Marina issues stack up

KINGSTON District Council will spend up to $750,000 per year - or 19.2pc of its annual rate revenue of $3.2m - on dredging works at the Cape Jaffa Marina to maintain the marine facility, a parliamentary committee has heard.

Kingston District Council chief executive Nat Traeger said issues at the marina, which was temporarily closed to mariners in 2018, was the result of "bad data, bad decision-making and lack of evidence around what would be good decision-making processes on a coastline".

Payment plea for 'dignity'

MEMBER for Mount Gambier Troy Bell has urged the State Liberals to lobby its Federal counterparts to permanently increase the JobSeeker payment to combat hundreds of residents being pushed into poverty.

The independent MP said Limestone Coast-based welfare agencies, including Lifeline South East, Salvation Army and ac.care had reported an increase in the number of people who are homeless and accessing services.

Bait ban push

A MOUNT Gambier family has called for a ban of a lethal poison used for controlling wild pests after the agonising death of two pets suspected to have ingested the pesticide.

After witnessing the beloved dogs Bear and Luna suffer their final hours withering in pain, the family - who asked not be named - believes the dogs died after eating poison laced in a meat-based bait.

The chemical sodium fluoroacetate, commonly known by its brand name of 1080, is used to kill introduced "pest animals" such as feral dogs, foxes, cats and rabbits.

While proponents of the bait say 1080 is essential to protect livestock and native animals being mauled by feral pests, the family want it banned, claiming baiting programs were dangerous and inhumane.

The incident allegedly occurred in Piccan-nine Ponds Conservation Park - a place the state's Environment Department said is annexed for conservation purposes with pets, including dogs, not permitted to enter.

But the family - which discovered more bait on the beach following the death of their dogs - said there was no formal signage from the South Australian side to warn of baiting in progress.

Dog death prompts bait plea

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

A MOUNT Gambier family has called for a ban of a lethal poison used for controlling wild pests after the agonising death of two pets suspected to have ingested the pesticide.

After witnessing the beloved dogs Bear and Luna suffer their final hours withering in pain, the family - who asked not be named - believes the dogs died after eating 1080 laced in a meat-based bait.

The chemical sodium fluoroacetate, commonly known by its brand name of 1080, is used to kill introduced "pest animals" such as feral dogs, foxes, cats and rabbits.

While proponents of the bait say 1080 is essential to protect livestock and native animals being mauled by feral pests, the family want it banned, claiming baiting programs were dangerous and inhumane.

Two weeks ago, the family noticed one of their two Border Collie x Kelpies acting irrationally while at their Mount Gambier property.

"We thought Bear had been bitten by a snake because he was screaming, yelping and vomiting, but we had a look around and we couldn't find anything," the family said.

"He was in agony, but the symptoms only lasted 10 minutes before he died.

"He used his last bit of life to get to his bonded mate Luna, where he died as my partner held him.

"We didn't even have time to get him to the vet because we didn't know what was going on."

Just three hours after the death of Bear, Luna started exhibiting similar symptoms, prompting the family to rush their beloved Border Collie cross Kelpie to the vet.

"She started screaming and started running around the backyard, her eyes were wide and started having a seizure," the family said.

"As soon as she arrived, Luna died on the vet floor, but the vet brought her back and kept on giving her medication to ease the pain.

"The vet asked if we wanted to get her stomach pumped and we said yes, but Luna was in such a fragile state - her heart rate was beating from 210bpm to 240bpm.

"We were told to go home and wait and at 8am, we got a call saying Luna had another seizure and due to its intensity and how weak her body was, she suffered a heart attack."

The family were told by the vet - who they claim initially suspected 1080 poisoning - Luna had died four times on the operating table.

Attempts to contact the treating vet were unsuccessful, with the company saying disclosure of information was against policy.

"The vet told us to keep an eye out for any evidence of 1080 because of the way Bear had died - the position, the arched back, the wide eyes and open mouth and how quickly rigour mortis had set in," the family said.

After returning to their home, the family

BAIT BAN CALL: A Mount Gambier family is calling for the ban of a poison used to kill feral animals after their two dogs, Luna and Bear, died as a result of a suspected poisoning.

found undigested pellets in a pool of vomit near Bear's bed.

"We thought Bear ate the bait, vomited and Luna ate part of his vomit and died as a result of secondary poisoning," the family said.

"We initially thought someone might have purposely baited the dogs, but we couldn't find any evidence.

"Earlier on in the day, my partner took Bear to the beach and after found out Luna had passed, we took a drive to Piccanninie Ponds to try and figure out if it was something down there.

"We found bait on the beach, just scattered everywhere and marked with bright pink flags.

"There were no visible signs from the South Australian side, the only sign that was up was facing the Victorian border and you could hardly see it from a distance."

But the state's Environment Department said as the area is annexed for conservation purposes pets, including dogs, are not permitted to enter and signs advising the public that dogs are not permitted within Piccanninie Ponds Conservation Park are in place.

A department spokesperson said the use of 1080 was preferred for fox control as it does not affect the native wildlife that are present within the area.

"Foxes are known to be in the area and are a widespread problem in the Limestone Coast causing destruction to our native wildlife, particularly nesting shorebirds including the threatened Hooded Plover, but also to primary producers," the spokesperson said.

"As required for fox baiting, legal specified warning signs that 1080 baiting is currently being undertaken are in place at all official entrances and continue to be displayed.

"Alternatives exist however they are more toxic to wildlife and remain toxic to dogs if not treated promptly."

While recognising the need to control introduced species such as fox, an RSPCA SA spokesperson argued the control methods should be as humane as possible, with available evidence on the effect of 1080 indicating it is not a humane poison.

The animal welfare organisation said a new type of lethal bait called PAPP, which causes a drop of haemoglobin levels leading to lethargy and weakness followed by loss of consciousness and death - has been approved for use for wild dog and fox control.

"Pets are unfortunately at risk because of their natural behaviour, consuming things they find," the spokesperson said.

"It is concerning to see the number of reports that come to us were people suspect their pet has eaten something poisonous, but they haven't taken them to a vet.

"Clearly that is not the case with the owners of these two dogs and we're appalled that these animals suffered and died in this way."

The RSPCA SA spokesperson urged pet owners to watch animals while walking to ensure dogs do not ingest something that is potentially harmful.

Coalition of Australians Against 1080 Poison co-founder Alex Vince said despite assurances there are stringent regulations for 1080 baiting programs, non-target animal deaths were not uncommon.

Mr Vince said the deaths of Luna and Bear are believed to be the second 1080-related fatality in the region, with more than 60 sheep found dead on a Bordertown property after a landholder failed to store a large drum of 1080-laced oats.

"Until Australia catches up with the rest of the world and prohibits the use of 1080 tragedies like these will continue to occur", he said.

BEACH BAIT: The state's Environment Department said dogs are not permitted to enter the coastal area in which Bear is believed to have ingested the bait.

"No amount of regulation or legislation can prevent them and nothing short of a ban is going to be good enough for the families who have lost loved ones to 1080 poison".

Australia is one of a handful of countries in the world that permits 1080 for baiting programs, along with New Zealand, Japan, Israel, Mexico and South Korea.

The odourless and tasteless poison is banned in most countries, including the United States, where it was outlawed in the early 1970s.

RAAF Anzac Day flyover secured

BRETT KENNEDY

brett.kennedy@tbwtoday.com.au

MOUNT Gambier has secured a Royal Australian Air Force flyover during the traditional street march, which will return along with a public dawn service following last year's COVID-19 restriction-affected formalities.

Mount Gambier Community RSL president Bob Sandow said a flyover request had been granted for April 25, with a military aircraft to fly over Commercial Street during the parade in a rare privilege for the community.

While the aircraft involved in the flyover will be a surprise on the day due to RAAF's resource management, Mr Sandow said organisers were delighted with the inclusion.

"We've not had a set flyover from the air force since I've been here," Mr Sandow said, praising Mount Gambier Aero Club members for their efforts in recent years.

"I just hope whatever comes is flying at 50 feet instead of 500."

The Australian Defence Force contribution adds to a week-long calendar of events to mark Anzac Day in the Limestone Coast, with Mr Sandow welcoming the return of traditional services following last year's altered program.

"There was always going to be something on Anzac Day this year," Mr Sandow said.

"I work with our local police force here and they do know we try to do the right thing and we insist people do the right thing," he said.

Mr Sandow said the public's cooperation at Remembrance Day had given the RSL branch the confidence to push ahead with Anzac Day planning.

While stricter measures remain in place at metropolitan ceremonies, Mr Sandow said all next of kin would be permitted to march on Anzac Day, while the community is invited to line Commercial Street to pay their respects.

With the Dawn Service at Vansittart Park scheduled for 6.10am, Mr Sandow also encouraged residents to mark the occasion in their own way, including standing at the end of their driveway - a sign of respect which grew in prominence last year due to COVID-19 restrictions.

"I liked what was done last year and I suspect there will be a few people who do that again," Mr Sandow said.

"I see it as a positive way to encourage the children to be involved.

"I also have a commitment as RSL president to do something for the veterans and for the community.

"While I'm president there will always be something."

Mr Sandow said the street march was an important and symbolic show of respect on Anzac Day.

"The march is the same as in years ago when people marched past a mate's coffin," Mr Sandow said.

"It is not there to wave and cheer, it is the solemn part," he said.

"The service at the end is there just as the service at the coffin was."

Reflecting on the importance of dates such as April 25 and November 11, Mr Sandow encouraged the community to take part in services or pay respects in their own way.

"I still maintain we walk on their shoulders - they did what they did to allow us to do what we do today," Mr Sandow said.

The recent issue of medallions to World War II veterans, marking 75 years since the conflict ended, has also helped connect the RSL with veterans.

"We thought once Charlie (Miller) passed we had three World War II veterans left, now we have about seven," he said.

"A lot of these particular people are living in aged care homes and we don't see them, we don't know them"

Mr Sandow said around 200 people involved in modern conflicts - such as Iraq and Afghanistan - lived in the region and hoped more would connect with the RSL.

"We try and do what we can to support everyone within our budget," Mr Sandow said.

"When you consider three years ago we were a week from closing - we're still here."

The region's Anzac Day celebrations will also be boosted by a visit from Royal Australian Navy captain Matthew Richie, who manages the upkeep and updates of Collins Class Submarines.

Residents and visitors attending Anzac Day services across the region will be required to complete a COVID sign-in prior to entering the function.

People not prepared to abide by COVID restrictions are asked not to attend public services.

Drink-drive risk failed

LIMESTONE Coast police nabbed eight drink drivers across the Easter weekend, which remained fatality free for the region. A targeted safety campaign leading into the four-day period was largely heeded by the community, with police resources bolstered to manage the holiday influx.

Among those detected over the weekend included a 66-year-old Henley Beach South man on Good Friday, stopped at a driver testing site at Beachport where he recorded a blood alcohol reading of 0.124.

Around five hours later at 1am on April 3, a 26-year-old Naracoorte man recorded a blood alcohol reading of 0.035 at Robe, breaching his probationary driver's licence. A 39-year-old Kingston Park woman visiting Robe and a 23-year-old woman in Mount Gambier were also stopped and tested on Saturday, returning blood alcohol readings of 0.053 and 0.084 respectively.

Police stopped a 34-year-old Millicent man in Beachport around 1am on Sunday, April 4, with the rider given a expiation notice for riding an uninsured and unregistered motorcycle. He also produced a blood alcohol reading of a 0.068 and was reported for drink driving. Later that day at 9.30pm police stopped a 20-year-old Mil Lel man on Wehl Street North, Mount Gambier, with the driver recording a blood alcohol reading of 0.109.

About half an hour later, police responded to reports of an alleged drunk driver in a vehicle on Penola Road, Mount Gambier. A 43 year old Mount Gambier man provided a blood alcohol reading of 0.181.

Penalties varied from expiation notices to immediate loss of licence and 28-day vehicle impoundment.

Book explores cost of frontline service

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

AS a founding member of the 9th Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment, former Mount Gambier resident Mick Bawden deployed to South Vietnam as part of Australia's commitment to the Vietnam War in 1968.

Mr Bawden's training as a professional army officer had instilled in him a strong sense of duty and when deployed, was keen to test his training in combat.

However, like many other veterans of the Vietnam War and other conflicts involving Australians, the experience had a prolonged impact on his life and the life of his wife Mardi.

Author and veteran Max Carmichael has released a new book detailing the Bawden's post-war experiences titled 'The Cost of Duty', which aims to critique social and political attitudes to military and first responder injuries.

Mr Carmichael said the book aimed to remind the community of the physical and mental issues faced by servicemen and women, as well as all other first responders, in carrying out their duty and the impact those costs have on their families.

"I am a veteran myself, having served two tours to East Timor and one in Bougainville all under the UN flag," he said.

"In comparison to many my active service was fairly quiet, however as I argue in the book, it involved a personal cost.

"I realised all duty involve a cost, but members of the military and other first responders often pay a greater cost, even if that cost does not involve being wounded or injured.

"Sadly many civilians either ignore this fact or simply forget it except perhaps on special occasions such as Anzac Day, politicians on the other hand often deliberately choose to ignore this cost.

"They are only too happy to send folk in harms way, but are rarely prepared to deal with the aftermath of their decisions."

Mr Carmichael said Vietnam veterans were treated particularly poorly by society on their return to civilian life and believed he could best highlight the cost of duty by following the experience of a returned soldier and his family.

"I have known Mick and Mardi Bawden for many years, having met Mick when I joined the Citizen Military Forces - today's Army Reserve - in Mount Gambier in 1965," he said.

"I was aware Mick has had some difficult dealing with his wartime experiences and as a result, I approached him for permission to tell his story.

"At first he was reluctant, then agreed, then after a short time withdrew his consent as he found the process too upsetting. "Some months later he contacted me again and asked if I could recommence.

"I am sure if was a painful process for both Mick and Mardi, but the book has now been completed.

"I have chosen to highlight the experiences of the Bawden's as I believe they are typical of those who have paid, and are still paying, the cost of duty."

The battalion served a year-long tour of duty based out of Nui Dat, conducting operations mainly in the Phuoc Tuy Province as part of the 1st Australian Task Force.

Their first major operation, Operation

Goodwood, was undertaken in response to the increasing presence of Viet Cong forces in the province.

Over the course of the tour, the battalion undertook eleven major operations that lasted roughly a month each.

The battalion remained in South Vietnam until November 1969.

Sadly, 35 members were killed and another 150 were wounded.

South Australian singer-songwriter and honorary member of the 9th Battalion Royal Australian Regiment John Schumann said the book was an important piece of work.

"All of us must remember the price our veterans and their families pay," he said.

"Lest we forget."

The book will be launched at the Mount Gambier RSL on Saturday, April 24 at 3pm.

$750k coastal costs detailed

RAQUEL MUSTILLO
raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

KINGSTON District Council will spend up to $750,000 per year - or 19.2pc of its annual rate revenue of $3.2m - on dredging works at the Cape Jaffa Marina to maintain the marine facility, a parliamentary committee has heard.

The seaside council detailed its significant issues at the Cape Jaffa Marina, Wyomi Beach, Maria Creek and the Kingston Jetty to members of the Environment, Resources and Development Committee at a hearing in Mount Gambier on Wednesday.

