up every blemish in the road, even in Normal drive mode.

The racetrack would be more welcoming.

NEW DIRECTION: The Hyundai Kona: It's 'N' for a new direction in looks and performance.

REVVED UP: Peak power is on tap between 5500 and 6000 rpm, with torque chiming in from 2100 to 4700 revs.

Peak power is on tap between 5500 and 6000 rpm, with torque chiming in from 2100 to 4700 revs.

Gear changes are some of the smoothest, with just a slight nudge between cogs.

Hyundai puts the combined urban/high-way fuel (premium unleaded) consumption at 9 litres per 100 kilometres.

The test car came up with more than 11 litres per 100 kilometres in town and 5.9 on the motorway.

Everything worked a treat while going forward but in reverse, the vehicle tended to stutter when setting off on an incline.

Not the best when backing out of the driveway.

Exhaust performance ranges from producing from a peaceful background noise when cruising to a gravelly chorus when called on to get a move on.

'Grin Shift' is hard to take seriously.

Brought into action by the press of a red button on the steering wheel, the throttle response and gear shifts are speeded up for 20 seconds with an accompanying crackle and pop of the engine.

The same sound is on tap all the time in the programmable N Sport+ mode.

The claim to SUV status of the Kona N was put to rest by the lack of luggage room in the back.

Boot space is piddling at 361 litres with rear seatbacks raised.

A reasonably flat floor, taking 1143 litres, is released when they are folded.

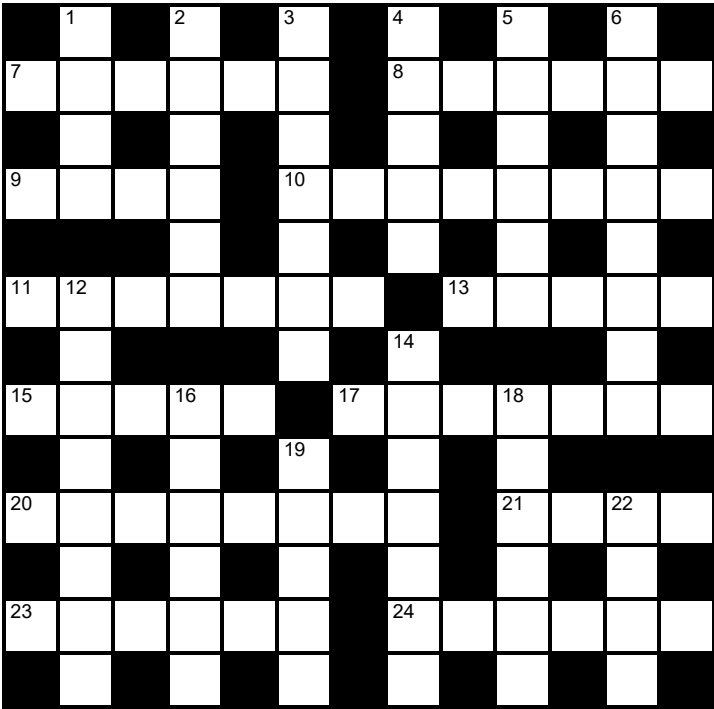

Finally, a trap for the unwary when the tailgate is opened, doubling as shelter from hot sun or rain.

However, in the wet a hollow where the number plate is attached fills with water, which cascades down on the owner when they close the door – a serious design fault.

Somebody said the Kona N looked like a white basketball boot.

However, the Hyundai SUV's sporting pretensions are on the other foot although there are occasions when the hot hatch(ness) sneaks through.

Setting sail for Adelaide

LACHLAN ONIONS

MORE than 120 women sailors will come together on October 1-3 for the first-ever South Australian Women's Keelboat Regatta, offshore from North Haven.

Determined to include as many women sailors as possible, the regatta organisers made several Elliot 7 keelboats available for hire, with try-outs prior to the event, including the morning of Saturday, September 24, for crews - including Port McDonnell - who can not bring their boats from other places.

Competitors range from their teens to 70s and include several Sydney-Hobart and Melbourne-Hobart competitors, with others who have won national championships in smaller boats.

"Make no mistake, women sailors are seriously focused and competitive on the water," 2019 Sydney-Hobart sailor Mary Ann Harvey, skipper of School's Out, said.

"On shore, we're quite different from the men.

"Off-the-water time is for mentoring and exchanging ideas, making new friends, great conversations and a lot of laughter."

SA Cruising Yacht Club will host the regatta, partnering with the Royal South Australian Yacht Club and Port Adelaide Sailing Club in event operations.

Port MacDonnell's Jennifer Jones is one of the women who will be taking part.

Jones has been sailing for five years and is excited for the inaugural regatta in South Australia.

"I am so excited, this wonderful club, the Royal South Australian Yacht Club, they are loaning us a boat to sail," she said.

"Our team is an amazing team, my team comprises of myself and Donna Howard and we are from the Port MacDonnell Sailing Club.

"Myself and Donna are two of five county sailors who are participating in this event, the rest are coming from the city."

Jones and Howard will be joined by Monica Tjung, Maya Ueda and Leah Toms.

The crew all have personalised T-shirts for the regatta.

"The name of our entry is called 'She Sails' and on our T-shirt, we have the slogan 'A woman who believes in herself is unstoppable,'" Jones said.

The team has spent the last two weeks practising in Adelaide before this weekend's big event.

"The boat we are sailing, is a boat that none of us have sailed before, apart from Maya, she is the only person who has sailed a J-24," Jones said.

"It is an amazing boat, it has been a tremendous challenge.

"We have had some wonderful male mentors who have been on board the last two weekends and have coached and helped us.

"We have practiced really hard, we had our final practice on Sunday morning and we really felt we were prepared."

Jones expects the regatta to prove to be a challenge for her crew but is confident they will perform well.

"I am confident we will sail well, I know I am competing against some top city crews and skippers that have been sailing together for years," she said.

"I am sailing in unfamiliar waters in the Gulf of Adelaide, whereas I am used to Port MacDonnell.

"I am expecting come away with a wonderful experience."

The two weekends Jones has spent preparing in Adelaide have payed dividends as she has had the opportunity to improve as a sailor and meet fellow competitors.

"The youngest competitor is 16 and I have met the oldest competitor who is skippering her own boat at the age of 76," she said.

