A wave of generosity

A 5000L tank, a fire pump, coastal accommodation packages, heifers, signed AFL merchandise and a surfboard are among the 124 lots of items worth more than $90,000 to be auctioned to support Lucindale and Avenue Range families affected by the recent fires.

Event coordinator Amanda Carter (pictured) said event organisers had to stop accepting donations due to the vast number of items on offer, with more than 120 lots to be offered at Lucindale Country Club tomorrow night.

THE Millicent RSL as the site for Wattle Range's proposed new council office could again be in play as elected members flagged a motion to reconsider the former netball courts as the location of the $5.5m facility.

Despite preliminary design work moving ahead at the North Terrace and Williams Road corner site, elected members raised concerns about the location at last week's informal gathering, claiming the decision was rushed.

Councillors also floated purchasing vacant shops in George Street, moving the Millicent skate park and Apex Park as preferred sites for the proposed council office, saying the current location was too far from Millicent's central business district.

Elected members discussed the council office for more than an hour, with a motion to reverse the decision likely to be tabled at next week's full council meeting.

Meanwhile, council will also consider the future of Millicent Saleyards next week, with the livestock selling facility at risk of closing in June unless an extension to operate is granted.

THE University of South Australia is phasing out its music programs offered through the James Morrison Academy after ending its partnership with the jazz school.

After just six years, the university announced it will discontinue its undergraduate and postgraduate program offerings at the Mount Gambier campus, which is headed by jazz musician James Morrison.

UniSA did not address questions relating to why the program would no longer be offered and enrolment numbers at the facility.

Current third year students will complete bachelor degrees as planned and a small number of undergraduate and post-graduate private students will continue to study at the facility, housed at Mount Gambier's Old Town Hall.

Mr Morrison did not believe changes to the performance-based campus would have any impact on the annual Generations in Jazz festival, stating "Mount Gambier is the home of this event".

A duty: RSL's call to retain hall

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

MILLICENT Returned and Services League (RSL) vice-president Bruce Clayson is pleading with Wattle Range Council to consider the town's late veterans following renewed discussions on demolishing the RSL Hall to construct a $5.5m council office.

Mr Clayson, who was recently awarded Wattle Range Council's Corcoran Ward Citizen of the Year citation, addressed elected members at last week's informal gathering to oppose any prospective demolition of the hall.

"The Department of Veteran Affairs, council and the RSL have put huge amounts of money into the structure and the thought is beyond me to consider that site be pulled down and reused," he said.

"I cannot see the rationale why council is considering this as a site as I thought the site had been decided on previously."

A push to reconsider the site as the location for the new council office elicited an emotional response from Mr Clayson, who told the chamber he had been called up for National Service in December 1967 as part of the mandatory military service scheme while in the third year of a motor vehicle apprenticeship. Due to be married in 1970, Mr Clayson said he opted to undertake six years of part-time service with the Citizen Military Forces, now known as the Army Reserve.

"I donned the uniform, swore on the Bible to serve Queen and country and be available for overseas duty if required," he said.

"During that five and a half years training, I learned how to kill people, do weapon training, map reading, jungle warfare, drill and how to take orders.

"Labor won the election and abolished National Service and we were all sent home, end of story."

Mr Clayson said he was approached by former Millicent RSL president Syd Pelling to join the sub-branch in 1993 and has since held a number of executive roles, including president.

He believed the hall, which was erected as a war memorial in 1956, should be retained to honour the legacy of the town's veterans.

"I became very good friends with a World War II veteran Henry Hawke, who was treasurer at the RSL sub-branch for 13 years," he said.

"I am sure people like Syd Pelling, Bill Werchon, Ralph Bowman and Henry Hawke would not have been thought about what is being discussed today.

"I think it should be left as a shrine to the ex-servicemen and women who served our country to preserve what we have today."

However Councillor Dale Price was under-terred by Mr Clayson's plea, saying the RSL had forfeited its agreement with council on at least two occasions, reverting ownership of the land and building to council.

"The RSL, its people and Bruce fought on my behalf for freedom of speech and that is what we are exercising," he said.

"The RSL had the lease and the building and at least on two occasions, it was forfeited.

"Council has actually maintained that facility and allowed - without agreement - the RSL to use that building.

"It has now become a symbol of preciousness and it needs to be balanced by the fact that in the past, members have allowed it to lapse."

Council will continue its discussion on the site of the proposed staff office at next week's meeting.

Wattle Range reconsiders proposed $5.5m office location

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Millicent RSL as the site for Wattle Range's proposed new council office could again be in play as elected members flagged a motion to reconsider the former netball courts as the location of the $5.5m facility.

Despite preliminary design work moving ahead at the North Terrace and Williams Road corner site, elected members raised concerns about the location at last week's informal gathering, claiming the decision was rushed.

Councillors also floated purchasing vacant shops in George Street, moving the Millicent skate park and Apex Park as preferred sites for the proposed council office, saying the current location was too far from Millicent's central business district.

Elected members discussed the council office for more than an hour, with a motion to reverse the decision likely to be tabled at next week's full council meeting.

At the December monthly meeting, Councillor Dale Price raised a series of questions relating to the conditions of ownership between council and the Millicent Returned and Services (RSL) sub branch hall.

At last week's meeting, council chief executive Ben Gower told elected members although council had sought legal advice about the RSL Hall, it was received "a couple of business days before the meeting where the decision was made".

Mr Gower said following the expiry of a lease in 2006, council entered into a licence to occupy agreement with the RSL sub-branch, which did not provide exclusivity to the club.

Cr Price said expressed concern elected members had not received the information about the agreement prior to the October council meeting.

COUNCIL OFFICE CONCERN: Councillor Dale Price says the decision to build a $5.5m council office in Millicent was undertaken in haste and without necessary information.

"I am uncomfortable with that decision because I think we made it in haste and we had actually sought that information," he said.

"This is a significant decision which I think is better taken at leisure than haste.

"I still think the building needs to be somewhere near the CBD in Millicent.

"Council offers one of the largest workforce in the district and to have that workforce and their potential spending close to the Millicent CBD must have an economic benefit to the community.

"Because of the information that became available, I indicted to Ben I was prepared to put a rescind motion on the table... because I think significant information wasn't considered at the time when it should have been."

Cr Deb Agnew agreed the decision was rushed and backed Cr Price's concerns the former netball court site was too far from Millicent's main street precinct.

"I believe people won't walk, talk and spend money in the centre of town," she said.

"They are not likely to just zip out for a coffee from that site.

"You can argue about this, but there's a lot of research that has been done.

"We are not going to be right in the middle, but we are going to be closer if we think about where we might place this new council office."

However Cr Kevin McGrath rebuked claims the decision had been rushed, saying council had discussed the issue for more than six months.

"It's not as if it just come up that night," he said.

"We have been going backwards and forward on this for months.

"We had to draw the line somewhere."

At the October council meeting, Cr McGrath moved a motion to proceed with the formal netball courts for the site of the building, which was narrowly supported by a majority of councillors.

However, councillors Rick Paltridge and Moira Neagle said the vote - which was won by six votes to five - did not demonstrate overwhelming support for the site.

Cr Neagle said Cr McGrath's motion "caught us a bit off guard", saying the result "was not a clear decision one way".

"To revisit it because of that vote is worth considering," she said.

Cr Paltridge, who along with Cr's Neagle, Agnew, Price and Dean Burrow voted against the motion, said he was "very uncomfortable" with what he termed as a close vote.

"Okay democracy rules and I know 50pc plus one and all of that, but at the end of the day six to five is really difficult to sell," Cr Paltridge said.

"I think we have got to have a far more concrete conclusion or the vote has got to be eight to three, nine to two - that is going to be a lot easier for us to go out there with confidence and continue this process through."

Cr Dennis Muhovics asked what would happen if a six to five vote was reached on the RSL Hall, asking councillors to justify what would be an acceptable voting scheme.

"If you are saying six to five isn't a real result, what if you get six to five the other way?," Cr Muhovics said.

"Is that a result?"

Despite Wattle Range mayor Des Noll urging councillors to consider the results of the community consultation, which showed 39pc of respondents preferred the former netball court site, Cr Graham Slarks said he would push hard for an office in the main street.

But Mr Gower said the main street posed a number of challenges for council, including the need to purchase multiple buildings and increases of property values as a result.

Cr John Drew said he agreed with an earlier suggestion made by Cr Peter Dunncliff to relocate the current skate park.

"When you think about it, it's not such a bad spot," he said.

"The critical issues for me are the closeness to the centre of town, I think it is important and that is the only site that is acceptable."

*EXTEND OR END?: The future of the Millicent Saleyards hangs in the balance as Wattle Range Council continues to consider extending the facility operations for another five years or close it in June.

$90k a cause for relief

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

A 5000L tank, a fire pump, coastal accommodation packages, heifers, signed AFL merchandise and a surfboard are among the 124 lots of items worth more than $90,000 to be auctioned to support Lucindale and Avenue Range families affected by the recent fires.

Businesses and individuals from across the region as far afield as Adelaide have donated goods, services and vouchers to help generate much-needed funds for bushfire relief.

More than 120 lots comprising of items ranging from wine, machinery, framed prints and beauty products will be auctioned at the event, which will be held at the Lucindale Country Club tomorrow night.

Event coordinator Amanda Carter said the event was developed following an overwhelming response to a call for auction items during the Adelaide Crows meet and greet session held late last month.

"We were contacted by Darcy Fogarty who used to live in Lucindale about bringing some Crows players down to show support for the community and those affected by the fires," she said.

"On the poster we released, we asked people for fundraising ideas or if they wanted to donate items for an auction and it just exploded.

"Before the Crows came down on January 22, we already had $35,000 worth of contributions and we decided to do the auction over two nights.

"We ended up getting more than $90,000 and there are still people who want to donate but we can't accept because we already have too many items."

Ms Carter said organisers were overwhelmed by the generosity of the community, with businesses and individuals digging deep to support families affected by the fire.

"There has been a lot of people donating accommodation, some for overnight and others for longer stays," she said.

"Limestone Coast Motorcycles and Small Engines have donated a fire pump, Mini Jumbuk donated a king size quilt which is just fantastic and we have had donations of a chainsaw and a signed North Melbourne jumper.

RAISING FUNDS: Lucindale mega auction coordinator Amanda Carter thanks Castec Rural Supplies Lucindale manager Daniel McCarthy for his donation. The store has donated a 40 litre fridge towards the bushfire relief auction, while the Castec Group has contributed a $5000 in store gift voucher to be auctioned on Saturday night.

"Hearns Menswear in Naracoorte have donated gift basket full of items and there are a lot of gift vouchers for hotels and meals across the region as well."

The blaze, which SA Police deemed as non-suspicious, burned through 17,000ha of land, claimed three structures including a residential property and killed thousands of stock.

However Ms Carter said the community was buoyed by the generosity, comradeship and outpouring of support in the recovery.

"The support for our little town has just been amazing and it is coming from everywhere," she said. "People from Kingston, Naracoorte, Mount Gambier, Penola, Robe and all around the region have been so generous."

"A group of Robe businesses put together a hamper of vouchers and goods including artwork, wine, food and accommodation which is valued at $3000.

"We had a man drive all the way from Mount Gambier to Lucindale because he wanted to make a donation.

"Lucindale is such a small town and things like this help people who have been affected by the fire know that there is support and there is help out there."

Organisers have engaged the assistance of Lucindale businesses to help collate the hundreds of items for auction, with Castec Rural Supplies manager Daniel McCarthy sourcing donations from suppliers and organisations.

The donations include a 5000 litre tank from Bushmans worth $1000, creosote posts from OneFortyOne, two 500ml Marks-Min worth $900 from Boehringer Ingelheim and two soil test worth $280 from Fertitech.

Mr McCarthy said the Lucindale Castec branch had donated a Engel 40 litre fridge, while the broader Castec group had contributed a $5000 inshore gift voucher for the auction.

"The Castec group and our boss likes to give back to the community, locally we support the football club and the Lucindale Cricket Club, and we were keen to support this as well," he said.

"We called a few of our suppliers and asked if they wanted to help and everyone has been very generous."

"Zoetis have donated 15 litres of Startect which is worth around $1400, Nufarm have given us 20 packs of 20 litre Crucial and Elenco have contributed an Zolvix Plus esky filled with assorted products. "Elders Naracoorte have also contacted their suppliers and sourced items for the auction as well."

The event will start at 6pm and meals and beverages will be available to purchase, with all proceeds raised at the auction to go to families affected by the fires.

Robe band Axis will entertain the crowd and COVID-19 measures will be in place.

Pre-bids are welcome and can be made by phoning Amanda Carter on 0439 267 590 or Greg Fisher on 0408 335 936.

The full list of items can be viewed on the Lucindale Hotel's Facebook page.

A John Deere E110 ride-on mower worth $3848 will be raffled to raise funds as part of the appeal, with tickets available for $5. The raffle will be drawn on March 12.

Coronavirus restrictions in Victoria

VICTORIA has reintroduced mandatory mask rules, reduced the number of people allowed in homes and stopped an increase on the number of people allowed in offices after an Australian Open quarantine support worker tested positive to coronavirus.

Premier Daniel Andrews announced the restrictions - which include a 15 person cap on gatherings and compulsory face masks in all indoor functions - in a late night press conference on Wednesday night.

Mr Andrews said the infected person last worked at the Grand Hyatt Hotel on January 29 and was tested at the end of his shift, returning a negative result.

In the days following his last shift, the 26-year-old developed symptoms and got tested, returning a positive result late on Wednesday.

Authorities have directed individuals who have been at eight Melbourne locations at certain times and days to get tested and isolate for 14 days.

Exposure sites include Kmart stores in Keysborough and Brandon Park, Coles Springvale, Bunnings Springvale, the Melbourne Golf Academy, Club Noble in Noble Park, Aces Sporting Club in Keysborough, Northpoint Cafe in Brighton.

Mr Andrews said the man was a Country Fire Authority volunteer and had attended a social function in his capacity as a volunteer firefighter.

He said the case had been identified relatively early and authorities had received extensive information about exposure sites.

"This is one case," he said.

"There's no reason for people to panic or be alarmed.

"We know what to do."

Blue Lake back to two-way traffic

MOUNT Gambier's iconic Blue Lake no longer has directional restrictions on pedestrian traffic with the popular exercise walking path completely returned to two-way activity.

Mount Gambier City Council removed restrictions this week originally introduced in response to COVID-19, with users still encouraged to social distance where possible.

In response to community concern, council implemented a one-way, clockwise only foot traffic directive around the Blue Lake exercise path in April 2020.

In November 2020, council reviewed the directive and reinstated two-way pedestrian traffic around the Blue Lake footpath on John Watson Drive.

The 750-metre Bay Road section remained one way due to the narrow path against the road barrier, which makes physical distancing difficult.

Council city infrastructure general manager Nick Serle said council had a greater understanding of COVID-19 and transmitting it in the open air was less probable than first thought.

"We have taken on board feedback from the community and reassessed the directive once again and will open the Blue Lake walking path back up for use in both directions from Wednesday, February 3," Mr Serle said.

"We have had no active cases of COVID-19 in the region for many months now, but it is still important to maintain physical distancing principles where possible when using the Blue Lake exercise path."

WORKS BOTH WAYS: The entire Blue Lake can now be accessed both ways as two-way traffic is reintroduced.

Support for saleyards upgrade

RAQUEL MUSTILLO
 raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

GRANT District Council has supported an in principle funding contribution of $2.7m towards a multi-million dollar upgrade of the Mount Gambier and District Saleyards if two State Government grants are unsuccessful.

Elected members voted to contribute an additional $850,000 towards the $5m major infrastructure project to progress a Federal Government grant application.

A staff report said council had applied for $850,000 - 17 per cent of the total project cost - under the State Government's Regional Growth Fund last year, but had yet to be informed if successful.

The report said council had applied for the same amount under another State Government funding stream, with guidelines indicating applicants will be notified on final decisions in late March.

According to the report, guidelines for the Federal Government's Building Better Regions Fund - which close on March 5 - indicate that a project must be investment ready, with applicants having confirmed funding contributions from all sources to be eligible.

ADDITIONAL FUNDS PLEDGED: Grant District Council will increase its contribution towards a transformational project at the Mount Gambier and District Saleyards to $2.7m if two State Government grants are unsuccessful.

"The implication of this eligibility requirement is that council will need to demonstrate in the Building Better Regions Fund application that they are prepared to fund the full funding partner contribution of $2.7m if applications for state funding are unsuccessful," the report said.

The report said enquires have been made with the Local Government Authority to obtain current prices on borrowings, with indicative rates between 2.15pc to 2.50pc a year on debenture loans confirming $100,000 a year will be self-servicing based on the estimated 70,000 cattle processed each year through the facility.

In October, councillors basked the project plan which includes a 13,600m2 cattle roof, holding pen reconfigurations and the installation of solar panels at the Glenburnie site. ??

If funding is secured, the project will also comprise of the provision of soft flooring throughout the cattle selling area to reduce foot soreness and maintenance labour requirements, security cameras and lighting and a new sprinkler system to help suppress dust.

AV, audio and networking is also earmarked for the facility, which council hopes will facilitate online sales.

Other inclusions are replacing the concrete slabs on the buyer's walkways, a trough watering system, soft flooring, security cameras and LED lighting and a toilet at the weighbridge.

According to the report, the roof - which is estimated to cost $2.7m - will improve conditions for workers and safeguard against inclement weather.

The project will also include the re-roofing of the old calf shed and the raising of the Brian Collins and Bob Cranwell roofs to enable more selling pens in the busy season.

That's a whole lot of doughnuts

MOLLY TAYLOR
 molly.taylor@tbwtoday.com.au

MORE than 75,000 doughnuts have rolled off the production line since Mount Gambier's regional Krispy Kreme Hot Light Factory opened in December.

The OTR Mount Gambier East and Krispy Kreme site launched late last year and its unique Blue Lake doughnut remains in its top five sellers, complemented with the sale of the iconic Molonys Blue Lake Lemonade at the site.

An estimated 1400 people have also experienced the Hot Light doughnut feature at the Ramsay Avenue site, which employs 50 people across the two operations.

OTR Mount Gambier store manager Sonia Langenberg said the grand opening was overwhelming but the new team was finding its feet.

Ms Langenberg previously managed the Portland site and moved to the Limestone Coast to take on the role.

"It is a lot of absorb in the first little while and we have had a couple of little teething problems, but other than that it is business as usual for us," Ms Langenberg said.

"It is just great for Mount Gambier too, to have such a high end offer.

"You often see stores like this in the cities, but the country doesn't always get the nice stores and now Mount Gambier has a few also with Coles, Aldi and other developments."

Ms Langenberg said people had embraced the combined OTR and Krispy Kreme service and the 24/7 site was extremely busy.

"We are already seeing some regular cycles with different shifts and tradies which come through fairly regularly," she said.

"More and more truck drivers are also using our facilities with our truck lounge as well which has everything set up for them.

"Christmas Day was massive and you wouldn't think people would eat hotdogs and pies, but they do."

Krispy Kreme retail manager Simon Burchell said the site had opened with a big bang, praising the community for its support.

READY FOR SERVICE: OTR Mount Gambier East morning barista Ellie Dodemaide makes hot beverages and serves freshly squeezed orange juice to customers.

"We have a steady stream of regular clients who the team look forward to seeing, and it has certainly exceeded our expectations so far," he said.

"I certainly feel as though we have captured people's interests."

Mount Gambier City Council elected members discussed the opening during last month's meeting and Councillor Christian Greco labelled the site an enormous economy boost.

"Whilst yes it is a service station and a donut shop, to this town it was a big injection into the local economy with the input of what the build cost was and they are also employing 50 locals, a lot of them being young people in their first jobs," Cr Greco said.

"It is another opportunity for kids to get into the workforce early and learn those basic skills."

Uni changes tune on jazz

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

THE University of South Australia is phasing out its music programs offered through the James Morrison Academy after ending its partnership with the jazz school.

After just six years, the university announced it will discontinue its undergraduate and postgraduate program offerings at the Mount Gambier campus, which is headed by jazz musician James Morrison.

In a statement, a UniSA spokesperson the programs in music offered through the academy were being "phased out", but said all current students were expected to complete their studies this year.

However, UniSA did not address questions relating to why the program would no longer be offered and enrolment numbers at the facility, simply stating "all other questions about James Morrison Academy should be directed to James Morrison Academy".

Mr Morrison said the tertiary education landscape had changed dramatically due to the COVID-19 pandemic, with multi-billion dollar revenue losses from the collapse in international student enrolments forcing many institutions to review and discontinue a number of humanities, arts and language courses.

He said due to the university's decision to phase out the programs offered at the campus, the academy had not been allocated any new diploma or bachelor seats, resulting in no new student intake for 2021.

"The James Morrison Academy and UniSA partnership has been an exciting development in music education, helping many young people who love music realise their goals and ambitions," he said.

"In the coming months we will be continuing discussions with key stakeholders including the City of Mount Gambier, the Education Department, other university and pathway providers and members of the music industry to look at the different ways we can continue and in what form that might be in the future."

The jazz great said current third year students would complete bachelor degrees as planned and a small number of undergraduate and post-graduate private students would continue to study at the facility.

"It's very sad to have to turn away all those who wanted to begin new studies with us at James Morrison Academy in 2021, but this situation is out of our control and we are aware that many people have suffered greatly due to the pandemic, so we are just grateful to be able to continue as we are," Mr Morrison said.

While the facility will remain at its current site at the Old Town Hall, Mr Morrison said there was "many exciting plans for creative projects at the former WIN site and James Morrison Academy may certainly be involved".

The dedicated jazz school offered a three-year Bachelor of Music but stopped accepting enrolments for the program in 2020, with one-year diploma and honours courses still offered.

Mr Morrison told The Age in 2019 it was due to a change in federal funding arrangements.

The academy was opened in March 2015 with the help of a $500,000 grant from the State Government, with then Premier Jay Weatherill saying Mr Morrison had forecast an annual intake of 70 students, "building to a potential student body of up to 200 students by 2020".

At the academy's opening event, UniSA vice chancellor David Lloyd dubbed Mount Gambier the "undisputed jazz learning capital of the world", telling the crowd "the academy will do for Mount Gambier what country music did for Tamworth".

"The James Morrison Academy is of great importance to the provision of music education locally and nationally and it is a partnership we hope to build on into the future," he said.

"We are looking forward to working together with James and the state and local governments to ensure its great success."