Kingston District Council chief executive Nat Traeger said issues at the marina, which was temporarily closed to mariners in 2018, was the result of "bad data, bad decision-making and lack of evidence around what would be good decision-making processes on a coastline".

"There were some instances where there should have been sand management over many years, but it was just neglected," she said.

"What the result of that is, is a marina that is silted up and closed to mariners.

"We eventually got it open but... the sheer challenge of keeping that particular marina open, which is home to a commercial fishing fleet, is very, very onerous on the council."

In 2019, council co-contributed $1.5m for a dredge to be used at the marina, which was developed in partnership with a private developer and includes a residential subdivision.

"We are spending anywhere between $700,000 to $750,000 a year just to operate the dredge to see that open...three quarters of a million dollars is a lot in a $3.9m rate revenue," Ms Traeger said.

"After owning the dredge for two years, we have finally got it out to the western beach.

"Even then, it is out there and operating like it should, it is still operating at a cost of three quarters of a million dollars and it will for some time until we have got that particular marina back to a sustainable position after dealing with that form of neglect and poor decision-making around coastal impacts and coastal environments and data."

Ms Traeger said the councils coastal issues were further exacerbated by sand and seagrass build up at the Maria Creek boat launching facility, which has been closed to recreational fishers for almost two years.

She said reinstating the marine facility was estimated to cost $7.6m in addition to $720,000 in ongoing operational costs.

"Add $720,000 a year in the cost of ongoing operational costs to the cost of dredging at Cape Jaffa, you're already up to $1.5m and you're already at a large proportion of your rate revenue without taking stock of any other normal local government function that needs to happen," she said.

MAJOR COST: Kingston District Council chief executive Nat Traeger says operational costs at the Maria Creek boat ramp and the Cape Jaffa Maria will be $1.5m - almost half of council's rate revenue - if both facilities remain operational.

"Our long-term financial plan without Maria Creek was not expecting us to return to a surplus for some four or five years."

The council chief said elected members had adopted an in principle position not to proceed with the reinstatement of the boat ramp after an independent report found rate revenue would need to increase by up to 19pc to fund the project.

Council has undertaken a ratepayer survey to determine community support for the facility and to help elected members in the final decision-making process.

The results will be tabled at Kingston District Council's upcoming monthly meeting.

Ms Traeger said the removal of the groyne was estimated to cost up to $2.4m, with further investigation needed to be undertaken to mitigate environmental impacts such as flooding.

She also raised concerns with the State Government-owned Kingston Jetty, saying council was "having trouble trying to comprehend why we should spend money on that when it does not own it". "In 2016... the repair bill on that was $2m," she said.

"We are currently trying to do a gap analysis between 2016 and now to find out what that new repair bill is going to be.

"The damage on this jetty with the sand inundation and the way it is dilapidated is an eyesore."

Ms Traeger called on the State Government and the Coast Protection Board to consider long-term funding pathways as opposed to annual grant funding processes, saying it would provide councils with security and confidence to incorporate significant projects and the potential of co-contributions into strategic funding.

Keith hospital thrown lifeline

MACKILLOP MP Nick McBride has welcomed a State Government funding agreement of $3m over two years for the Keith District Hospital, but says the uncertainty of the facility's long-term future will be of a concern to the community.

The hospital will be supported until December 2022, with the State Government providing $1.5m to the facility each year.

Health Minister Stephen Wade said the funding, which comes in addition to more than $3.5m to support the hospital since 2018, will support the hospital's board transition to a new model of services.

An additional $200,000 in funding is also being provided to engage a project lead to support the development of a Health Care Hub model, working with the Commonwealth and State Governments to strengthen sustainability of services in the area.

But Mr McBride said the expiry of the funding and development of a new service model will be a concern for both the hospital board and the community who "won't know where they will be after the two years".

"The Keith District Hospital board and the community will welcome the offer that has been made by the minister, which has been three years in the making," he said.

"The board and the community will hopefully take the opportunity to use the facility and hopefully it can operate in a way that SA Health looks favourably at whatever hospital model may be suggested after the two-year funding has ended.

"It will be interesting to see how the Keith District Hospital board and the Limestone Coast Lower Health Network investigate what services and facilities will be at the hospital after this period."

In a statement, Mr Wade said the government was committed to working with the management of the privately-run Keith Hospital to provide the best long-term health care.

"The Marshall Liberal Government made a commitment to deliver better health care, closer to home, for regional South Australians and we are delivering on that promise," he said.

"The Limestone Coast Local Health Network will continue to support the Keith Hospital board as they work through the provision of health care for Keith and the surrounding districts."

Limestone Coast Local Health Network chair Grant King said the funding commitment will provide greater certainty for the community as they work to develop a longer term model of care.

Murderer jailed for 34 years

A KALANGADOO man drank at least a carton of beer before getting in an argument with his teenage son and shooting the 19-year-old and his son's girlfriend dead, a court has heard.

Pawel Klosowski, 46, was sentenced to at least 34 years in jail for the murder of Lukasz Klosowski and his son's girlfriend Chelsea Ireland in August last year at his Mount McIntyre property.

In sentencing, Justice Anne Bampton told the Adelaide Supreme Court Klosowski's contact with his son was irregular following the divorce from his mother in 2012, with Lukasz telling friends he did not talk to his father much and he "got angry easily and drank a lot".

Justice Bampton said in the months prior to the shooting, Lukasz noticed his father wanted to build a relationship and arranged to visit with his girlfriend on the weekend of August 21.

"Prior to visiting you, Chelsea told friends that she did not want to go but she wanted to be there to support Lukasz," she said.

"She told a friend that you were always drunk and you would argue with and make fun of Lukasz which would upset him."

The day after the pair's arrival, Klosowski started to drink beer at 9.30am and after drinking about six beers at his stepson's morning football game, he purchased a carton of beer on the way home.

Klosowski's wife purchased another carton of beer later in the afternoon and the defendant's request on the way home.

In the evening, Lukasz told the defendant he was considering moving out of his mother's home to live with friends, to which Klosowski "badgered Lukasz to talk about moving out, which caused him to become upset."

Chelsea exchanged messages with a friend at 10.46pm describing the evening has having "turned to shit", adding "Lukasz is literally crying in front of him and he has nothing to say and he keeps bringing money into everything".

Chelsea said she also started crying and Klosowski's wife told her "that this happens every single week, if it's not about Lukasz it's about one of the other kids."

Klosowski told the pair to leave the property, with Lukasz saying "f—k this" prompting the defendant to physically assault his son and his girlfriend.

"Your wife and Chelsea went into the spare room where Lukasz was on his back on the bed with his hands up in front of his chest," Justice Bampton said.

"Your stepson could hear Chelsea saying 'Stop, stop, this is your son'."

"As you went to leave the room Chelsea swore at you... you stormed over to her, pushed her on the bed and held yourself over her."

"You then got off the bed stating 'f—k this, where's my gun?'"

Klosowski's wife followed him to the gun safe and pleaded with him not to get a gun before returning upstairs telling her two children to get out of the house and hide.

"As Lukasz appeared at the top of the stairs your wife saw you raise the gun and fire a shot at him from the base of the staircase," Justice Bampton said.

"You moved up the stairs firing a second shot at close range, striking Lukasz in the upper right-hand side of his chest."

At 11.21pm, Chelsea contacted 000 and told the operator she had sought refuge in a locked bathroom and "you were trying to shoot them".

Klosowski reloaded the gun and fired at the door to gain entry into the bathroom, before firing a second shot striking Chelsea in the back of her shoulder.

Police arrived at the property at 12.10am and found Klosowski's wife hiding with her two children while the defendant was seated on the couch in the lounge room with the gun on his lap.

A court psychiatrist said Klosowski - who was estimated to have a blood alcohol level of .22 at the time of the offence - qualified for a diagnosis of alcohol use disorder, and said the large amount of alcohol the defendant consumed was a "much more prominent cause" for offending behaviour.

Justice Bampton said Klosowski reported suffering "a few head injuries and being involved in two high-speed motor vehicle accidents" and started experiencing seizures from the age of 30.

She said a psychologist determined the offending behaviour was related to a combination of background personality, relationship issues along with intoxication, situational frustration and an underlying frontal lobe impairment and intermittent explosive disorder.

"In your anger and intoxication, while your 15-year-old stepson, your 11-year-old stepdaughter and their mother hid, you pursued your son and having shot and killed him, you pursued Chelsea and shot her dead," Justice Bampton said.

"The circumstances of your offending are at the higher end of seriousness for the offence of murder."

"A substantial non-parole period is necessary as you have committed two separate offences of murder involving the use of a firearm against two young people who presented no threat to you."

Klosowski will be 80 before he is eligible to apply for parole.

Ex-Bordertown man convicted of rape

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

A FORMER Bordertown man who broke into a house while on a "drug bender" and raped a woman while she was sleeping has been jailed for at least 12 years.

Michael Paul Benfell, 26, appeared in the Adelaide District Court in March for sentencing after he was found guilty of two counts of rape and one count of aggravated serious trespass.

The court heard in the early hours of April 10, 2018, Benfell entered the home of a Parkside share house through an unlocked door and waited in the unlit lounge area until the victim went to bed.

Sometime later, Benfell entered the bedroom of the victim - who was not known to him - while she was asleep and sexually assaulted her.

"At all times the lights were off in the bedroom and... the room was dark," Judge Paul Slattery said.

"The victim was still rousing from a very deep sleep and on her then level of comprehension she thought that you were [her boyfriend]."

Judge Slattery said there were further acts of rape, with the victim initially thinking it was her partner.

According to Judge Slattery, the victim realised Benfell was not her boyfriend due to certain conduct during the offending.

"The victim then knew it was not [her boyfriend] as he would never act in that manner," Judge Slattery said.

"As she reached for the light switch you yelled 'Don't'... you grabbed her arm forcibly, you threw her onto the bed."

"In the light, the victim first saw you, a man she had never seen before."

The court heard the victim identified Benfell from an identification kit of a series of photographs shown to her by police, with Judge Slattery saying "she had never seen you or spoken to you before".

Benfell's DNA was linked to the crime scene from a stain located on the clothing of the victim and was arrested two days after the offence.

Police searched Benfell's address and located and seized a number of items, including a one-way ticket to Melbourne departing on April 18.

Judge Slattery said Benfell attended four different primary schools - including in Bordertown - as a result of his mother's lifestyle of frequent relocation.

He said Benfell's life "went downhill" following the breakdown of a long-term relationship and the defendant "turned to drugs".

The judge said on the day of the offence, Benfell - who was on parole - missed a meeting with his parole board officer and went to the beach, with defence counsel submitting he had used ice and had been drinking at a hotel.

"Your counsel submits that on the night in question you were under the influence of alcohol and the ingestion of methylamphetamine," Judge Slattery said.

"He said you were on some sort of drug bender."

Judge Slattery said after the offence, the victim slept with a knife on her bedside table and suffered from acute post-traumatic stress which greatly affected her personal and professional life and has since moved to live interstate.

"I think it is impossible to completely describe the terror, pain, humiliation or effect that has followed as a result of your action," he said.

"You violated the sanctity and safety of the home of these women."

"Your actions were premeditated."

"Your offending has caused irreparable pain, particularly to the victim and also those present that night and those close to them."

Benfell was given a head sentence of 15 years jail with a non-parole period of 12 years.

"You read an apology to the court," Judge Slattery said.

"In that apology, you said that it was not until you heard the victim impact statements that you realised the harm and pain that you had caused."

"After you read your apology to the court, your counsel submitted that the version of events of what happened that night that you gave in evidence in the trial was concocted."

"In those circumstance, I have given such weight to your apology as I think appropriate."

BRETT KENNEDY

brett.kennedy@tbwtoday.com.au

ROGER Davis still recalls walking onto the Jubilee Highway timber mill for the first time 50 years ago as a long-haired, skinny kid looking to work alongside his father and brother.

Manual production and lax safety procedures were far more common in 1971, with Mr Davis recalling how he made it through more than half of day one without being approached by anyone questioning his presence.

Fast-forward five decades and Mr Davis is treasured by the now-OneFortyOne managed sawmill for his expertise and site knowledge, having worked across the entire site throughout his career and in recent years serving as kilns manager.

With his retirement looming, Mr Davis was given the honour of recently switching on the first of two new Continuous Drying Kilns (CDK) at the site, which will replace the existing old batch kilns with more efficient and environmentally conscious biomass fuelled system.

The $16m two-stage investment has been hindered by COVID-19 complications, including key staff unable to leave New Zealand to progress the upgrade, which was originally due for completion in March last year.

With construction of the second kiln set for completion by Christmas, OFO Jubilee Sawmill general manager Paul Hartung said CDK technology was considered state-of-the-art as the kilns produce higher-grade timber, with less energy and downtime.

"As the name suggests, the Continuous Drying Kilns operate nonstop, moving product through continuously and maintaining ideal temperature," Mr Hartung said.

"The efficient design is powered by biomass, using sawdust and wood waste, and shares heat between two chambers with no need to turn the kiln off.

"There's no cooling down and reheating like in the old batch kilns - meaning more product processed with less energy."

The batch kilns operated at temperatures in excess of 160 degrees and took around eight hours to process timber, an aggressive process according to Mr Hartung.

Recalling how he worked on kiln technology dating back to the 1950s during his career, Mr Davis said the latest technology made a significant difference for operators.

"With the batch kilns there is a lot more manual operation from the kiln operators," Mr Davis said.

"Whereas this (CDK) kiln is basically just load the timber on the in-feed and it works its way through."

Mr Davis was given the honour of starting the new kiln on March 30, joined by his wife Carol and children Craig and Nicole for the honour.

"I'm glad I've stayed on because I just wanted to see this kiln going," Mr Davis said.

The first kiln has the capacity to dry 240,000 cubic metres of timber per year, with capacity to double once the second kiln is commissioned. The retired batch kilns operated for 10 years, with a total drying time of 332,000 hours and produced four million cubic metres of dried timber.

The CDKs are energy neutral as they are fuelled by biomass, sawdust and wood waste.

Regional towns in tourism award hunt

TWO Limestone Coast towns have been shortlisted in the inaugural South Australian Top Tourism Town awards.

Mount Gambier and Robe are among the 32 towns that have achieved finalist status as part of the Tourism Industry Council South Australia's new program.

The program is designed to recognise both well-established and emerging towns in South Australia that deliver strong visitor experiences and are committed to growing visitation.

Community members can choose from nominations to vote for their favourite location, which will account for around 70pc of the award.

Voters will have the opportunity to win a family weekend getaway at one of 12 council-owned caravan in a cabin valued at over $500.

Visit ticsa.com.au/industry-programs/sa-top-tourism-town/ to vote.

Voting closes on April 23 and program winners will be announced on May 20.

Bat virus warning

PEOPLE heading outdoors are urged to avoid any contact with bats after two recent exposures in South Australia last month were confirmed to have involved bats carrying Australian Bat Lyssavirus.

Health and Wellbeing Department Communicable Disease Control Branch director Dr Louise Flood said the latest exposures were the third time in South Australia that the virus had been confirmed in bats, with the first instance detected in 2012.