"All of these women that I have met so far, they are just passionate about pushing this regatta and making it a success.

"I think we are going to make the most wonderful friendships.

"This is the spirit of the regatta, it is just about being really nice to people and having a ball.

"I have learnt so much already, I thought I was a good sailor but I have learned so much and have vastly improved already."

Conditions are set to be ideal for sailing and Jones is excited for what this weekend hold.

"The weather is looking very good, it is going to be around 20 degrees in Adelaide with lovely flat seas and it is predicted to be between 10 and 15 knots for the entire weekend which is dream weather," she said.

Jones is already excited for what the future holds and her team is already campaigning for next year.

Blockley steals the show at bodybuilding competition

LACHLAN ONIONS

lachlan.onions@tbwtoday.com.au

JAN Blockley took the ICN Bodybuilding Competition by storm recently as she claimed victory in her first ever time competing.

Blockley is a member of Millicent's Ignition Fitness and said she was "blown away" to win the competition.

"It was my very first competition but I have been weight-training for two years now," Blockley said.

"I didn't go in expecting to win anything."

She said she was just happy to have the confidence to get up on stage as it was a nerve-racking experience.

This competition was the culmination of over a year's hard work.

"I have been training six days a week for probably 18 months," Blockley said.

Along with training, she has had to ensure she eats the right food on a consistent basis.

Blockley said it was a "full-on" process to get her body in the right shape for the competition.

"Your body becomes like a science project," she said.

"You can't cheat and go in one of those competitions."

Blockley said she had to be disciplined to stay on track in the lead-up to the competition.

"You're not always motivated to go train for two hours a day but I think it is the discipline that keeps you going," she said.

Blockley said she will look to compete in another competition next year but will continue to train in the meantime.

However, she won't be pushing her body to the limit as she has done to get to this position.

"The body that you end up with when you go into those comps isn't sustainable to live," she said.

VICTORIOUS: Jan Blockley with her medal after winning the ICN Bodybuilding competition.

City winners keep coming

on the rails

david.gilbert@tbwtoday.com.au

TURNING 80 years of age nearly six months ago has not stopped local trainer Michael O'Leary from producing winners in the city.

With almost two months of the new season completed, O'Leary has already had two winners at metropolitan level.

Maracourt won for the stable at Murray Bridge in August and Scenic Host, another promising type, delivered the goods in fine fashion at Morphettville Parks last Saturday.

A copybook Jacob Opperman ride enabled Scenic Host ($4.80) to be within striking distance of the leaders on the home turn in the 1250-metre BM 62 handicap.

The five-year-old mare then put paid to her rivals in no uncertain manner in the final furlong to win impressively by 3.5 lengths.

That was her fourth win from 15 starts and atoned for two recent seconds this campaign at city level.

Our other metropolitan winner last Saturday was in the world of harness racing at Globe Derby Park in Adelaide which saw Naracoorte trainer Greg Scholefield chalk up another city winner.

A late pick up drive for Danielle Hill proved fruitful (after Gaita Pullicino was indisposed) which saw Jawsoflincoln ($1.70 fav.) scoot to the lead in the NR 70 pace from barrier four and romp home by 6.5 metres.

That was the third of four consecutive wins on the program for Hill, this state's number one driver.

PAYS TO FOLLOW THE FORM

The result of a race held here at Mount Gambier on September 11 has suddenly become a good form reference over the border.

In the 1316-metre BM 68 handicap at Glenburnie, the Daniel Bowman (Warrnambool) trained Atomic Gold ($1.90 fav.) put up a big effort to beat another Warrnambool galloper, the Tom Dabernig trained Jay Gatsby.

Last Friday, both of those horses went around at different venues in Victoria and both got the chocolates.

At Coleraine, Jay Gatsby was a $7 chance before scoring a 2.25 length win in the final race with regular jockey Harry Grace in the saddle.

ANOTHER CITY WINNER: Naracoorte trainer Greg Scholefield is well known in Adelaide harness racing circles, mainly due to his excellent winning strike rate there which continued last Saturday night when the locally owned pacer Jawsoflincoln returned to winning form.

Alert punters could have cashed in very quickly as Atomic Gold raced just 20 minutes later in the final race at Benalla at the opposite end of the state.

That was in a $100,000 BM 70 event which was a heat of a series being run around Victoria prior to the final being conducted in Melbourne.

Although it was a big step up in class from his Mount Gambier success, Atomic Gold ($4 fav.) scored by nearly three lengths to well and truly justify the 900 kilometre round trip from Warrnambool for Bowman.

INTERSTATE RAIDERS

The quality of horses going around at Naracoorte last Sunday may have been questionable, but that was not the case for the jockeys and trainers who supported the meeting.

As has become the norm of late, Victorian jockeys and trainers have had considerable success in the Limestone Coast and that continued at Naracoorte.

Highly respected Horsham jockey Dean Yendall rode at Naracoorte for the first time for many years and finished the day with two winners and two seconds.

Likewise, the Warrnambool based Harry Grace also rode a double as did apprentice Ben Price.

Victorian trainers won five of the eight races and, following three local meetings so far this season, the Tom Dabernig stable holds a slender lead at the top of the trainer's premiership board.

The Naracoorte club did well to stage the meeting on a track rated a Soft 7, helped by predicted rainfall that did not eventuate in the lead up to Sunday.

Punters who snapped up the $2 bet early about the Dabernig trained Launch Pad in the 1430-metre BM 68 handicap are still grinning.

Launch Pad, who was looked upon as the star bet of the day, was backed in to start a $1.60 chance and it was a painless collect for his backers after Yendall was able to easily dictate terms in front.

"It was a good win as she's very small," Dabernig commented.

"She has a good motor but I'm not sure how she will go over more distance in future."

There were plenty of happy punters after the first leg of Yendall's double when the Stephen Lenehan (Horsham) trained Arachnattack was heavily supported from $6.50 into $3.40 favourite before winning the 1200-metre BM 54 handicap.

Fellow Warrnambool trainer Adam Chambers had just the one runner for the day and that was in the opening race, the 1000-metre BM 58 handicap.

Glenferrie Girl ($3.80) was resuming from a spell and was untroubled to lead all the way which came as no surprise to Chambers.