Students at the James Morrison Academy of Music are enrolled as full registered students of UniSA, but attend classes at the campus situated in Mount Gambier's Old Town Hall building.

Faculty are employed directly by the academy and curriculum is created by teaching staff.

Under the partnership with UniSA, students are able to apply for a HECS-HELP loan to pay for tuition.

Mr Morrison did not believe changes to the performance-based campus would have any impact on the annual Generations in Jazz festival, adding he was not aware of any plans to move the long-running Generations in Jazz festival event from its historic OB Flat location.

"For the past 35 years Mount Gambier has been home to the unique 'Generations in Jazz' festival event, in which countless thousands of school pupils from around Australia have gathered to hear international and Australian artists, compete in the Stage Band and Vocal Ensemble Awards and for individual scholarships," he said.

"Mount Gambier is the home of this event and I don't imagine whatever the future holds for James Morrison Academy having any effect on Generations in Jazz."

PROGRAM PHASED OUT: The University of South Australia has confirmed its three-year Bachelor of Music program and one-year diploma and honours courses offered through the James Morrison Academy are currently being "phased out". In a statement published on the academy's website, head of school James Morrison said the tertiary education landscape had changed dramatically due to the COVID-19 pandemic and the academy had not been allocated any diploma or bachelor seats for 2021.

PATIENTS with hereditary pancreatitis no longer have to undergo a pancreas removal, have it flown to Melbourne to have islet cells removed, and have those cells flown back to Adelaide for their life changing transplant following a donation from Lions Australia.

The Lions Club of Mount Gambier, Naracoorte and Kingston were among a number of clubs throughout the C2 District contributing to the islet auto-transplant treatment, which is used to manage severe insulin-dependent (type 1) diabetes.

The technique is a modification of an islet transplant procedures in which groups of cells in the pancreas are isolated from a deceased donor pancreas.

In chronic pancreatitis, the patient's own cells are used which eliminate the risk of tissue rejection. While patients in South Australia could receive the life changing surgery, the processed involved the patient having their pancreas removed in Adelaide before it was packed and flown to Melbourne to extract the islet cells.

Once the cells were removed, the islets were stored in Melbourne before being flown back to Adelaide for transplant due to the lack of a special storage facility.

The three Limestone Coast clubs responded to a call to contribute to a storage facility, joining with other clubs throughout the Lions' C2 District to raise $15,000, which was matched with a grant from the Australian Lions Foundation.

Royal Adelaide Hospital director kidney and islet transportation Toby Coates presented plaques of appreciation to the clubs and quoted patients who said their lives had been "completely saved" and the procedure had "restored my life".

Rail Trail is nearly there

WORKS to extend the Mount Gambier Rail Trail are nearing completion, finalising the entire former railway line conversion.

The shared use path was extended 1.2kms from White Avenue to the city boundary on Tollner Road as stage four of the project.

The $221,000 project received State Government backing and brings the total length of the trail to 12.4kms.

Construction took place over a five-month period with council staff and Gambier Earth Movers completing the works.

Fencing adjacent to the road crossings, pedestrian tactile paving and further line marking will be completed in the coming weeks.

Council is seeking further State Government funding to install solar lighting along the entire trail, as well as adding a new pathway from Wandilo Road to Wireless Road West, linking with the TAFE and UniSA campuses.

REACH EXPANDED: Mount Gambier City Council's Corey Radford, Glen Lewis, Aaron Izzard, Patrick Grubb and Chris Habets at the extended Mount Gambier Rail Trail.

Penola Hospital emergency department re-opens

THE Penola War Memorial Hospital's emergency department has reopened this week after it was locked down almost 12 months ago to protect the vulnerable residents of co-located residential aged care facilities.

The hospital's emergency department was closed in March 2020 in response to COVID-19 management directives and further safeguard the elderly with low immunity.

During the closure, patients who presented to the hospital will still be seen and assessed by nursing staff and transferred to Naracoorte or Mount Gambier Hospital by ambulance and MedSTAR.

Limestone Coast Local Health Network chief executive officer Ngaire Buchanan said the emergency department reopened on Monday after careful consideration and planning.

"In line with official health advice, Penola ED is safe to reopen as there is no community transmission of COVID-19 in South Australia and minimal health risk to Penola's aged care residents," she said.

"We will continue to monitor COVID-19 developments interstate to ensure ongoing protection for the elderly and thank the community for their understanding and patience during this period."

New hearing expert in the Mount Gambier community

Audiology professional Peter Hoang introduces hearing care to Mount Gambier

Local qualified Specsavers audiology professional Peter Hoang is delighted to announce the introduction of a new audiology service in-store. Specsavers Audiology Mount Gambier is now open to help with any hearing concerns and to protect and support locals' hearing health, through expert advice and caring service.

According to research, approximately 10,300 people in Mount Gambier suffer from hearing loss, and it can take 7-10 years for them to act on it. Peter is on a mission to get more people hearing better and provide the community with a supportive care-driven hearing service for years to come.

"I became an audiology professional because it is so rewarding when you can help someone who may not be hearing as well as they used to. The ability to make an impact in my patient's lives and enable them to enjoy the colours of sound with their family and friends is what I like most about my job. I like meeting, connecting, and understanding people, so being able to provide that opportunity to others is really rewarding," says Peter.

"I'm really excited to be a part of the Mount Gambier community and I encourage all locals who might have concerns about their hearing to come in for a free 15 minute hearing check*.

I THINK I MAY BE HARD OF HEARING – WHAT'S NEXT?

"Our research found that 37% of Australians 40+ aren't aware of the common signs of hearing loss. On top of this, those 40+ know at least two people they think suffer from hearing loss but almost half have never suggested a hearing test, mainly because they are worried it would hurt the person's feelings. Often someone close to the person will notice before they do that they can't hear so well,

YOU WILL RECEIVE ONGOING SUPPORT

At your fitting appointment, we will show you everything you need to know about your new hearing aids and answer any questions you or your family may have. Once fitted, a follow-up appointment will be booked within four weeks to check that you are completely happy with your purchase and make any necessary adjustments to your hearing aids.

We also recommend an annual check-up where we reassess your hearing and make any necessary adjustments to your hearing aids. At Specsavers, your 12 months aftercare support is at no cost to you.

so it's really important to look out for signs such as turning the TV up loud, putting their mobile on speaker phone, lip reading and asking people to repeat themselves," Peter says.

Peter encourages anyone from the community who thinks they may be hard of hearing to come in store for a free 15-minute hearing check*. If further testing is required, a comprehensive, 60 minute, hearing assessment is then undertaken. During this appointment, Peter will carry out a comprehensive diagnostic assessment and will be able to determine if hearing aids would be beneficial.

I NEED HEARING AIDS - WHAT ARE MY OPTIONS?

"If we find you would benefit from hearing aids, we'll make sure you have all the information you need to make an informed choice. We will never recommend hearing aids if you don't need them or suggest spending more money than you have to. Prices for our full range of latest technology hearing devices are clearly available online or instore so you know exactly how much you will pay. Our hearing assessments are the just the start of your hearing journey and we're here to support you along the way for years to come," Peter Hoang says.

The Specsavers Audiology team are locals, professionally trained and qualified and have a passion for hearing care.

For more information or to book a hearing check, visit specsavers.com.au/hearing

Green Point's access probed

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

GRANT District Council will await information from the Environment and Water Department before making a decision on the future management of the unmade road reserve at Green Point.

Opponents and proponents of Green Point access addressed elected members on Monday night, with members of the South East Amateur Fishing Club, the Feast family and Country Fire Service Port Macdonnell brigade captain Rodney Virgo presenting to council.

Recreational anglers and beach goers have been able to access Green Point beach for more than 100 years largely in partnership between council and the Feast family.

Access to Green Point is via a council-owned unmade road reserve, but does not lead to a beach access gate and is made inaccessible due to an adjacent sand dune. Entry has historically been permitted by the Feast family, with motorists crossing the private farm to access the private gate onto the beach.

Property owner Morgan Feast told the chamber the family had "no joy" in allowing beach users access to the property and called for council to close the road or allow the family to purchase it, citing biosecurity concerns and a series of behavioural incidents from motorists.

But Mr Virgo said the development of the unmade road would reduce the likelihood of trespassing and work towards addressing biosecurity hazards and concerns by the Feast family.

ADVICE SOUGHT: Grant District Council have sought information from a State Government agency on the creation of beach access at the end of an unmade council road.

Mr Virgo said he had discussed the issue with other CFS members and said the development of the road would provide emergency services with a safer option in accessing the beach in the future.

Grant District mayor Richard Sage told the chamber council had discussed the issue with State Government agencies to discuss native vegetation issues and an investigation was ongoing to determine whether beach access can be permitted at the end of the unmade road.

"We are expecting a list of questions back from native vegetations, if there are any permissions and if we can do it in the first place," he said.

Snapper back on line

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

THE Limestone Coast will be the only area in South Australia anglers can target snapper, with new bag and boat limits coming into effect this week.

A bag limit of two snapper per person and a boat limit of six snapper when three or more people are fishing on the boat will apply under new arrangements for South East waters. Snapper catches must be reported via the SA Fishing app or by calling Fishwatch on 1800 065 522.

Member for Mount Gambier Troy Bell has praised the State Government for overturning the former control measures for snapper fishing, which comprised of a tagged system providing just 303 anglers from the Limestone Coast, Murray Bridge and Kangaroo Island areas a limited number of tags to catch the species in South East waters.

Mr Bell, who was vehemently opposed to the management system, tabled a petition in parliament with almost 400 signatures to axe the snapper tag system and implement a bag limit for the fishery.

At the time, the independent MP said a report used to justify the current snapper management scheme, which found South Australia's snapper stocks were "decimated", did not consider the unique marine environment in the region.

Mr Bell told The Border Watch he was pleased the government considered the science - which showed snapper stocks in South East waters come from Victoria - and reversed the decision.

"Our snapper stocks come from Port Phillip Bay and migrate west, but the studies they were relying on was up in the gulf regions," he said.

"The government was also worried the closures in the gulf would mean the fishers who would normally target snapper in those areas would come to the Limestone Coast and decimate the fishery here.

"The issue with that is you can't get out on the water most days. "If people want to drive down 400km and drop a line in the water, I think that's great, but there will be some days they come down where they can't go out."

Primary Industries and Regional Development Minister David Basham said of the five snapper tags distributed to the 606 anglers across the state just 452 snapper were caught in the South East.

Mr Basham said this year's recreational allocation of 1077 snapper until June 30, 2021 was more than double the actual recreational catch from last year.

If the recreational allocation of snapper is caught before June 30, the recreational snapper fishery will be closed.

Society prepares for annual art showcase

MOLLY TAYLOR

molly.taylor@tbwtoday.com.au

DIFFERENT forms of visual art will be on display during one of the Limestone Coast's largest and most diverse annual exhibitions.

This year's South East Art Society Open Art Awards exhibition will official open next Friday and will feature around 140 entries.

The 2021 artists range from two years of age to 93 and include works on paper, paintings, sculpture, ceramics, textiles, photography and video.

Society president Patricia Boyd said the organisation aimed to nurture the region's artistic talent.

"When you see this exhibition, you will see talent," Ms Boyd said.

"We want to nurture artists and also help and encourage along people who would like to paint and think they can't.

"There is a lot of talent here and to continue developing an artistic culture in the area is quite important."

DIVERSE: Solomon Telford hands over his entry to South East Art Society president Patricia Boyd so it can be judged and placed into the 2021 Open Art Awards. Picture: MOLLY TAYLOR

Ms Boyd said in the last 12 months there had been an evident increase in people who have used art to fill in their spare time.

"With all the restrictions, so many people have turned to doing art in all different sorts, not just painting with a brush," Ms Boyd said.

"Art is something all ages can experience and enjoy and there is not a person in this world who cannot paint or do something."

With entries from right across the district as well as travellers visiting to the Blue Lake city for the exhibition, Ms Boyd said the showcase also brought its own tourism benefits.

The exhibition opening will be held on Friday, February 12 at 6pm and is invite only with the display open to the public at The Riddoch Arts and Culture Centre following the launch.

The society also hopes to host workshops for all different levels of experience in the near future.

The event is supported by the Mount Gambier City Council, Grant District Council, Bendigo Bank and Member for Barker Tony Pasin MP as well as other various sponsors.

$120,000 to continue Wyomi campaign

KINGSTON District Council will undertake an additional sand nourishment campaign along Wyomi Beach this year after receiving a $120,000 State Government grant.

The funding will accompany a contribution from council and aims to replenish lost material to maintain the protection buffer until a long-term strategy has been determined.

Council says a significant loss of sand dune has occurred at the site over a number of years, which ultimately threaten private property and damaged council infrastructure. Since 2016, council has implemented longer term strategies to defend the erosion area, including constructing a rock seawall and installing sandbags to combat further erosion.

According to council, sand nourishment will provide a soft protection strategy in an effort to reduce any further reactive damage which hard options can often trigger.

"While sand nourishment may not have been council's original strategy or preferred approach, sand nourishment is the preferred option of the Coast Protection Board for erosion protection and is seen across many beaches in South Australia due to a number of benefits it provides," council said. "At Wyomi, this natural northern sand movement becomes particularly important, as the sand placed on the southern end of the rockwall will naturally mobilise north to replenish the beach immediately in front of the wall.

"This helps to ensure that the wall is not undermined or eroded. Sand will drift and replenish areas further to the north such as the Sailing Club, where erosion has been seen over the past few years."

The latest grant follows an earlier State Government contribution of $105,000 for continuing the protection project, which facilitated the installation of geotextile sand bags to the northern and southern section of the rock seawall competed in 2018.

Access road key for area

MY wife and I, both of whom are disabled pensioners, have lived at 179 Pelican Point Rd for the past 15 months as permanent residents.

One of the reasons we purchased our home is the beach access opposite our home, which we use three to four times a day to enable us to stroll the beach, conditions notwithstanding.

I can appreciate the concerns that the property owners have, bearing in mind both properties are holiday homes and the access road is used by both properties to gain access to their respective properties.

A simple solution that will resolve the problem is to fence the properties off from the access road, thus giving the owners the privacy they are looking for.

Not close the access altogether.

If the access road is closed, what will happen to the road then?

My opinion is that it would then be deemed an unused road and as such could be purchased by the adjoining property owners, thus depriving my wife and I close access to the beach we both love.

As I said I can appreciate the concerns of both Bruce and Ken, but the access road was there long before they chose to buy there, and the way Pelican Point is developing three access roads are, and will be, necessary, so hopefully the access road will remain and if anything be improved on.

Colin Taylor,

Matters of humanity debated, considered

I direct my focus to the advertisement in The Border Watch (Friday, January 29, page 11) A Letter to South Australian MPs - "Members of the SA Parliament are soon expected to consider radical abortion legislation they may 'sadly live to regret', according to Family Voice Australia," authorised by FVA director Peter Downie.

Peter Downie's narrative is a comprehensive but powerful enlightenment of many unreported and untold truths of this extremely subjective and emotional issue, experienced by numerous individuals, married and/or, partnered couples, as well as a broad scope of extended family members.

I know the emotional and long term, painful journey it is capable of inflicting upon those who experience it from a personal family matter, many years ago.

Circumstances prevailing during such a episode can be extremely complex, very difficult to navigate in a potential and/or real compromised rational mind set.

Sadly, all too often, the invaluable lessons of beautiful creative reason thought, beyond the sense perception boundary (SPB), are eventually realized and historical events can maintain the hard lessons of, we shall reap from which we sow.

Many views, values, among the masses, such as Divine Creative Spiritual Law and its elementary principals or an oblique contrasting "deep state domain", I live by the literal seat of my pants.

Negotiate, exchange with 100 individuals on the subject and it's highly likely 100 different expressions will challenge your SPB or your unbridled Divine Created thought of reason (depends on one's 'present chapter' in life's journey really).

One needs not an elite class university/college degree from any study platform today to realize the whole world in fact, is currently confronted and challenged by issues of terrifying proportions.

Termination of human life, now, irrespective of the foetus status, the sick, diseased or frail elderly, is already accepted or is in the planning stages of approval across many nations, including Australia.

Voluntary euthanasia is currently in the cross hairs of our SA politicians (refer to recent local media reporting for some indicators).

I personally negotiated via the network with four politicians on this matter, no response yet??

To all of our political elders, irrespective of what persuasion, I sincerely urge you to do the necessary research, exercise the great wisdom expected of your high office status in your endeavors and deliberations on this extremely important human society matter.

Noel Stratford,
Mount Gambier

Small contributions to big picture in taking care

MOIRA NEAGLE

now here's a thought

I was at a checkout in a supermarket and was asked if I had COVID checked in.

I have the State Government app and I check in wherever I go.

In fact, I am annoyed if I don't have my phone on me and have to actually sign in with pen on paper!

The staff member explained that she had to ask each customer as the police had been in and demanded much stricter monitoring of signing in.

I explained that I didn't have a problem with signing in (or social distancing or sanitising my hands) because I don't want to be in a prolonged lockdown.

It is a simple and fundamental requirement which we all must do.

It will only work to our overall mutual benefit, if we all do it.

Some friends of my son who live in Melbourne were visiting here over Christmas.

They both had long hair as a consequence of the restrictions of lockdown, a look they had decided to keep.

Both were expressing anger with regard to people who just can't seem to follow the rules, because they certainly didn't want to return to a prolonged lockdown.

My elder brother and sister in law live in Busselton, Western Australia and so they are currently in lockdown.

It was Lois' birthday and I thought I would send some flowers to her.

I was busily doing an order online.

My son saw what I was doing and asked, "Will flower deliveries happen in a lockdown?" Well, there's a thought.

Given the 2.5 hour time difference, I had to wait until it was opening hours there and phone.

"Yes, we can leave them on the doorstep and ring the doorbell."

So Lois didn't get to be taken out for lunch or dinner but she did receive flowers.

McLaren revved to go

molly.taylor@tbwtoday.com.au

A NEW principal is at the helm of Mount Gambier High School with Peter McLaren prepared to influence major permanent change despite only serving temporarily in the role.

Mr McLaren was appointed following the departure of Chris Edmonds, who accepted a role at Walkerville Primary School.

The former Ocean View College Adelaide principal and leadership advisor will lead the school for the next six months and despite the short tenure, hopes to have a positive impact on the education facility.

Mr McLaren has worked at sites in both Renmark and Kangaroo Island and has acted as an education leadership advisor for the last four years.

No stranger to the Limestone Coast, Mr McLaren previously worked at Reidy Park Primary School and Grant High School, teaching physics, mathematics and physical education.

Outside the school grounds, he enjoys an active lifestyle, finetuning his guitar skills and spending time with his wife, two children and grandson.

Mr McLaren said he had always considered 'Mount' a successful school in both curricular and extra-curricular activities.

"The school has always had a high profile in Mount Gambier and one with excellence," he said.

"I have been around the whole state and have heard the same things."

While he believes the site already operates at a high standard, Mr McLaren aims to focus on team development across the staff, students and community while also improving student learning.

Mr McLaren said the current $6m facility upgrade to support the transition of Year 7 students into secondary sites was progressing well and would benefit the facility.

"I am very impressed. We came together as a whole staff cohort and sat down to unpack what we as a team thought about previous years and from that, there came some fantastic ideas," he said.

"I got the impression we could conquer the things we need to work on and improve on what we're already good at.

"I have fitted into this role very smoothly and only because of the hard work done by the people who surround and support me."

Mr McLaren remains committed to making a long-lasting impact in 2021.

"I have come into a role and have been given a particular scope and I will proceed as though I am the long-term principal of the school," he said.

"I think I have both the trust and community of the school, and I can action that and support the direction of the new principal.

"There needs to be some non-negotiations that the new principal coming on board will need to be able to support the flow which has already started."

Mr McLaren said the school was already a place which felt like home with a supportive staff and community.

Millions in super withdrawn

MORE than 16,000 residents in the Federal Electorate of Barker Barker accessed almost $180m in early superannuation payments.

New Industry Super Australia has revealed 22,540 applications were made via the early release of super scheme in Barker, with average payments of $7980 received.

It followed changes announced by the Federal Government last April during the height of COVID-19 pandemic, allowing Australians who had lost their jobs or had hours reduced to access $10,000 in super before July 1, 2020 and a further $10,000 until December 2020.

Almost $2b was accessed across South Australia via the scheme across more than 240,000 applications.

Shed fire turns drug bust

POLICE are investigating the discovery of cannabis found at a Mount Gambier shed fire.

Just after 1pm on February 1, police and Country Fire Service were called to Creek Street after reports a shed was on fire at the rear of a property.

Fire crews battled the blaze quickly bringing it under control; however the detached shed was destroyed.

There was no one at the property at the time of the fire and there were no reported injuries.

Following an inspection of the shed, police located remains of a hydroponic cannabis crop with approximately 12 plants.

Crime Scene Investigators attended and suspect an electrical fault connected with the hydroponic equipment may have sparked the blaze.

The investigation is ongoing and anyone with information on the location of any suspected cannabis crops or any illicit drugs is asked to contact Crime Stoppers.

Our support critical during transitions

YOUNG people aged between 12 to 14 and 18 to 21 are feeling increasingly isolated, according to new research by headspace National Youth Mental Health Foundation.

The findings - revealing a substantial uplift since the data was last recorded in 2018 - come as young people in these critical age groups enter into major transition periods in their lives with the return of school, study and work.

Headspace clinical practice executive director Vikki Ryall said young people in these age groups may need additional support from parents and carers, as the impacts of COVID-19 are still keenly felt.

"We know transition periods can be a time of high risk for young people," Ms Ryall said. "The move to secondary school from primary or from school into further study or the workforce can feel quite daunting for young people in any instance and COVID has now added extra complexity. It's likely that 2020 caused major disruptions to their year with these young people feeling disconnected from newly formed friendships or new ways of life."

Ms Ryall said the usual support structures that schools, workplaces, and further education have in place were compromised during 2020 due to COVID, leaving young people with fewer opportunities to access support when needed.

"We encourage family members to check in with their young person, seek positive and helpful support to help them get through these difficult or unexpected stages," Ms Bareld said.

Donations exceed $50,000 for family

BRETT KENNEDY

IT IS the final photograph of father and son captured shortly before Duncan Craw tragically died while snorkeling off the Port MacDonnell coast, a cherished possession for young Levi - who turns three today.

The Craw family is still coming to grips with last month's tragedy, which they believe was the result of a medical episode, and have vowed to return to the reef where Duncan was last seen, waving to his high school sweetheart from the calm ocean.