"Australian Bat Lyssavirus is a rabies-like disease that can be transmitted to humans if they are bitten or scratched by an infected bat and if treatment is delayed until after the onset of symptoms, the condition is invariably fatal," Dr Flood said.

"While only one per cent of bats usually carry Australian Bat Lyssavirus, these two recent exposures are concerning and is an important reminder that bats should only ever be handled by appropriately trained and vaccinated animal handlers.

"While the development of Australian Bat Lyssavirus from bat bites or scratches can be prevented through prompt wound management and post exposure prophylaxis, it is important to avoid contact in the first place."

Primary Industries and Regions South Australia chief veterinary officer Dr Mary Carr said exposure to Australian Bat Lyssavirus from bats was a concern for animals as well as humans and pet owners should ensure animals avoid contact with bats.

"If you notice bats around your home, ensure your animal is physically separated from them by either relocating the pet either indoors or elsewhere until the bat is gone," she said.

"If you suspect your animal has been either bitten or scratched by a bat please contact your local vet or the Emergency Animal Disease hotline on 1800 675 888."

Individuals who are bitten, scratched or come into contact with bat saliva should clean the area with soap and water for at least five minutes, apply an antiseptic and contact a doctor.

Bank SA to leave Port MacDonnell

PORT MacDonnell will soon be left with a sole bank agency after Bank SA announced it will withdraw services from the coastal town next month.

At this week's council meeting, Grant District chief executive Darry Whicker said staff received notification last month advising Bank SA agency services will end on May 11.

In a letter to council, Bank SA regional general manager Shayne Manuel said BankSA the existing dial up network technology used for agency services will be switched off in June, with the financial institution ending its agency network.

Mr Whicker said the decision to close was based on the low number of transactions that are processed through agencies across the state, in addition to outdated network technology that is not viable to upgrade given approximately 48 customers are using the agency on a regular basis.

"Statewide currently there are 35 [Bank SA] agencies which is down from a previous network representation of 107 agencies at their peak," Mr Whicker said.

"Due to the declining reliance on these agencies and the shift towards alternate arrangements such as Australia Post and other delivery electronic channels, Bank SA will not continue to operate an agency network."

"Bank SA will contact their clients that will be impacted by this decision to promote the various options that are available to minimise the impact of this closure.

"This decision will most likely have a greater impact on the local business operators in Port MacDonnell and on the school banking from Allendale East Area School that were regular users of the agency service."

Council has provided agency services on behalf of Bank SA, ANZ and Bendigo Banks in Port MacDonnell for more than 20 years.

In 2016, ANZ withdrew the agency services at the Port Macdonnell Community Complex, leaving Bank SA and Bendigo Bank with a presence in the town.

Councillor Megan Dukalskis expressed her disappointment at the decision, saying the move was "just a cost cutting measure disguised as a technology issue".

Push to let them play

AN article in the April 2 edition of The Border Watch ignited debate on the masthead's Facebook page regarding a new ruling not allowing female players to play in men's competitions in the Limestone Coast Football Association.

It's an open comp and a women's comp, I still don't understand why this has happened especially under the banner of equality.

Tommy

If they are capable, skilled, have the ability and are aware of the risks like every other player playing, What's the issue? The league needs teams on the pitch not less teams.

Peter

I grew up playing in the boys league before there was a girls and let's be real some of us have different talent levels to other players, we know our risk of playing in the men's league, but that's why we are there - for the challenge. I understand there's women's football but some of us need more to be able to push ourselves and some teams like this need the numbers. They didn't have issues with it before the female league started so why bother making it an issue now.

Nikki

I have no problem with girls playing in boy leagues, however, I do have a problem if a girl plays every week and the boys sit in the side lines because the girl is better and has had more playtime in the first place. That is something I don't agree with. If you have enough boys in the boys team they should go before the girls.

Ingrid

Omg. Grow up and allow them to play. 1. It will show whomever may be watching it's ok for boys and girls to play on the same team at the same time. 2. It'll set a precedent that gender should never be an issue. 3. It'll make teams have more chances of being formed in such small communities where they struggle to sometimes fill a team.

Rozzi

If the girls/women are good enough let them play in the men's competition. "Little Johnny" sitting on the sidelines so a girl can play is crap. It's happening in the men's comp now, players sitting on the bench week in, week out so junior boys can play up to three matches on a Sunday. The senior men pay senior fees and can only play up to two games each week but the juniors pay junior fees but can play up to three games on match day. The system has to be fair for all so everyone gets to play on the park. I'm all for promoting juniors but not at the cost of seniors missing out. The same players every week sitting and twiddling their thumbs.

Let the girls play in the men's comp to help the smaller clubs field sides. Without this the smaller clubs will fold.

JO

Men's competition and women's competition, easy.

Jonathon

Why change something that has never been a problem? Let women play both. Simple as that.

John

With all this gender hype going on now and you can be whatever and whoever you like it is pretty obvious the best player's need to be selected. I can't wait to see men playing netball.

Dwayne

Battle of the binge

MOIRA NEAGLE

now here's a thought

I DON'T think I knew the word 'binge' until I was quite a few decades in age.

Now, it is even a proper noun on which you can, you guessed it, binge!

Growing up, I don't think we binged on anything.

I remember going to a neighbour's place to pick peas and she said that we could eat as many as we liked.

This was an extraordinary suggestion.

I can't recall how many I ate, probably not that many because I was so stunned by the concept of eating as many as I wanted.

I would have been too guilty to over in-

Being raised as a Catholic, we were constantly bound to do the opposite.

I just text my elder brother and asked him if he had ever binged on anything.

He is far more the 21st century adult; "Beer," was his immediate response.

The word is defined as "a period of excessive indulgence in an activity, especially eating, drinking, or taking drugs."

Clearly that requires updating.

Going on a bit of a shopping spree, I can own.

My husband would probably say that I have an addiction to buying clothes, so, if that fits into the updated definition, I am guilty.

Infrequently, I do binge on a television series.

Some years ago, I watched 30 episodes of 'The Bureau,' all in French.

My knowledge of the language was no better at the end of that binge which is unfortunate.

I was too busy reading the subtitles.

I should know more Danish than the word, 'tak' after the numerous episodes of 'Borgen' I have watched; but I don't.

Binge-watching is a relatively new behavioural phenomenon, which is defined as watching between two and six episodes of a TV show in one sitting.

I've watched 15 so far this weekend!

Make that 27 episodes!

Lionesses roar into Lions

THE Lions Club of Blue Lake City Lionesses had dual cause for celebration at its recent charter dinner, with long-serving member Gayle Green receiving one of the Lions' highest honours for her 20 years of service.

More than 80 guests including Lions district governor Norm Summerville, Barker MP Tony Pasin, Member for Mount Gambier Troy Bell and Mount Gambier City Council mayor Lynette Martin attended the evening event to celebrate the inauguration of the new club.

Lions members from across the Limestone Coast and as far as Victor Harbor witnessed the historic event, with Lions Club of Mount Gambier president Allen Woodham OAM presenting the group with the club charter.

Recent changes by Lions International by-laws propelled the service club to become Lions Clubs ahead of the cessation of the Lioness program at the end of June 2021.

Members had the option to continue as a Lions Club or operate as an auxiliary association, with members overwhelmingly supportive of transferring to a Lions Club.

Former Lioness Club of Mount Gambier president Beryl Mahoney was inaugurated as the first president of the new club and was joined by 22 members.

"The charter is a very important document in Lions and when it is presented to a group, it allows you to continue on as a Lions club," she said.

"The only thing that is really chaining is the name.

"Instead of being called the Lioness Club, we are now called the Lions Club of Blue Lake City Lionesses, and we have kept Lionesses in to honour our past. "Everything will stay the same, we will still deliver our library books to the housebound, we will still be involved in Sunset Kitchen, raffles and major fundraising events that we have done in the past."

Ms Mahoney said members reflected on the clubs' four decades of service and celebrated the achievements of Gayle Green, who has been a member of the service club for 21 years.

"Gayle Green was awarded the James D Richardson award, which is one of the highest awards given to Lions and Lionesses in Australia, for her 21 years of service," Ms Mahoney said.

"She volunteers with the Look Good, Feel Better program and has been very generous in opening her garden to the public as part of open garden fundraisers."

HIGH HONOUR: Long-time Lioness Gayle Green is congratulated on receiving a James D Richardson award for 21 years of service from charter president Beryl Mahoney at the clubs' recent charter dinner.

Ms Mahoney said the new club hoped to recruit more members to continue to deliver the broad range of community service and fundraising events.

"We will probably have a event later this year for people who want to come along and find out what is involved in Lions," she said.

"Our new club has not had a meeting as such since we became a Lions Club, but we have a few catering options to consider as we move forward and we continue to do our library books delivery."

Alert time

STATE fire authorities are urging Limestone Coast residents to change their smoke alarm batteries, a live-saving habit encouraged annually as daylight savings ends.

Statistics show nearly half of all significant house fires in South Australia involve homes where smoke alarms had been disabled, or the batteries had gone flat.

The Metropolitan Fire Service and Country Fire Service are urging the community to act given their firefighters respond to hundreds of house fires across the state each year that cause destruction and heartache.

“With an average of 64 Australians dying in preventable house fires each year and up to 2000 people receiving burns, changing smoke alarm batteries is the best way to give you and your family early warning to evacuate safely,” MFS community engagement officer Angelo Mastripolito said.

“If you have elderly family or neighbours living alone, offer to help them out by fitting new batteries for them,” he said.

Residents are also asked to check the age of their smoke alarm, which is printed on or inside the alarm.

If the date stamp shows the device is 10 years or older, it should be replaced as alarms become less reliable with age.

Licence loss

DRIVERS believed to have killed another as a result of negligent, reckless or dangerous driving will instantly lose their licence under new laws passed in parliament.

Under the new laws, an individual who is charged with causing death by dangerous driving or is reasonably believed to have committed the offence will have their license suspended or disqualified immediately.

Attorney-General Vickie Chapman said the reforms will ensure action can be taken at the scene and the sanction would only be lifted in exceptional circumstances.

She said the suspension or disqualification will remain in place until the charge itself has been resolved.

“An individual who has had their licence suspended or disqualified can appeal to the courts for a reversal of the decision,” Ms Chapman said.

“However, community safety will be one of the paramount considerations when such an appeal is lodged.”

The government is preparing necessary changes to the regulations to allow the law to come into effect, with a commencement date yet to be announced.

HERE TO HELP: SES Mount Gambier and District crew member Jonathan Basford has rekindled a passion for volunteering.

SES issues ‘join’ call

brett.kennedy@tbwtoday.com.au

FROM mitigating the impacts of extreme weather events to supporting road crash or rescue operations, no week is the same for Limestone Coast State Emergency Service volunteers.

The group of around 110 trained individuals, spanning from Bordertown to the southern coast and west to Kingston, is currently looking to expand with residents urged to consider joining as volunteers.

SES South East district officer Brad Flew said the organisation's diversity was not just reflected in its roles and tasks, but in its volunteers.

“We have a broad range of people from tradespeople to white collar workers, stay at home parents, and it is a really diverse group age-wise from retirees through to people fresh out of high school,” Mr Flew said.

Mat Tye joined the volunteer agency in 1994 as a 16-year-old cadet, and was last year appointed Mount Gambier and District unit manager.

“Over time the training has changed and progressed, much like the SES itself - it has come a long way from where it started,” Mr Tye said.

“The new national accreditation you receive from training is a good thing for members to be involved in,” he said.

At the other end of the spectrum, Ben Lamb and Jonathan Basford have served the Mount Gambier unit for around 12 months, both relocating to the district within the last decade and subsequently searching for a way to give back.

“I’m originally from Queensland so it is a way to try and meet new people while helping the community as well,” Mr Lamb said.

“I was involved in a similar organisation when I lived in Adelaide and I started looking at the SES because I wanted that experience back - helping the community, helping save lives and being back out there,” Mr Basford said.

Mr Flew is hopeful a new batch of volunteers from across the region will step up to a new challenge, with the agency offering a myriad of pathways and training opportunities for volunteers.

In addition to being the control agency during extreme weather events - such as heat, storms and flooding - members can also service as road crash rescue responders, land search personnel, as well as communications operators and administrative and logistics support.

In addition to local operations, Limestone Coast SES crews have also been tasked nationally in times of emergency.

Most recently, a group of volunteers nominated to be sent to flood-ravaged New South Wales, arriving in Adelaide to be deployed, only to be told they were no longer required.

“You can really put your hand up and say this is the area I’m interested in and we can usually find a suitable role,” Mr Flew said.

“Smaller communities are typically harder to find volunteers because people are already contributing to other volunteer groups,” he said.

“We don’t expect our volunteers to answer every call, it is when they’re available.”

ANSWERING THE CALL: Ben Lamb has volunteered with the Mount Gambier and District SES unit for around 12 months.

Pictures: BRETT KENNEDY

Mr Flew while all volunteers were welcome, there was a need for people available during business hours to help when required.

The regional SES leader also called on Limestone Coast residents to prepare for the winter months now while the weather remained calm.

“During winter we see a fair bit of work, whether that’s trees down or on a house, to local flooding and blocked storm drains,” Mr Flew said.

“We are asking people to do that preventative maintenance now, such as clearing your gutters and making sure everything is in order on your property.”

NEW BOOK: Award-winning creators of the George the Farmer series Simone Kain and Ben Hood have released the tenth book in the educational agricultural series.

'George the Farmer' read

THE award-winning creators of popular children's character 'George the Farmer' have unveiled a new book to coincide with South Australia's record apple harvest.

'Hailstorm Heroes' is the 10th children's picture book released by Limestone Coast residents Simone Kain and Ben Hood since launching their educational agriculture-based brand in 2015.

The tale follows George the Farmer's children as they create the 'Hailstorm Heroes' marketing campaign at their school in order to help out local growers.

The books' star apple growers - Sid and Elizabeth - have been named after the children of Kalangadoo growers Glenn and Alicia Tucker.

Ms Kain said the book - which focuses on weather events, technology and food waste - was inspired by a 2017 Hort Innovation marketing campaign encouraging consumer to purchase blemished or bumpy apples. The campaign was developed in response to a severe hailstorm which impacted apple orchards across the Adelaide Hills and Limestone Coast, resulting in major losses for growers.

"The Hort Innovation campaign encouraged consumers to support growers and the economy by assuring them that the apples were still tasty despite some climate battle scars," Ms Kain said.

"We wanted to share a solutions-based, community-oriented story about the simple apple while also weaving in a food waste message and with Australians wasting 7.3m tonnes of food each year, it's an important message."

The book will be accompanied by a pad-dock to plate video as part of the Federally-funded $5m 'Kids to Farms' project, in collaboration with Primary Producers SA and Apples and Pears Australia.

Filmed in the Adelaide Hills and set for release in early August, the video will be supported with a Virtual Reality (VR) experience and complimentary curriculum-aligned educators guide for Foundation to Year 4 students.

Resources on chickpeas, forestry and dairy will also be available, with most of the video and Virtual Reality resources being filmed in the Limestone Coast.

"We are proud to be showcasing local produce and growers to a national audience," Ms Kain said.