"I thought she would run well today as she has a good first up record," Chambers said post race.

"She has previously run creditable races at Moonee Valley but the 1000 metres is about as far as she goes."

Naracoorte trainer Sue Murphy was the only Limestone Coast mentor to be seen in the winner's stall all day.

It was not hard to back her winner Hi Smokey ($3.40-$4.20-$3.60) as the gelding had raced three times previously at Naracoorte for three wins.

The six-year-old kept his unbeaten status intact with an all the way win to give Price the first leg of his double.

SPRING IN HER STEP

The first month of spring has been exceptionally good for Caroline trainer Belinda O'Loughlin.

So far in September, O'Loughlin has had six runners for three wins, a second and a third.

O'Loughlin's only runner on Coleraine cup day last Friday was Soobmerged who made it back to back wins in the 1600-metre 0-58 handicap.

Soobmerged always travelled like a winner for Linda Meech who retained the ride after winning on the gelding 10 days earlier at Hamilton.

After sitting in second spot, Soobmerged ($2.80 fav.) ran to the lead at the top of the straight and was untroubled to score by a long neck.

"I left it up to Linda and she summed up the race very well," O'Loughlin said.

"He (Soobmerged) has got more tricks than a magician and thankfully the penny has finally dropped."

CAN YOU BE OF ASSISTANCE?

The Millicent Racing Club is looking for helpers this Sunday morning at the Millicent racecourse.

"If you would like to join us for a morning of fun, potholing the racecourse this Sunday would be fantastic," livewire club secretary Simone Berry said.

"We are kicking off at 10am and this will be followed by a big bonfire and a bevvy (beverage) for your hard work."

The Mount Gambier harness racing club is having a fundraiser next Tuesday night at the South Eastern Hotel.

For every full sized schnitzel purchased (including takeaways), $5 will go into the coffers of the harness racing club.

Peckham pair to rep region

on the lure
GREYHOUND RACING

THE Mount Gambier Greyhound Racing Club looks to be well represented in this year's SA Country Cup final following last Sunday's heat wins at Tara Raceway by Lochinvar Cahill and Midnight Blast – both trained at Allendale East by David Peckham.

Lochinvar Cahill, raced by Peckham in partnership with Kevin Douglas, maintained his unbeaten record at the track over 512 metres when taking over the running from Miers down the back before holding out El Banjo for a one-length win in 29.85 seconds.

By Fernando Bale out of Tears Some, the July 2020 white and black dog has now won six races at Tara Raceway, including last month's Carlin and Gazzard MG Winter Classic.

The Nineofus Syndicate's Midnight Blast went into the second heat having been placed at his past 12 starts.

Another placing looked to be on the cards when the front-running Canya Razor gave them plenty to catch.

But in the run home it was Midnight Blast, a son of Collision and Midnight Starlet, who finished the stronger when gaining the decision by a nose in 29.82 seconds and also bringing up win number six at the track.

For Peckham, this year will be the fourth time he has had a representative in the Country Cup.

In 2014 it was at Strathalbyn with Thanks

Tubby and Bourne Again.
The following year Thanks Tubby represented Mount Gambier at Gawler and in 2020 Dyna Carnie at Angle Park.

Since the SA Country Cup was reintroduced in 2013, Mount Gambier club representatives have been successful on three occasions – Gawler 2013 Moorak Hope (Tracie Price), Strathalbyn 2016 Berry Bling (Nicole Stanley) and Angle Park 2021 He's All Purpose (Tim Richards).

With Lochinvar Cahill and Midnight Blast having previously raced at Angle Park, Peckham said he was now weighing up his options with the pair in the lead-up to the $7500 final which will be run on Friday, October 7 (Adelaide Cup night).

“Given that they have both been around Angle Park, I'm leaning towards trialling them at Tara Raceway tomorrow morning rather than tackling a 12-hour round trip to trial them at the city track,” Peckham said.

The Country Cup will be a six-dog final, with Gawler and Murray Bridge also each providing two representatives.

Gawler ran one 531-metre heat last Friday with the speedy Enthusiastic – trained by Nicole Price – leading all the way to defeat Robyn Mackellar's On The Tequila by 1¼ lengths in 30.86 seconds.

At Murray Bridge last Sunday two heats were conducted over 530 metres.

Adrien Chevalier's Run Like Jess won the first heat in 30.17 seconds and Fantastic Faith, trained by Liz Chegia, the second in 30.11 seconds.

Adelong just keeps on getting better

on the lure
GREYHOUND RACING

ADELONG, the 25 kilogram greyhound who turned around her racing career after wearing a one-blinkered muzzle, continued on her winning way at Tara Raceway last Sunday for North Bendigo trainer Aaron Blake.

The blue daughter of Fernando Bale and Bonnie Beauty – a winner of 15 races and $66,000 in stakemoney – had won at the Mount Gambier track the previous week when tackling the testing 732-metre journey for the first time.

On that occasion she opened a big lead before just hanging on to defeat proven stayer Mick's Kimmy by a quarter of a length in 44.32 seconds.

In last Sunday's Progrehoundtips.com Stake (732m), Adelong defied all challengers when once again leading all the way, and again defeating Mick's Kimmy, this time by three-quarters of a length when clocking 43.38 seconds.

The race time was interesting, something like 16 lengths quicker than the previous week and the third fastest 732-metre time run at the track.

Only track record holder Emani Bale (43.10) and Mick's Kimmy (43.22) have run faster.

The significance of the improvement certainly was not lost on her trainer.

“Gee, I can't believe just how much she's found in the space of a week,” said Blake, who travelled over with his brother Calum.

“To be honest, I had been in two minds whether to nominate her today given that she had run over the distance last week.”

Adelong first appeared at Tara Raceway in early June.

Since then she has raced at the local track on 10 occasions for seven wins over 400 metres, 512 metres, 600 metres and 732 metres.

Blake, a groundsman at the Bendigo Greyhound Racing Club, said he was now looking at returning to Tara Raceway on Sunday for a 512-metre event as a lead-up to a Bendigo feature race.

“Heats of the Bendigo Spring Cup over 660 metres are programmed for October 7 with the $10,000 final a week later,” he said.

“Being for grade 4/5 greyhounds I reckon this could be a good race for Adelong.”