A memorial gathering was held Sunday for the much-loved 32 year old as donations for Taylia and Levi surpassed $50,000 to help support the young family's future.

Taylia's brother Bret Trigg spoke fondly of his brother in law, with the family buoyed by the strength of Levi, who "knows his daddy is in heaven".

"Having the support of the community all over Warrnambool, all over Australia and New Zealand, has helped get us through and we're so grateful for all the donations that have come in for Levi," Mr Trigg said.

"Duncan's biggest gift to our family was Levi and the love he gave Taylia," he said.

"He's not here anymore but that love we felt is never, ever going to end."

Mr Trigg said the family would always be 'coastal kids' and Levi would feel an extra connection to the water, knowing his father is there with him.

Police investigators are carrying out forensic testing of remains found near Port MacDonnell on January 26.

The discovery followed speculation Mr Craw had died as a result of a great white shark attack, however the family believes Duncan was at peace before the animal arrived.

"Tay didn't see a struggle in the water and there was no big disturbance to the surface, or birds flying around, so we believe Duncan had a medical episode first before the shark came," Mr Trigg said.

"His own dad passed away from a heart attack in his early 40s and so it's always been in Duncan's mind that something similar could happen to him.

"He'd had a health check just three weeks ago and was healthy, but it's one of those things that is hard to predict, especially for someone young.

"Because of the conditions and that there was no big disturbance, we believe it's most likely he passed away in the water before the shark came along."

Mr Trigg said the family may never know what happened but the last thing it wanted was for people to be fearful of the ocean.

"Tay and Levi are going to keep going to the beach as usual and they'll be going back to that beautiful spot at Port MacDonnell where they last saw Duncan swimming off to do something he loved."

A HORSE washing bay has been built for the Riding for Disabled (RDA) Mount Gambier branch by a band of dedicated volunteers.

The Mount Gambier Lions Club recently completed development of a three by four-metre concrete cleaning station at the not-for-profit organisation's site.

The project costed approximately $1500 with $200 worth of vouchers donated by Bunnings Mount Gambier.

RDA is a worldwide movement represented internationally by the Federation of Horses in Education and Therapy International (HETI), nationally by Riding for the Disabled Association of Australia Ltd. (RDAA) and within Australia by state bodies.

RDA is for people with all types and levels of different disabilities and aims to allow people to discover a new freedom of movement through horse riding.

Lions club project team member Steve Bell said the project was small, but would have a large beneficial impact.

Mr Bell said the club had a long association with RDA and club member Ross Parkinson spent around four hours a week volunteering, helping to maintain various parts of the Sunnybrae Road site.

"It is virtually an ongoing project. From time to time they ask whether they can have something done and if we have the time, we endeavor to do it," he said.

"One of Lions' goals is to promote youth in the area, whether you're able bodied or have a disability, we consider Riding for Disabled to be a worthwhile project.

"It is a good learning experience especially for the children to associate with animals and horses in particular."

The club is also working to remove overhanging limbs from trees surrounding the complex.

bier president Robyn Keillor said she was grateful for the contribution from the club.

"This will allow us to clean the horses without them standing in the mud, giving us a cleaner work area," Ms Keillor said.

"It was needed, otherwise when we have horses which need cleaning or treating for wounds standing in mud and making things worse.

"It is also beneficial for the safety of people, this will help prevent them from slipping."

Ms Keillor said the club was a valuable part of the community.

"They are great guys, I told them what we wanted and they worked out the measurements and put it together for me," she said.

"They have so many different backgrounds and they just know what they're doing."

Cheeky charity ready for run

LIMESTONE Coast residents are urged to take a look at the 2021 version of Cupid's Undie Run - the charity run raising funds for Neurofibromatosis (NF) research and support.

This year participants are encouraged to register for the COVID-safe virtual experience before February 14 and prepare for the strip of their lives. The run has been a successful major fundraiser for the Children's Tumour Foundation in Australia for almost 10 years, where charity runs were held in 15 towns and cities.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the run will go virtual this year, with free registration open to anyone, anywhere in Australia. The run will start with an online version of its signature run, before offering up new challenges each day for two weeks.

The event kicks off on Valentine's Day - dubbed Undie Sunday - and is open for everyone to recreate the run at home or out on the streets.

This year speaker, author, filmmaker and body positivist Taryn Brumfitt joins the team as lead ambassador. Her film Embrace and her courses have helped many to learn to love their bodies the way they are.

NF ambassador for the Children's Tumour Foundation, Janu Dhananathan was born with Neurofibromatosis Type 1 (NF1) and used to keep her diagnosis hidden from others.

"Growing up, the standard of beauty set for women by the media was thin, beautiful, feminine, white, able-bodied with flawless skin," she said. "I did not feel like I was any of those things, largely as a result of my NF."

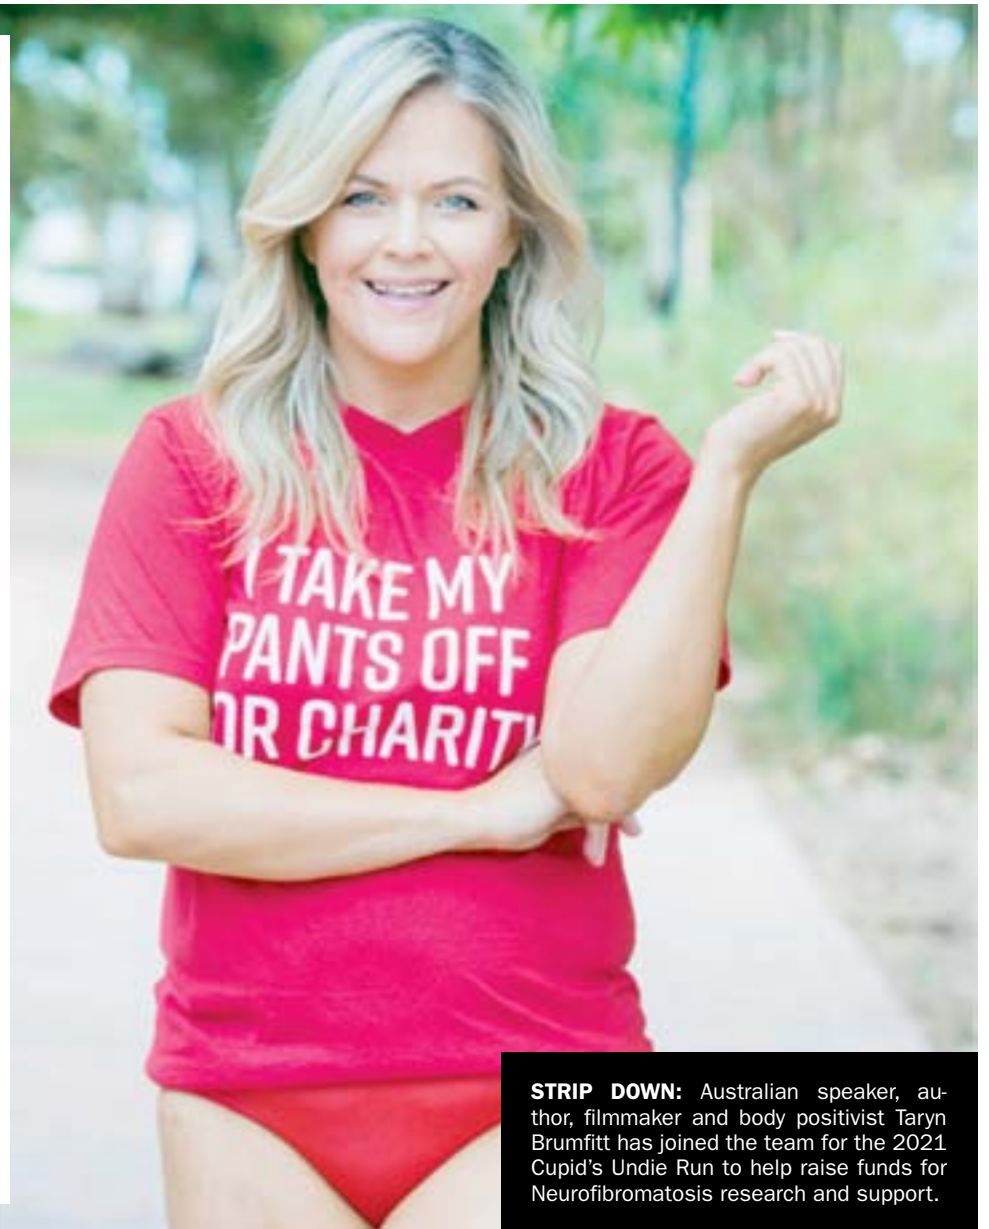

"That is why Cupid's Undie Run is so important. It celebrates what makes us different."

There will be a series of challenges through to a Virtual Sunday Session on February 28 with music, comedy and an awards event for fundraisers and participants.

Neurofibromatosis (NF) is a genetic disorder that affects one in every 2500 people and causes tumours to grow on nerves throughout the body, including the brain and spine. It is unpredictable, progressive and there is currently no cure.

NF can lead to a range of significant health issues including deafness, blindness, paralysis, physical difference, bone abnormalities, cancer, learning difficulties and chronic pain. In Australia, a child is born with NF every three days and treatment options are limited.

Sign up to the challenge at cupidsundie-run.com.au from now and start fundraising.

Sounds of old school

AN ADELAIDE band will be bringing old school classics to the Blue Lake city this month as part of its new showcase.

The Sherrahs will bring its Classic Harmony Hits Show to Mount Gambier, rocking covers from The Eagles, Crosby Stills and Nash, Simon and Garfunkel, The Seekers, The Everly Brothers, Alabama, Trio, Oakridge Boys, Sons of the Pioneers and more.

The family band is made of two couples, Steven and Michelle Sherrah and Anthony and Tracy Stewart, with the Mount Gambier show expanding to a seven-piece band with the addition of accomplished Paul Orchard on drums, Mae Napier-Traeger on fiddle and Kane Stewart on piccolo.

The band is known nationally for its harmonised singing as audiences reflect on the “good old days” from a fresh perspective.

“It’s amazing how many of these tunes we grew up with either first hand or through our families record collections,” band member Steve Sherrah said.

“These are tunes people will know and can sing along to.”

Vocal approach to harmony is one of the strongest pillars in this band’s sound and although all four met in Tamworth, their style is heavily influenced from their surroundings in country Victoria and New Zealand.

The Sherrahs invite the public to enjoy classic country harmony hits and to hear their interpretations and arrangements of some of the genre’s greatest voices.

The family-friendly two-hour show will be held at Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre on Saturday, February 20 from 7pm.

Tickets are available at the Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre with concession priced $27, adult $30 and children $7.

Band life members inducted

TWO long-serving Mount Gambier City Band members have received life membership to the organisation.

President Allen Woodham bestowed the honour upon Linda Cruise and Jarrod Harrison at the final rehearsal of 2020, with the pair continuing their passion and loyalty to the band this year.

Ms Cruise has been a non-playing band member since 1977 and consistently attends contests, concerts, rehearsals and any number of band events.

“Linda has been and continues to be on hand for any jobs that might be required,” Mr Woodham said.

“Her support goes beyond just the City Band though and her commitment to local music extends to the Mount Gambier City Concert Band and the Limestone Coast Symphony Orchestra,” he said.

“Linda’s contributions include extensive catering for events, loading and helping with set up and packing up, organiser, and really anything that she can help with.”

Mr Woodham said Ms Cruise was a creative and passionate fundraiser, who along with her husband John, always finds ways to generate funds for the sustainability of the band and hall.

Mr Harrison also has a long history with the band, starting as a junior in 1983 and continuing until 1999 when he moved to Adelaide.

He returned to the band around 10 years ago and has held the role of principal cornet, deputy conductor, stand in drum major and musical director.

“His banding experience and musicianship has been appreciated by many members of the band as he has helped and mentored many players,” Mr Woodham said.

Lifeline SE takes hold of store

molly.taylor@tbwtoday.com.au

LIFELINE South East has become the freehold owner of its central Mount Gambier storefront after a year of success at the inner-city location.

Last month, volunteers, staff and community members gathered to celebrate 12 months since the not-for-profit organisation shifted its opportunity store from Gray Street to Commercial Street West. After a successful 12 months in the new city business district outlet, the decision was made to purchase the building by board directors.

Lifeline South East board chair Michael Fuller said the premises sale had secured long-term security for Lifeline.

"Mount Gambier has improved its retail performance and this purchase has secured our space in Mount Gambier's CBD for the long-term and we have high expectations for sales growth moving forward," Mr Fuller said.

"As a community organisation, we should always consider our core responsibilities and values, the welfare and mental health of our citizens is always at the forefront of the decisions we make.

"The purchasing of the store is one of those decisions, not only is it a financial gain, it means more funds will be generated into the magnificent programs and services we deliver to the community."

Lifeline South East chief executive Leah Griffin said the move had been a success and she could only envision circumstances improving.

"I thank all our volunteers, you are the backbone of our organisation and we sincerely mean it," Ms Griffin said. "Without you on the ground doing what you do, our crisis supporters wouldn't be able to do what they do, which is to ensure that no Australian has to face their darkest moment.

"We are all united in Lifeline's mission for a suicide-free Australia, that's why we are here and do what we do."

Ms Griffin said Lifeline had never been more relevant with the service receiving over 3000 calls each day from Australians in crisis and the last week of December was the busiest on record.

"To counteract that, the call answer rate has never been higher and people are responding to Australians in need," she said.

"I am hopeful in 10 years we'll be here again celebrating some more Lifeline South East achievements and milestones because we don't plan on going anywhere.

"There's a need for us in the community and we just want to be there for the them."

GARAGE SALE: Lifeline South East has introduced a new garage sale style outlet each Tuesday and Wednesday morning from 9am to 12pm at its Mount Gambier warehouse. Warehouse assistant Lindy Thomson has been busily preparing the space for the public.

Funds sought for crater lakes plan

molly.taylor@tbwtoday.com.au

A PROPOSED Mount Gambier City Council crater lakes precinct report could "free up the shackles" for activity in the high-profile tourism area.

Council will seek State Government funding to help develop a new Crater Lakes Activation Precinct Plan, which will help guide a vision for the iconic site's future. The plan is expected to cost up to $100,000.

Development of a new plan will build on the Crater Lakes Area (Volcanic Complex) Conservation Management Plan, introduced in 2004, which guides council and the community in relation to the use and management of the crater lakes area.

Mayor Lynette Martin said the area was of significant environment and social value to the community, which enabled the community to perform a strong sense of place and identity.

"Culturally, the crater lakes area is of significant value to the Boandik people," Ms Martin said. "The area contains a number of state heritage places that are individually identified."

Councillor Steve Perryman sought clarification to make sure the new plan did not disregard or lessen the previous report's heritage values. City infrastructure manager Nick Serle said the new documentation would co-exist with pre-existing policies.

"It absolutely has to respect the work which was done previously in terms of the values which are held by many different groups in the community for that area, heritage being one of them," Mr Serle said.

Cr Perryman said he sensed the community had moved a long way since 2004 and if council was to run the same process again, a much different outcome would arise.

"There has been numerous suggestions and ideas over the last 10 years or so, not necessarily wholesale commercialisation, but freeing up the shackles on activity in that area for a whole lot of reasons," he said. A funding submission is expected to be made this month.

Donation backlog overwhelms site

molly.taylor@tbwtoday.com.au

A BACKLOG of stock has resulted in Lifeline South East introducing an alternative sale outlet at its Mount Gambier warehouse.

Garage style sales have started each Tuesday and Wednesday morning at the not-for-profit organisation's depot due to an accumulation of secondhand clothing and items throughout the COVID-19 pandemic.

Secondhand items not purchased by consumers after a six to eight-week period will be available at the new service for a discounted price.

Warehouse operations supervisor Chris Hastie said volunteers had only just started processing stock from Christmas two years ago due to a mammoth increase in quality donations.

Ms Hastie said despite reducing donation bin numbers across Mount Gambier from 21 down to 14, they were receiving more stock than they ever had before.

"Our shop in the main street has become very successful and we are just getting so much stock that is coming back from there and other shops which has sat and hasn't sold," she said.

"Rather than just sending it to waste or to third world, we thought it was an ideal opportunity for us to set something up and give it another whirl.

"We try to absolutely limit the amount of stock we are sending to waste and try to recycle as much as possible, whether its clothing, bric-a-brac, cardboard and anything else."

After items are sorted by around 25 volunteers, an approximate total of 40-60 wool bales are directed from the warehouse to third world countries each month.

"The idea is just to try and get it through so it can be reused and we don't have to dispose of it," Ms Hastie said.

"It is also an opportunity for those that can't afford clothing and items at a higher price."

Ms Hastie said when COVID-19 first struck and opportunity stores closed across the Limestone Coast, it was seen as an opportunity to get ahead.

"The actual reverse happened. We had more stock come in then we expected which may be because some people have been home more than usual and have taken the time to have a clean out," she said.

"We have only just started opening up stock we received in Christmas 2019 and the stock we have gotten in this year has been bailed and we get to that once we have finished this."

In the past five years, Ms Hastie said item quality had also increased, but if items were not suitable to sell, they are cut into rags for sale.

The public is encouraged to visit the warehouse from 9am until 12pm Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.

THE new Melaleuca Reserve Neighbourhood Pump Track's close proximity to multiple schools has provided a new afternoon leisure activity for students.

Construction of the new $600,000 facility, located on the corner of Douglas Street and Pressey Street and designed by Youth Services Australia, is now complete.

Sealed with asphalt for all-weather use, the 91-metre looped pump track replaces the BMX dirt track formerly used at the reserve for over a decade.

Mount Gambier City Council infrastructure general manager Nick Serle said the facility was designed to primarily service the interests of the surrounding community and followed ongoing consultation with residents to improve safety and usability of the community land.

"It is an entry level track which allows for safer access for younger bike and scooter riders and is a good example of how these types of recreational facilities can be incorporated within neighbourhood parks and play spaces," Mr Serle said.

"The track has already been well received by people of all ages, with very young children out there enjoying it alongside older children. Families have been having picnics in the area and really making the most of the new development."

Mount Gambier resident and student Mikayla Sellers said she, along with her friends, had used the track regularly as it was fun and an ideal place to relax after school.

Her friend Tonisha Karatau said she was excited when the site opened and had lost count how many times she had visited since.

"It is good for our age because there isn't a whole heap to do here," Mikayla said.

"It is close to school too so we can come here afterwards."

"On a scooter it is pretty easy to use, but we haven't tried it on a bike yet."

Busy times for Women in Business

KYLIE Boston will draw on decades of experience working in agriculture, organisation management and more recently local government to lead the Women in Business and Regional Development (WiBRD) in 2021.

Ms Boston has been appointed executive officer of the organisation, which is planning its 2021 launch for February 19.

A Grant District councillor, Ms Boston has over 30 years' experience working with non-for-profit organisations, businesses, boards and committees, including project and event management, as well as key leadership roles within Top Pork, DairySA and the International Red Dairy Breed Federation.

Ms Boston fills the vacancy left by Lydia Mules, who has accepted a role with the Limestone Coast Landscape Board.

Ms Mules joined the network in early 2015 and was instrumental in driving the network's operational success.

"While this is a sad time to see Lydia leave us, we would like to take this opportunity to thank her for the contribution she has made to our network over her time here and wish her every success with her future endeavours," WiBRD Board chair Jacinta Jones said.

"We are excited to welcome Kylie to our team and are excited to put in to action our many plans for the future."

The board is currently planning a number of projects and events in 2021 to support its vision to grow the potential of regional women and support them to create powerful legacies, a mission it has carried out for over 22 years.

WiBRD is also calling for partners interested in aligning their business with the organisation for 2021.

As a non-for-profit and in the absence of any current funding or grants, the support from partnership and membership enables WiBRD to operate at a sustainable level.

Visit www.wibrd.org.au or call Kylie Boston direct on 0407 231 547 for more information.

Students supported

AS LIMESTONE Coast students head back to school and university, the team at Stand Like Stone has announced 43 scholarships to help meet the costs of study in 2021.

"Thanks to the generosity of our donors, we're thrilled to be able to continue supporting local students in a variety of ways, from primary school music lessons through to accommodation fees for university," Stand Like Stone chief executive Anne Kerr said.

"The beauty of a donation to Stand Like Stone is that 100 per cent stays local and supports this region forever."

One of this year's successful recipients is Penola High School student Phillip Davis whose application embodied the essence of Stand Like Stone, inspiring courage and kindness during troubles.

Phillip has faced, and continues to face, many personal challenges but he has never once given up on his learning and now dreams of being a park ranger.

Described by his teachers as being passionate about nature and the wellbeing of others, they believe his personal experiences have strengthened him and his empathetic backbone.

Penola High school services officer Jo Skeer was one of the staff members who supported Phillip's application, stating "Phillip will stand up for what he believes in and the Limestone Coast will be a better place for having someone like Phillip within our community who is not afraid to speak up".

DREAM ASSISTED: Penola High School student Phillip Davis's application for scholarship embodied the essence of Stand Like Stone, inspiring courage and kindness during troubles.

The scholarship from Stand Like Stone will provide Phillip with financial support for his schoolwork, as well as help with transport costs for his upcoming park ranger work experience.

"Our scholarships are all about giving local students the opportunity to thrive so that they, in turn, can make great contributions to our region in the future," Ms Kerr said.

A total of 43 scholarships were handed out by the Stand Like Stone foundation through various sub-funds in the region.

Doubt over saleyards future

RAQUEL MUSTILLO
raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

THE future of the Millicent Saleyards hangs in the balance as Wattle Range Council continues to consider extending the operations of the facility for another five years or close the facility in June.

The council-owned facility was originally slated to close last year due to declining throughput, but elected members voted to give the saleyards a 12-month lifeline through to the end of this financial year in an attempt to improve numbers.

Councillor Moira Neagle's sought support to continue to operate the facility until June 30, 2025 at the January meeting, but the decision was deferred with elected members moving a motion to discuss the saleyards at an informal gathering.

At last week's informal gathering, council chief executive Ben Gower urged councillors to consider implementing a threshold based on cattle numbers as opposed to a stagnant date to quantify the continuation of the facility.

"I would prefer and recommend you actually look at cattle sold as the trigger for us to review the ongoing future of the saleyards rather than plucking a date," he said.

"It might be the number of cattle drops below 7500 per annum and that would be the trigger for us to bring it back to you for a decision.