"The positive responses that we continue to receive from parents, teachers and kids really does make us so excited for the future of George the Farmer - there are so many stories that we can share."

Shire cash grants spend

HALL upgrades, community events and junior development pathways are all beneficiaries of a $98,000 Glenelg Shire Council cash injection.

Council's latest community grants program has supported 54 community not-for-profit groups and organisations, including Dartmoor Football Netball Club, which has received $5000 towards a new ticket booth.

Casterton Scout Group also received $5000 for roof upgrades to its facility, while Heywood Golf Club received $1000 to purchase junior golf equipment.

The Leadership Great South Coast Group has received $1000 towards its Indigenous War Memorial Mural Project, while $800 has been allocated to the Nelson Committee of Management to replace history signage.

Glenelg Shire Mayor Anita Rank said the grants could be the difference to hard-working volunteers realising their project goals.

"Whilst their fundraising efforts are ongoing, these funds provide security to turn plans into a reality," Cr Rank said.

"Importantly, all money delivered through our grants program will be injected straight back into the local economy to support our local community groups, businesses and tradespeople."

LEARNING FUN: Grant High School Year 12 child studies student Shelby Ryan works with Imogen Lepley, 2, at the Mount Gambier Marketplace Kid's Club.

In practice: Students take on a Kid's Club

GRANT High School child studies students are putting theory into practice through a monthly community Kid's Club at Mount Gambier Marketplace.

The Year 12 class will oversee the children's entertainment initiative throughout 2021, providing arts and crafts, storytime, dancing and other play-based activities to keep children entertained and allowing parents to shop or relax.

Shelby Ryan was among eight students helping to deliver the second club event - held on the last Wednesday of each month - relishing the chance to put weeks of classroom preparation into practice.

"I just love getting to know the kids and learn about them as they grow," Shelby said.

"All the parents and kids really get involved.

"We've done a lot of research about activities for kids and how it helps their fine and gross motor skill development."

Grant High School teacher Kirby McPherson said the public community event allowed the subject's 27 students, broken into groups of eight on a monthly rotation, to connect their study into the real world.

"It helps students to get comfortable working with children and also working with parents," Ms McPherson said.

Mount Gambier Marketplace marketing manager Paula Creasey said after COVID-19 disrupted the centre's 2020 children's and community activities, she approached Grant High School to form a partnership to deliver the Kid's Club.

"Kirby and the school jumped at the opportunity and saw the Kid's Club as a valuable way for the students to gain practical experience with children," Ms Creasey said.

"Kirby and her students have done an amazing job, both in planning activities to keep the children busy and entertained, and in hosting the event, engaging with the children and ensuring they are happy and looked after," she said.

"It's fantastic to have activities back in the centre, the Kid's Club creates a great atmosphere, allows us to engage with our customers and the community and the benefits flow on to our retailers with many of the parents staying on at the centre to spend some time shopping or grabbing a bite to eat in the food court after the event."

The Mount Gambier Marketplace will host a number of activities in the school holidays, including Mr Bumbles the Clown's Interactive Magic Show on April 21-22 with two shows each day (10am and 12pm).

Visit the Mount Gambier Marketplace Facebook page for more information on the Kid's Club, including how to book a spot.

Road law quiz reveals concerns

A MAJORITY of motorists do not know when they need to keep left on a multi-lane road, a Royal Automobile Association of South Australia (RAA) road rules quiz has revealed.

Many of the 2800-plus quiz participants also struggled with rules regarding roundabouts, merging, traffic lights and parking, findings of the multiple-choice online survey found.

The results show 58pc incorrectly answered the question 'when do you need to keep left on a multi-lane road?' - the correct answer being when there is a keep left unless overtaking sign or the speed limit is above 80km per hour.

A slim majority (53pc) correctly answered a question about indicating when leaving a roundabout.

Meanwhile, just 56pc correctly said the closest you can park to an intersection without traffic lights was 10 metres, while only 59pc correctly answered that the minimum distance you should keep from the car in front of you when travelling at 60km/h is eight car lengths.

RAA safety and infrastructure senior manager Charles Mountain advised drivers to regularly brush up on road rules to help them become better motorists.

"Motorists can also forget rules, or pick up bad habits, so it's important all road users know what the rules are to avoid potentially causing confusion, traffic congestion, conflict or collisions," Mr Mountain said.

"All road users need to take responsibility to reduce road trauma."

Priorities for local health

GLENELG Shire residents are encouraged to identify health priorities for their community to help shape local government's response.

A new survey released by Glenelg Shire Council is asking residents what health topics need to be addressed over the next four years, such as healthy lifestyles, access to services, alcohol, tobacco and drug harm, family violence and disability support.

Community members are being invited to help identify the health priorities for the Glenelg. The survey forms part of the 2021-25 Glenelg Shire Municipal Public Health and Wellbeing Plan development.

Council will consider responses to develop a draft health plan, capturing community priorities.

Residents are encouraged to take the survey, which features just three questions, prior to the April 5 cut-off.

Visit the Your Say Glenelg website or a council customer service centre to complete a survey.

Does your business pack market punch?

BUSINESSES around the Limestone Coast are in for a treat with a visit this month from Damian Morgan, one of Australia's leading marketing experts.

Mr Morgan will host marketing workshops, sharing his valuable knowledge and experience with business owners to help them create high impact campaigns to drive business growth.

"The workshops will be practical, interactive and entertaining, but most of all, will provide attendees with strategies, ideas and a blueprint to creatively win new customers, further establish a brand and drive business growth," Mr Morgan said.

The internet has changed marketing forever, and Mr Morgan said far too many businesses were being left behind because their marketing is stuck in the past.

"Being great at what you do is only a good start in business, but the next step is convincing customers to buy from you," he said.

"I always say it costs the same to run a bad ad as it does to run a good one, but often we don't put enough time into making sure our messages are right.

"One of the biggest mistakes some small businesses make is they're the best-kept secret in town.

"You need to attract attention and get your slice of the pie - remember, if the pie's not getting bigger, then you need to get more of that pie. Too many small businesses lack sales because their marketing lacks impact."

With current 'shop local' campaigns around our districts, plus some reduced spending generally, Mr Morgan said these tough times were what can make or break businesses.

"Any business can make money in a boom, but when times are tougher, that's when great business models are forged," he said.

"If you have the opportunity to tweak your business model, it will help you through the tough times. There's always room to grow if you innovate."

Caravan park works delay

WATTLE Range Council chief executive Ben Gower says work is continuing on the reinstatement of the Southend-on-Sea Caravan Park and bush camping ground, but is unable to nominate a specific date for its reopening.

The reopening of the bush camping ground was initially slated for the summer holiday period, while the caravan park was expected to be reopened early January, but both were postponed due to “a number of unavoidable delays”.

Mr Gower said contractors and council staff had been working in readiness for the next stage of the reinstatement in recent weeks and hoped both sites would be open by mid-2021.

He said the new amenities block had been delivered to the caravan park and expected contractors to return onsite and start the next stage of the project.

“Work will now start on connecting the new amenities block to services, as well as the construction of some decking, access ramps and stairs to the amenities,” Mr Gower said.

“Resurfacing of the internal roadway and landscaping is also to be undertaken, whilst the bush camping site continues to benefit from further work, including vegetation management.

“It’s pleasing to see work progressing, but like everyone else, we’re certainly looking forward to the time when the gates are open and the campers and caravaners are enjoying the spectacular Southend coastal environment.

“As a result of the activities that still need to be undertaken, we’re not in a position to nominate a specific date, but we are working towards having the gates open mid-year.”

Families given hand to help stay together

FAMILIES with children at imminent risk of entering care will be supported to stay together in an innovative early intervention service.

Centacare will deliver RESTORE Intensive Family Services in Mount Gambier, with the four-year program intended to address complex challenges and reduce incidents of child abuse in families of children aged 0 to 18 years.

Under the $20.7m program, families will receive six-month in home and community-based supports, including a senior practitioner, case manager, clinical nurse, financial advocate, Aboriginal engagement worker and a “dads and fatherhood worker”.

Priority will be given to children of young parents aged 25 years or less, Aboriginal families, adolescents with complex trauma histories, and families of infants at high risk.

Clients will be referred under the Human Services Department’s Child and Family Support Services Triage Line and the department’s Child and Family Safety Pathway Hub, which is currently being established.

Children’s Services executive manager Leanne Haddad said RESTORE would build on the work of Centacare’s Targeted Intervention and Family Preservation services, which ended on March 31.

Ms Haddad said RESTORE was an evidence-informed model promotes strengthening and restoring parental capacity to improve family functioning.

“The practice wisdom and voices of the families we worked with inform part of the new service,” she said.

“The families we will be working with have often disengaged from primary and secondary services.

“RESTORE will engage and walk alongside families to bring services to their homes and build resilience in communities.”

AN influx of community donations will be used to provide the Mount Gambier district’s Country Fire Service (CFS) brigades with key tools used in emergency response situations.

The CFS Mount Gambier Group will spend more than $5000, comprised of community donations collected over the last 18 months, to purchase torches and electric drills for each brigade, as well as upgrade appliance lighting with LED technology.

Among the most recent donations presented to the district’s CFS was $1260 from the Easyriders Social Motorcycle Club’s Limestone Coast charity run, held March 20.

The event was more than a year in the making due to the COVID-19 pandemic, originally planned for early 2020 as part of an Australian-wide fundraiser supporting volunteer firefighters in the wake of the devastating 2019/20 summer bushfires.

With border restrictions between South Australia and Victoria easing, the Limestone Coast pushed ahead with planning for the event more than 12 months on, attracting 55 bikes and seven cars for the regional cruise.

Participants visited Tarpeena, Port MacDonnell and returned to Mount Gambier, where vehicles cruised down Commercial Street from White Avenue to Pick Avenue, finishing at the South Eastern Hotel.

“We were really happy with the turnout, it was fantastic,” Easyriders SMC South Australian president Mark O’Neill said.

“We had a social club visit from Victoria that stayed here just for the run.”

The $1260 was raised through entry fees and a raffle, with Mr O’Neill proud of the collection given the club only has 10 members locally.

“We just wanted to make sure the money we raised went locally,” Mr O’Neill said.

CFS Mount Gambier District operations captain Bob Davis said the funds would be used to purchase equipment not supplied by the volunteer organisation.

“The amount of funds organisations have donated to us over the last 12 to 18 months is greatly appreciated,” Mr Davis said.

Community chips in to support woodturners

THE Mount Gambier Woodturning Club will continue to chip away at its ‘pens for troops’ initiative thanks to generous support of a recent community raffle.

Hundreds of dollars were raised to support the club, which is one of several nationally handcrafting wooden pens to be sent to Australian Defence Force personnel.

Praising the community for its support, club president Peter Cunningham said the project was a great outlet for the club’s membership.

“We don’t get a lot of feedback but the people we have heard from are very thankful,” Mr Cunningham said.

“It indicates to them we care about what they are doing,” he said.

In addition to handcrafted pens, members also make various containers, plates, cups and other household items at the club’s Hastings Cunningham Reserve base.

With a broad range of materials and machines to work from, the club recently repurposed wood found in the cellar of the now-demolished Fidler and Webb site, believed to be over 100 years old.

Mr Cunningham said money raised from the recent raffle, drawn late last month, will be used to help fund materials, as well as administrative costs such as rent and power bills.

BACK IN TOWN: Lewis Major has gone from humble beginnings in the Limestone Coast to forging a career as a world-renowned contemporary dance choreographer. Picture: BRETT KENNEDY

Major talent on city stage

brett.kennedy@tbwtoday.com.au

SIR Robert Helpmann Theatre will forever hold special memories for globally-renowned contemporary dance choreographer Lewis Major.

The Limestone Coast - where Major grew up on a sheep farm - is far from his home in France yet the region has remained close to his heart throughout his decorated performing arts career, which has spanned six continents.

In recent weeks Major - who turned 33 on April 1 - has forged new memories at the Helpmann, a venue he considers the state's best with a stage he recalls experiencing his first spark of inspiration to pursue dance.

Major will lead his dance company of 15 performers in a double billed show featuring S/WORDS and Unfolding in the Blue Lake city on Saturday night, fresh off an Adelaide Festival premiere last month.

It is a special moment for Major who developed one of the works around two years ago at the Mount Gambier theatre, only for the COVID-19 pandemic to derail the planned April 2020 debut.

Even after 10 years of global performances and life abroad, regional Australia, and more specifically the Limestone Coast, has always been at Major's core.

A self-confessed "late bloomer" in the arts sphere, Major moved away from the region to an Adelaide boarding school aged 16, having previously attended Kangaroo Inn Area School, making a serious foray into dance at 18.

READY TO GO: S/WORDS is one of two Lewis Major works to hit the Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre stage this weekend. Picture: CHRIS HERZFELD

Over a decade later, Major has returned to Australia to further hone his craft and share his talent.

"Since returning to Australia I've always made it a focus to stop off in the regions, especially where I'm from," Major said.

"Originally we wanted to have community members in the show but it became a bit of a health and safety nightmare with COVID," he said.

Embedding his dance company in the Blue Lake city following the festival debut, Major said it had allowed the performers to get a sense for the community and what it wanted to see.

"I do keep saying that we will have Paris again but until then, we have Mount Gambier.

"We were able to premiere at Adelaide Festival, which is the biggest arts festival in the world at the moment, so it's pretty fun that we were doing that a few weeks ago and now we are here in the regions."

As for Saturday night's dual performances, Major said audiences could expect two very different pieces.

"At the premiere we had some people like the first but not the second and vice versa," Major said, adding it was a healthy response to contemporary dance.

Unfolding melds fluid dance with shifting 3D projection animation by creative coder Fausto Brusamolino and a score by James Brown to create an immersive journey that invites the audience to think about the concept of duality.

S/WORDS then follows a slap-dash tribe of performers coming to terms with the failures of a system that they once believed in: an apocalyptic, absurd vision of a collapsing world where language is no longer used to build trust and solidarity, but to destroy and divide.

The production has already garnered interest from the iconic Sydney Opera House and now New Zealand promoters, reflecting Major's reputation built up over many years.

Yet despite all of his success, it is the audience that remains a core focus for Major, who always strives to make art accessible to all.

This goal manifested at the recent Fringe Mount Gambier festival with a drive-in dance performance, a world-first concept that leant into retro nostalgia and placed art in a unique format.

"Art is supposed to be for people," Major said.

"The drive-in is an interesting concept and you can put anything in the drive-in - opera, musical theatre, dance, live music.

"I'm open to hear from people with ideas because we know how to do it now."

Major's double bill S/WORDS and Unfolding will be performed at Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre on April 10 from 7pm.

Grassroots support

COMMUNITY groups, organisations and individuals can now apply for the Limestone Coast Landscape Board's latest Grassroot Grant program.

Through a funding pool of $250,000, the board will strive to support innovative and exciting ideas on how to successfully manage the Limestone Coast landscape.

Board chair Penny Schulz said the Grassroots Grant program was an important element in the Landscape SA reform agenda, which ensures there is more funding opportunities for local communities dedicated to enhancing the region's landscape.

The 2020/21 funding stream supported 16 projects ranging from a trial of large-scale feral deer trapping, through to a cultural connection program at Millicent High School.