The series is an opportunity for both seasoned veterans and young enthusiasts to get involved.

The athletes can compete to be crowned the winner of SA Regional series, while those still finding their feet get the opportunity to have a go, improve their skills, interact with the professionals and win prizes.

In addition to crowning a winner, each series of the SPL gives the community the opportunity to get involved and cheer on their own.

Commentating and judging of the events are done by enthusiastic locals, who also get to learn about running a skate park event.

More than 100 SPL events are held each year, which makes SPL it the biggest and most established grass roots skateboard, scoot and BMX series in Australia.

"Over the years, the SPL network has grown to over 3000 participants," Alice Hogan, manager of YMCA Action Sports said.

The Millicent round was established through a partnership between Wattle Range Council, YMCA Victoria, Victorian Skateboarding Association (VSA), AusCycling and Skate Australia.

Weekend of tracks

THE Mount Burr forest will come alive this weekend with the sounds of dirt bikes.

Find-N-Trax will hold an Off-Road Motorcycle Trail Ride in the forest, starting at the Mount Burr football oval and heading into the surrounding forest areas.

The event is with the help and cooperation of Forestry SA and One Forty One.

Combined with the assistance of the Mount Burr Football Club and the Wattle Range Council, a fun weekend is expected.

It is a non-competitive event designed for all levels of riders who own a registered off-road motorcycle and wish to access the premium riding available in the Mount Burr forest blocks.

Two days of riding are available to entrants, starting on Saturday afternoon for those who enter both days or Sunday for those who choose the single day's ride.

It will be run over a single loop on Saturday, with a double loop on Sunday.

Catering is provided by the Mount Burr Football Club, with every rider having a $5 credit at the catering shed as part of their entry.

Blue City Motorcycles will provide tests of the latest KTM off-road motorcycles on Sunday at no charge on a specially arrowed test loop for entrants.

Find-N-Trax supports Foodbank and $10 of every entry will go to their Children's Breakfast Program.

First zone carnival a success

THE Lower South East Hockey Association and Naracoorte Hockey Association took part in the first ever zone carnival held by Hockey SA.

The carnival was a major revamp to the way state sides are selected in South Australia.

Adelaide City was split into three zones and two regional zone teams competed in the five-team round robin tournament.

The competition saw South Australia's best Under 14 and 17 hockey players battle it out over the weekend.

Players from the Riverland, Lower South East and Naracoorte Associations teamed up to compete under the South Eastern Eagles banner.

They were contested by the Western Pirates, North West Rangers, Southern Storm and Eastern Saints.

The teams were chosen off the back of selection events held throughout the season in Naracoorte and Berri, in which teams from each individual region competed to be named in the final side to play at the championships in Adelaide.

All Eagles sides struggled against the strength of the Adelaide City teams, with the Under 14 Girls the only side to claim a victory against a metro team after they defeated the Southern Storm 2-1 on the final day in a gutsy performance.

The Under 17 Girls and Under 17 Boys defeated the other Rangers, who were the other country zone side, while the Under 14 Boys drawing their clash.

From this tournament, athletes will be selected to be in the squad in contention for the state side.

This squad will consists of about 35 players before being reduced to the final team of 16.

A walk in the park for parkrun participants

PARKRUN is the name but you do not have to run or be a runner to be involved in the free weekly 5km event at the Blue Lake every Saturday at 8am.

Walkers have always been welcomed and celebrated at the 450 Parkruns across Australia and the month of October will be dedicated to encouraging more people to walk.

More than 10 percent of people who complete the 5km course are walkers and the organisation is keen to significantly increase this number.

The campaign will see Parkrun change its logo to 'Parkwalk' for the entire month.

"Parkruns are social events where there is no time limit and people of all ages and abilities take part, including people pushing prams or with their dog on a short handheld lead," Mount Gambier volunteer event director Phil Ackland said.

"It's all about getting involved in a way that is fun and comfortable for you.

"Walking is a great way of soaking up the parkrun atmosphere and chatting with people while being active.

"It's one of the best entry points into parkrun, especially for those who may be taking their first steps towards healthier and happier lifestyles."

In addition to the tail walkers, who provide support and encouragement for walkers and are the last people to finish, there is a new volunteer role which is being introduced from October.

This new role will see volunteers wear a blue vest labelled 'Parkwalker' and their role will be to mix with other walkers and have a chat during the 5km walk.

Parkrun Asia Pacific Communications and Health & Wellbeing Manager, Glen Turner, said the campaign builds on the fantastic work parkrun events do to create a positive experience for walkers.

"People who participate in Parkrun know how much we love to celebrate walkers, so the Parkwalk campaign is designed to take this message to people who may never have considered that they could get involved in Parkrun," he said.

"Walking can help you manage or prevent health conditions, enhance your mood, boost fitness and bring you into contact with some amazing people and places.

By actively encouraging people who don't currently do parkrun to walk at our events, we can expand the incredible impact that parkrun has on a wider range of people."

PBs galore for archers

THE Blue Lake Archers continued to explore alternative indoor events last weekend.

With target faces and bow sights already set up for the 25-metre indoor distance from the previous competition, it made for an easy choice to select a pair of Australian 25-metre indoor rounds for Friday night.

A consistent performance from Jeff Puckridge was a feature of the night and proved a tough act to beat.

Peter Donhardt had a great first round, securing a new Personal Best for the 25-metre range but fell two points shy of catching Puckridge for the win.

The second round produced an identical final score for Puckridge but the challengers fell back.

Ian Harris was the best of the rest but was 15 points off the pace Puckridge had set to win the second round.

Sunday the weather was more suitable for outdoor archery and a triple-distance Short Canberra was chosen as the round of the day that was destined to produce a batch of new personal bests.

Coming off a pair of wins Friday night, Puckridge was the in-form archer to beat, but Tamika Mullan and Kilsby made it clear he was going to have some serious opposition throughout the afternoon.

Kilsby slammed a series of Perfect 60 point ends during the event to finish the day with six noted on his score sheet for a new PB of 888 from a possible 900 points.

Mullan snared a slew of all gold ends, also claiming a new PB to keep the pressure on both Puckridge and Kilsby, while Donhardt added his second new PB of the weekend.