"Because what happens when you put an arbitrary date, is for all the best reasons, ev-everyone manages a budget to that date so you don't take a long-term investment view and we end up with a death of 1000 cuts and you end up with a $500,000 maintenance bill.

SALEYARD FUTURE: Wattle Range councillors are expected to make a decision on the future of the Millicent Saleyards, which is slated for closure in June this year.

"We have always said the number one focus has got to be cattle number sold, that's what secures the future of the saleyards and its ongoing viability."

Mr Gower told elected members and the public gallery there had been a gradual increase in cattle throughput at the saleyards.

"We had data in the consultants report and there was an average of about 8pc decline year on year for about 20 years - it was declining for a long time," he said.

"Most importantly, the decline was arrested.

"When we brought it into the public eye and started talking about it, the community starting to use the facility a bit more and realise what its importance is."

Annual losses have decreased in the past financial years, with 2019/20 recording a loss of $101,839, $135,323 in 2018/19 and $180,163 in 2017/18. The council chief said cattle sold increased from 8206 in 2018/19 to 10,266 in 2019/20, with the number of sale days rising from 19 to 23.

He said total gross sales had increased from $9.1m in 2018/19 to $13.6m, attributing the increase to a number of initiatives including stronger community support and the change of market day.

Cr Neagle - who along with husband John is also a cattle producer - told the chamber 750 head of cattle at the last sale, with one vendor making $160,000 from sales.

"There was another vendor with 21 head of cattle and there was John and I with five cattle, so we have a whole range of types of vendors and we give them an option," she said.

"Our five cattle could go over the hooks, they could get pinged for fat content... but putting them in the yards where that's an option, we can get a good price.

The stock on offer - and I have heard this straight from the mouths of buyers - is quality stock."

At the January meeting, a condition report identified more than $500,000 was required for necessary upgrades at the sale yards, noting there was no strategy to ensure compliance and longevity. But councillors have questioned the need to undertake all upgrades, with Cr Kevin McGrath saying council maintenance on the facility had been minimal.

Region’s saleyards back to one

THE region’s three saleyards will be reduced to one facility in coming years due to changes in livestock trading, Wattle Range Council has heard.

Kintore Ward councillor Rick Paltridge made the claim at last week’s informal gathering, telling the chamber “a major player who works in South Australia and Victoria” believes three saleyards - located in Millicent, Naracoorte and Mount Gambier was not sustainable.

“His professional opinion is that there is not room for two, he doesn’t think there will be room for two and there will only be room for one,” Cr Paltridge said.

“It’s just the way the market and the way stock is going. It will be more online.”

Cr Paltridge did not outline what two Lime-stone Coast facilities would remain open, but said council would be “struggling” with the Millicent facility in the future.

Millicent Saleyard in doubt

“Sure enough there is some work to be done, but look at some of the figures for maintenance over the last three years,” Cr McGrath said. There are figures for $13,000, $19,000, $5000 - some people spend that on their house.”

Cr Dean Burrow said while the report was “terrible”, he suggested a majority of the upgrades slated by consultants as necessary was superficial.

Corcoran Ward councillor John Drew said a balance needed to be found between the ongoing and capital costs of the facility and the impact on Wattle Range ratepayers.

“There is a burden I feel comfortable with and there is a burden I don’t feel comfortable with and I don’t know where that sits,” he said.

However, Penola-based Rick Paltridge said subsidising the facility was “putting off the inevitable” and “serving a small area of Wattle Range and the ratepayers”.

“For every year the sale yards continues, it is not just the farmer who is losing money, it is the ratepayer whose council rates have to prop those up,” he said.

“Over the whole number of ratepayers, everyone has to share that burden.

“If we want the saleyards, spend the money and then we have to be prepared to hear the arguments against that from ratepayers who have never been to the saleyards in their life.

“I know that stock are going past Millicent to Glenburnie from Kingston and further afield and if the yards here are so attractive, why are those cattle going straight through?”

Elected members are expected to make a decision on the saleyards at Tuesday night’s council meeting.

Decision time

RAQUEL MUSTILLO
raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

A FARMER has called on Wattle Range Council to “stop wasting money” on temporary fixes for the Millicent Saleyards and make a definitive decision on the future of the facility.

Elected members are expected to decide whether to continue subsidising the council-owned facility or permanently close the saleyards in June at next week’s monthly meeting.

At last week’s informal gathering, resident Ryan Jellesma said users of the yard were keen to keep them running and required certainty from council amid concerns about its viability and a potential $500,000 repair bill.

“The question needs to be do we want to have a saleyards or do we not want to have a saleyards and if the answer is no, then shut it down, end of story,” he said.

“If the answer is yes, you need to start fixing it.

“Give them a budget and a long-term plan to work with because the saleyards has had short budgets all the time and can’t fix anything.

“Either give them funding to run the saleyards and make it the good asset it is to both the community and the council, otherwise you are going to waste even more money by not fixing it properly.”

Mr Jellesma said the fortnightly prime market not only provided an economic benefit for smaller producers, but also an important social outing for users.

“You don’t realise how isolated we are and the sales provide people with an opportunity to come to down and now it is at risk of getting taken away,” he said.

“You wouldn’t shut the swimming lake and you wouldn’t even have the discussion as council, but maybe we aren’t as important as towns people are.

“We aren’t silly out there on farms and if there is more money to be made elsewhere, I guarantee right now you would have no cattle going through the Millicent Saleyards at all.

MOUNT GAMBIER CATTLE - WEDNESDAY 1292 (98)

NUMBERS rose slightly as agents yarded 1292 head.

These sold to a smaller field of trade and processor buyers along with feeder and restocker orders.

Quality was mixed with something to suit all buyers on offer and this reflected in some mixed pricing over the different categories.

Vealers were in demand to lift 5c to 10c as steers to the trade sold from 412c to mainly 465c with an isolated sale to 483c/kg.

Similar heifers made from 438c to 466c to the trade as feeders steers sold 455c to 472c and heifers made to 448c/kg.

Restockers purchased a small number of mixed sex calves from 432c to 469c/kg.

Numbers were small in the yearlings as both the trade and feeders steers sold from 374c to 425c with heifers making from 321c to 403c to the trade and to feeders from 374c to 419c/kg.

Grown steers and bullocks eased up to 10c as the trade portion made from 336c to 383c with feeders selling from 362c to 395c/kg.

Grown heifers made from 324c to 386c with both the trade and feeders active as manufacturing steers made from 280c to 330c/kg.

Heavy cows to the trade sold from 284c to 306c to ease 5c as a run of B muscled types sold from 308c to 325c/kg.

Light cows made from 210c to 277c with the trade, feeders and restockers all active.

MOUNT GAMBIER SHEEP - WEDNESDAY 3378 (-660)

NUMBERS eased as agents yarded 3211 lambs and 167 sheep to total 3378 head overall.

These sold to a smaller field of trade and processor buyers along with a number of active restockers.

Quality was a little mixed this week with something for all buyers on offer as the market sold to easier rates.

Light lambs to the trade sold from $104 to $138 as the light weight trade 2 and 3 score selection made from $143 to $158/head.

GLENBURNIE LIVESTOCK REPORT 03/02/21

The cattle market has rolled into February in fine form with dearer price bursts again. Despite a bigger yarding, price trends were firm to dearer depending on quality. Feed lots and restockers increased bidding to add a very solid base. The bulk of the well-bred vealers and grass-fed yearlings showing shape and finish sold from 420-470c per kg. Bullocks made to 383c per kg. The cow market remained firm with the best young cows 325c per kg and heavy beef cows 305-310c per kg.

BULLS: Sold at 9am

A small yarding of bulls sold to firm demand making from 260-290c per kg.

Quotations: Killarnie Ang bull 280c 1080kg $3024.

HEAVY STEERS & BULLOCKS: Drafted & Presented by Auctioneer Andrew Whan & Scott Miller.

626 bullocks yarded. An excellent run of heavy bullocks with more manufacturing types yarded. Young 0-2 tooth bullocks eased 5-10c per kg selling to 385c per kg. Heavy weight bullocks and manufacturing dairy steers sold fully firm on last week. Best Angus x bullocks selling 360-382c per kg. Friesian steers 300-335c per kg.

Quotations: Woolwin Farming, Kalangadoo 11 Poll Hereford bullocks 375c $2015. Glenford Partners, Dartmoor 10 Hereford bullocks 368c $2228. J Cunneen, Coleraine 10 Angus x bullocks 368c $2612. D & L Bingham Yahl MG cows 272c $1496.

SHEEP & LAMBS: Drafted & Presented by Auctioneer Liam Durcan & Scott Miller.

3,378 sheep and lambs sold, 660 less than last week. A slightly smaller yarding and a smaller buyers gallery saw market trends ease. There wasn't a lot of weight in most agents runs. Best heavy export lambs 30kg plus sold from $240 to $250 and 26-30kg lambs sold at $210 to $236, all these lambs were $10 to $15 cheaper. Premium 24-26kg lambs sold at fully firm rates at $194 to $203 while heavy trade lambs 22-24kg at $178 to $190, making $7.80 to $8.00p/kg. The 20-22kg trade lambs were from $162 to $180, making up the biggest number of trade types on offer, selling at $4 to $6 cheaper. Restockers remained at the same purchasing prices of $130 to $160 for shorn well-bred lambs while smaller and lighter lambs were $113 to $125.

Quotations: Reg Edwards & Son 122 shorn lambs $250. PF & BA Burchard 102 shorn lambs from $218 to $240. D & L Bingham lambs $226. Woolwin Farming 79 lambs $177. Patanga Past Co 291 shorn forward trades from $158 to $175.

Post-fire farmer support

FARMERS and other primary producers impacted by the recent Blackford fire can access wellbeing and financial support through South Australia's free Family and Business Support (FaBS) Program.

Livestock deaths caused by the January blaze have exceeded 7600 - 7236 sheep and 371 cattle - with Primary Industries and Regions South Australia (PIRSA) appointing FaBS mentor Robyn Cain to help affected farmers, farming families and regional businesses from the Blackford and Lucindale communities.

The program provides free, informal, confidential and independent advice.

PIRSA state commander Mehdi Doroudi said if producers felt overwhelmed and unsure where to start in the recovery process, the FaBS program was a good place to start.

"The FaBS mentors work closely with service providers and can connect you to services including financial counsellors, local health networks, emotional wellbeing and counselling services, government and non-government assistance, community organisations and donations," Prof Doroudi said.

"PIRSA is still undertaking an impact assessment of the Blackford fireground and as a result it will take some time for a full picture of the agricultural impacts to be ascertained."

Livestock producers and owners still requiring fodder and agistment assistance, and landowners wishing to donate emergency fodder, are advised to contact Livestock SA on 8297 2299.

Primary producers and animal owners seeking urgent assistance and information as a result of the Blackford Fire are advised to contact PIRSA Bushfire Recovery Hotline on 1800 931 314.

Visit www.pir.sa.gov.au/fabs or contact FaBS mentor Robyn Cain on 0411633085 or robincain16@gmail.com for more information.

Farm

Soil testing: Why is it critical?

This is the second of a series of articles being prepared by Gambier Seeds for The Border Watch. These will feature in the On The Land section during 2021. The focus of these articles will be to optimise productivity from on farm pasture and forage bases. At Gambier Seeds we believe pastures and pasture renovation are an investment, not only in your farm production and profitability, but in its future.

FERTILISER is one of the top three costs for most grazing enterprises.

Optimal pasture growth can only be delivered where soil conditions and nutrient levels are optimised.

Compared with pasture species selection, breeding programs or animal health programs, there is very little work put into farm fertiliser programs on grazing properties.

The opportunity to change this exists, and has existed for many years, yet it is not undertaken.

The answer is to undertake a regular and comprehensive soil testing program, which is in turn used to create a fertiliser program, which is then carried out.

This is the answer to optimising your fertiliser dollar spend, but also to achieving production goals for your farm.

Sounds simple? It is.

Sound expensive? It actually is not really, and certainly isn't in the medium to long term, or where production isn't meeting enterprise goals on your farm.

There are few who do not soil test.

However, testing is usually only undertaken on paddocks to be cropped or renovated, or randomly over sections of the farm.

This information delivers value, but it is only relevant to the paddock or section that was tested.

It is dangerous to assume this information as a basis for decision making to be applied on a larger scale across other areas of the farm.

I recommend a program of soil testing every paddock (grazing/cropping paddocks - not holding paddocks or yards) every three years.

For this program we use a "basic" soil test to check for the major nutrients and assess pH and Ec.

Where we intend to renovate or crop, we undertake a comprehensive test in the year of beginning the program.

By undertaking full farm testing at the one time, a complete and accurate picture of the farm soil nutrient status is compiled.

From this we can determine a fertiliser program or soil conditioner application program.

This methodology not only identify issues or problem areas, it also highlights the nutrient status of paddocks that are performing well and identify "base levels" that are currently working well for us on our farm under our management style.

These show us base levels we should be targeting.

This aspect is forgotten in most testing regimes where tests are usually only undertaken on paddocks with visual issues.

RIGHT MIX: A blended pasture fertiliser product - knowing the status of your paddocks through soil testing, allows for products to be blended in the right ratios to exactly meet the individual paddock needs.

Other advantages of adopting this full farm testing approach on a regular basis are:

- Ability to compare paddocks of similar soil types with one another.
- Ability to identify and correct declining nutrient levels before problems are encountered.
- There are multiple results to show trends across your farm and soil types, but also over time as you repeat the tests.
- Ability to avoid any "outlier results" which can occur from single tests of paddocks where there are no comparisons to confirm results which may be unexpected.

Compared with single or random testing, the full farm "basic" testing price tag will be higher - but it is only once every three years (as a guide - may vary on advice).

Also, you need to balance the testing cost as a percentage of your fertiliser spend over the same period.

We undertake these testing programs of our clients where they do not have full programs with their fertiliser suppliers.

We know the value of understanding the soil nutrient status regarding total farm production.

Seriously consider going down this path if you are not already doing so.

Of the clients that have adopted this practice, none have been disappointed with the outcome or failed to make significant changes to their fertiliser programs as a result.

TOP PICKS OF THE WEEK

MONDAY THE AMAZING RACE AUSTRALIA

WIN, 730pm

After watching the first few episodes of this mad dash around the country, you may find yourself in two camps: 1. You are inspired to plan an action-packed adventure. 2. You're tired just thinking about it. The Amazing Race Australia has brought together a diverse bunch of travellers who are all keen to get their hands on the prize. Tonight, they are going to need more than just pep to get through a round that leaves some scratching their heads at the cryptic clues. Beau Ryan hosts.

FRIDAY BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS

7TWO, 7pm

We really could have done with some tips from the Better Homes and Gardens crew over the summer break, but alas, they had to have their holidays too. Thankfully they are back tonight for the 27th season and the good ideas just keep coming. While some fashion trends may appear to be on a cycle, home fashions – particularly gaudy 19a80s-era exteriors – should be put to pasture for good. Tonight, Johanna, Charlie and James (above) make over the front of a house that is stuck in the most unfashionable of decades. They show how with a few affordable tweaks to the garden, the fence and the front door, the garish can be glorious once more.

SUNDAY HARROW

ABC TV, 830pm

The clever casting crew behind this crime-drama did an excellent job of nabbing British heartthrob loan Gruffudd to play the lead. Sometimes you just need a wildcard to be the point of difference among all the other crime-dramas out there (and let's face it, his smile doesn't hurt, either). Not that you'll see much smiling in this season three return as Dr Daniel Harrow (Gruffudd) investigates the death of a young man who claimed to be his son. The news shocks those close to him, but Harrow is pushed to reveal a chapter of his past. But just like in many of the cases his team investigate, it's best not to take things at face value. A welcome return to our screens.

loan Gruffudd stars in Harrow.

MONDAY MAN OF STEEL

7MATE, 830pm

This re-imagining of the Superman tale, directed by Zack Snyder (Watchmen), produced by Christopher Nolan (The Dark Knight) and starring British hunk Henry Cavill (The Tudors, right), has blockbuster written all over it, but delivers an unexpectedly grittier tale than its predecessors. Cavill is brooding as the superhero who dons steel (rather than tights), ditching the comical elements of the classic to embody a serious, lonely Clark Kent who, upon discovering his extraterrestrial origins, unloads mass destruction in his fight to save Earth. Starring Amy Adams as Lois Lane and Russell Crowe as Kent's biological father, the story has a different feel, which might displease comic-book tragics, but this glossy take should hold viewers captive with its abundance of rip-roarin' action.

ARE you looking to purchase your first family home or an investment property that is ready to go?

This three bedroom brick and tile, split level home is ideal. With views of Mount Gambier township and the picturesque Centenary Tower, this is a must-see property.

Conveniently located within walking distance to McDonald Park Primary School and sporting grounds makes the perfect family home.

The open plan kitchen/dining with electric cooking, breakfast bar and views opens through original glass sliding doors to a generous family room with slow combustion wood heating and timber look flooring.

Bathroom and laundry have both been updated with a neat and tidy modern look featuring full size bathroom and laundry with wash trough and linen press.

To the rear is a fully enclosed terraced yard with plenty of opportunity and an undercover decked area with television bracket making it the perfect spot to entertain.

Single car garage under the main roof with side access to the rear yard plus space for additional cars in the driveway makes room for multiple vehicles.

Large family home with rural outlook

This is the one you've been looking for. An expansive solid stone character home on some 889m2 with arguably the best view on Penola's property market. This 1950's home has large rooms and high ceilings throughout with a touch of modernisation through clever renovation. One such improvement is the addition of a large bay of aluminum framed windows and doors to the living area. Be comfortable year-round with reverse cycle A/C and slow combustion fire. Alternatively, retreat to the spacious second living area, or the parent's suite; a large bedroom with garden outlook, built in robes and connecting ensuite – fully renovated with a touch of lux in underfloor heating and a deep bath. While the areas of renovation have been done to a high standard, there is still opportunity to put your own stamp on things. Two additional bedrooms together with a laundry with outside access make up the rest of this sizable family home. Outside the lawn is lush and the neighbouring plane trees create a lovely, shaded area to the North of the house - perfect for kids to play. In this yard, there is a great sense of privacy aided by the large paling fence along Gordon Street. All of this makes a great combination, together with the view and the patio; the perfect place to pause and take in that view.

Location, Value & Potential

A large family, home with so much to offer, all for under $250,000. This well-presented brick veneer home is nestled nicely amongst a scattering of mature trees and native shrubbery for added privacy. Fronting quiet Young Street, the property is ideally situated on a large 1,095m2 corner allotment, only 150m to Penola's main street and less than 50m to the Penola Primary School gate. The house lends itself to a family, or couple needing that little bit extra. Space here – is plentiful. 4 bedrooms all with built in robes, with the master boasting small ensuite and walk in robe (at the other end of the house for that added privacy).

The central part of the house is made up a large lounge room with a slow combustion fire (essential in the South East), a modest, well laid out kitchen which connects to spaces either side; one with reverse cycle air conditioner and both with access to the large outdoor entertaining area. Raked ceilings, exposed timber ceiling beams and slate floor (to some areas) give this property a sense of warmth and a point of difference. The potential here is endless. Outside, a single shed, duel carport and a low maintenance garden, with space for a pet or veggie patch. 4-bedroom, 2-bathroom houses are rarely available in Penola in the sub $250,000 range.

Minutes from the city centre

Primary producers, lifestyle lovers and developers take note; TDC are exceptionally excited to offer to you, for sale by public auction, 91.65 high production hectares located just minutes from the city center.

226 Chambers Rd Glenburnie features deep fertile chocolate and red loam soils and picturesque undulating scenery. The property has a solid fertiliser history and renovated pastures consisting of strong stands of Lucerne, rye grass and clovers. All fencing is sound, with a fencing program being completed, dividing the holding into nine paddocks and a laneway. Stock water is supplied via 32mm poly line with water being pumped from a bore equipped with an electric pump.

Currently running ewes with lambs and trading additional lambs, there is a good income potential with scope for further pursuits including horticulture, bulk fodder production and much more. The property also includes a very neat three bedroom solid stone home with a large kitchen and meals area; with views over the rolling hills, sitting room; with slow combustion heater and an upgraded bathroom. Further improvements include a set of cattle yards with crush and ramp and a hay shed.

226 Chambers Road offers so much and all just minutes from the services of the city center. We welcome your inspection.

221 Christians Rd, Cape Douglas

Heavy Carrying, Well Improved.

'Little Amp' comprises 645 acres of prime grazing land in the South East of South Australia. The property consists of rich alluvial soils, some areas subject to winter inundation yet produce a strong feed base for the summer months.

Located off Christians Road, Cape Douglas, which is 33.5 km south-west of Mount Gambier and 14.5 km north-west of Port MacDonnell.

You enter the property from one of the many gravel lanes which circumnavigate the property, via the ample machinery shed, workshop and other shedding to the well-appointed three-bedroom homestead.

The property extends beyond the sheds to the productive grazing pastures that are fenced into 13 main paddocks, all with excellent water improvement. A series of drains flow into the old Winterfield Creek, which drains at the rear of the property onto the secluded beach with approximately 300 metres of frontage.

The property has been consistently running 240-280 cows and progeny with a total stocking of 500-600 head under its current management. Set up to produce feed all year round, the meticulous management and pasture improvement at 'Little Amp' is a real feature and will benefit a new purchaser for the future.

GT SP MODEL HIGH MARK

MAZDA Australia is proud to announce key updates to the stylish Mazda6 Sedan and Wagon ranges for 2021.

“As our passenger car flagship, Mazda6 holds strong appeal in its segment with its advanced specification and option of Sedan and Wagon body styles,” said Mazda Australia Managing Director, Vinesh Bhindi.

“This latest update is highlighted by the new GT SP model, which brings a distinctly sporty characteristic to the Mazda6 range and builds on the local GT SP portfolio alongside the CX-9,” he said.

The updated Mazda6 range will go on-sale in March 2021.

Featuring the turbocharged 2.5-litre four-cylinder petrol engine, the new GT SP Sedan and Wagon take the previous GT line a step further.

Unique 19-inch alloy wheels finished in black metallic combine with black mirror caps to create a distinctly sporty exterior aesthetic.

Inside, the GT SP models feature a stunning new burgundy leather seat upholstery as well as front and rear seat heating. This red theme continues with new stitching applied to the instrument panel and door trims. A bright finish is applied to the instrument panel decoration strip, vents and door handles.