The Wine Grape Council of South Australia Incorporated was supported in its establishment of new demonstration sites in the Coonawarra region to showcase the use of native insectary plants in and around vineyards, while Beachport District Development Association Inc was awarded funding to develop a Spiny

Rush management program for Lake George.

Mount Gambier City Council received more than $30,000 through the inaugural funding round to undertake weed control measures in the vicinity of the Crater Lakes area in line with the Crater Lakes Conservation Management Plan.

Limestone Coast students are involved in the conservation and land managements activities around the Crater Lakes, including Millicent High School students who are learning cut and swab techniques to remove weed plants and small self-sown wild pines located along the slopes of the saddle.

Eight students involved in the Conservation and Land Management Pathways program are receiving hands-on training under the guidance of council's Valley Lakes Conservation Park coordinator Orazio Cultreri to complete the weeds and chemical handling component of the course.

"The focus of this program is to develop the student's awareness of the environment, flora and fauna, soil and weeds and Work Health and Safety," Mr Cultreri said.

"Given the majority of the weeds in the area are woody shrubs, the students will apply the cut and swab method of weed control using hand saws."

Students will also learn the importance of controlling feral weeds to protect the natural vegetation within the Crater Lakes.

"Controlling weeds around the conservation area is very important so it does not impact on the ecology of the conservation park," Mr Cultreri said.

"The weeds compete for light, water and soil nutrition and the woody weed plants/shrubs may impact on nesting behaviour of our native birds and impact food sources for our native animal."

Applications for the next Grassroot Grant funding round close April 19.

Visit www.landscape.sa.gov.au/lc to apply.

Agri sector revenue decline

SOUTH Australia's primary industries and agriculture revenue totalled $14.1b in revenue last financial year - down by 7.6pc from the previous final year - according to figures released in the Primary Industries Scorecard 2019/20.

The report, undertaken by Primary Industries and Regions South Australia said the main drivers were decreases in overall industry of wool (down 40pc), forestry (down 27pc), wine (down 13pc) and seafood (down 13pc).

Horticulture recorded 3pc growth, dairy was up by 4pc and field crops and livestock increased by less than 1pc.

While grain production was up by 12pc compared with the 2018/19 season to reach 6.5m tonnes, it was still 16pc below the five year average with most areas in the state producing below average yields.

Livestock sectors that recorded growth in revenue was beef, which increased by 22pc, and pork (up 16pc).

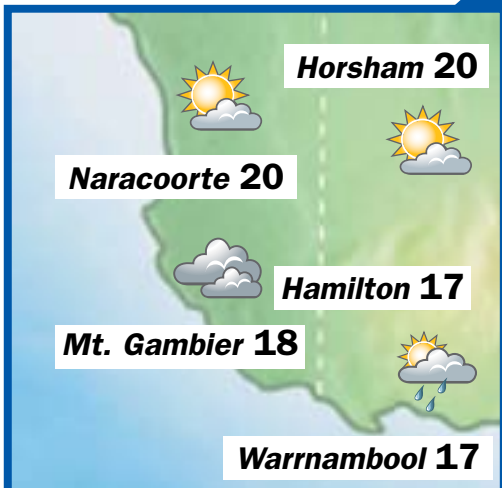

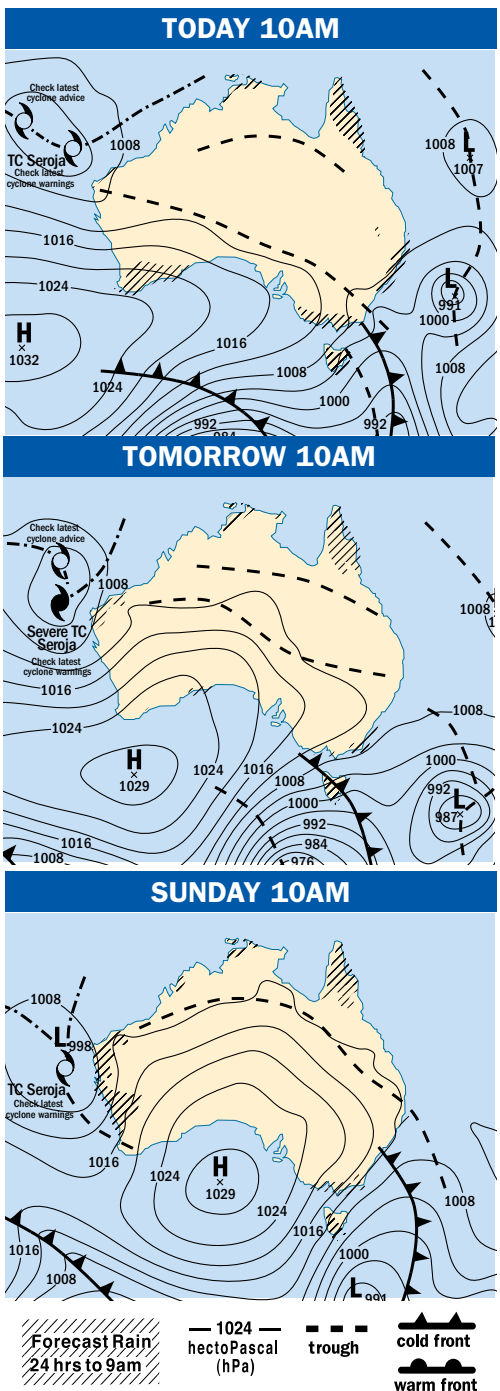

Seafood industry revenue fell by 13pc as a result of the decrease in exports of rock lobster, which fell by 18pc due to the China trade ban and as the pandemic hit during the peak export season.

Forestry revenue declined by 27pc from $2.2m to $1.6m mainly as a result of 24pc decline in sales and wood products.

According to the scorecard, the 2019/20 bushfires had an impact of $186m on primary production, with more than 15,000ha of forestry valued at $143m affected by statewide blazes.

More than 65,000 sheep valued at $14.4m, $9m of hay and fodder and $8.6m worth of viticulture was affected as a result of the bushfires.

The Primary Industries Scorecard includes the revenue, sales, exports and gross value production of primary industries sectors and associated processing such as field crops, livestock, horticulture, wine, seafood, dairy, forestry, wool, skins, seeds and animal feed.

Value unearthed in clover

THIS is the sixth installment in a series prepared by Gambier Seeds to feature in The Border Watch throughout 2021. The focus of these articles will be to help farmers optimise productivity from their pasture and forage bases. At Gambier Seeds we believe pastures and pasture renovation are an investment, not only in your farm production and profitability, but in its future.

CLOVER as a plant species has been used in the agricultural industry for hundreds of years, with a continuous focus over time on plant breeding improvements for such characteristics as seed set, disease resistance, flowering time, and ability to grow in different environmental parameters (pH and grazing tolerances).

As a part of a mixed pasture sward clover brings palatability, energy, and protein to the livestock diet through grazing and/or fodder production, as well as the ability to fix nitrogen when the compatible rhizobia is present.

In the Limestone Coast we have the capacity to grow many types of clover depending on the soil, fertility, water access and management.

Species such as Subterranean clover, Red clover, White Clover, Strawberry Clover and Annual type production clovers can be seeded to suit many situations, from annual fodder production crops, perennial pastures, and irrigation pastures.

Subterranean Clover (Sub Clover) varieties have a wide range of different maturities and attributes to add value to your pasture production system.

If managed well and allowed to set seed sub clover varieties have a great ability to regenerate in following seasons so are highly recommended in a perennial pasture blend.

The different maturities of sub clover in the pasture allows for variations in the growing season to counterbalance false breaks and early finishes.

White clovers are generally grown under irrigation or high rainfall "late country" and provides a highly palatable feed source.

Annual clovers can produce large volumes of feed through winter/spring and possibly early summer while being a beneficial break crop and fixing valuable nitrogen at the same time.

Legumes such as clover have an amazing symbiotic relationship with rhizobia: a type of soil bacteria that infect the legume plant roots to form nodules.

The rhizobia live in these nodules and can fix nitrogen gas (N<sub>2</sub>) from the atmosphere.

The plants provide the rhizobia with a nutrient and energy, a habitat and the rhizobia fix nitrogen which can be used by the plant and then other crops once the nodules break down and the nitrogen is released into the soil system.

Nitrogen Fixation by the legumes-rhizobia symbiosis is not apparent in all soils.

There is a requirement for the presence of a compatible and effective rhizobia population to allow for the nitrogen fixing nodules to grow.

When clover is sown it is not always into a soil that has the correct rhizobia existing there, thus the importance of introducing the correct rhizobia inoculant to the site.

There are nearly 40 different groups of rhizobia inoculants commercially available in Australia with differences between clover varieties too, making it important to select the correct inoculation group.

Even though clover has been grown throughout the region for a long time different parameters can affect the quantity of rhizobia in the soil, for example acidic soils (low pH) and diminishing legume density can reduce the efficacy.

FreshCoat is Gambier Seeds and Naracorte Seeds legume inoculation process, which uses a peat-based product to treat the seeds to ensure maximum rhizobia survival.

We inoculate the seed "on demand" so the inoculant is as fresh as possible for better establishment, more plants per square metre and ultimately more nitrogen produced by the legumes (clover) in the pasture.

This process encompasses rhizobia, lime, and seed conditioner, as well as a polymer compound to ensure the seed does not "bridge" while flowing through modern seeding drills.

Our active rhizobia count (CFU-Colony Formation units) are known to be one of the highest in the seed industry in Australia.

Inspection of the root system six weeks after germination will indicate the success of effective nodulation and long-term nitrogen fixation.

The Guide

TOP PICKS OF THE WEEK

SUNDAY
AVENGERS: AGE OF ULTRON
7MATE, 8.30pm

"Earth's mightiest heroes" Thor (Chris Hemsworth), Captain America (Chris Evans, left), Iron Man (Robert Downey Jr), The Hulk (Mark Ruffalo), Hawkeye (Jeremy Renner) and Black Widow (Scarlett Johansson) unite once again in this blockbuster addition to the Marvel comic-book movie collection. This offering goes soul-deep as they face Ultron (James Spader), a fierce, cunning and crazy villain with plans of world domination and cruelty.

FRIDAY
THE LIVING ROOM
WIN, 7.30pm

It's Friday night, and you don't know what to order. A serve of cooking nostalgia with chef Miguel (above)? Or how about a singing class? What about a de-clutter and reno with gentleman Barry Du Bois? Or perhaps you're after a spot of nature with the most clever mammal in the sea? Well, on Fridays you're in luck. We all know we get a little spoilt for choice watching The Living Room because the hosts love to pack so much in. Tonight, you can have it all. Barry helps a family of singers and improvisors hit the right note with their messy abode. Em Rusciano gives the hosts a singing lesson, while Chris Brown goes diving with dolphins and Miguel reinvents Ready Steady Cook. Enjoy.

SATURDAY
MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE - FALLOUT
NINE, 8.30pm

The Mission: Impossible franchise is one that keeps getting better with each film, and its sixth instalment is a thrilling, action-packed outing from start to finish. After Ethan Hunt's (Tom Cruise, below) decision to save his team results in stolen plutonium falling into the wrong hands, he must retrieve the material before it is used by a terrorist group and their leader. Joining regulars Simon Pegg, Ving Rhames and Rebecca Ferguson is Henry Cavill, who plays a CIA assassin tasked with monitoring the team. Loaded with incredible set pieces, gripping tension and an excellent cast, Fallout is a superior action movie for all audiences.

Tom Cruise stars in Mission: Impossible - Fallout

TUESDAY
OLD PEOPLE'S HOME FOR 4 YEAR OLDS
ABC TV, 8.30pm

This sweet and stirring series is just the salve for anyone feeling disillusioned by the world's problems. Following a group of senior citizens as they bond with an exuberant and curious bunch of four-year-olds, we witness the mental and health benefits for everyone involved – and it contains a lot of smiling. In the second instalment of this five-part series, the seniors and children go on a treasure hunt designed to help improve their memory. Fiona teaches the class a crab dance that the seniors will have to perform at the end-of-the-week treasure hunt. Meanwhile, a hesitant Maureen get a helping hand on a seaside stroll.

Climbing the Wall

With blocks become smaller and people increasing opting for townhouse and apartment living, vertical gardens are becoming a popular alternative to traditional garden beds and pots, which can encroach on valuable living space.

Vertical gardens or green walls work well in courtyards, small decks and balconies.

The benefits are numerous from carbon dioxide reduction and cooling ambient temperatures to their humidifying effect and their ability to capture toxic gases from deodorants, carpet, paint, furniture and building materials.

Green walls can also reduce noise, capture water run off and increase biodiversity.

Officer couple Neil and Kris Holmes recently installed vertical gardens in their alfresco living area and on an upstairs balcony.

The couple employed a professional horticulturalist to install 5 vertical gardens and are thrilled with the results.

The gardens are equipped with their own watering systems and the only maintenance needed is the occasional prune and a good dose of fertiliser once a year.

Neil said the vertical gardens soften the upstairs balcony and provide a striking contrast with the Corten screens and industrial feel of the exterior of their home.

The individual pots can be moved and rearranged to create different planting patterns. They are potted with a mix of cascading varieties as well as those that grow upwards and out.

Once vertical gardens are established (give them at least a year to take hold properly) they become very resilient and long living.

Your vertical garden can even become a source of food, with herbs particularly suited to pots and tubs.

According to choice.com.au simple plant pots stacked in frames or wire shelving that can create a standalone green partition wall are fine for individual herbs and edible plants, as well as flowering pot plants.

There are many tub type modular products on the market that hook onto a wall or into a supporting structure. Again, these often hold individual plants and each pot will require daily watering.

It is a good idea to invest in an automated irrigation system with a timer to ensure the plants never dry out. The amount of water needed depends on what you'll be growing – if it's an edible garden, you'll be fertilising and watering it a lot more.

Plants that work well in a vertical garden include:

- bromeliads
- fuschia
- agapanthus
- ferns
- anthuriums
- begonia
- callisia fragrans
- chlorophytum
- crassula
- impatiens
- peperomia
- plectranthus
- spathiphyllum
- tradescantia

Perfectly prickly fun

Isolation has given us all the time to take up inventive new hobbies, and one clever mum has put the time to good use from the comfort of her home.

Kelly has been creating cute mini planters for succulent cuttings as a creative outlet with her daughter.

Admitting that she's "no green thumb", Kelly said the idea was perfect for anyone to do.

Kelly said she was struck by the idea of something simple to do at home with her four-year-old daughter that was relatively cost free.

The pair uses old pots and recycled jars to house their succulent collection.

They then fill the base with good quality soil or potting mix and pop in some cuttings from the garden.

Kelly said the mini pots look great inside the house or in the garden, and as they start to grow, the new shoots can be clipped off to make more.

Plus, they can be easily adapted to individual tastes and spaces, and allow plenty of scope for the little ones to get creative.

You could use cuttings from your favourite flowers, for example, or easy-growing vegetables like spinach or lettuce.

With the addition of a few toys or garden figures, they can be turned into little fairy gardens.

If you want to get really crafty, pick up some clay from the local hardware or craft store and encourage the kids to make their own mythical creatures to sit in the bottom of their new gardens.