As the final tallies were adjusted for the handicap scores it was evident Puckridge had cleaned up for the weekend, his score was a PB and exceeded the benchmark 900 points by a whopping 18 points to give him a winning margin of 19 points over Kilsby, Mullan a close three points further back.

Indoor archery continues at the Blue Lake Gymnastics Club, Malseed Park Friday at 7pm, followed by outdoor archery at Corriedale Park from 12.30pm Sunday.

Australian Indoor 25 metre, Round 1, handicap scored, benchmark 300 points: Jeff Puckridge 295 (off the bow 284); Peter Donhardt 293 (268 PB); Ian Harris 263 (250).

Australian Indoor 25 metre, Round 2, handicap scored, benchmark 300 points: Jeff Puckridge 295 (off the bow 284); Ian Harris 280 (267); Paul Freeman 277 (264); Peter Donhardt 254 (229).

Short Canberra outdoor round, handicap scored, benchmark 900 points: Jeff Puckridge 918 (off the bow 869 PB); Ben Kilsby 899 (888 PB); Tamika Mullan 896 (841 PB); Peter Donhardt 887 (786 PB).

TOP FORM: Ben Kilsby had a total of six Perfect 60 point ends for from Sunday afternoon's Short Canberra round.

Super Series reaches speedy conclusion

THE Australian Human Power Vehicle Super Series came to an end over the weekend with its feature event, the 24 hour race at Murray Bridge.

This international event is in its 36th year and is the biggest human-powered vehicle event in the world.

The series began in Mount Gambier in March at McNamara Park, which was well-represented by teams in the South East.

The series consisted of six races, including two in Adelaide and two at The Bend Motorsport Park at Tailem Bend.

The Murray Bridge 24 hour event has returned after a three-year hiatus due to Covid.

This year there was a different format with only high school teams allowed to compete in the event.

St Martins Lutheran College's Carbonated entry finished 10th in its category.

The race was well-contested with 136 entries for the gruelling endurance event.

Out of those 136 entries, there were four trikes from schools in the South East.

St Martins Lutheran College competed in both the Middle School and Senior Schools categories with trikes "Carbonated" and "Anything But Orange."

Millicent High School was the only other school in the South East to compete and entered two trikes with "MOSS ROCCA" and "RIPT Reloaded."

St Martins Middle School team took out a top 10 finish with their trike in category, whilst their senior team achieved the third-highest time in the time trial for its category and secured 19th spot on the starting grid. They also achieved the fourth-fastest lap time in their category for the race with a time of 2:02.019.

Millicent High School's trikes both did well claiming 21st and 26th position for the Community category.

Close key to Cats' success

"A lot of us involved at the moment had children going through the club with Brad, so we all know him quite well and we've followed his career very closely," Bruhn said.

"It's a little bit unbelievable to see where he's finished up given his journey was probably a bit different to others who get drafted.

"Him and Jeremy Cameron as well, we'll count him as a local, the publicity they're getting out of it is going to stand our local footy in good stead."

Bruhn, a big fan of Geelong, said he initially did not know how Close would fit into the AFL side when he was drafted, but now can not imagine the team without him.

"Once he got in, it has only been injury that's kept him out," he said.

"He's done an extremely good job in a stacked side.

"For him to be holding his place there is unbelievable and being a big part of our success is great."

Both Bruhn and Andrew said a lot of that had to do with Close's team-oriented play, which Bruhn added was vital in the recent premiership win.

"I was lucky enough to be there on Saturday, but when I watched the replay on Sunday, a lot of those early Geelong goals, he had a hand in," Bruhn said.

"He does a lot of little stuff."

Andrew said his son was now looking forward to a good break, heading to Europe with his partner for most of October.

After that, though, he said young Close was eager to get back on the track and keep playing football for the Cats.

Visitor claims vets golf honours

THE Millicent Golf Club welcomed 53 players on a drizzly morning for the latest round of SE Veterans golf.

The weather improved throughout the day and it was visitor, Ian Darwen, from Mandurah WA who took the first division honours with 38 points.

Robe's Brian Foreman was second with 37 and Millicent's Alan Schultz third with 35.

Second division was won by "Lucky" Lind-say Copeman with a wily 34 points, from Millicent's Ian Todd and Blue Lake's Gavin Sparrow on 33.

The three NTP's were won by John Kamp, Geoff Cameron and Grant Rowe.

Schultz snaffled the Scotch and the Ross Orchard trophy went to Brian Slape and Richard Neale.

Balls went to those who had 29 points or better.

Two new members joined up on the day and seemed pleased with their outing and the camaraderie that is part of it.

The next outing for the SE Veterans is at Penola on October 10, then Beachport on October 24.

Life members, great friends

JEFF HUDDLESTONE

TWO local women , Gloria Lennon and Isobel Phillips share a number of sport, community , friendship and business endeavours.

The well known, life long local, is 82 -year-old Gloria and Isobel was born in Warrnambool.

Now a spritely 98, and a 50 year resident, Ms Phillips is currently the oldest member of the Mount Gambier Golf Club , Attamurra Road, of which they are both life members.

Commenting on her healthy longevity, Mrs Phillips still maintains her interest in the club.

“So I come out here, a lot of the members are young,” she said.

“I think I’ve outlived friends in my age group and the older members are now in their 80s.”

Ms Lennon pursued her sport, school and community interests and raised four children with her husband Pat.

“Five ladies came out herein 1979 and joined up,” she said.

“I have enjoyed every minute of it, playing golf and working on the committees.”

Over her 43 year membership , she served six presidential terms, was also Vice President and heavily involved with catering to raise funds.

She still organises Melbourne Cup day , but this year it is BYO food.

Pat and Gloria Lennon are perhaps best known for owning and operating the iconic deli on Lake Terrace East for 68 years.

Ms Phillips met her husband in the army and they came to Mount Gambier in the early 1970s to open the former Fletcher Jones clothing factory.

“My husband was a golfer and when we came here , I learned to play golf and I loved it,” Isobel said.

After her husband died, she joined the committee and has held numerous positions, including treasurer, president, secretary and captain.

Isobel was on the committee for 31 years, “retiring “gracefully” six years ago, but still sponsors the Summer Salva and Medal of Medals tournaments.

“I played golf until I was 92 and I walked the course. I did not get into a cart,” Ms Phillips said.

Golfers can choose to negotiate the course in a cart, or walk the fairways.