Both GT SP and Atenza models now feature ‘Turbo’ exterior badging for further differentiation.

The stunning Polymetal Grey Metallic finish has been added to the Mazda6’s exterior colour palette and is now available across the range. Two efficient, powerful petrol engines are available for the Mazda6.

Sport and Touring Sedans and Wagons feature the renowned 2.5-litre four-cylinder Skyactiv-G petrol engine, powering the front wheels via a six-speed automatic transmission.

Using a high 13.0:1 compression ratio, this responsive and ‘revvy’ power unit provides 140kW of power at 6,000rpm with maximum torque of 252Nm at 4,000rpm and can comfortably run on 91-octane unleaded petrol.

Combined-cycle fuel economy is 7.0L/100km. Both GT SP and Atenza variants utilise a turbocharged 2.5-litre four-cylinder petrol engine to generate an impressive 170kW power peak at 5,000rpm, backed up by a strong 420Nm torque figure produced at only 2,000rpm. A specific six-speed automatic transmission is used for this application, featuring bespoke gear and final drive ratios to maximise performance and efficiency.

Impressively, the turbocharged engine can also run on 91-octane unleaded, and records 7.6L/100km fuel consumption on the combined cycle.

HOT NEW KONA N SUV

HYUNDAI Motor Company has confirmed that the newest member of its N brand will be the hotly anticipated all-new KONA N - the first SUV in the high-performance line-up.

“As N brand’s first ‘hot SUV’, KONA N will offer plenty of versatility and driving thrills that N-enthusiasts have come to expect from the brand.

You can take this vehicle anywhere - from road to the track,” said Till Wartenberg, Vice President and Head of N Brand Management and Motorsport Subdivision at Hyundai Motor Company.

The all-new KONA N will be available with an eight-speed wet dual-clutch transmission, known as N DCT.

Combined with a 2.0L turbo engine, it is sure to deliver a powerful and nimble driving experience.

Also, like any other N models, the all-new KONA N will be equipped with a variety of high-performance driving features, such as launch control and an exciting sound experience.

Hyundai’s high-performance N brand, which started with i30 N and i30 Fastback N is set to aggressively expand in 2021 with the addition of KONA N, i20 N and i30 Sedan N.

In total eight exciting new N and N Line products are planned to launch in Australia by the end of 2021.

More KONA N details will be announced soon.

Frecheville enters the canon

DUNCAN EVANS

duncan.evans@tbwtoday.com.au

EVERY actor dreams of appearing in a major film or theatre production. With it comes the possibility of fame and a pathway to secure employment. But more than that, to appear in a great film, one that takes a hold of the public's imagination and enters the cinematic canon to be watched and re-watched for decades to come, is surely the mountain-top for any creative artist dedicated to the craft of film.

James Frecheville, a 29-year-old actor from Melbourne, can claim to have struck magic twice already in his short career with his small but crucial performance in this year's remarkable Eric Bana-headlined film The Dry, which comes some 10 years after his breakout performance in the now-canonical Australian crime film Animal Kingdom.

The Border Watch was lucky enough to speak at length with Frecheville in a wide-ranging conversation about his latest role in The Dry, why the film has been so well received by the public and critics alike and how he successfully navigates the tough and precarious world of acting.

The Dry

The Dry is based on the debut novel by Jane Harper and Frecheville credits the popularity of the book in part for the film's astonishing success.

"I think it's a combination of the success of Jane's book, and it having a sort of pre-established place in people's heads. But also, last year was pretty terrible, on many fronts. And I think people just are eternally optimistic. I think people are really excited to get out of the house and do something that they were nostalgic about. Which sounds insane, to say that you're nostalgic about going to the cinema, but nobody had any of it, for such a long time," he said.

With critical acclaim and domestic box office receipts breaching $10 million, The Dry is the hit film for the month of January and suggests that there remains in people an entrenched desire to retain the full cinema experience, even in an age characterised by isolated online streaming.

"It's all about a shared, disruption-free experience," Frecheville said.

"Being a part of a community, whether you know anybody or not, just in that kind of setting, it's pretty important."

Locked in a darkened space before a massive screen, cinema-goers are treated to an entrancing mystery film that unfurls carefully around two shocking events separated by decades. The film has about it the smack of greatness. Though ostensibly a police procedural, it builds to become a haunting meditation on the power of memory and the majesty of friendship, precisely acted, written and photographed across the desolate beauty of regional Victoria.

"It looks great and the film's great, and it's as simple as that," Frecheville says.

Frecheville plays the role of Jamie Sullivan, a gruff young farmer struggling to keep his farm afloat while also looking after his grandmother.

Like the film itself, there is a degree of manipulation involved in how the audience perceives Sullivan, a product of Mr Frecheville's acting abilities and the careful planning of director Robert Connolly. Sullivan appears to us in a certain light at the beginning of the film, and then our perception of him shifts and changes as the film progresses.

"The trick wasn't really up to me," Frecheville said.

"That's in the coverage, that's in the editing and the sound, and most of that falls on to Rob. What I tried to focus on was taking as much from the script and from the book as I could to find something to anchor the idea of Jamie Sullivan around. There was a part in the book where it said that he had his fists stuffed under his armpits. And I kind of thought that was interesting, just because, like many people within the film, they've all got secrets.

"He just had a pretty high guard. It's not really a nice place to live. But, you know, he's not one to complain."

Initially, Frecheville auditioned for the role of Sergeant Greg Raco, played by Keir O'Donnell.

"I wasn't right for that part, but my name got thrown into the hat for Jamie Sullivan, and that was it."

Asked whether he can sense a film's potential for greatness from the script alone, he responds by saying that while a script may be redolent of something, it is always difficult to know how a film will turn out given the medium's tendency to morph and shift across the multiple stages of the creative process.

"You do get a sense. A good script should convey imagery and thought. And then, you're on set, and things change constantly. It's just blueprints layered on blueprints until the edit, at which it could even change quite violently again. Sometimes I've seen that with films that I've done where the tone of what you thought you were being involved in just becomes completely different."

Breakout

TEN years before he would take on the role of Jamie Sullivan, Frecheville auditioned as a high schooler for the seminal role of Joshua Cody in David Michod's operatic Animal Kingdom. Listed by Quentin Tarantino as one of his favourite films of the decade, it has since become the source material for a popular television show set in Southern California and is regularly listed by critics as one of Australia's greatest films.

Entertainment

James Frecheville as Joshua Cody in Animal Kingdom.

Animal Kingdom

James Frecheville in Black 47

Frecheville's stunning performance as an impressionable young man thrown suddenly into a dangerous world and then trying, in his limited way, to extricate himself from an escalating hurricane of violence anchors the film and imbues it with a complex moral code. The film isn't nihilistic, but it's brutally jaundiced about human nature and the reach of justice in this world.

The Dry, by contrast, offers a somewhat more hopeful view about the possibility of securing justice, despite the shocking acts of violence that open and close the film and the shadow of abuse that permeates the story. A degree of clarity, at least, is granted to the audience by the end of the film, whereas Animal Kingdom leaves us in a more troubled state. We are as unsure of Frecheville's Cody at the end of the film as we are at the beginning. His method of closing out the story is as much a recognition of terrible failure as it is an act of brute righteousness.

Australian Cinema

FRECHEVILLE lists Wake in Fright, Bad Boy Bubby, Chopper, Two Hands, Babe, Happy Feet and Mad Max as some of his favourite Australian films.

"Australia makes great films. I just hope that the frequency of telling Australian stories can kind of speed up the more the borders open up."

He is optimistic about the future of the Australian film industry.

"People need stories. I'm interested with what sort of emerging technologies can start making different sorts of stories possible. It seems to me that the Australian industry is just absolutely booming. In the sense that a lot of international productions are coming there because they know that people work well and that it's suitable to make big movies on a sort of world-class level."

What's more, alongside Australia's world-class human capital and technological sophistication, our relative success in containing the virus also makes us an increasingly attractive destination for film production. This year will see a number of major Hollywood productions shoot in Australia, including the Liam Neeson-helmed action blockbuster Blacklight.

From LA to the UK

FRECHEVILLE spoke to us from Wales via Zoom, 'trapped' in Britain's extended lockdown restrictions.

"My partner and I came up here for Christmas and then Boris Johnson put the lockdown issue out, so we're now sort of up here for series two of lockdown, because we were up here most of last year as well."

When not in lockdown, Frecheville lives in London, having moved there from Los Angeles for a change in scene.

"I spent a lot of time in Los Angeles and ultimately wanted to try out a different setting. I didn't really want to spend all of my twenties there. And Europe's great and I've got a lot of friends in London. And I have a very soft spot for Ireland."

Asked whether he thinks the deep friendships that anchor The Dry are still possible in the age of Zoom, Mr Frecheville replies: "I think it's too early to say. I think sustaining deep friendships is easy. In a way, not much has changed for the way that I sustain my friendships, because I've got friends in all these different places."

"But I'm just optimistic that things will get better. I can't really see us holding into a sort of new lockdown paradigm for the next 10 years. And thinking that a whole new generation of kids never go to school. I'm more optimistic than that. But maybe not, maybe this virus just keeps mutating forever and ever."

A Natural Optimist

THOUGH The Dry and Animal Kingdom are perhaps his most widely-known contributions, Frecheville has appeared in an impressive roster of well-received films in a career that now spans more than 10 years. In 2018, he took on the lead role of Feeney in Black 47, an historical drama set in a famine-ravaged 19th century Ireland and in 2015, he appeared alongside Billy Crudup in the critically acclaimed Stanford Prison Experiment.

In regards to his own creative future, he hopes at some point to pursue writing and directing in addition to acting.

"But when I was writing when I was younger, it wasn't ready or suitable enough to sort of get it to a point where it was fleshed out and out there," he said.

"And tonally it's quite different from my acting work. I'm kind of into a bit surreal, mad-cap comedy, sort of insane stuff. But yeah I'd totally want to explore that. But it's just slowly slowly catchy monkey, is my idea the older I get, because I'm still learning. I'm still learning a lot.

"I came into it having done youth theatre. Animal Kingdom was a baptism by fire. And ever since then I've just sort of been a journeyman. I haven't gone to a school. I didn't go to university. I've sort of gone all in on this trade, and I'm just learning as much as I can. Seems to be working, somewhat."

The acting trade has a well-established patina of glamour, full of red carpets and flashing cameras. For many though, it's a tough and precarious way to make a living, and Frecheville knows both sides of the coin; the struggle involved in simply making one's way in the trade, and also its possibility for grandeur and genuine achievement.

"I've been living by the skin of my teeth for years, it feels like. There's nothing stable about it, but there's also much victory and revelries as well," he said.

For other young Australians who love cinema and hope one day to be involved in something permanent, Mr Frecheville has some advice.

"Be bold. Find like-minded people. Team up and make things. No one is going to sort of hand it to you. It's always a great tip to be active. If you want to be an actor, start finding some friends that want to be actors and write silly movies and make them. And keep it fun, I'd say, because you don't want a learning experience to be too serious or hard-core. I think consume as much media as you can. If you want to learn how to do things technically, you could watch a film and then watch it right back immediately after you've finished watching it the first time and pick it apart. Just be bold and be active, that's what I'd say."

The Dry is playing now in cinemas and Animal Kingdom is streaming on Stan.

COMMUNITY EVENT: 200 people attended the Southend Progress Association's Australia Day event held last week.

Southend swells for Aus Day

ALMOST 200 people descended on Southend's Western Beach last week for the second annual Australia Day community event.

Attendees enjoyed an afternoon of fun and entertainment at the two hour event, with children and adults alike participating in a range of activities including the sandcastle competition, a treasure hunt and the Fisherman's Boot Throwing Competition.

Families and friends were kept well fed at the event, which was organised by the Southend Progress Association, with a free barbecue, drinks and watermelon funded by Wattle Range Council. The Lions Club of Millicent fired up their ovens and cooked delicious donuts for the crowd.

Southend Progress Association committee member Sandra Young said the sandcastle/sand sculpture competition was a hit, with 14 entries ranging from a sea star, shark flower, pirate ship, turtles, traditional castles and a complete farm layout.

"It was an ideal way of capturing your imagination and creating something beautiful out of natural materials," she said.

"Mayor Des Noll joined us together with his wife Shari to judge the sandcastle competition.

"Other activities included buried treasure for the seven years and under, where a shell with a number was unearthed which corresponded to an Australia Day prize.

"All participants went away happy with a flag, pinwheel, hat, glasses or a clip on koala."

Ms Young said the boot throwing competition was also a popular event, with 15 participants in the under 13 category and 18 entries for the over 13 and adult category.

She said prizes were funded by Wattle Range Council, with residents Bronwyn and Craig Clark also donating some prizes.

"Overall, it was a great afternoon spent at the beach, socialising and having family fun and above all, respecting who we are as a nation," Ms Young said.

"Both the national Australian flag and the Aboriginal flag flew for the first years as a second flagpole was recently erected thanks to a grant from the Veteran Affairs department and the installation by the Wattle Range Council.

"COVID requirements were adhered to with QR codes and signatures at two different spots and social distancing monitored.

"This did not deter from people participating in anything they wished."

SANDCASTLE COMPETITION: A shark was among the 14 entries for the sandcastle competition at the Southend Australia Day event.

John Tilley

Thank You

I would like to thank everybody who gave flowers, cards, messages and hugs on the sad passing of John.

To my wonderful, caring family who supported me during this difficult time, I couldn't have coped without you all.

To Annette and the MGH private ward staff, who cared for John so well over the past two months he was in hospital.

Although John was only at St. Mary's for a few days and passed away there, the care for him was exceptional.

Thank you to SE Funerals for their excellent support and professionalism.

Strong showing in pairs comp

THE Millicent Bowls Club held its annual Champion Handicap Pairs on Wednesday.

Pleasant conditions greeted the 16 players, with all games played over two rounds of 12 ends before the grand final was contested.

Lyn Scudds and Mary Campbell played Dawn Bellman and Faye Hill, with Bellman and Hill claiming the win to book a grand final berth.

Adriana Ross and Jan Buhlmann faced Mary Clifford and Del Parsons with, with Clifford and Parson moving forward to the grand final.

In the grand final Parsons and Clifford had to give up one shot due to handicap.

However, on the first end Parsons and Clifford scored a six to go five shots up and held on to that lead for much of the game.

In the end the pair claimed the title with a strong 19-11 victory.

WINNERS: Del Parsons and Mary Clifford claimed the Millicent Bowls Club Ladies Championship Handicap Pairs title on Wednesday.

RUNNERS-UP: Dawn Bellman and Faye Hill finished runners-up in the Millicent Bowls Club Ladies Championship Handicap Pairs on Wednesday.

Tough night for touches

NIGHT Owls bowls continued to prove popular at the Millicent Bowls Club on Wednesday, with 28 teams taking to the greens in pleasant conditions.

Touches were hard to come by for non-bowlers this week, with only one player in each division achieving more than two.

In White Division Rotary's Brian Haines achieved four touches, while in Blue Division Mossies' Garry Wilson managed three and Maccas' Malcolm McRobert four.

In Red Division Maccas claimed the win, as Maureen McRobert, Lynda McRobert, Malcolm McRobert and Graham McRobert defeated Somerset Legends 28+10.

Other winners were Rovers 27+7, Untouchables 27+6, Grand Hotel 27+6 and Great Northern Clams 27+5.

Blue Division saw Mossies' Garth Baker, Robert Hyland, Gary Wilson and Jim Hyland defeat Lions 30+10.

Other winning rinks were Awesome Foursome 29+13, Max's Fours 28+9, Somers Seniors 27+1 and Birdies 25+7.

In White Division Lions Roar - Simon Laslett, Wally Lang, Yogi McMillon and Stewie Pounsett - defeated Rotary 29+12.

Other winning teams were X Factor 26+3, Lion Cubs 25+24 and Bedford Butterflies 25+2.

Racing enthusiast and former newspaper editor KEITH KRATZMANN reflects on the career of turf legend Bernborough after a Christmas gift brought up some old memories.

The mighty Bernborough

UNDOUBTEDLY the greatest weight carrying racehorse of all time amassing 15 successive victories in just one year was the Queensland galloper Bernborough.

The tragic circumstance was that in his 19th start in 1946, the constant weight plus three serious checks in the Caulfield Cup ultimately led to his breaking his front fetlock never to race again where the plan was to take the superstar to gallop against the best gallopers in the United States.

The legendary book on Bernborough, which was difficult to obtain, came into the hands of my daughter Maree Kratzmann who saw second hand books of both Bernborough and Don Bradman (the greatest cricket legend) in a second hand SVDP shop in Gladstone.

The Christmas present was a real delight as one had the opportunity to not only in 1946 as a 12 year-old boy to have my Dad take me to see the great Bernborough while in December of the same year, my older late brother Arthur surprised me by travelling to Brisbane from the Kingaroy rail station to attend the Australian-England test where Bradman was still batting past his century followed by the longest cricket six hit over the grandstand (a record that still stands) by Keith Miller.

Bernborough's performances which were not in the days of television screens had racing followers tuned into radio broadcasts and if you visited the movies, Bernborough was often on movie theatre screens with the Cine-sound News right throughout the nation.

The book "The Story Behind The Legend" was compiled and written by Bill Sigley in conjunction with regular jockey Athol George Mulley.

The total contents comprised 242 pages which was printed at the time by Boolorong Publications when the company was based at Bowen Hills (Brisbane).

There were no tote facilities in this era so all transactions were made with bookmakers on the respective tracks plus other operators with no licence were considered illegal.

"I was fortunate enough at 12 years-old with my late father to catch a tram in the Brisbane suburb of Toowong which travelled to the gates of the Doomben racetrack.

"The cheapest area was to cross the race-course (known as The Flat) which with my late Dad, cost us only one shilling.

"Before the race was run, Bernborough paraded down the straight and many said he could not win because of having to lump 10st 3lb over just a sprint course.

"When the field reached the home turn, Bernborough was second last and then as he commenced his run, the outstanding commentator in the late Keith Noud said "He's coming like a tornado" and duly had the race won at the 50 metre mark".

The following week, trainer Harry Plant accepted with Bernborough from his sprint win to the Doomben Cup where over the 11 furlong course he carried 10st 10lb to victory.

The Mighty Bernborough and Athol George Mulley with his tremendous weight on the way to the start of the 1946 Doomben Ahern Memorial where his sensational winning finish from second last at the turn has never been beaten. Bernborough's achievements in just some nine months along the eastern seaboard are honoured at Eagle Farm with a museum of his outstanding record.

Apart from his Doomben victories, Bernborough in earlier Victorian starts of 1946 achieved what was regarded as the impossible in taking out the six furlong (1200 metres) Newmarket where over the final 200 metre sprint he clocked a magic 10 seconds, a record which still stands to this day.

The champion is the only galloper to ever start in a Newmarket at 4/9 on while as it was the largest spring race of all time, the race attracted a crowd of 45,000.

One of the turf's most colourful figures was Azzalin Romano who paid 2,600 guineas for the great champion. The threesome of Romano, trainer Harry Plant and Bernborough got what was called a bargain price well ahead of a prospective owner who came late for at the auction where he was supposed to have an offer of over 4,000 guineas.

After his sensational Doomben wins and weight carrying records Bernborough was then transported by freight ship across bumpy waves from Brisbane to Sydney to contest the feature races before his departure to Melbourne for the weight for age events and the anticipated Caulfield-Melbourne Cup double.

Following his Sydney success, Bernborough was then earmarked for the 1946 Caulfield Cup where he was asked at the time to carry a mammoth weight over a mile and a half (or 12 furlongs).

At this time, rumours were also floating that Bernborough would later travel by ship to North America.

In the Caulfield Cup and apart from giving away up to three stone by some runners, he suffered three checks in running which kept him at the rear of the field until he had to pull wide in the straight and finish fifth.

Mulley denied any suggestions that he had of not winning the race, but what occurred was three checks in the race which seemed a target by other jockeys in creating the Queenslander with a troublesome run.

It's interesting to note that two bookmakers were betting 3/1 each way about Bernborough while other prices were basically just 6/4. During the same meeting, Bernborough was quoted at 6/4 to win the forthcoming Melbourne Cup even with his massive weight over the gruelling two miles.

However, connections of the stable decided to take Mulley away from his long standing record where they secured Billy Briscoe as the new rider in the forthcoming weight for age Mackinnon Stakes where weight was only 9st 3lb. Coming to the turn, Briscoe gave the champion a feeler and he was ready for a withering run.

Judging the time to be right, he gave Bernborough rein on the turn, and the race favourite closed quickly on Flight, and the mare's owner Brian Crowley was thinking, 'It's second again for us'.

Then, a loud noise, like a sharp clap of thunder, or a gunshot, rolled over Flemington. Bernborough faltered and veered off course towards the middle of the track.

The noise was so loud that Briscoe thought for a second that Bernborough had been shot, and Jack O'Sullivan on Flight later told Bill Ahern 'I heard a sharp crack behind me just before we entered the straight'. The noise had been heard three furlongs away in the sand, and in the press box Bill Ahern and 'Cardigan' thought for a moment that some 'crank' had shot the champion.

Bernborough's near foreleg crumbled beneath him and only Briscoe's skill stopped him from falling. The intelligent bay tried to save himself. He spread his hindlegs, and skidded to a halt, leaving the course, people still believing that he was taken away to be destroyed. A stunned silence, then cries of horror.... Bernborough standing on three legs, his injured near foreleg held high off the ground.

As Bernborough left the course, people still believed that he was to be destroyed. However veterinarians were able to place the sesamoid bone in position and re-bandage the fore leg. This later resulted in Bernborough travelling by ship to the United States for stud duties.

He was then taken by train to Lexington in Kentucky, the home breeding capital of America.

By 1975, Bernborough's 13 crops of 267 foals had produced 245 race starters of which 189 had won 1334 races.

Bernborough has never been forgotten by race followers like yours truly and those still in the age group of the 80's and 90's of his rise to fame via the early years of his association with the Darling Downs.

A statue of Bernborough is seen by thousands of racing folk and tourists where it graces the entry to the headquarters of the Jondaryan Shire Council at Oakey.

The greatest five gallopers of all time in the hearts of former racing identities in their respective era are Phar Lap, Bernborough, Carbine, Peter Pan, Tulloch and Kingston Town.

Dedicated anglers get the bites

JAMIE COATES
FISHING

A BREEZY weekend along the coast put a halt to many anglers' plans, but the dedicated few who do not mind a bit of stir still managed to hit the water and get into some fish.