As many parents look for new ways to engage the kids in online learning, the mini pot plants could even form part of a lesson on science, biodiversity or art - far more stimulating than book work.

Weather superb for catches

FISHING

BEAUTIFUL conditions over the Easter break were a delight to both local fishos and holiday makers.

The sun was out, the wind was down and the sea was fairly calm which made for an extremely fishable few days.

The crew from Southerly Fishing Charters have made the most of the beautiful weather for their clients.

Over the last week they have done some bottom fishing over the shelf and landed some great blue eye, hapuka and gemfish, in closer at around 80-100m for gummy and school sharks and other mixed reef species, to in-shore reef fishing for sweep and snapper.

There are still no local tuna to report just yet, but a few of our boats headed to Portland over the weekend and had no trouble finding school fish at the back of the Julia Reef, or down on the north shore.

Rat kings are still mixed in with them too, so a great mixed bag is on offer for those willing to travel.

There have been whispers of barrels over that way too with some boats claiming to have seen fish jumping clean out of the water and another boat was spooled, but until one gets landed, we will never to 100pc sure.

The surf fishing over the Easter period was unbelievable.

Not only was the weather amazing but the weed stayed away and the fish turned up.

Plenty of crews went to the Coorong and I have seen some excellent fish already.

Caleb Mulraney and crew found some excellent shark upwards of 15kg and I have heard a few unconfirmed reports of mullet around the 50lb mark too.

I am yet to see any pictures but it would not surprise me in the slightest.

Locally we saw a few nice sharks hit the beach - from Discovery Bay at Nelson, through Piccininni, Paradise and Browns Bay, the fishing was fairly good for most.

Gummy shark to 10kg, salmon, elephant shark and mullet were all on the menu, along with plenty of rays, seven-gillers and other undesirables.

Garfishos have been stuck into some of those nice big red beakers this week while the wind has been down and they have been well spread out.

The usual hot spots such as Cape Douglas, Nene Valley and Livingstons Bay have all been good, as have other lesser fished areas such as the Port MacDonnell breakwater, Petrefied Forest and Hutt Bay.

There are still tommies and mullet around in the same spots, so do not be surprised if they turn up too.

The whiting fishing over the weekend was a little bit tougher than it has been in previous weeks, which can be put down to conditions being too good.

As most of us know the whiting love the milky and stirred up water, so when the sea is too flat for too long, it is just too clear.

That said though, they will still feed in deeper water or at dawn and dusk, so there was still a few nice fish landed by both the boaties and land-based anglers.

When the water is clear, there are a plenty of other species on offer for those who would usually target whiting.

You have sweep, garfish, tommy ruff and squid which are all up there as great whiting alternatives and are generally found around the same sort of areas.

PERFECT CATCH: Joe Unwin with a tasty river mullet.

REWARD FOR EFFORT: Caleb Mulraney with a nice Coorong shark.

The dawn and dusk sessions on the Port MacDonnell jetty have been fairly productive, from whiting and salmon trout, to squid and garfish, it fished quite well for most.

We saw some nice fish over the weekend from the Glenelg River this week.

One crew who were staying down at the River Vu Caravan Park in Nelson managed a few nice mullet on cut pilchard to 80cm down in the town ship itself, while some others had luck up at Taylors Straight, Hutchesons Landing and even a couple from as high up as Sapling Creek.

The bream have been well spread out again.

The estuary has been good, as have the rock walls heading up stream.

Estuary perch have been a little slower this week, but there has been the odd fish caught on plastics by the guys targeting bream.

Looking forward to the weekend and it looks like we are going to cop a pizzling, with 7.2 metres of sea forecast for Sunday morning and 25 knots of wind on top.

If you are going to the coast, it is gonong to be ugly.

Hopefully it is downgraded before then but we will have to wait and see.

Until next week, safe fishing.

Podium performance at grand prix shoot

A SMALL contingent of shooters from the South East Field and Game club recently attended the Australian Sporting Clays Grand Prix at Rocky Gully Sporting Clays near Murray Bridge.

In near perfect conditions, 200 targets were shot over two days and concluded with Limestone Coast competitor Jeremy Kent (192/200) needing to shoot off for third place with Adam Shale (Victoria).

Kent held his nerve in the shoot off to shoot 25/25 on some testing targets in the high-pressure situation to take third place overall.

The veterans category saw seasoned South East campaigners Ron Rhook and Malcolm Whitehead finish on the podium.

Rhook (185/200) recovered from a poor start in his shoot off with his old sparring partner Eddie Magee to take out first place.

Whitehead (175/200) claimed third place in veterans.

Bruce Oakley shot a personal best of 160/200 to claim third place in B Grade.

VETERANS PODIUM: Second place Eddie Magee, first place Ron Rhook, third place Malcolm Whitehead.

PRESSURE: Jeremy Kent concentrates during a shoot off to decide final placings at the Sporting Clays Australia Grand Prix shoot at Murray Bridge.

Juniors blitz the Icehouse

FINALS fever hit the Icehouse last week as the Mount Gambier junior summer season grand finals took place.

There was plenty of energy showcased in the Under 12 boys Blue final, as the top-placed Boomers took on the second-placed Wolves.

The teams played at a frenetic pace, using their dribbling and passing skills to create scoring opportunities.

The Wolves' Kobi Roulstone was impressive around the basket, piling on 23 points as he sliced his way through the Boomers defence.

Both teams put on a great display of basketball, with the Wolves claiming the honours a hard-fought contest.

Under 12 Boys Blue Division: Wolves 33 (K. Roulstone, L. Sampson, B. Russell) d Boomers 28 (W. Hoskings, D. Stephens, C. Carroll).

With four minutes to go in the Under 12 Boys gold Division final scores were locked away at 26 all.

Banjo Stephens and Lachie McCann scored on consecutive trips to give the Magic a four-point edge in the final minutes.

However, the ever-resilient Hunters never gave in and found a spark in Albert Peters to quickly work their way back into the lead.

The final minute was tense, with the Magic trying everything to regain the lead but it was the Hunters that would hold on for a memorable victory.

Under 12 Boys Gold Division: Hunters 36 (A. Peters, N. Gazzard, J. Humphries) d Magic 32 (L. McCann, B. Stephens, T. White).

Blazers made short work of their Under 14 Boys Blue Division final against Pistons, with a strong victory.

The Pistons caused the upset against the top-placed Giants to gain entry into the grand final and the Blazers took care of business against the Sixers in their semi-final.

For the Piston Angus Troebinger battled hard for his side to finish with 10 points but the Pistons struggled to contain Kobi Maxwell (17 points) and Ethan Bayley (10 points).

Under 14 Boys Blue Division: Blazers 42 (K. Maxwell, E. Bayley, S. Sampson) d Pistons 24 (A. Troebinger, T. Beimans, R. Lomas).

The Under 14 Boys Gold grand final had top-placed Kings taking on the third-placed Jets.

Both teams were locked away at 21-all at half time, with the Jets, behind the play of Angus Heesmans, effectively disrupting the play of the Kings.

Riley Ellis started the third quarter with back-to-back baskets to ignite a push from the Kings who took a five-point lead into the final term.

The Jets' Sam Baron worked hard to keep his side in touch in the final quarter but the Kings managed to push their lead out to double figures and held on for the win.

Under 14 Boys Gold Division: Kings 54 (R. Ellis, H. Croker, L. Allen) d Jets 43 (A. Heesmans, S. Baron, B. Noble).

It was a tight game between the Capitals and Storm in the Under 14 Girls Blue Division final.

UNDER 12 BOYS BLUE DIVISION PREMIERS: Wolves.

UNDER 12 GIRLS PREMIERS: Hot Shots.

UNDER 12 BOYS BLUE DIVISION RUNNERS-UP: Boomers.

The game was played with great spirit as the girls showcased their improvement in skills.

Sienna Henke and Molly Peacock were stars for the Capitals while Tahni Kemp had a great game for the Storm.

The Capitals claimed the honours but not without a fight.

Under 14 Girls Blue Division: Capitals 30 (S. Henke, M. Peacock, A. Cary) d Storm 27 (T. Kemp, Z. Cole, K. Cole).

Another tight contest played out in the Under 14 Girls Gold final between the Opals and the Lightning.

Both team picked up the other with full court pressure for the full 40 minutes of play.

Opals' Chloe Peacock capped off her impressive season with 16 points in the grand final.

It was the play of Ruby Mitchell which gave the Lightning the edge.

Her ability to rebound and gather loose balls made a huge difference for her side as her side crept home with a close win.

Under 14 Girls Gold Division: Lightning 38 (R. Mitchell, M. Collins, M. Human) d Opals 31 (C. Peacock, M. Anderson, C. Yelland).

The Sarah Ritter Hot Shots faced off with the Dan Collins Matildas in the Under 12 Girls Grand Final.

The Hot Shots got off to an early lead through their intense defence.

Emmy Jeffrey of the Hot Shots was everywhere on defence and between her and Lacey Hunter the Matilda's found it difficult to generate opportunities to score.

Grace Collins and Lila Pearson for the Matildas did their best to keep their side in the game by lifting their intensity and sharpening up their passing.

It was however the Hot Shots who had all the answers and ran away with the win.

UNDER 14 BOYS GOLD DIVISION RUNNERS-UP: Jets.

UNDER 14 BOYS BLUE DIVISION PREMIERS: Blazers.

UNDER 14 GIRLS BLUE DIVISION RUNNERS-UP: Storm.

UNDER 14 GIRLS BLUE PREMIERS: Capitals.

DAVID LEWIS

GREYHOUND RACING

ANOTHER greyhound to shake off her injury woes last Sunday was Galactic Athena, having only her sixth start since last winning on August 6 at Tara Raceway when defeating Silent Jacko in the Tara Trackstar (512m).

Back in the boxes for the first time since January 31 and with connections' sights set firmly on this Sunday's Commercial Hotel Mount Gambier Cup heats (512m), she lined up in the eight in the AVM-D Easter Gift (512m) which comprised a handy field of open class greyhounds.

As it turned out, it was pretty much a case of litter sisters fighting out the race, Galactic Athena displaying great pace from the boxes and leading the pack around the first turn while Galactic Horizon was left to do the chasing.

But in the run home, Galactic Athena was much too good, running out a 4¾ lengths winner in 29.64 seconds over Galactic Horizon - both greyhounds owned by Robert Chuck of Moorak and trained at Worrolong by Steve Bartholomew.

Back in 1981, Bartholomew had handled Tara Topar, the inaugural Mount Gambier Cup winner, for his mother-in-law Joan Cruise.

Then, 38 years later, he handled his own winner - Galactic Athena who ran down Sling-shot Hammer to score a terrific win in a then race record 29.43 seconds.

At 19 months of age she was the youngest greyhound to win the cup.

Now, two years later, Chuck and Bartholomew are chasing further cup history as the daughter of Paddy Whacker and Galactic Rumball attempts to become the first winner of dual cups.

Sunset Milo, now in the Allendale East kennels of David Peckham, will be chasing consecutive cups after last August running down kennelmate Kipling in the Covid-interrupted 2020 Mount Gambier Cup.

By My Bro Fabio out of Jewel Action, Sunset Milo was trained by part-owner Tim Aloisi when winning the cup in a race record time of 29.42 seconds after having gone close to a track record in his heat the previous week.

Off the scene between September and December, the black dog has won four races since the cup, his last win at Cranbourne a month ago.

From a Mount Gambier Cup point of view there were a couple of other nice trials last Sunday - Night To Burn, trained at Hamilton by Kyle Goodwin, leading all the way in the Metal Worx Stake (512m) to defeat Crush You Enemy by 6¼ lengths in 29.64 seconds.

Koroit trainer Peter Keane's Hello Keen showed blistering early speed in the Bourne Kennels Stake (512m) when running out a four-lengths winner in 29.58 seconds over Perseverance who put in her best run for some time.

Heats of the 41st Mount Gambier Cup will be run on Sunday at Tara Raceway, Lake Terrace East, with the final conducted on Sunday, April 18.

Cup field taking shape

THE stage is set for a great afternoon of racing with the Mount Gambier Greyhound Racing Club conducting the final of the Group Listed Commercial Hotel Mount Gambier Cup (512 metres) on Sunday, April 18 at Tara Raceway on Lake Terrace East, Mount Gambier.

The Mount Gambier Cup final always attracts a strong field, with star locals going up against 'city' greyhounds racing at Angle Park travelling to the Limestone Coast as well as interstate raiders looking to get their slice of the $14,275 prizemoney on offer.

First run in 1981 at Glenburnie, the race continues to gain further prominence in the racing community after becoming a Group Listed event in 2018 with that year's event won by Xtreme Caution, trained by Brian Weis.

Other recent past winners include Mojito Mayhem in 2016, the speedy Fabregal, who was a Group finalist and winner of more than $200,000 in prizemoney in 2017 and Galactic Athena in 2019, the youngest greyhound to win the cup in just her seventh start, giving local trainer Steve Bartholomew a most memorable win.

Last year's event was held in August due to the COVID-19 outbreak, with Sunset Milo for Adelaide trainer Tim Aloisi taking the honours in a race record time of 29.42 seconds.

With this year's event returning to its traditional Autumn timeslot, Mount Gambier Greyhound Racing Club president Noel Perry said the club looked forward to crowds returning to the track to enjoy local greyhound racing's biggest day of the year.

"This is a race that is certainly steeped in tradition, with Tara Raceway actually taking its name from the Mount Gambier Cup's first winner, Tara Topar, who was raced by one of local greyhound racing's founding fathers in Newman McDonnell and trained by Joan Cruise.

"And we're delighted to this year welcome on board the Commercial Hotel as sponsors of the Mount Gambier Cup and Exchange Printers as the Mount Gambier Cup Consolation sponsors."

Entry to the event is free with gates opening at 11am.

There will be full catering, bar, TAB and bookmaker facilities and live music for patrons to enjoy as well as the club's playground to keep the kids entertained.

You can also catch the heats for the event this coming Sunday, April 11, which will also be a great day's racing.

Stepping stone to more cups

DAVID GILBERT

david.gilbert@tbwtoday.com.au

AN excellent staying performance to win last Sunday's $28,510 Penola Cup has set the scene for Cuban Toonite to tackle more country cups this autumn.

Cuban Toonite only joined the Sue and Jason Jaensch stable in mid 2020 from the Hayes/Dabernig establishment in Victoria and last Sunday was his first run in open company.

That gave the five-year-old gelding his third win from 13 starts for the Jaensch stable and plans are now being drawn up for him to tackle the Millicent Cup, also at Penola, on May 30.

Even a start in the Casterton cup a fortnight earlier (May 16) is now a possibility.

"I haven't looked at the Victorian racing calendar but I will now after that effort in the Penola Cup," Sue Jaensch said.

"The Penola Cup was always part of the plan as he is part owned by Michael Palm, a committeeman of the Penola club."

Both Cuban Toonite and runner-up Jester Halo made their runs from the tail of the field at the 800 metres and quickly rounded up the leaders at the top of the straight.

It was a great day for the Jaensch stable with three winners at Penola, a first for co-trainer Jason Jaensch who only got his trainer's ticket at the start of this current racing season.