The Mount Gambier golf club nominated her for the Australian Sports medal.

“I got the medal, instituted by Queen Elizabeth, in 2000,” Isobel said.

And she has another claim to fame.

“I had a hole in one in 1983 . I could out-talk my husband by saying I had a hole in one and you did not,” Isobel said.

During her playing years, she won numerous minor grade competitions , as did Gloria Lennon, who still tees off.

“My scores differ. My handicap is now 37 . It was 19 but that is a bragging right.” Gloria laughed.

While there are many opportunities for ladies and men to play golf on course, Gloria said that now on Saturdays , the ladies join in with the men.

“They never used to in our day. Saturday was mens day.” Ms Lennon said.

The club’s 100th spring tournament, featuring the 36 hole South East open championship , began yesterday and concludes on Monday at Attamurra.

“It is also about the social aspect and companionship. Ms Lennon said.

“We have ladies who are living on their own and they are very keen golfers in our own back yard” , she said..

As well as golf, Gloria and Isobel are involved in other community activities.

Gloria was Mount Gambier’s Australia day citizen of the year in 2008 and is currently a 45 year member of the Soroptimist club , which is sadly closing this year because it can not attract a president.

Far from being deterred , she will then help out with Rotary. Both friends are in the Probus Mount Gambier ladies club , which recently granted Isobel life membership. She produces the club newsletter

“No one wants to do the newsletter so I do it, and am still doing it 15 years later”, Ms Phillips said.

Both have a curious connection with pie carts.

“Remember that pie cart ? We ran it near the RSL for two years, selling Tom Lennon’s {Pat’s father’s} famous pies and pasties before we went to our shop” , Ms Lennon said.

“I remember the pie cart outside the palais in Warrnambool.

“They called the cart gutta-d-move along,” Ms Phillips recalled.

Isobel and Gloria still have more fascinating stories to tell.

Barrett puts on a clinic at Blue Lake

DEWAIN Barrett was on fire in Tuesday’s stroke round at the Blue Lake Golf Club.

It was a performance worthy of all superlatives as Barrett claimed the win with a round score of 78-17-61.

With just a solitary double bogey in his whole round Barrett would have thought it could not be much better after a strong front nine in 40 with five pars.

However, his round continued to improve on the inward nine, as a birdie on the 14th hole saw him close with 38 off the stick to take out the win.

Karl Ransom put in an impressive performance to claim second place with a nett 67.

There was plenty of red ink on his scorecard but there was no real blowout hole, which proved consistency is the key to scoring.

The talented baseballer made full use of his handicap of 30, with splits of 48 and 49 and showed his potential with pars on the ninth and 17th holes.

Rounding out the prize winners was another one of the club’s volunteers, Stephen Von Duve, with a solid round of 68.

His round started with a bogey, par and double bogey but Von Duve eventually found some consistency with a run of four consecutive pars before turning with 42 off the stick.

He continued with five more pars on the back nine saw Von Duve back in the clubhouse with a nett 68.

Ball winners included Andrew Ferguson with 69, Ian Bown on 70 and John Millhouse on 71.

Ewert claims matchplay

ALL eyes were on the Mount Gambier Golf Club's Matchplay final on Sunday between Ian Ewert and Tim Kenny.

Excellent weather greeted the players and both Peter Waters and championship sponsor John Martin were on hand to send the players off at 8am.

The match was tight early, with wins to both players and a series of halved holes before Ewert opened a 3-up lead by the 12th tee.

A series of pars saw Kenny draw back to all square by the 16th tee and players remained so on the 18th.

A win to Ewert on the last hole saw him take the championship 1-up.

Meanwhile, last week's bonus public holiday and warmer weather saw a bumper field of 144 players for the regular Thursday stabl-eford round.

Joe Clements' round of 40 points was enough to win by one from a trio of players tied on 39 - Dennis Smith, Brad Von Duve and Dane Handreck.

Playing off a four handicap, Clements had five bogeys and five birdies to record a square with the card 72 off the stick.

The ball rundown extended to 34 points, with John Gosling taking the last, while nearest the pins belonged to Bryan Walsh on the eighth hole and Jack Jennings on the 16th.

Excellent golfing weather saw another field of just less than 100 players on Saturday with the vast majority off early due to the AFL grand final.

Peter Jones and Blue Lake Golf Club member Mathew McIntyre both posted 40 points to top C Grade, with Jones taking the win on count-back.

Archy Arch, Andrew Stark and club captain Peter Waters all had excellent rounds of 39 points in A Grade, with Arch taking first place by count-back from Stark and Waters.

In B Grade Chris Gabriel took first place on 37 points from Jacob Reed on 36.

The ball rundown went all the way to 32 points, with Ewert grabbing the last.

Arch added nearest the pin on the eighth hole to his A Grade win, while on the 16th no one knocked it closer than Mike Griffiths, with both players rolling their putts in for birdies.

ALMOST: Andrew Stark finished runner-up on Saturday after a count-back.

Monthly medal hotly contested

ON a day where most members of the Blue Lake Golf Club had their eyes focused on the MCG for Saturday's AFL's grand final, Bruce Morale had only one sight in his eyes and that was the win in the Blue Lake Golf Club's monthly medal.

Like former North Gambier player Brad Close who often plays at the links course in the off season Morale gives it his all and this was more than evident between the both of them.

Morale started steadily with pars on the first three holes, before his first minor stumble on the fourth which he bogeyed.

He quickly made up for that with a birdie on the fifth hole and despite another bogey on the eighth, he turned with a classy 36 off the stick.

An out-of-the-blue triple on the 10th hole saw him seeing red but he channelled his frustration into his game play with pars on four of the next five holes as well as a birdie on the 12th.

The 17th hole proved no obstacle for the big hitting right hander and with the flag down the bottom of the hilly green it was no surprise he recorded another birdie.

Morale finished with splits of 36 and 38 for a nett 67 and the win.

Despite the favourable conditions and pin placements for a monthly medal competition, players still struggled to play to their handicap.

However, A Grade winner Colin Ferguson played to his handicap with a nett score of 70.

A brilliant even with the card 35, which included a birdie and a bogey, set him up for a dream round.

WINNER: Colin Ferguson claimed the A Grade on Saturday at the Blue Lake Golf Club.