The offshore fishos found some nice shark and bottom species over the last week or so, the boys from Southerly Fishing Charters put their clients onto some nice fish including sharks, flathead, nannygai and terakhi.

I am still to hear of the first Port MacDonnell tuna for the season, but it can not be much longer away.

The fishing in around the shallow kelp beds is about to get a whole lot more interesting now the snapper season is finally open again.

There have already been a few nice fish caught that I have seen and remember you have to report all your snapper catches on the SA fishing app, or by calling fishwatch.

It is a bit of a pain the way the system has been created but hopefully it means we can continue to bring a few home for the table.

There has been some nice shark caught in the last few weeks down there, gummies predominately, but the odd schoolie and bronzie mixed in.

It is from about now onwards we start to see the schools of mullet turning up along the coast.

Fishing the kelp the way we usually would for shark and snapper is how we target mullet and get plenty of burley on the go too.

There is often a mix of sizes down there - anything from 50cm to 50lb could be caught, so hang on.

The whiting numbers this week have remained excellent again.

PRIZED PAIR: Kahne Jeffrey and some nice perch from the Glenelg River.

The usual spots such as the Port MacDonnell breakwater, Cape Douglas and Carpenter Rocks have all produced some nice fish, while some of the lesser fished areas such as Danger Point, Blackfellows Caves and even up as far as Southend have all been fishing well.

There are still plenty of silver trevally, salmon trout, mullet and snapper mixed in with our whiting, so you never know what you might take home.

The garfish have been great again this week and the size and numbers have both continued to impress right along the region.

The swell has not really slowed them down at all - it just seems to have pushed them to the more protected bays.

As has been the case for the last several weeks, mullet and tommy ruff will be found with them in good numbers in most areas too, so they will add a bit of variety to the bag.

WORTH THE EFFORT: Southerly Fishing Charters clients and a nice haul of fish.

There were some nice sweep caught late last week by the boaties.

A lot of anglers took advantage of Friday's amazing weather and fished in some of those harder to get to spots.

The size and number of sweep was nothing short of impressive along much of the coast and I even saw a few nice hauls by the spearfishos.

The Glenelg River has been fishing well for the lure guys this week.

I have seen some excellent fish come from the upper reaches of the river.

Ben and Kahne Jeffrey managed several nice perch up around Pritchards on a mixture of Cranka Crabs, diving minnows and Zman Grubs.

Brad Kain got stuck into some nice bream down on the sandflats of the estuary over the weekend when the blue water pushed in.

Lightly weighted plastics were the weapon of choice and plenty of bream could not help themselves.

The mullet news has been a bit quiet for most but a few fishos did manage a couple down around the poles area trolling live mullet.

Hopefully we see them kick into gear soon and the size start getting a little bigger.

The forecast for the weekend is a little bit up and down.

Let's just hope the wind stays away for as long as possible so we can get a crack at some fish.

Until next weekend, safe fishing.

Wilbur still on his winning ways

DAVID LEWIS
GREYHOUND RACING

“XTREME Rush went straight to the front from box four, with the other first starter Wilbur Deeds doing the chasing, then working home well to be beaten 2½ lengths and looking a coming winner for Koroit owner-trainer Garry Anders.”

So reads a report on the Tara Raceway meeting of October 29, 2017.

Now, after a further 127 starts, Wilbur Deeds has won 21 races and run 49 minor placings for prizemoney $10 short of $65,000.

Bred by Anders, the son of Oaks Road x Me-punga Lana is now a rising six-year-old and bounced back to win city races after a hock injury kept him off the scene for three months way back in 2018.

Back at Tara Raceway for last week's Tara Raceway time-graded meeting, Wilbur Deeds took on a tidy field in the 400-metre Williams Crane Hire Stake for five-plus wins greyhounds.

The August 2015 whelping was equal to the task, quickly taking the lead off Another Pick before holding out Queue The Music for a win in a best of day 23.03 seconds.

Then the veteran chaser backed up again on Sunday in the South Eastern Hotel Stake over 400 metres, shrugging off a determined Saint Charlotte turning for home before running out a three-quarters of a length winner in 23.08 seconds.

Anders is now hoping the Masters events, programmed to be run on Sundays over 305 metres for greyhounds 3¾ years and older, will take off at Tara Raceway.

With priority going the way of the oldest greyhounds nominated, the wonderfully durable Wilbur Deeds certainly will not have any trouble gaining a start.

At the other end of the scale, as far as back-to-back winners were concerned, was Chanko Girl who went into the time-graded meeting's Produce Store Maiden Stake over 400 metres with six unplaced runs to her name.

Win, lose or draw, though, that was about to change after scratchings reduced the field to three.

In fact, Chanko Girl never looked like losing when leading all the way for a 1¾ lengths win over Proud Molly in 23.42 seconds.

The daughter of Lightning Frank and former smart bitch Deano's Gadget was the first win for the year for Ararat father and son team Doug and Paul Hammerstein who purchased her in early January for $800.

The pair was then able to back up Chanko Girl again at Sunday's meeting after she was graded into the Progreyhoundtips.com Stake, a maiden/one win event over 400 metres.

Once again the black bitch was able to lead all the way, this time defeating Capital Kay by 1¼ lengths in the same time as Thursday's win.

Speaking after Chanko Girl's second win in the space of three days, Paul Hammerstein, a Tara Raceway regular, said while things were relatively quiet at the moment, the pair had plenty of pups to come later in the year.

Razza Racing winner a bit of a challenge

GREYHOUND RACING

ASTON Olenna won Tara Raceway's first 305 metres feature event when successful in Sunday's Razza Racing Feature Maiden final which was sponsored by SA's 2020 leading trainer Tony Rasmussen and his wife Lisa, of Gifford Hill.

Lining up from box seven in what was only the third 305-metre race to be run at track, Aston Olenna was better away than the previous week in his heat when he defeated Sianna Magic by 1½ lengths in 17.50 seconds.

In the final, which carried an extra $1000 donated by the Rasmussens, Sianna Magic once again displayed plenty of early pace but it was Aston Olenna who rounded her up going into the first turn before running out a two lengths win in 17.49 seconds.

By Aston Bolero out of Aston Selena, the sizeable 36-kilogram fawn dog is raced by leading owner Ray Borda and trained at Alendale East by David Peckham who was the first to admit Aston Olenna had been “a bit of a challenge”.

“He's been in the kennels since November but initially he just wasn't chasing properly,” Peckham said.

“So we decided to put him around with a couple of dogs that we knew could run a bit and see how he handled that.

“Well, when he beat them we knew we had something to work with; hopefully, he'll now continue to get better.

“Being a January 2019 whelping we may even be able to have him ready for the Summer Classic (512m) which will be run later in the month.”

Peckham said Tony Rasmussen had rung him to congratulate him on the win.

He also confirmed sponsorship for next year's Razza Racing Feature Maiden.

Aston Olenna's win was the start of another good day for Peckham.

Later, Angelo's Entity finished strongly in the Trackside Meats Mixed Stake over 400 metres to grab tearaway leader Ed Deeds, a half-brother to Wilbur Deeds and also owned and trained by Garry Anders, in the shadows of the post in a time of 23.06 seconds.

In the 400-metre Gambier Vets Grade Five final, Tippa found the front down the back before racing away to a 3½ lengths win over Ton Eighty in 23.26 seconds.

Purchased by Tim Aloisi and Matt Lehman in December, Tippa was originally to be set for the John Gray Memorial at Angle Park.

However, when the black dog disappointed in a lead-up race at the city track it was decided to race him locally where he has now won three races from four starts.

By Barcia Bale x Irisize, Tippa is an older half-brother to Snow Superstar (by Fernando Bale) who was the second leg of a double for Lewiston trainer Scott Feltus at last week's Thursday meeting.

Well supported to win the 400-metre JB Irrigation Stake, the Tina Cattermole-owned Snow Superstar set herself a fair task early before storming home to defeat Nyssa's Girl by two lengths in 23.53 seconds.

Earlier in the day, in the 400-metre Gambier Vets Maiden Stake, Rosie's Angel led all the way at start number 22 to open her winning account for Feltus and owner Trevor Furner in 23.73 seconds.

Local apprentices in spotlight

DAVID GILBERT

on the rails
david.gilbert@tbwtoday.com.au

IN the past 12 months, we have had three apprentice jockeys here in the Limestone Coast and all three featured at the 2020 Apprentice Academy Awards presentation night held at Morphettville Racecourse last Monday night.

Penola born Caitlin Jones, who recently became a fully fledged jockey, bowed out of her apprenticeship in fine fashion by being the runner-up to Kayla Crowther, who won the major award as Dux of the academy.

Jones also received recognition for riding her first black type winner last year, Regalo Di Gaetano in the inaugural John Letts Cup.

It came as no surprise to anyone Mingbool apprentice Jacob Opperman, who only started riding last April, took out the rising star award for Junior Apprentices.

Mount Gambier apprentice Libby Halliday, currently sidelined through injury, won the Longest Price Winner award for her victory on the $91 chance Benovsky here at Mount Gambier in May.

FOOTBALL OPPONENTS TO SUCCESSFUL OWNERS

BECOMING acquainted on the football field over 50 years ago has worked out well and stood the test of time for a couple of local identities.

Bruce Grubb and Les "Jumbo" Thompson were opponents on the football field for West Gambier and North Gambier respectively in the late 1960's and early 1970's before joining forces with a former Carlton footballer to successfully race horses in more recent times.

The Carlton footballer in question was Terry Board who left the Blues to come and coach North Gambier in 1967 where Thompson was one of his proteges.

BLITZED HIS RIVALS: The Cheryl Jacob trained Keayang Trumpet raced into Gold Cup contention next month when he scorched around the Greenwald Paceway circuit to break the track record for the 1780 metre journey last Friday night.

Board then transferred across to arch rival West Gambier and both he and Grubb played in the Roos premiership side, coached by Peter Marrett, which defeated East Gambier in 1971 at Coleraine.

The trio became friends through their sporting and business interests and it is sometimes said in the racing game friendships can be truly tested when mates decide to become owners of a racehorse.

Half a century later and it is true to say they have well and truly passed that test.

Terry Board passed away last year but his legacy remains through a horse by the name of Chill With Teejay, who broke her maiden status at her second career start at Morphettville last Saturday.

The three-year-old filly is trained at Yahl by Peter Hardacre, who has a share in the youngster along with Grubb, Thompson and two of Board's sons.

She was a hot tip around town at her first run for three months after finishing fourth on debut in Adelaide in October.

Jockey Karl Zechner can take much of the credit for the win, bringing the $3 second favourite with a perfectly timed run to hit the front where it mattered most to score by a short neck.

"Peter (Hardacre) told me the filly may have gone into the race a bit underdone and may have needed another trial," Zechner told the media upon dismounting.

"Her best asset is that she is strong late in her races and that will only help her in the future."

"When it came to naming the horse, we submitted some names with the idea of somehow remembering Terry (T. J. Board) who also bred her and the one we got is ideal," part owner Bruce Grubb pointed out.

All three have been partial to a tippie or two over the years and Chill With Teejay is indeed an apt name.

Those who watched the race would have noticed the filly did not race in the familiar colours of the Peter Hardacre stable.

"Terry's racing colours were navy, white yoke with yellow sleeves and they were the colours the filly carried to victory on Saturday," Grubb added.

"She was a bit stiff at her first run and had trialed okay in the lead up to last Saturday's run."

Having dabbled in the racing game for some years, who is the best horse which Grubb has been involved in?

"I've enjoyed them all," was his diplomatic answer.

However, Falcool, a winner of five of 16 races - including the Listed Moomba Plate at Flemington in March, 2017 - rated a mention.

"This one (Chill With Teejay) has got some ability and may go on to better things," he said.

Then there was Hucklebuck, who was possibly the one that got away when he was sold after winning his first two races before going on to win six more, including the $1 million Group 1 Emirates Stakes at Flemington in 2014.

But that is racing, do you keep or do you sell and, in Hucklebuck's case, "we got an offer we couldn't refuse", Grubb reflected.

TRACK UPDATE LATER THIS MONTH

WE can expect an update on our troubled Glenburnie racecourse in about a fortnight's time.

"The committee will meet in the middle of February and track manager David Shepherdson will be invited to give an update on the track and offer his suggestions as to when racing might resume," Mount Gambier Racing Club president John O'Connor stated.

O'Connor intimated our mild summer at present is not the ideal recipe for improving the track and a burst of hot weather between now and the end of March will be most welcome.

TRACK RECORD BROKEN AGAIN

THE public again showed its preference for Friday night meetings with easily the best crowd of the season at the Greenwald Paceway last Friday night.

A most pleasant surprise for patrons was the on-course tote operating for the first time this season.

Even better news is the on-course tote will remain in operation at least until the Gold Cup meeting on Saturday, March 13.

The most impressive performance of the night was the 15-metre win by Keayang Trumpet ($4.60) in the NR 43 pace to give local trainer Cheryl Jacob her second winner of the local season.

The $6.50 bet about the gelding's chances was suddenly money for jam once driver

Mark Phillips zoomed across the field to lead from gate six.

The 1780-metre track record was broken for the second time in a month when Keayang Trumpet stopped the clock at 1.56.2, to clip one tenth of a second off the record set in January by Pebble Sands.

Mount Schank trainer Graeme Howard and son/driver Brent Howard continued on their winning spree this season when Majestic Reactor ($5.50-$8.50) came from fourth at the bell to win the maiden pace.

SEEKING HAT TRICK OF CUPS

NARACOORTE trainer Sue Jaensch has made a habit of winning hometown cups and will be chasing her sixth Naracoorte Cup success this Sunday.

Jaensch has won the past two cups with Pass The Glass and Bronski and the latter is nominated for this year's edition.

It is an entirely different scenario for her son Jason who became the co-trainer of the Jaensch stable last August as he is chasing his first cup success.

The Jaensch stable may have a two pronged attack with the top weight Von Costa Glass the probable favourite in the $26,800 event.

"Bronski is also entered for a restricted race on the program and Will Price with his three-kilogram claim will be riding Von Costa Glass," Sue Jaensch told The Border Watch on Wednesday before the final fields were released.

Mount Gambier trained horses are likely to be major players in Sunday's cup.

Dyagilev (Richard Nicholson) and Sebona (Peter Hardacre) are both last-start Bordertown winners, while the Michael O'Leary trained Bossy Britches is stepping up to open company but has always given the impression staying may be her caper.

With mild weather predicted, it augurs for a top day on and off the track for the big crowd expected.

THREE QUINELLAS

MOUNT Gambier stables made their mark on Monday's harness meeting at Horsham with the locals providing the quinella in three events.

The David Drury trained and driven Tiger Band Wagon, a recent trial winner here, was good value at $10 for his return to racing, defeating Royal Speech in the NR 46-51 pace.

Urgoodboy, a brother to Urbadboy, was also first up for trainer/driver Andrew Clarke and had some support ($5) before beating Seal The Destiny in the NR 45 pace.

Then Congo Line won the NR 52-55 pace as his odds suggested he would ($1.70) for trainer Barry Finnis and driver Jayson Finnis, with 10 metres to spare over Grey Cadillac.

COMING UP:

- Sunday, February 7: Naracoorte gallops (cup).
- Tuesday evening, February 9: Mount Gambier trots.

BOWED OUT IN FINE STYLE: Caitlin Jones ended her apprenticeship recently, doing so in style by being the runner-up to Kalya Crowther as Dux of the 2020 apprentice's academy.

C GRADE WINNER: Thomas Moore.

It doesn't get much better than this

A PERFECT score from Dougal Simson was the highlight of the Mount Gambier Gun Club's latest event on Sunday.

Simson showed impressive form to win both the 50-target and 25-target events with a score of 93/93.

The SL Bowd Contracting 50-target sporting clays shoot was expertly shot, with high scores the order of the day.

Simson won the AA Grade with 50/50, ahead of Jeremy Kent with 48/50.

Tom Weir claimed A Grade with a score of 47/50, with Andrew Hoare second with 64/70.

B Grade went to Geoff McLean with 47/50, from Peter Klieve (44/50), while Peter Winsor claimed C Grade with 41/50, ahead of Stuart Bowd (40/50).

The Dougal Harry Simson Skeet Championship again saw accurate shooting, with seven competitors attaining perfect scores.

Simson claimed the AA win with 43/43, ahead of Malcolm Whitehead with 42/43.

In A Grade Janette Densley won with a score of 25/29, from Brian Spring (24/29).

Steve Chambers (25/25) claimed B Grade, ahead of McLean (32/37), while Andrew Hoare took the honours in C Grade with 24/25, from Brian Shelton (20/29).

DOUGAL AND HARRY SIMSON 25-TARGET SKEET CHAMPIONSHIP: C Grade winner Andrew Hoare, sponsor Harry Simson, AA winner Dougal Simson, A Grade winner Janette Densley, B Grade winner Steve Chambers.

IMPRESSIVE EFFORT: Harry Simson congratulates Dougal Simson on his win at the Mount Gambier Gun Club shoot on the weekend.

SL BOWD CONTRACTORS 50-TARGET SPORTING CLAYS: Sponsor Stuart Bowd, AA winner Dougal Simson, C Grade winner Peter Winsor, A Grade winner Tom Weir.

FOCUSED: Veteran player Fred Newton, still playing exceptional eight-ball, was named in the All-Stars team for the annual Square Mile Challenge tournament.

Racking up honours on cue

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

THE annual Square Mile Challenge eight-ball tournament was deemed a success by co-organiser Daniel Champion, with 72 players vying for the overall team honours.

It was Shark Squad who claimed back-to-back honours, defeating Commercial Club 8-5 in the grand final at the German Club venue on the weekend.

Shark Squad reached the grand final with a 5-3 semi-final win over Waiters, while Commercial Club defeated Different Strokes to book their grand final berth.

Champion said some good eight-ball was played over the weekend, which also saw Friday night singles knockout and Sunday Scotch doubles tournaments.

Temujin Dixon claimed the Friday night competition from Dale Kent, while Paul Sommerville and Brett Cook won the Scotch doubles.

Champion said some of the best players in the region were on display across the weekend.

"We have some of the best players in the region who were playing in the comp," he said.

"Some of those have won some big comps over the years.

"Mark Walker has won the Hamilton Open and the Portland Open singles comps and Fred Newton won the Berri Hotel Open back in the 1990s.

"That is the biggest comp in the state.

"He is still playing great eight-ball."

Champion said the final scores did not depict the closeness of the competition, with some tight frames played across the weekend.

In just its third year the Square Mile Challenge has become a popular event, so much so teams now miss out on a place.

With the tournament capped at 12 teams due largely to the size of the venue, players are quick to nominate to ensure a place.

BACK-TO-BACK: Shark Squad claimed back-to-back victories at the annual Square mile Challenge eight-ball tournament on the weekend at the German Club, Yahl.

Champion said it had fast become a popular tournament in the region.

"As far as teams competitions go, there is really only the Square Mile Challenge and the Bordertown tournament which is in August," he said.

"It is pretty easy to get teams to fill it, so we are looking to expand it in the future but we have to sit down and work that out.

"We had three teams miss out this year, with a couple of new teams that put their nominations in early because they wanted to be a part of it."

Apart from the main results, players of the tournament were awarded to Hamilton's Casey Jolley and Mount Gambier's Mark Walker.

TOP PERFORMANCE: Mark Walker was named as one of two players-of-the-tournament after the weekend's Square Mile Challenge eight-ball competition.

STAR QUALITY: Kaitly Kember showed plenty of skill during the annual Square Mile Challenge eight-ball tournament on the weekend, named in the All-Stars team.

An All-Stars team was named, which included Braedy Rickard, Kaitlyn Kember, Karla Bowd, Fred Newton, Dale Kent, Temujin Dixon, Isaac Manterfield, Mick Hutchinson and Pat Rogers.

Classic Aussie fare for Robe

PIE floaters, hotdogs and bowls were on the menu at the Robe Bowls Club Australia Day event.

The annual Australia Day raffle was drawn and all winners were present on the day.

The patio heater was won by Michelle Weatherald, the second prize of Majella wine and Robe Mitre 10 voucher was won by Melissa Robinson, while the third-prize Flints Wine and Ruffles Jewellers voucher was won by Jane Wilson.

Loaves and Fishers were sponsors for social bowls on Thursday with 22 players participating, with two two-game winners.

Paul Truelove and Trevor Wagner claimed their money back with 53 points, while Helen Lynch and Rob Hooper received the vouchers for their 58 points.

The chook raffle was won by Ian Pile and the wine by Rob Hooper.

The ladies travelled to Millicent for both Division 2 and 3 on Friday, with Division 2 losing and Division 3 with a good away win.

Division 2 sits fourth on the ladder and Division 3 fifth.

In Division 3 Millicent claimed two points with 43 shots to Robe's 12-52.

Jan Fisk, Rosemary Williams, Chris Davidson and Nesla Boundy had a close match against Fay Richards' team, losing 26-23, while Helen Lynch, Jan Birmingham, Maria Cooper and Judy Phillips had a good win against Tina Erikson's team 17-29.

Division 2 had a big loss, Millicent 14-69 to Robe 0-24.

Valma Jennings' team lost 40-13 against Jan Buhlmann's team and Judy Birmingham's team, after being even at lunch, lost 22-11 against Heather Carthew's team.

On Saturday the Open pennant was played at home, with both Division 1 and 4 recording wins.

In Division 1 Robe 14-71 defeated Millicent 2-67.

Dean Burgoyne, Peter Gregory, Jo Sykes and Errol Jennings defeated Peter Scanlon's team 21-17.

Peter Roachock, Ken Smith, Peter DeLaine and Pat Lynch defeated Rod Gibb's team 27-18 and Stephen Kennett's team lost to Bryan Roper's team 23-32.

In a battle for top place in Division 4 Robe 12-66 shots defeated Beachport 4-63.

David Robinson, Rob Lawrie, Barry Bennett and Josh Waddell was the only Robe team to win 34-15 but covered the other two teams.

Dean Woodward's team came back from early in the game but lost by one shot 18-19, while Ali Douglas's team lost 14-29 against Ian Werchon's team.

On Wednesday February 17 Robe Bowling Club will hold a Bare-Foot Bowls night for the Lucindale Fire Appeal.

Due to COVID regulations the first 64 names in the foyer will play.

WINNERS: Chris Earl and Glen Schapel claimed the win in the Millicent Bowls Club 2-4-2 competition last week.