Bullet Kid kick started the treble and it ended when the heavily backed Miss Mosh ($4.80-$3.20 fav.) stormed home to win the final event at her first run back from a four month spell.

"We were devastated when a skin rash went through the stable a while back and it virtually wiped out stable runners for three months, but all that is now behind us," Jaensch added.

For winning jockey apprentice Ben Price, it was his second Limestone coast cup success having piloted the Jaensch trained Von Costa Glass to win the Naracoorte cup in early February.

Price rode a double at Penola on Sunday to move into third spot on the jockey's premiership ladder (10 wins, all since January), in arrears of Jacob Opperman (21) and Sairyn Fawke (13).

FINALLY BROKE THE ICE

ALSO enjoying the delights of riding a double last Sunday was the Casterton based jockey Sonja Wiseman.

A relative newcomer to racegoers in this region, Wiseman arrived here around Christmas time from Queensland and the Northern Territory where she had ridden 319 winners.

"I rode for six years in northern Queensland, two in Darwin and another two in Rockhampton," Wiseman told The Border Watch earlier this week.

"I ride track work at Mount Gambier three

ON THE CUPS TRAIL: The former Hayes/Dabernig trained gelding Cuban Toonite has now won three races since joining the Sue and Jason Jaensch stable last year, and will be aimed at more country cups following his decisive win in the Penola Cup last Sunday.

times a week for most of the trainers there and trial horses for Peter Hardacre in western Victoria whenever the need arises."

Riding at some of the more remote tracks in Australia has resulted in Wiseman encountering all types of surfaces, whether they be grass, sand or dirt.

It has been a patience game for Wiseman to notch her first winner in these parts, as from 27 rides prior to Sunday she had notched six seconds and two thirds.

Her local duck was broken with a narrow victory aboard Blueberry Boy for Mount Gambier trainer Belinda O'Loughlin in the opening race.

She didn't have to wait long for her second winner, that coming in easier fashion just 35 minutes later when the Lee Creek trained Real Valentia led all the way in the 100 metre maiden.

O'Loughlin also completed a winning double for the day when Runbro defied running down in the concluding stages of the 1700 metre BM 58 handicap.

Wiseman's partner - and soon to be husband - is former jumps jockey Tommy Logan who is back playing footy at Casterton and is furthering his interests in the equestrian world by taking up polo.

A CUP DAY TO REMEMBER

WHAT a sensational day for Limestone Coast racing at Penola last Sunday for its cup meeting.

The Penola club has raced on Easter Sunday since 2001, the one exception was when the Clare club stole the date in 2011.

Last Sunday's Penola cup meeting will go into the record books as one of the best ever in the history of the proud club.

Perfect weather saw a huge crowd rock up, and they were obviously a thirsty lot as beer stocks had to be quickly replenished as early as race three.

It was easily the biggest crowd of the Limestone Coast racing season, surpassing Naracoorte cup day and even the Coonawarra Vignerons cup day fixture back in January.

People of all ages seized the opportunity to celebrate Easter, enjoy life and have a day in the sun to forget about any pandemic concerns.

Over at Warracknabeal on Easter Saturday, the two most impressive winners on the program were from South East stables.

The Peter Hardacre trained Thrill Kill was well backed ($4-$2.80) at his first run for over three months before impressively winning the 1200 metre BM 64 handicap, beating fellow local Rohlon Drunk.

Then the Sue Murphy trained Desert Spirit ($4.40-$6.50) scorched the turf with Jacob Opperman in the saddle to lead all the way and went within a whisker of the 1000-metre track record in the 0-58 handicap.

TWO CLASSIC JUMP EVENTS

WHILE I am a supporter of jumps racing, I am not an avid fan however two steeplechases held during the recent Oakbank carnival were absolute classics.

I was fortunate to be on course for both races, firstly the Von Doussa steeplechase last Wednesday week where Zed Em and Yensir had a stirring two horse war for the last 500 metres after clearing the final hedge.

They slogged it out, nose and nose, for the entire home straight with Yensir prevailing by a short half head at the end of the 3250-metre journey.

Then the Great Eastern steeplechase last Saturday had the Oakbank crowd of just under 10,000 in a frenzy when the hot favourite Zed Em led the field for home, only to be gunned down by the South Australian jumper Spying On You.

The atmosphere in the final 200 metres was such that you would have thought there were 30,000 in attendance when it became obvious that the Tommy Ryan ridden Spying On You had more gas in the tank after 4950 metres.

The pair got a mini Winx reception when they returned to scale and the cheering continued through the trophy presentation ceremony.

Restrictions meant that only 10,000 people could attend at spacious Oakbank last Saturday, yet 40,000 are allowed into a much more confined Adelaide Oval for AFL games.

I posed that question to Oakbank CEO Shane Collins who replied "if you can find the answer, let me and the committee know immediately".

OVERZEALOUS REACTION

HAPPY go lucky Irish jumps jockey Tommy Ryan has somewhat of a cult following and his fan club was at Oakbank in full voice last Saturday.

Ryan had outlaid $1200 in airfares just to go to Oakbank from Melbourne before the carnival to ride jumpers in trials and his efforts were repaid many times over when he rode three winners on day one followed up with wins in the Von Doussa steeplechase (Yensir) and the Great Eastern steeplechase (Spying On You).

When he arrived in the members bar after a shower and quick change of clothes following the Great Eastern steeplechase, his supporters were already celebrating the occasion and suddenly the bar went into party mode.

The chant "there is only one Tommy Ryan" went up amid the back slapping, Ryan then did a small jig carrying a female fan in his arms before he was hoisted up onto the bar.

There were no complaints from anyone in the bar in regards to the spontaneous party, however two security officers thought otherwise.

They had stood bored and poker faced all day at the entrances to the member's bar and decided to make their presence felt and justify their existence by quickly ending such folly.

It had been all innocent fun, no harm was done and it definitely brightened up the day for the rest of the crowd in the bar to see a group of young people thoroughly enjoying themselves with their idol.

The big loser out of it all were the two security officers who lost a lot of respect for their actions.

COMING UP

TUESDAY evening, April 13: Mount Gambier harness racing (co-share with Port Pirie).

Wednesday, April 14: Naracoorte races (transferred from Bordertown).

Tara record holder turns in another almighty effort

DAVID LEWIS

GREYHOUND RACING

IT was back in August 2020 Meningie trainer Tim Richards first appeared at Tara Raceway with Almighty Stripe, a son of Fabregas and Spicy Peppa (a half-sister to former SA champion Worm Burner) that he bred and races in partnership with his sister Sheree Hayes.

At the time the black dog had won 13 races at Angle Park, Gawler and Murray Bridge, adding Mount Gambier to his list of winning tracks when defeating Sol's Buddy by seven lengths over 400 metres in a quick 22.88 seconds.

Then, on October 22, Almighty Stripe made a stunning return to Tara Raceway, running a track record 22.68 seconds.

This came after Dyna Carnie had held the record for the better part of the year, lowering Cryer's Ricky's time of 22.78 seconds to 22.74 seconds on January 5.

Almighty Stripe headed Richards' team of five engaged at Tara Raceway last Sunday, the former football coach, come fisherman, come greyhound trainer of six years looking to add to an already successful 2021 at the local track - 14 wins, including the Summer Classic with Justice For All.

Lining up from box one in the Easter Sprint (400m), Almighty Stripe's chances hinged on a quick getaway as there were some keen judges of the opinion he was probably better suited out wide where he had a "bit of room to move".

But with a first split of 10.55 seconds he pretty well had all the room he needed, eventually running out a 7¼ lengths winner over Ed Deeds in 22.55 seconds - Tara Raceway's first track record for 2021.

Filling third spot was the record breaker's litter brother and kennelmate Jervois Boy.

With Richards handling Jervois Boy in the race, a handler was required for Almighty Stripe.

Who better for the job than Glenroy trainer Richard Clayfield, later in the day successful with Glenville Rose in the South Eastern Hotel Stake (400m) in 23.36 seconds.

After all, Clayfield knows what it is all about to train a 400-metre record breaker after leading Slipper's Might to the boxes on March 28, 2014.

That was the day the son of Lochinvar Marlow x Slipper's Tonic became the first greyhound to break the 23-seconds barrier when running 22.93 seconds.

Meanwhile, Rocketline, the greyhound that chased home Almighty Stripe in his initial record-breaking run, finally shrugged off his injury woes at Tara Raceway last Sunday when successful in the Tracksides Meats Stake (400m).

Suited by the small field, the son of Peter Rocket x Headline quickly overcame a slow start to settle in second spot behind Saint Charlotte before railing through on the home turn and running out a three-quarters of a length winner in 22.98 seconds.

The win was Rocketline's first since July for Compton breeder-trainer Tracie Price and local owners Michael Robinson and Willie Vossen who purchased the May 2018 black dog as a pup.

Litter brother Burn Time, certainly one of the better greyhounds to have come out of Mount Gambier in recent times, brought up his third successive staying win when winning a heat of the time-honoured Association Cup (720m) at Wentworth Park on Saturday night.

Raced by Lisa and Keith Hellmuth of Pearcedale, Burn Time had previously won twice at Angle Park over 731 metres prior to venturing to Sydney for the Group 1 stayers' series, the final of which will carry $75,000 to this Saturday night's winner.

The Hellmuths also raced Peter Rocket (22 wins and $328,000 in stakemoney) and Headline (16, $53,000) prior to Price taking over Headline for breeding purposes.

The litter has now won 49 races, with Burn Time the "headline" act, having won 18 races and $73,000 in stakemoney.

Tough trip south for champs

ROBE Veterans Champions Rob Lawrie and Valma Jennings journeyed to Mount Gambier to play Veterans Champion of Champions singles last week.

Lawrie was defeated in the first round by Neil Watts who made it to the grand final but after an epic battle was defeated by Millicent's Iain Campbell. Jennings had a win in the first round over Lucindale's Chris Watts but was defeated in the second round after a great battle with Mount Gambier's Beryl Verslius.

Verslius got the jump early but Jennings fought back to lead for most of the game.

However, Verslius made a play to even the score to 19-all and won the next end to win 22-19. Verslius was defeated in the final by Port MacDonnell's Heather Richards.

The final of the Kimberley Clark Super Series was also played at Mount Gambier.

Due to the late finish of the Veterans, the Super Series started an hour late. The Roosters were easily accounted for by the Red Lobsters 45-21 to decide third and fourth positions.

Judith Grosvener and Tim Wrightson inflicted the first defeat of the series on Gavin Rowe and Kim Stewart 17-12, while Bob Hutcheson, Keith Dowdell and Heather Richards had a big win over Jim Gray, Fluer Roachock, Stephen Kennett and subs Valma Jennings and Peter Gregory 28-9.

Water Rats defeated Lakers 32-29 to win the grand final and Raiders defeated Bradbury's 37-33 to finish fifth and sixth respectively.

Social Bowls on Thursday was sponsored by the Robe Bowls Club.

There were three two-game winners, with Jan Fisk and Robin Ling on 54 points, Dean Burgoyne and Nola Peel on 56, with the winners Pat Lynch, Ian Pile and Chris Davidson on 57.

The RBC Invitation Cos 4's and Men's Triples will be played on April 10 and 11 starting at 10am. The Easter raffle was won by Pam Robinson and runner-up was Sylvia Wechon.

Numbers take honours

WARM weather greeted the 38 players who competed in a 2-4-2 competition at the Millicent Bowls Club last week.

Due to the odd number, one triple had to be picked to play against a pair, with Malcolm Wright, John Drew and Andre Reinders claiming the honours with a score of 33+22.

Runners-up were Derek Bowering and Ian Ross, just defeated on shots up with a score of 33+6.

Other winning teams were, Robin Rolfe/Peter Varcoe 33+4, Derrick Lindh/Eddie Hann 32+16, John Eldridge/Bill Burdon 32+7, Lorraine Hyland /Tery Barnes 32+4, Sam Schofield/Neil Whelan 32+2, Ros Varcoe/Arthur O'Connell 31+4 and David Taylor/Peter Hyland 31+1.

WINNERS: John Drew, Andre Reinders AND Malcolm Wright.

RUNNERS-UP: Derek Bowering and Ian Ross.

Triples back on the mat

THE Mount Gambier District Indoor Bowls Association opened its 2021 season last week with a Mixed Triples Championship.

Association president Stephen Von Dube invited patroness Elma Attiwill to roll the first jack and long-time Player Kath Hearne to roll the first bowl to officially open the season.

The competition included 17 team entries, with the team from the Commercial Club of Mary Lockwood, Rod Fleming and Michael Cameron defeating the Blue Lake Bowlers team of Kevin Jones, Emma Freemantle and Thomas Butler in the first semi-final 7-3.

In the second semi-final the combined team of Jason Kuring, Keisha Pearson and Fiona Pearson claimed the win over the inform Moorak team of Nola Spencer, Gary Walters and Tim Radley 10-5.

The final was a close encounter, with the Pearson team scoring three shots on the first end, only to drop four shots on the next.

The scores stayed tight for the remainder of the game and were level on the last end but Cameron's team knocked the jack off the mat to give the Post-Tel/Wandilo team of Jason Kuring, Keisha Pearson and Fiona Pearson victory and claim the first association championship for the year 10-6.

In the consolation final two Kongorong teams met and Christine Kerr, Glen Bowmer and Des Allen defeated Vince Mancuso, Shane Glynn and Heather Glynn 10-5.

Rising star makes his play

APRIL could end up being a memorable month for McDonald Park Primary School student and promising golfer Blake Schroder.

The 10-year-old has already booked his place in the final of the D Grade division of the club championships at the Mount Gambier Golf Club.

In Saturday's stableford competition he had a round to remember when he broke 100 for the first time to notch 41 points and top the leaderboard.

The youngster, who has played golf competitively for about 18 months, is also a keen junior footballer and cricketer.

But golf is his favourite sport and he is nothing if not ambitious about how far he can go.

While most 10-year-olds would have no idea what the PGA Tour is, Blake knows full well and is already dreaming of one day making it to that level.

Before that though he is also thinking of the day he beats his dad, three-time Mount Gambier Golf Club champion Hayden Schroder, for the first time.

That may be a way off yet, given Hayden, who plays off a one handicap, will be eyeing off a shot at a fourth title when he lines up in this weekend's semi-finals.

But Blake showed enough on Saturday to suggest the sky could well be the limit.

Playing off a 31 handicap, he picked up 12 points in his first four holes, with four-point pars on the first and fourth, although he could only manage one point on each of the next four holes.

A bogey and three points on the ninth gave him 19 on the front nine and 51 off the stick.

While he did not have any four-point holes on the back nine, he did not have any one-pointers either.

The highlight was a three-point par on the par-five 15th hole, which not only helped him add 22 points to his 19 from the front nine, but also helped him shoot 47 off the stick for a total of 98.

That was one point better than runner-up David McGregor who battled through the front nine with 17 points, but caught fire on the back to shoot 37 off the stick for 23 points.

That could have been even more had he not had a double-bogey seven on the par-five 11th.

Despite that blip his 40 points was good enough to win A Grade by a single point from Craig Wirth who edged out Craig Eichler from the Aston Hills/Mount Barker club on a count-back.

B Grade was taken out by Tony McGregor who notched 37 points to beat Lachlan Rees by one.