However, like Morale, he also found trouble, his coming on the 11th hole with a double bogey.

This was bookended by bogeys on either side and Ferguson could see his round slip- ping away.

However, he also showed tenacity with a birdie on the 15th hole, which was followed by three consecutive pars on the last three holes to rescue his score.

It was an inconsistent day for Jamie Wal- ters, there was brilliance with birdies on the fifth and 13th holes but also calamity with six double bogeys to blot his copy book.

Splits of 42 and 41 saw the 12 handicap- per finish with a nett 71 and claim second place.

With five players in A grade finishing on nett 73, it kept the scorers busy working out the count-backs.

Eventually the third place honour went to Michael Watts.

Handicaps were always going to play a big part in deciding the place getters and with Watts's 39 on the back nine he was in the box seat to claim the final place.

Others to also finish on 73 score included Josh Gale, Trevor Little, Zeick Dalton and Daniel Christian, who went out strongly with an opening 35 but slipped out to a 39 inward nine.

The good news continued for B Grade winner Colin Tester, after finally regaining some strength and match-fitness Tester put it all together for a change.

It looked far from good for the valued volunteer with an outward 47 seeing him be- hind his handicap and plenty of work to do.

However, he knuckled down and shaved five strokes off on the inward nine for a round of 89-20-69.

Another one who willingly volunteers his time either at the handicap desk or out on a mower is Wayne Dunford and he also got re- warded with second place.

Dunford was a lot more consistent than Tester with splits of 43 and 42 and a string of late pars at the finish saw him almost snatch first place but just fell short by one stroke.

Another count-back was needed to de- cide the last spot on the podium with Jake Matthews and Stephen Smith finishing on nett 72.

After a poor 11th hole, Matthews then powered home with five consecutive pars and a birdie on the 17th, his closing 40 being too good for Smith to match.

As is normally the case in the harder course set up, the C Grade players struggled on the day.

Colin Rex was the closest to playing to their handicap with a nett 73.

This was good enough to take the grade win from Matt Dwyer on 74 and Ray Patch- ing, who survived a count-back for third on 75.

Place getters included Smith 72, Stephen Von Duve, Gale, Little, Dalton, Christian, 73, Robert Martland, Scott Sawyer, Steve Jelly, Matt Jennings, Brett Perryman and Anthony Riddoch on 74.

Greg Cooper's only moment of joy came on the fifth hole, where he picked up four balls for his pro shot and Kieran Ashby did the same on the 16th.

Nearest to the pins went to Julian Tickle for B Grade and Bryan Scott in A grade on the 14th hole.

TOUGH TO CATCH: Arthur Sissis has had a stranglehold on the Master of Mac Park and will again be hard to beat this weekend. Pictures: FILE

ENTERTAINING: Sidecars will provide their own form of entertainment during the Master of Mac Park weekend.

Mac Park ready to explode

THE annual Master of Mac Park returns this weekend, with action guaranteed at the Limestone Coast venue.

Big fields are again expected at McNamara Park, for what has become a popular event on the motor racing calendar.

The weekend will include Round 3 of the South Australian State Championships, plus the usual Master of Mac Park feature races.

Arthur Sissis is back to defend his crown and will start as unbackable favourite to claim yet another victory.

Sissis has had a stranglehold on the title in recent year's, simply proving too strong on his Yamaha Superbike.

Chasing him will be a host of young guns, all with plenty of experience around the famed circuit.

Dallas Skeer will bring his Yamaha 600cc Supersport machine, with the hope of claiming his class lap record, while Ted Collins will also venture across the border with a 1000cc Superbike and look to push both riders to the limit.

Skeer and Collins cut their teeth racing at McNamara Park and know the circuit well, but both believe Sissis is the one to beat yet again.

Apart from the two-wheel action, the sidecars throw up an interesting tussle.

The father/son duo of David and Stephen Jones have parted ways and will go head-to-head on separate machinery.

That in itself should provide and intriguing battle, with plenty of bragging rights on the line.

Many other categories are included, from pre-modern, to lightweights, Juniors and more.

Friday will see practice for all classes, with qualifying set down for Saturday morning.

Racing will kick off in earnest on Saturday afternoon, which carries through to Sunday and culminates with the feature events later in the day.

The event always provides top-level motor-sport action here in the Limestone Coast and with the recently refurbished venue, including the racing surface and the grounds, there are plenty of viewing areas for those attending, with the back of the course now a popular spot.

Full canteen and bar facilities are available all weekend, with entry $10 per day, $15 for the weekend and Under 16s free.

Collins looks for pace

TREVOR JACKSON
trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

IT will be a welcome return to McNamara Park for Ted Collins, when the Master of Mac Park kicks off this weekend.

A regular at the venue and a member of the Mount Gambier Motorcycle Club, Collins has enjoyed the circuit throughout his career.

However, with the Covid pandemic closing access to Victorians in recent years, the Warrnambool resident missed the venue.

Once border crossings were again allowed, Collins returned to the circuit and more recently began conducting rider training courses through the business he and partner Tayla Relph run – South West Track Days.

That has given him the opportunity to re-acquaint himself with the circuit prior to this year's "Master".

Speaking to The Border Watch this week, Collins said he was excited to get back to the circuit and tackle the coveted event.

"I'm really excited to head to Mac Park," he said.

"With Covid and the border restrictions we had for a while it was hard to come over into South Australia, so it is good to get back.

"At the Easter meeting I hadn't ridden at Mac Park for such a long time it was strange.

"I have been able to come over and do some ride days now so I am really excited.

"It is always a great race meeting."

Collins will compete on his well-prepared R1 1000cc Yamaha Superbike, on which he currently leads the Victorian and South Australian titles.

"We have had some good help with the bike from Dyno Bike in Melbourne," he said.

"They have been setting up the electronics – that is the thing with these modern Superbikes, the electronics is more important than the suspension or anything like that.

"That is what we have been chasing since we got this bike.

"It is going well."

However, muscling a 1000cc Superbike around McNamara Park is no easy feat and Collins does not expect an easy run, even with the high horsepower.

"I love the 1000, but I think the 600 would be a better bike for Mac Park," he said.

"There probably is a better lap time on a Superbike but it is definitely a lot easier to do it on a 600."