Hot bowling reaps rewards

WARM conditions did not deter 29 bowlers from participating in the Millicent Bowls Club's 2-4-2 competition last week.

Tournament Director Derek Bowering welcomed two visiting players, Kym Stewart from Kalangadoo and Mathew Eldridge, son of John Eldridge.

Claiming the honours for the day was the team of Chris Earl and Glen Schapel with a score of 33+22.

Runners-up were David Botting and current singles champion Bryan Roper.

Other winning teams: Peter Bateman/Neil Whelan 32+8; A triple of Ray Doecke/Malcolm Wright/Wayne Burris 32+6; Peter Dunicliff/Glen Tilley 32+4; Ian Kuchel/Peter Scanlon 32+4; David Nuske/Dirk Pietersma 31+2.

RUNNERS-UP: Bryan Roper and David Botting claimed second place in the Millicent Bowls Club 2-4-2 competition last week.

HUNTERS DAY WINNERS: Ron Hunter sponsor, Hamilton Bowling Club's Heather Gough, Norman Schwarz, Glenda Hawker and Geoff Woods with sponsor Maria Hunter.

HUNTERS DAY RUNNERS-UP: Denis Clifford, Mary Clifford, sponsor Ron Hunter, Gary Wachtel, Del Parsons and sponsor Maria Hunter - absent Graham Parsons.

Victorians claim Hunters Day

PENNANT bowls resumed last Friday, with Penola's Division 1 ladies claiming a strong win over Port MacDonnell by 15 shots - 55-40.

Division 2 drew with Beachport 48-all and Division 3 lost to Mount Gambier by five shots, 43-48.

Saturday's Division 2 Open side went down to Naracoorte RSL by 34 shots 60-94, Division 3 lost to Kingston by 33 shots 59-92 and Division 4 defeated Naracoorte RSL by 15 shots 78-63.

Hunters Day was held on Sunday, sponsored by Ron and Maria Hunter.

The winning team came from Hamilton consisting of skip Geoff Woods, Glenda Hawker, Norman Schwarz and Heather Gough.

Runners-up were Millicent's Del Parsons (skip), Denis Clifford, Mary Clifford and Gary Wachtel from Penola, who filled in for Graham Parsons.

Today the ladies Division 1 pennant team travels to Kingston, Division 2 to Naracoorte RSL and Division 3 will host Millicent.

Tomorrow there will be no Open pennants due to Men's Country Carnival.

Action aplenty on Millicent rinks

YET again the Millicent Bowls Club greens were full last week for the Night Owls competition, with plenty of action and lots of camaraderie.

White Division saw Scrappers - Judy Sullivan, Robin Thomas, Jan Buhlmann, Manny Fuentes - defeat Gizzies Crew 30+12.

Other winners were X Factor 29+12, Lion Cubs 28+9, with Beanz Team and Rotary having a draw with 17 and 15.

Blue Division went to Try Hards' Graham Attiwell, Peter Johns, Arnold Damhuis and Paul Bosco, as they defeated Max's Four 28+15.

Bits and Pieces 28+8, Birdies 27+15, Somery Seniors 27+2 and Mossies 26+2 were other winners.

In Red Division Untouchables' John Cockrum, David Reichelt, Barry Smith and Terry Barnes defeated Somerset Legends 27+7.

Other winners were Great Northern Clams 27+3, Tant Tigers 27+1 and The George 26+6, with Maccas and Jack Attack having a draw on 17 and 15.

WHITE DIVISION WINNERS: Robin Thomas, Jan Buhlmann, Judy Sullivan and Manny Fuentes.

South Indians steal big win over Bandits

A LIGHTNING start for South Indians, with a 10-run opening inning, resulted a big win over Millicent in Division 1 baseball on Saturday.

The Indians were away to the Bandits, but it made little difference as the carnage began.

Hits to Hayden Battye, Bruce Morale (two including a home run), Dean Hamilton, Ben Morale and Tarkyn Morale, with all of those runs batted in, gave South a match-winning lead.

They added three more in the second dig before Millicent was on the board but only with a solitary run before South was back batting again.

Two runs were added in the third after the first two batters picked base on balls and were batted in by Travis Lockwood's long drive to left-field.

The Bandits responded in the even dig when they scored six runs after they picked up four walks, a hit batter and three safe-hits.

In the fourth South added three more while Millicent backed up its previous inning with three.

The Millicent defence held strong in the top of the fifth, not allowing a run from South and then their batters added two more.

South made amends for the lapse in the fifth by adding a further five runs in the top of the sixth when four consecutive safe-hits from Ben Morale, Lockwood, Alex Lewis and Jesse Balshaw, plus a walk by Tarkyn Morale saw all those batters cross the home-plate.

They then proceeded to shut the game down as they finished off Millicent's chances with three up, three down.

The game finished in favour of South 23-12.

However, if not for the Indians' excellent first inning the game could have finished much tighter.

Tight contest at the top

IT was the top-of-the-table clash on Saturday as Warriors Blue took on Concorde White, with the latter recorded a well-deserved victory.

Fielding first, Concorde held Warriors in the first inning and then scored their first run after a rare walk forced-in run.

It was then Warriors chance to take advantage of two errors in the field by Concorde and score a run of their own.

Concorde gun recruit Alli Kreplins then hit an RBI to left field to score Billie Jones but Warriors replied immediately, with an RBI to Mel Chuck to score Bec White, both of whom had two safe hits for the match.

Concorde looked to take the game away in the next innings and scored two more runs on four safe hits.

But a two-run lead was not going to be enough as Warriors showed why they are top, scoring three in the last inning to take a slender lead into Concorde last at bat.

At the top of their line up Concorde loaded up the bases and Jones came through for her team, creaming a two-out double to centrefield which scored Sam Brown and Elysha Collins.

Concorde added on with RBI singles to both Daniela Waters and Kreplins, to finally take the game 8-5.

Concorde who won by recorded 15 safe hits to Warriors' six, including a game-high three from Kate Altschwager and Jones.

For Warriors, White showed why she is a favourite for a batting trophy this year with her consistent hitting.

Meanwhile Demons recorded a massive score of 21 runs against a seven-player Wanderers side.

The highlight of the day was Cody Manning crushing a ball clear over the fence for the first time in the league this season.

She finished the day with four safe hits, with pitcher Montana Millard finishing with five.

Held out: No runs for Federal

FEDERAL was held scoreless in its game against Tigers, only recording two safe-hits for the game.

In the bottom of the first Garth Ransom hit safely and scored on an error.

In the third Hayden Jones drilled a ball to short stop which forced an error and was batted in by Garth Ransom's three bagger right-field.

Brayden Morton hit safely to centre-field in the fifth with two out and was batted home by Hayden Jones.

The seventh saw Morton end up at third base after his long shot to left-field and was batted in again by Jones.

Their final two runs were added in the eighth when both Matt Thompson and Karl Ransom found them on base from errors, while Thomson scored on a wild throw and Ransom was batted in by Tyler Horrigan.

BRINGING THE HEAT: Federal pitcher Alex Reppin gives it his all during the Division 1 baseball fixture against Tigers on Saturday night.

OUT: Federal's Zeb Chant is short at first base as Tigers' fielder Garth Ransom takes the ball cleanly for the out.

LOOKING TO SCORE: tigers' batter Jacob English puts bat on ball during the Division 1 baseball fixture on Saturday night.

Pristine course attracts bumper field

THE well-presented links course at the Blue Lake Golf Club attracted a big 100-plus player field on Saturday for the monthly medal stroke round.

With so many players on the course, low scores were the order of the day, with Josh Ransom the first to deliver.

Ransom (73-8-65) set the bar high early in his round with an opening nine of 36 off the stick, featuring just two bogeys and a birdie on the fifth hole.

After a birdie on the 12th he was eyeing off an even-par round but the golfing gods were not going to be held to ransom, bringing him back to earth with an unexpected double bogey.

Another birdie on the 17th helped right the ship and he cruised to a two-stroke outright win.

Adrian Wallace is in a rich vein of form and reinforced it with a win in A Grade, with a score of 79-12-67.

Finding trouble early with a double bogey on the third hole, he was like a dog with a new bone on the back nine reeling off birdies on the 14th and 17th for 38 off the stick.

He finished two strokes clear of Jason McCrae and Zeick Dalton who tied for second with 68 apiece.

Both players were a model of consistency, McCrae with splits of 38 and 39 while Dalton's were 37 each.

McCrae was awarded second, by virtue of his -1 over the last six holes.

Former A Grade golfer Wayne Dunford is fighting hard to get back into the premier division and is well on his way after taking out the main prize in B Grade.

Dunford started in the best possible way with a birdie on the opening hole but found trouble on the sixth and eighth holes.

However, a fighting 39 on the back nine saw him clear of his nearest rivals.

Second-placed James Roughana had the opposite start to Dunford's, with a double bogey on the first proving a rough start to his round.

A strong finish of -4 over the last six holes saw him almost catch Dunford but the damage had been done early.

Stephen Kamphuis had a similar start to his round and he also threw in a couple more double bogeys on his way to an 83-14-69 round to claim third place.

Kamphuis had good runs of pars on both the front and back nine, which showed he has the ability to match it with the best.

Dieter Rostig (104-36-68) would have had a good claim on the outright win except for a blowout on the third hole.

Rostig would love to play that hole again but will still be happy to have claimed the win in C Grade with splits of 53 and 51.

His -3 over the last six holes proves he has the ability to go low.

Brad Creek finished second and also had a couple of holes he could have improved on.

He played the 11th and 17th like he was up

His score of 104-33-71 was still good enough by one stroke from Robert Lindner in third.

Lindner (95-23-72) started well with a par but on the eighth and 17th holes he was in the same boat as Creek.

Relatively good scores for the monthly medal were needed to secure a ball prize, headed by Tim Von Stanke's 69 and followed by Fred Knight, John Brown, Dan Christian, Aaron O'Donnell, Barry Humphries, Nick Wilson, Trevor Callis, Kevin Stark, Michael Dedonatis, Michael Egan and Alan Stewart.

Conway Johnson (fifth hole) and Roughana (16th) picked up four balls each for their respective pro shots, while Kevin Howell (B Grade), Scott Montgomery (C) and Stephen Easterbrook (A) won their nearest to pins.

Monthly medal awards went to Ransom (A Grade), Dunford (B) and Lindner (C).

Class swing wins out

THE textbook smooth swing of Steve Jelly was on show again in Tuesday's stroke competition at the Blue Lake Golf Club.

If you were ever to teach someone the fundamentals of a golf swing you would do no better than to pair them with Jelly and just watch.

Jelly was his meticulous self in the early stages of his round, parring the first four holes and then having a tap-in birdie on the fifth.

Sensing a sub-par round, his nerves got the better of him and his legs turned to jelly, reeling off three consecutive bogeys.

A par on the ninth hole stemmed the bleeding and he turned with 37 off the stick.

With only three more bogeys on the inward nine, Jelly was set for the win, recording a 75-8-67.

Regular Tuesday player, Bruce Grubb also birdied the fifth hole, which helped him secure second place.

Shrugging off a couple of bad holes on the 11th and 12th, Grubb soon got back to business adding a number of pars on his way to a back nine of 43.

David Adkins has his eye on his dream of a single figure handicap and his birdies on the 12th and 17th holes shows he has the game to get there.

He had a close tussle with playing partner Garry Fox, both recording the same score of 83-12-71, with Adkins claiming the count-back.

Popular winner

IT was a popular win in the women's stroke round at the Blue Lake Golf Club on Saturday with Karen Panagopolous taking out her first victory.

A relatively new member, Panagopolous (107-39-68) has steadily improved since taking up the sport and her pars on the seventh and 15th holes are proof of that.

Despite finding trouble on the eighth hole, she refused to chuck it in, regrouping over the back nine for a two-under return.

It was also good to see Gemma Winterborn back on the course and showing signs of improvement to her game, her score of 97-27-70 good enough for second place.

Lesley McPherson celebrated her upcoming birthday with third prize after consistent splits of 52 saw her in with 104-33-71.

Bev Pascoe won the novelty event with her putter working well, while Dianne Perryman's pinpoint accuracy won her the nearest to pin on the fifth hole.

Annette Ford proved grace and timing are all that is needed to hit the long ball, with her drive on the 18th being declared the longest drive for the day.

Wilson scores big

ANOTHER large contingent of women graced the fairways at the Blue Lake golf course last week for a stableford competition.

Strong, gusty wind had to be factored into tackling the course but that did not deter the winners either breaking or equalling their handicaps.

Division 2s Vivienne Wilson was the player of the day accumulating a massive 41 points.

Grade winner's in Division 1 were Carol Megaw carding 37 points off a 29 handicap, with splits of 19/18, which included par's on the fifth, 14th and 18th holes.

Unfortunately four bogeys and a double bogey marred an otherwise-excellent score.

Runner-up vice-captain Geraldine Scott has seen her consistency pay dividends, gaining entry into the winner's circle often.

Her card read 36 points, with splits of 17/19 off a 21 handicap and had par's on the 12th and 16th holes with no scrubs.

It helped her get over the line ahead of handicapper Dianne Perryman and Lee-Anne Medhurst, both with 35 points, which resulted in a count-back, the former getting the nod for third.

Nearest to pin second shot on the par 3 16th hole went to Perryman.

A score of 41 points does not come along very often and Division 2s Wilson - off a 41 handicap - was ecstatic with her score.

It included splits of 20/21, eight three-pointers, a four-pointer on the dog-leg par four 15th and one scrub.

Nearest to pin second shot on the 16th added to Wilson's prize tally.

Another regular in the winner's circle was runner-up Bev Pascoe off a handicap of 31, scoring 37 points, with splits of 16/21 which included two three-pointers, par's on the 15th and 16th holes and only one scrub.

President Beryl Mahoney was only one point away with 36 playing to the daily scratch rating.

The pro-shot on the 116-metre downhill par 3 fifth hole was won by Rosemary Martland.

A reminder the 2019/20 trophy presentation night for the BLGC is on tonight in the Blue Lake Bar and Bistro.

BLUE LAKE GOLF CLUB WOMEN: Division 2 runner-up Bev Pascoe, winner Vivienne Wilson, Division 1 winner Carol Megaw and runner-up Geraldine Scott.

Layout tests most

A LARGE field of 92 SE Veterans golfers went to Robe on a windy seaside day to test out the six new holes at the course.

The layout tested everybody but Kingston's Bruce Stillwell, who had a credible 39 points to take first division from Kev Otten 37.

Third went to Mount Gambier golf Club's Ken Whitehead with 36.

The second division was won by Bordertown's Pat Seneca with 36, breaking one of the longest losing streaks known.

Dartmoor's Darren Bray took second on a count-back from Robe's Ian Bruce, both on 35.

The prized Ross Orchard trophy went to a surprise pairing of Steve Von Duve and the ever-reliable Alan Chalk.

There were five nearest to pins - Roy Mitchell, Phil Bliss, Peter Buckley, Bruce Stillwell and Graham Allen.

The next outing is at Port MacDonnell on February 15 and then there is a change to the program, with Blue Lake brought forward, being the venue a week later on February 22.

Up to speed quickly

HE only started playing golf in September and has not had a lesson yet, but Mitchell Broome has already won two Saturday tournaments at the Mount Gambier Golf Club.

The first of those came in just his third competition round back in October, compiling a stunning 45 stableford points when playing off a 35 handicap.

That saw his handicap drop by seven shots to 28 and remarkably he lost another seven to fall to 21 after notching 40 points the following week.

Fast forward three months and the 24-year-old was back out to 25 for last Saturday's 4BBB stableford competition where he partnered 12-handicapper Tim Driver.

Starting on the back nine the pair got off to a flyer, with Driver picking up three-point pars on the 10th and 11th before Broome took over.

He had two points on the 12th but then added eight points thanks to four-point pars on the difficult 13th and 14th.

He finished with 23 points on the back nine himself, before their sole one-point hole of the day came on the par-five first.

However, that proved to be a temporary setback and when Driver chipped in for a birdie and four points on the par-four fifth hole they were back on song.

With a host of good scores on the day, it took a three-point par from Driver on the ninth hole, their final hole of the day, to compile an incredible 49 points.

While Driver finished with 31 points after a 12/19 split, Broome had 40 on his own, adding 17 on the front nine.

"That was my best ever score off the stick (93) so I was pretty happy," he said.

"I only started playing golf because my mates were all playing.

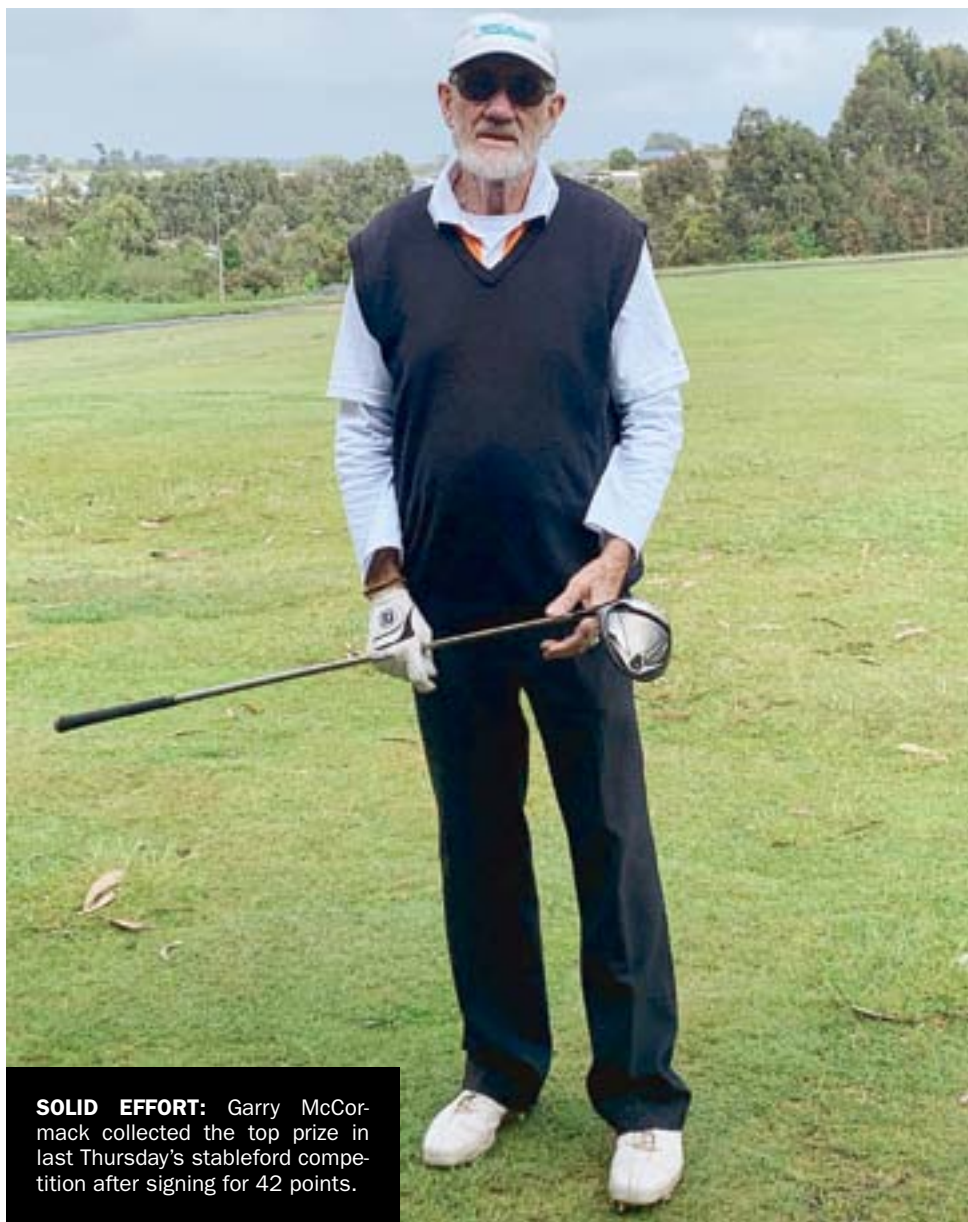

"I thought it would be boring but I'm enjoying it heaps ... although it can be very frustrating."

Not surprisingly their 49 points under the Best Ball format was good enough for victory, although a count-back was needed after Setio Prajogo-Shanahan and Ian Wilson finished on the same score.

To highlight how good the scores were, a count-back was also needed for third place, recent Saturday par round winner Nicholas Morony and Matthew Buetti getting the nod ahead of David Pick and Jon Clayton after both pairs managed 48 points.

Meanwhile Garry McCormack collected the top prize in last Thursday's stableford competition after signing for 42 points.

Playing off an 11-handicap, he shot 38 off the stick on the front nine thanks to five pars, a birdie on the par-three sixth hole and bogeys on the second, third and seventh.

SOLID EFFORT: Garry McCormack collected the top prize in last Thursday's stableford competition after signing for 42 points.

He followed that with another 21 points on the back thanks to a 39 off the stick from four more pars, four bogeys and a birdie on the par-four 12th hole.

His 42 points saw him finish two clear of Ross Bond and Prajogo-Shanahan, Bond taking second place on a count-back.

The seven-handicapper had an excellent

75 (37/38) off the stick, while Prajogo-Shanahan shot a brilliant 70 off his two handicap.

Birdies on the first, second, fourth and 11th holes, combined with an eagle three on the par-five 15th were the highlights of the round, but a frustrating double bogey on the 12th and a bogey on 13 proved costly.

The Attamurra layout will feature a change of pace on Sunday with the club to host its first Short Course competition which is certain to prompt plenty of discussion and no doubt, excuses as well.

BACK IN ACTION: Squash action returns to Millicent this month.

Sport continues in Millicent

THE Millicent Squash Club will commence its 41st year of squash competition this month.

Last year threw up plenty of challenges, with the spring pennant successfully completed after the cancellation of summer pennant due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The break in competition was not a total loss, with the club receiving a grant from the Wattle Range Council to allow the upgrade of lights on the five courts.

The new LED lights ensure the venue is above the current World Squash Federation specifications for court illumination.

The upcoming summer pennant commences on Monday, February 15 and new players are welcome.

All age groups or levels, from beginners to experienced players are catered for.

New intending pennant players can practice for free.

Those interested in trying the sport can head to the club's Facebook page or email at millicentsquash@gmail.com, or phone Ron on 0407 262 728.

Consistency wins the day

WINDY conditions greeted 36 women for a stableford competition last week at the Mount Gambier Golf Club.