Fellow competitor Dallas Skeer suggested it would be hard to keep up with the Superbikes on his 600cc Yamaha and Collins had his own view on that.

"I think I was a bit the same back when I was on a 600," he said.

CHASING TIMES: Ted Collins will look for some extra pace over the weekend when the Master of Mac Park roars into action. Picture: FILE

"You always thought the Superbikes had it better, but then you get on a superbike and you understand how hard it is to wrestle one around Mac Park.

"It changes your perspective pretty quickly."

On Skeer, Collins said there may be some friendly rivalry and bragging rights between the two.

"Our dads are good mates and I think I am a year or two older than him," he said.

"I rode 125s and we sold them to him, so he got to jump on the bikes we developed.

"We never really got to race each other because I was always stepping up a class and at Easter this year I had bike issues and missed the Master."

Regardless of the competition between the two riders, both agree on one thing – everyone will be chasing Arthur Sissis, a rider who has dominated the competition.

For Collins it will be all about development leading up to the next Superbike round.

"I am doing the next round of ASBK at Phillip Island and Arthur has established himself as a front runner in ASBK now," he said.

"He has been racing ASBK all year so I can't expect to beat him, but if I can latch onto the back and try to go with him in the races and pick up the pace a little bit, we can get ready for ASBK next month."

Williamson into top job

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Mount Gambier and District Cricket Association has welcomed a new president for the 2022-23 season, with Dave Williamson taking on the role.

Williamson replaces the outgoing George Kidman, who nominated the new president, who is keen to get his hands into the job.

"I played my junior cricket at Yahl and into the seniors, then went to Uni," Williamson said.

"I have been associated now with the Mil Lel Cricket Club for around five years.

"I am looking forward to it but it is certainly not without its challenges."

Williamson spent a year on the executive committee before taking on the big role.

He said he was pleased Kidman was still involved.

"I would like to thank George for his time as president," Williamson said.

"While he has stepped off from president, he is still on the committee.

"I would also like to thank Ken Fowles for his efforts over many years looking after the league.

"He is also leaving and he has been a long-time servant of the league."

Williamson said he has a few areas he would like the executive to focus on, with one major role which will need to be filled for next year.

"A key area for us will be the turf pitches going forward into next season," he said.

"Gary Ashby has indicated he will no longer prepare the pitches for next year, so as a committee we will need to have discussions and find a way forward for those wickets.

"That really affects the A Grade and B Grade competitions."

One other major focus may take several years, but Williamson said it was important for the sport into the future.

"I would like to see us discuss ideas around an indoor training facility here and how we might facilitate that, not necessarily in one year or three years but maybe in five years," he said.

"We need to have a long-term view on how we can do that.

"I think it is really important for our junior cricketers in particular, but also for seniors wanting to work on the sport during winter.

"If we want to have juniors going into the state representative forums, they need to be able to train and we need to attract quality coaches.

"We can only do that if we have good facilities.

"A senior competition is only going to be as good as its junior competition.

"If we can get our juniors up and about, keep them training and interested in the game over winter, it only helps our competition going forward."

The main competitions in the region have been pushed back a week this season to allow the turf pitches to be prepared.

The recent rains and other logistics have not allowed that to happen fully at this stage. But Williamson said the draw can facilitate the changes.

He said with the usual six teams in the A Grade competition, he expected a good season.

"Numbers are looking good across the board," Williamson said.

"We don't have any grades dropping off.

"As always, the juniors at Under 12 and Under 14 levels are looking good, as we have seen in all competitions, the Under 17s is where we lose people, but at this stage that is looking good.

"The women's competition starts on October 9.

"They have an eight-round season with semi-final and grand final, which is encouraging."

Williamson said, as is usually the case, the association is seeking anyone interested in umpiring.

"We are always looking for new umpires, which is a paid position," he said.

"We are about where we left off last season but we are always looking for new ones.

"The more paid professional umpires we can get the better.

"I think it just brings the game forward."

Overall Williamson everything was in place for an entertaining summer of cricket.

The first Barber Shield clash will be a one-day match, with Penola to host North Sportsman's, East Gambier at home to South Gambier and West Gambier to host Mil Lel on October 22.

The association will use both the MyCricket and PlayHQ apps this year.

Results will still be placed on MyCricket, while registrations are to be done through the PlayHQ app until all data is migrated across to the new platform.

Cat Closes out top season

THE AFL season has come to an end, with Geelong taking the chocolates in a massive grand final win over Sydney.

Geelong put on an absolute clinic, off to a fast start and countering everything the Swans could throw at them to run away 81 point winners.

For those watching from Mount Gambier, though, a lot of attention was focussed on Brad Close and Jeremy Cameron.

Despite neither player having won an AFL flag before, both looked calm on the ground and were handy for the Cats, racking up two goals and 18 disposals each.

According to Close's father, Andrew Close, his son was very relaxed before the game and it was the family who struggled to cope with all the nerves.

"Normally I have a pre-game talk to him just to say g'day, there's certainly no advice from a know-it-all dad - that's the last thing I do these days," he said.

"As far as the family, everyone was on edge and extremely nervous.

"I think I was still nervous until probably halfway through the third quarter."

Andrew said it did not really hit home until he saw his son lining up for the national anthem before the game.

"We still pinch ourselves just on a normal home and away game to see him run out," he said.

"So to see him there on grand final day, got a bit emotional watching him line up for the national anthem.

"I'm a footy tragic, so I find that exciting and nostalgic at the best of times."

Even when Geelong was off to a fast start, jumping out to a 35 point lead at the first break, Andrew said the nerves were well and truly settled in.

"At half time, even though it was five or six goals, it was only a half of football and Sydney are a formidable team," he said.

"When Geelong came out (in the third term) and I think they kicked three goals in a few minutes ... that really just put in a big gap and you could see the Swans deflate."

Andrew said the whole day was a "surreal" experience, but the best part was being able to soak in the atmosphere on the ground after the game.

"To be watching Brad out there and on the dais accepting his medal afterwards was quite surreal," he said.

"Even getting an impromptu hug from Joel Selwood was quite surreal.

"He gave me a big hug and said 'You've got a ripper son'."

North Gambier president David Bruhn, who watched Close grow up playing football at the club, said his story would inspire heaps of regional players.