Despite the breeze the scoring was consistent for a large number of golfers who registered good scores.

Playing off a 17 handicap, Carol Davis won the day with a commendable score of 37 points, which equated to 89 off the stick.

Davis had a score of 23 points on the front nine and carded three four-pointers, which contributed to her win.

Only two points behind was enthusiastic golfer Lorraine Bruhn, with 35 points.

Bruhn had an even card, with 17 points on the front and 18 on the back.

One point further adrift was the evergreen Marie Douglas with 34 points, made up evenly by 17 points on the front and back 9.

Eight balls were handed out to the players with 34-32 points.

The second shot on the 17th hole was won by A Grade's Kerry Pedlar, B Grade's Heather Teakle and C Grade's Gail Stephenson.

An excited Julie Hanel won three balls for a great shot into the eighth green to win the nearest to pin.

Saturday's round saw a field of 21 in another stableford event.

Helping her good score were seven three-pointers.

One point behind was Yvonne Shirley, who had a consistent card with 18 points on the front and 19 on the back, including six three-pointers.

Newcomer from the Kingston Golf Club, Kathryn Ewer has become more familiar with the course and had 36 points.

She recorded 16 points on the front nine and 20 on the back, which included six three-pointers.

Receiving a ball in the run down were Ewer, Helen Gregory, Kerry Pedlar, Jennifer Van Rijthoven, Helen McIntyre, Christine Morrison, Vicky Clark and Jan Shanahan.

Speciality Event winners for the day were Gregory with a great shot on the eighth hole, while nearest to pin on the 16th went to Pedlar.

Bay sailors back on the water

THE Port McDonnell Sailing Club hit the water again on Saturday for races 10 and 11 of the season.

The competition was tight, with six boats contesting the day.

In the first race line honours went to Freycinet, followed by Imagine, with Farrmer in third.

Final results saw Farrmer take the honours, from Freycinet, with Papillon third, while on class handicap and club handicap Papillon was first, ahead of Freycinet and Salt Peter.

In the second race line honours went to Imagine, from Freycinet and Farrmer.

Final results went to Papillon, from Farrmer and Salt Peter.

Class handicap and club handicap saw Papillon first, from Salt Peter and Easy Going.

Some good seamanship and tight racing was shown by all with a solid first day back.

In both races only about 12 minutes separated the entire fleet, which kept time keepers Mary Evans and Jenifer Ferguson busy on the course set by Rex Clarke.

David Carlyle kept everybody in check on the rescue boat.

TIGHT COMPETITION: Freycinet and Imagine in close quarters during Saturday's racing at the Port MacDonnell Sailing Club.

Roos struggling for runs on opening day

TREVOR JACKSON
trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

WEST Gambier squandered its chances in Round 8 of the Hoggies Wines Barber Shield cricket season on Saturday, all out in the 44th over with just 116 runs on the board.

Hosts South Gambier won the toss at Scott Park - with Blue Lake Sports park still out of play - and sent the Roos into bat, which eventually paid dividends.

West looked set early, with openers Niall Easterbrook and Jack Geddes putting on 23 runs before it all went pear shaped.

Easterbrook was caught off Robert Drenthen for eight with the total at 23 and West never recovered from there.

With 31 on the board Geddes was gone for 10, lbw to Jakob Opie.

Two runs later Connor Prior was clean bowled by Drenthen for five and the procession of wickets continued.

Sam Willis faced 10 balls for his duck, while Justin deJong also failed to bother the scorers, both falling to Opie.

Richard Crute was caught off Drenthen for three, as was Sam Coxon, but for another duck.

At 7/73 West was in trouble and needed something special to post a competitive total.

Kyal Chapman joined forces with the set Jake Blackwell and the pair put on a further 24 runs before Chapman became another victim of Drenthen, with 16 next to his name.

Lachlan Brown was also unable to score and finally Blackwell fell agonisingly short of his half-century on 48.

Drenthen had done the damage, with figures of 6/34 off 17.1 overs, while Opie claimed three scalps.

With time to spare South headed out to bat but also struggled to find runs.

A solid 40-run opening stand between David Vine and Daniel Loupos threatened to break the game open but then Vine was clean bowled by Willis for 29.

Just eight runs later Loupos was run out by Willis and when Dave Somerfield went for a first-ball duck, South looked on shaky ground.

Josh Thompson and James Dunn steadied the ship somewhat, taking the score to 3/60 overnight after 33 overs.

Round 8 continues tomorrow with Day 2 of play.

IN FORM: South Gambier's Robert Drenthen was on target on Saturday as he claimed six wickets against West Gambier to tear apart the visitors' hopes of a decent score.

HANDY KNOCK: West Gambier's Jake Blackwell was the shining light for the Roos on Saturday when they faced South Gambier in Round 8 of Barber Shield cricket.

Visitors make hay

TREVOR JACKSON
trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

PENOLA travelled to Frew Park to face Mil Lel in Round 8 of the Hoggies Wines Barber Shield cricket season on Saturday and made a good fist of it with the bat in hand.

The home side won the toss and sent the visitors into bat, with a couple of early wickets looking ominous.

Jack Schulz was sent back to the shed, clean bowled by Nicholas Walters with the total at 20 and 17 of those next to his name.

Fellow opener Lewis March notched up a steady 12 runs off 54 balls before he was caught off Darcy Williamson but then Penola dug in.

Jack Mullan and Mark Smith came together and the runs began to flow.

Mullan played an anchor role, while Smith scored a little more freely on his way to a half-century.

The partnership was worth 88 when Smith fell to Mitchell Little for a well-crafted 55.

Three runs later Mullan was gone for 39, another victim of Little.

More double-figure scores followed as Penola continued to compile a competitive total, with Little and Walters breaking the partnerships on a regular basis.

Thomas Clayfield put together a quick-fire 19 off just 21 balls before he was caught off Little with the total at 156.

Raymondo Stanton was caught off Walters for 10, then Josh Doyle went lbw to the same bowler for just five.

Michael Waters held his nerve as the wickets began to fall and crafted a handy 30 runs off 46 deliveries, remaining not out at the end of the innings.

Penola was all out in the 72nd over for a decent 194 total.

Walters finished the day with figures of 5/44, while Little claimed 4/46.

Mil Lel then went into bat but with just five over remaining finished the day at 2/10, with both Tim McNerney and Josh Jantosh back in the shed.

Round 8 continues tomorrow with Day 2 of play.

Thrilling Tigers in form at home venue

TREVOR JACKSON
trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

NORTH Sportsman's showed some solid form with the bat in Round 8 of the Hoggies Wines Barber Shield cricket season on Saturday.

Day 1 of the top-of-the-table clash with ladder-leaders East Gambier saw the Tigers lose the toss and were sent into bat.

East hoped to take advantage of its bowling strength, which came into play with two early wickets.

Brad Robinson was caught by Ben Hentschke off the bowling of Alex Hentschke for just two runs with the score at only nine, while Brad Stafford went soon after for six with the total at 21.

Opener Jake Schutz then dug in with Elliott Fisher, taking the majority of the strike to compile a 30-run stand.

Fisher was caught behind off Emerson Marks for nine, which brought Nick McNerney to the crease.

He joined forces with Schutz and the pair put on 65 runs before the latter was stumped off the bowling of Liam Turley for 65.

Michael Johnston was run out soon after for three, then McNerney went for 44.

A pair of 16-run knocks to both Mitch Lewis and Declan Kenny kept the score ticking over but few others made runs.

North was all out after 78 overs for 173 runs.

Kev Thomson and Emerson Marks led the wicket takers with three scalps each.

Round 8 continues tomorrow with Day 2 of play.

ON TARGET: East Gambier's Kevin Thomson looks for a wicket against North Sportsman's on his way to three scalps.

Double for young rider

A LARGE turnout of 21 riders greeted the starter for a 20km handicap race along Caves Road as part of the Mount Gambier Cycling Club's summer series.

First to leave were Jami Buckley - fresh from his victory in the junior race - Louise Abraham and Jason Buckland.

They were given a generous seven minute gap to the next group and set about working together to try and make the most of their advantage.

The second group to leave consisted of Jen Buckland, Spek Peake and Michael Dethmore, with the larger groups still to come.

After 11 minutes had passed, Mike Bakker, Dave Delaland, Riley Hill and Harry Opperman were given the task of chasing down the earlier riders and a further minute later Bruce MacLaughlin, Naomi Feder, Paul Brooker, Phil Stasiw and John Cranwell set off in pursuit.

With 13 minutes already on the clock, Niel van Niekirk and Malcolm Tirabassi were allowed to begin the chase and after waiting 15 minutes from the start of the race, the scratch riders of Matthew Opperman, Rob Mann, Dave Bryant and Nick Kidman began their pursuit.

At the turnaround mark, Abraham, Buckley and Jason Buckland were still making use of their advantage, working well together to maintain healthy gaps to the chasing groups.

Peake, Jen Buckland and Dethmore were next to turn, still with about four minutes to make up to catch the leaders.

A large group was chasing behind, made up of the two main middle groups, still about 3km behind the leaders.

Approximately 500m further back the final two groups had joined and were methodically working to decrease the advantage further.

A slight tailwind after the turnaround saw some of the groups pile on the pace and some riders were not able to hold on.

Buckley and Abraham stuck to their task and were able to hold off the chasing packs until the finish line, with the former taking out his second win for the morning in a time of 41:55, while Buckley held on for second (43:16).

The scratch riders had caught and passed all others, passing Jason Buckland before the top of the final rise.

As they passed the crest, the sprint for the final spot on the podium began in earnest. Matthew Opperman held off the rest of the riders to claim fastest time honours (28:49) and third position for the race, closely followed once again by Bryant, with van Niekirk, Kidman, Mann and Tirabassi arriving close behind.

The next group to finish in a sprint was Hill, followed by Harry Opperman and Stasiw.

Jason Buckland finished close behind in 13th place, then MacLaughlin, Brooker, Peake, Cranwell, Bakker, Feder, Dethmore, Jen Buckland and Delaland.

Prior to the seniors, a junior race was held, with six young riders ranging in age from nine up to 13 greeting the starter for their 10km handicap race.

Kira Harpham, Emma van Niekirk and Eddie Buckland were first to leave, followed by Molly Opperman after a three minute gap.

Opperman had been penalised a minute after her race win the previous week and had only two minutes between her, Jami Buckley and Elmer Buckland chasing from the rear.

At the turnaround mark, Eddie Buckland was out in front, with Opperman catching Harpham.

FAMILY RIVALRY: Elmer Buckland sprints past Eddie Buckland to finish second in Mount Gambier Summer Series junior race on Sunday.

Van Niekirk had turned earlier, still building her confidence in racing and as the riders crested the final hill, Eddie Buckland was still in front, but the instructions to charge could be heard in the background.

With less than 300m to the finish, Eddie Buckland was swamped by Buckley, who went on to win and take fastest time (24:02 elapsed - 19:02 ride time).

Elmer Buckland sat up a little, as if considering letting his little brother finish in front of him but his competitive instincts got the better of him and he flashed across the line to finish second, relegating Eddie to third place.

Opperman finished in fourth place, followed by Harpham, who had made a welcome return to racing.

This week's race will have some different views as it will be held over a 25km distance along Attamurra/Mingbool Roads, beginning at 9:30am

Preparations take precedence

A SMATTERING of new archery equipment and changes to existing gear had the Blue Lake Archers testing and checking rather than in full competitive mode this week.

The Friday night indoor event was limited to a single round of the 30-arrow Australian 18-metre round after a prolonged practice session.

Before the indoor round commenced there was presentation which completed the awarding of medals from the recent tournament.

Garry Jacques was presented with his silver medal earned in the Veteran Male Compound bow division.

Jacques showed his form early in the match as he managed to destroy one of his own arrows in a "Robin Hood" incident.

Shooting on a single target face, the third arrow Jacques released impacted on one of his arrows already lodged in the centre of the target, smashing off the plastic nock and carving its way through the tail section of the alloy shaft, destroying the arrow.

Paul Freeman found the match was not going his way in the early stages but as the night wore on his consistency returned.

Freeman found himself only just short of catching Graham Lock, who had dominated the scoring throughout the contest.

Lock won the night by six points from Freeman.

At Corriedale Park on Sunday afternoon the calm conditions lent themselves to testing new set ups rather than push into a competition round.

Jake Clare put his new spectacularly coloured bow through its paces, while brother Kallen settled into a brand new release aid.

TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT: Garry Jacques points out the aftermath of his "Robin Hood" effort that destroyed one of his own arrows.

Over on the practice butt a new beginner archer spent the afternoon being coached in the basic techniques of stance, drawing the bow, aiming and releasing arrows.

Indoor archery continues at Blue Lake Gymnastics Club, Malseed Park tonight at 7.30pm, followed by outdoor archery at Corriedale Park 12.30pm Sunday.

Career best for small team

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

IT was a career defining result for the small Port MacDonnell Starks sprintcar team and driver Daniel Pestka in the recent Sprintcar Super Series.

The week of racing was conducted after the World Series Sprintcars season was cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

It included South Australian and Victorian drivers and teams and as such attracted some big names of the sport, which made the results even sweeter for the team.

Pestka - who joined the team this season - finished the week of racing on a high, second behind James McFadden in the series, first in the Tri Series and third in the final round at Whyalla, which doubled as the South Australian Sprintcar Title.

It was a welcome result for the Port MacDonnell team, with some mixed results over the six rounds but a finish in every A Main feature race on offer.

It all began at Avalon Speedway, where Pestka was on the back foot.

A 12th place in the A Main feature race did not help his cause, as McFadden chalked up his first win of the series.

In the Kings Challenge at the Borderline Speedway Pestka was on song.

A solid effort saw him finish the A Main feature in second place, several positions clear of McFadden to help close the margin.

Night one at Premier Speedway saw McFadden in fourth and Pestka down in 13th.

That result made it tough to remain in contention, but he found his form again on night two.

He started the A Main down in 17th place, but pushed hard through the feature to finish seventh and claim the hard charger award.

Bordertown was rained out, but the show moved onto Murray Bridge on Australia Day where again Pestka showed pace.

He began the A Main in second place behind Brad Kellar but could not hold off the charging McFadden and had to settle for second.

Heading into the final round at Whyalla, Pestka was right at the pointy end of the field and started the feature race in second behind McFadden and one spot clear of Matt Egel.

McFadden finished off the series in style on his way to the win and the SA title.

McFadden claimed the series honours with 900 points, while Pestka finished in second place with 828.

Marcus Dumesny rounded out the podium with 804.

It was a career high for car owner Jamie Stark, who was pleased with the overall effort of his new driver.

"It was a very good result," he said.

"We led the race in Whyalla for 15 laps then got into lapped traffic.

"We got through a couple at the back, then there was three in a bunch and we just happened to hit them at the wrong time.

"McFadden got us again but it was still a good result."

Stark said the team was simply chasing consistency, with the second place overall testament to that.

After 30 years in speedway Stark said the results are certainly a highlight of his own career.

"I am over the moon," he said.

"It is all working very well, we are getting on real well, we are racing good and having a good time.

"It is the best I have ever had it since I started speedway."

Stark noted the season had also been good for Pestka so far.

"Daniel had been stuck in a bit of a hole, so this has been good for him," Stark said.

"He is over the moon too.

"He has a smile from ear to ear.

"He doesn't have to worry about the car now - he knows he has a good car.

"Once he gets used to racing at the front his race-craft will improve, which should be good."

Stark hopes for more of that consistency as the team heads to Horsham this weekend for a 360 race, before it all winds up around Easter time.

Excitement builds for season opener

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

CONTINUED growth has been experienced by the Veolia Limestone Coast AFL Women's Football league, with the 2021 season to kick off this weekend.

Four games are set down for Round 1 on Sunday at Hatherleigh and Kongorong.

At Hatherleigh, Mundulla will face Kalangadoo at 11am, while Millicent takes on Kybybolite at 12.30pm

Over at Kongorong Casterton is up against Penola in the early game, with Kongorong to host South Gambier at 12.30pm.

North Gambier will have the first bye of the nine-round season, with semi-finals and a grand final day to follow the home-and-away fixtures.

League president Sarah Ottoson-Crossling said the opening round was much anticipated, after such a long time out of sport for many of the participants.

Last season was cut short due to COVID-19 restrictions, which makes this year even more important for the sport.

"I think after we had a lock down last year and our finals were cut short, as soon as things opened up again people were training," Ottoson-Crossling said.

"I think the clubs have been working hard to recruit to get everyone back on board and get fit again.

"A lot of people missed their winter seasons with whatever sport they played, so there is a fair bit of catching up to do with fitness."

The time off due to the coronavirus restrictions appears to have not affected the league, with extra players signed on and all teams experiencing good numbers.

"There has been a fair bit of recruiting going on, so I think it is going to be another step up this season," Ottoson-Crossling said.

"Everyone has good numbers - we haven't heard of anyone struggling which is fantastic."

Ottoson-Crossling said the way the season was set up would be beneficial for the players, with plenty of opportunity to play.

"It is a great season and something to look forward to," she said.

"It is going to be busy.

"It is a jam-packed couple of months."

The season moves around to various regions in the Limestone Coast and across to Casterton, which provides a chance to showcase the talent in the region.

"We will travel anywhere to play footy," Ottoson-Crossling said.

"We want more people to come and enjoy the game.

"There are a lot of Friday night games which is fantastic because that gets a few more people to come and watch.

"We are working hard and everyone is developing their skills.

"We still have a long way to go but each year there have been massive improvements, a bigger following and more girls are keen to get on board."

As a result of the growth in popularity, a short Under 16 competition is slated for March, with three rounds to provide the young players a chance to try the game or enjoy it in their own age group.

As for the opening round, Ottoson-Crossling expects a lot of excitement, with the girls keen to hit the ground running.

Solid effort in tough outing

MILLCENT Basketball Association sent two girls teams to the Portland tournament on the weekend, with both representing the region well.

The Under 14 competition saw a combined draw, with two pools played in Division 1 and Division 2.

In the first game Millicent defeated Hamilton 32-18 to show they would be a contender.

However, the second game brought the side back to earth with a 37-6 defeat at the hands of a tough Warrnambool outfit.

The girls bounced back in the third game with a 35-20 win over Portland to reach the semi-final against Terang, which they won 41-35.

They were then placed in the Division 1 grand final against Warrnambool and went down in a tough encounter 51-15 to finish runners-up.

Piper Paul showed plenty of ability around the basket, with top scores in most games.

The Under 16 girls also faced plenty of opposition.

They lost their first game against Portland 23-28 but then bounced back with a 31-26 victory over Hamilton.

Another victory came in the third game against Terang, 26-20, followed by a 36-14 win over Casterton.

The girls then faced Hamilton in the semi-final and in an intense contest went down 19-21.

The top scorer for weekend was Edie East-erby.

SOLID PERFORMANCE: The Millicent Under 16 girls reached the semi-finals of the Portland basketball tournament on the weekend.

RUNNERS-UP: The Under 14 Millicent girls finished runners-up in the Portland basketball tournament on the weekend.

Limestone Coast shooters make the grade

"We started in the American skeet discipline which is like club level and after doing that for a few years our coach Guy Yoannidis started teaching us how to do the ISSF, which is the Olympic standard.

"Making that transition was like starting again and you had to learn new skills.

"That was a huge step for me."

McKinnon currently lives at St Annes College in North Adelaide and is in her fourth year studying medicine, which throws up its own challenges.

"That has been a bit tricky but at the university I am lucky enough to be supported by their elite athlete program," she said.

"They give us exemptions, so if I am away travelling I might have longer to do an assessment or they might change an exam time for me so I can do my assessments and my competitions as well."

McKinnon said she was still not sure of the exact commitments at this stage, considering the squad was only announced a few days ago.

However, she was pleased just to have the chance.

"Everyone I train with in the Mount applied for it but it was just me and Doyle who were accepted," she said.

EXCITED: Mount Gambier shooter Doyle Yoannidis is excited about the chance to progress in his sport through the National Pathways Squad shotgun program.

"I wasn't really expecting it and I was very excited, for sure."

At 19 years of age Yoannidis was just as excited, despite his involvement with the sport over the years through his father.

"I think it will give me and Bridgette a lot more opportunity to shoot," he said.

"With the COVID situation we haven't been able to shoot too much, so hopefully Shooting Australia will give us a few more opportunities."

Yoannidis said he had been involved with the Shooting Australia discipline for around three years but admitted he had a long way to go in the sport.

"I am really only cracking the surface at the moment," he said.

"I have shot at a few nationals but no international events yet."

The opportunities through this new program should set Yoannidis on a course to follow his dream for which he has a desired outcome long term.

"It sounds stupid to say it but the Olympics would be an end goal for me," he said.

"It sounds unrealistic at the moment but with time it could be done."

Originally Yoannidis was not going to apply for the position with the national squad.

But he said with encouragement he did and was glad he made the decision.

"I put in an application because I was encouraged to and then Bridgette messaged me and asked if I got an email to say I was in," he said.

"I am excited about it.

"I know a lot of the shooters who made the top two squads.

"Hopefully shooting with them and being around them helps push me up a bit.

"Me and Bridgette have come up through this together ... she has had a few more opportunities with World Cups and stuff.

"It will be nice to go through this with her."

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS: Mount Gambier shooter Bridgette McKinnon is pleased to have been included in the National Pathways Squad for shotgun, with further opportunities to improve in her chosen sport.

Duo aims high

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

TWO Mount Gambier shooters have been named in a group of 54 athletes to make the Australia national Shooting Squad.

Bridgette McKinnon and Doyle Yoannidis were among the large contingent of up-and-coming shooters named in the three-tiered training structure.

Both were selected in the Pathways Squad for shotgun, which provides training to athletes who are considered capable of achieving national team selection based on their performances in domestic competition and demonstrated commitment to becoming a high-performance athlete.

McKinnon and Yoannidis were both surprised with their selections, although both have competed at high levels in recent years.

McKinnon said she was excited about the opportunity to train with the national coach and some of Australia's best competitors, which she hoped would improve her consistency.

"I hope to get a lot more consistent scores so I can compete at a high level consistently," she said.

"At the moment I will shoot one competition really well and the next one won't be as good.

"Even just competing against the other shooters at the Shooting Australia competitions really brings you up."

At just 22 years of age McKinnon has been competing for around six years, with international experience under her belt.

She said she began with local club competition, before her coach introduced her to the ISSF system, which she said improved her shooting greatly.

"I feel since I started I have come quite far," she said.