Blake Schroder was the easiest winner of the day, claiming C Grade by three points from Graham Thomas who managed 38.

The hot and windy conditions proved too much for many of the 108 players who turned out, including the previous Saturday's winner, Gianni Giurastante, who posted just 25 points after scoring 43 a week earlier.

He was not alone, however.

Last Thursday's stableford competition winner, Ross "Lofty" Anderson, could only manage 24 points after coming in with 42 just two days earlier.

Jason Shanks, runner-up to Anderson with 40 points off his five handicap, had just 25 on Saturday.

Anderson, who played off a 19 handicap on Thursday, kicked off his round with 21 points on the front nine, helped by three-point pars on the first, third, sixth, eighth and ninth holes.

He added another 21 points on the inward nine, the highlight a four-point birdie on the 15th.

He followed that with three more three-pointers to finish with 42.

Shanks' round was full of merit, shooting 73 off the stick.

That included one-under par 35 on the back nine to fall just short.

Meanwhile the popular 949 competition, played each Wednesday evening over the six months of daylight saving, wrapped up last week,

The winner of the $150 Pro Shop voucher was Lachlan Rees, with Jon Clayton finishing second and Jack Geddes third.

More than 170 players took part in the competition, with one of the highlights being a hole-in-one by Peter Miller on the signature eighth hole.

RIISING STAR: Youngster Blake Schroder played under 100 for the first time at the Attamurra golf course last week.

Conditions perfect for ladies' title contest

THE culmination of golf over the last four weeks led to the finals of the Mount Gambier Golf Club Ladies Club Championships last week at Attamurra.

Players were presented with well manicured fairways, perfect greens and sunshine to provide some quality golf.

The A Grade match between last year's champion, Kerry Pedlar and Jennifer Van Rijthoven over 36 holes lived up to expectations, with players scoring 82 and 81 off the stick over the first 18 holes.

After lunch, both battled hard in the next 18 and Pedlar was 1-up after nine holes.

But Van Rijthoven continued to apply pressure with her long game to be square after 11 holes.

However, it was Pedlar's accuracy on the greens on the last few holes which enabled her to claim her back-to-back win, finishing 3/2.

The B Grade final over 36 holes was between Anne Headlam and Janina Morrison.

Headlam drew on all her experience to play a solid match, while new to the golf match play scene, Morrison took on the challenge and after 27 holes, was 6-down with six to play.

To her credit she dug deep and picked up three holes, but Headlam was the victor finishing 3/2 to become the B Grade champion.

The C Grade final was contested over 18 holes between women's president Mary Kentish and veteran Lois Harvey.

It was a close match, with neither player giving much leeway. In the end Kentish's long game helped her secure her title finishing on the 17th hole with a score of 2/1.

The championships were sponsored by SE Pine Sales and the prize for the best nett prize over the two qualifying rounds was won by Van Rijthoven with a score of nett 145.

The D Grade Championship was sponsored by Hopper Gabriel who supports the new players getting into the game of golf.

They played an 18 hole stableford competition and this year's winner was Jill Johnson, who has only been playing competition golf for about two months.

Johnson scored 33 points for her round and will no doubt progress through the grades in the future. Runner-up was Maureen Sims with 29 points.

While the championship finals were played, a stableford competition was held and Carol Smith took home the winner's voucher with 39 points from Mardi Bawden with 36.

Jan Shanahan won the pro shot on the eighth hole. Only seven players ventured out on Easter Saturday with the hot weather deterring quite a few players.

Di O'Donnell played some hot golf to finish with 38 points from Yvonne Shirley with 35.

Pride on the line

THE Western Border Football League and The Western Border Netball Association has a proud history and we put the disappointment of the 2020 season behind us as we move into the 2021 season with our naming right sponsor Bendigo Bank Mt Gambier and District Community Bank Branch.

I would like to thank them for their continued support of our league.

It is with excitement and great appreciation our league provides a strong representation of male and female active participants and spectators every week in the Mount Gambier, Millicent and Casterton region.

Clubs are actively busy in both senior and junior grades recruiting for a strong season.

There is a positive and quality commitment from our clubs which gives us confidence.

Our league and association maintain a strong sustainable future in the Mount Gambier, Millicent and Casterton communities.

Future for our league, association and clubs is the main focus for our league board, with valued sponsorship and partnerships critical to this approach.

Our strength is in a quality competition and portraying a professional image.

This is no more truer than this year with our exciting venture into our live streaming of games which will take WBFL all over the country and the world.

It is a great online coaching tool for our senior coaches also to help developed clubs.

Our online Western, replacing the purchase of the budget at the ovals, gives maximum exposure to our wonderful financial partners.

I would like to wish our friends from Mid South East league and Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara league all the best for their upcoming season.

Thank you also to Jo Gibbs and I wish her and her wonderful team from the Western Border Netball Association all the best for their season 2021, as we continue to work closely together to make this league the very best.

Finally thanks to the hard working football and netball boards and clubs.

I am very humbled and privileged to be president of this football league.

It makes it easy knowing we are all working together for the same reason to continue a strong quality competition for many years to come.

Tougher Tigers in 2021

THE dust is yet to settle at North Gambier, with the Tigers working as an A/A Reserve squad at this stage.

Sarah Nulty has headed to Mount Burr and Ash Kalantarian has retired but there is still plenty of experience and talent at coach Karen Gould's disposal.

Caroline Davey is back in the Tigers den and her presence in the shooting circle already sees North as a tougher prospect in 2021.

Add to that the experience of Alisha Bryan, who is a reliable, accurate finisher and the speed of Alycia Close and Ellen Brown, who can both also fill a mid-court role and the Tigers have plenty of shooting options.

The mid-court is also full of class with Amanda O'Shaughnessy bringing her work rate and hard running back to the court, with Tanielle Barry also injecting speed and tenacity into that area.

The return of Brianna Walters, who is a composed, smart mid-courter, has also boosted the Tigers playing stocks, while Adelaide recruit Lauren Buddle also adds depth to the mid court.

Then there is a raft of players who can take a mid-court or defensive role and they are all experienced, highly respected campaigners - Mel Renko, Noni McConnell, Phoebe McInerney, Mid South East recruit Libby Howemorgan and Jessie Little.

Those girls will get to combine with one of the best defenders Western Border has seen in Madi Whaites, with Oakdale recruit Madi Stegmeyer shoring up the defensive end as well.

TOUGH PROSPECT: Caroline Davey will help make the Tigers a tough prospect in 2021.

Premiers North still a benchmark side

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

AS the reigning premiers in the Bendigo Bank Western Border Football League, North Gambier would rightly remain as the benchmark side in the competition.

Of course that premiership came in 2019 before COVID-19 closed the 2020 season down.

The Tigers did compete in the "Super League" in 2020, but with different teams and personnel to face each week and time passed since, the WBFL competition is more of a level playing field.

For returning coach Justin McConnell everything has run as planned leading up to the 2021 season kick off this weekend.

He said the club in energised, with the inclusion of young players coming through the ranks and the more-experienced players remaining at the club.

"We have a good bunch of guys who are really driven and disciplined," McConnell said.

"We have some young guys who are really keen to play senior footy this year which has created a real energy and enjoyment around the group.

"We probably haven't had as many young guys aspiring to play senior footy for a while.

TIGERS OF OLD: Brad Stafford, coach Justin McConnell and Nick McInerney will welcome a host of youngsters vying for a spot in the senior team in the 2021 WBFL season.

"We have had a strong core for a while but to have those young guys coming through has really lifted the standard."

McConnell is no stranger to lifting a side to the top of the ladder, with the continuous challenge something he enjoys.

However, this year throws up a new challenge in the wake of the coronavirus.

"I think for some guys it has given them a real thirst to get back to footy and be around each other," McConnell said.

"I think the challenge for all clubs at the moment is to get a good volunteer base and support staff.

"People found other things to do last year so the challenge is to galvanise and come together, to enjoy what we really missed which is the connection with each other."

McConnell said the younger players coming through would be complemented by around 12 premiership players, along with Reserves who have earned the right to have a crack at the A Grade.

He said he expected four or five young players to make their A Grade debuts this weekend.

"We don't have too much change but just enough to get that enthusiasm, some different ideas and voices," McConnell said.

"It has been a long time since we have had four or five debut and there is that consistent and professional group that knows what it takes to be successful.

"The energy our young guys have created has been welcome for us.

"When you have reached the summit and experienced success it is a continual challenge to maintain that standard."

After the disruptions in 2020, McConnell said it would be nice to have some normality back.

"With the full season going back, everyone around the club is excited," he said.

"It is nice to get the whole club together, especially with Round 1 at home.

"We started training early this year and we have had good numbers, so we look forward to the culmination of all the hard work to come together on Saturday."

Long pre-season to pay off

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

TIME out of sport is never a good thing for continuity but it is what many football clubs in the Limestone Coast faced in 2020.

When COVID-19 closed sport down around the country, West Gambier was one club in the Limestone Coast not to join the proposed “Super League” and sat the year out.

However, according to head coach Steve Wenman, all is on track now to hit the ground running this season.

“We have had a real solid pre-season,” he said.

“We started pretty early - in November - obviously we didn’t play last season so we thought it was important to get back into it a bit earlier.”

But rather than just train, Wenman said it was important to include game simulation, with hitouts internally and against Hatherleigh and Tantanoola.

“We have had three trial games which was important to get the game feel back into the body,” he said.

“Everyone has had a game and a half under their belts in the last month which is good.”

Wenman said there was much to like about his squad, which includes a few new faces and some young boys coming through the ranks.

“We should have three new players to the club and some good kids coming through,” he said.

“We have good numbers, good depth and the B Grade should be strong, so we think we should be a competitive unit.”

Those new faces include Tom Cleveland, a key backman from Blackwood in the Hills league, Lewis McClintock across from Kongorong and Reece Cowling, a youngster to play his first senior game for the club.

Jamie Dobie and Sam Robson will be returning players, while little else has changed.

NUMBERS UP: The experience of Tom Holmes, coach Steve Wenman and Lawry Bradley-Brown should place West Gambier in a good position heading into the 2021 WBFL season.

“I think we will be a pretty settled team,” Wenman said. “We haven’t changed much structurally or had too many ins and outs, so we are hoping for much more of the same.”

To kick proceedings off West faces East

Gambier at the Kennel first up, which should provide a look at where the Roos currently sit after a year in the wilderness.

New look for Roos

IT is a new-look Roos line-up for 2021 but it boasts plenty of class and while there are some less experienced players in the senior line-up, they are chock full of talent and will again be contenders.

With Lisa McGregor still at the helm and controlling the attack line from goal attack and 2019 team of the year defender Amy Cram marshalling the troops at the defensive end of the court, the Roos will pose a challenge for all comers.

At the attacking end of the court, West welcomes back Carlee Ransom to the wing attack role and her long standing connection with McGregor and her experience in the young Roos line-up will be critical.

Under the post, Sarah Ritter, who has already shown great form in training matches, will pose a headache for opposition defenders with her height and accuracy making her a genuine threat.

At the other end of the court her sister

Jade, is a smart defender, who will improve every week playing alongside Cram and her work over the shot and willingness to chase the intercept will make her dangerous, while Nikiesha Facey will take the wing defender bib, bringing her tight checking, tenacious attitude to the role.

Tara Bryant will run the centre and her speed, court smarts and willingness to work both ways will see her prove to be an asset for the Roos mid-court.

West also has a wealth of teenage talent to inject into the line-up with Emily Dawe, Claire Hunter, Mikaela Horrigan, Zoe Malseed and Jordan Freeman - some of whom have already experienced A Grade action - will have no trouble stepping up.

West has lost defender Maddy Teakle and shooter Tahlia Earl to Penola, with Emily Hunter now a Bulldog but have faith in their young talent to fill the void.

STILL IN CHARGE: Lisa McGregor will control the attack line in a new-look Roos lineup.

Excitement at the Kennel

EAST Gambier has been at the upper end of the Bendigo Bank Western Border Football League for several years now.

This year the familiar Matt Willson is back as head coach and is keen to see what his side can throw up this season.

"It has been a bit of a different year again," he said.

“Coming back from the Super League last year to a more traditional Western Border, I think all our guys are keen to get back into it.”

Some personnel have changed, but largely the core group remains in place.

Willson said the club had lost a couple of players and gained a couple and would simply have to wait and see how it all pans out.

"It is a bit hard to gauge having that year off and not knowing what a lot of the other sides are doing and where they are at," he said.

"It is pretty exciting to see some changes - teams will probably look a bit different to last time we played Western Border which is good.

“There were a few of our guys who had last year off and are rested and ready to commit again.

"Those who did play are ready to go without too much interruption and I think the general feel is excitement to get some normality back."

Much of the Bulldogs' list appears based on "local" content, with young players rising through the ranks or others returning for another season after not playing in the Super League.

Players such as Riley and Grady Janeway and Patrick Hatch will be back after sitting last year out.

Tully and Shem Balshaw will also return, along with Matt McCallum and Brad Rathjen.

The likes of Jayden Eldridge and John Forster will be pivotal in leadership roles, with the Bulldogs keen to make their mark early in the season.

"I think we are really happy with where we are at," Willson said.

“Development of the younger guys has been a big focus, guys who will step up from the Under 18s or young guys who have an extra year under their belts.

STRONG LEADERSHIP: Bulldogs' coach Matt Willson and senior players Jayden Eldridge and John Forster will provide plenty of experience as East looks to improve on its last full Western Border football season.

“We have put in a fair bit of work in the pre-season and have some young guys coming up who are fairly talented, plus some high quality players in the top end of our list.

"We are just excited now to get out and put on a show."

DEBUT LONG AWAITED: After being signed for the cancelled 2020 season, Emily Hunter is raring to go as East Gambier's A Grade coach in 2021.

Bulldogs coach ready to go

SHE was signed as playing coach for the 2020 season and Emily Hunter will be champing at the bit to get her East Gambier team out on court for 2021.

The value for East of having Hunter in their line-up, taking the centre role, allows them the luxury of playing quality midcourter Tarsh McCallum on the attacking wing, where she has done so much damage with her good speed and ability to work in small spaces, for both East and at representative level.

The East mid court is rounded out by Tyne Bosko, a star junior defender, who is basically a veteran of A Grade action and has become one of the best wing defenders in the competition.

Reigning Western Border best and fairest Tenille Gray will again take the goal attack bib, combining her East Gambier duties with Premier League duties in Adelaide.

She will work with young star Amryn Bosko, who has already had a taste of A Grade action and has shown she is more than up to the task, with her clever positioning, accurate finishing and composure.

Defensively, the Bulldogs look ominous with Bo Creek back on court, combining with Lisa Fyfe, the 2017 joint Western Border best and fairest.

Their athleticism and willingness to contest will see plenty of turnover ball created for the Bulldogs.

Junior Kate Dempsey, who finished the 2019 season in the A Grade line-up and Lillah Lamb are the rising talent that could get their opportunity at the Bulldogs, who have lost veteran defender Morgan Amy to Port MacDonnell.

SOUTH Gambier could well be the team to watch in the 2021 Bendigo Bank Western Border Football League season.

With a “Superleague” season under their belts, the Demons have had the advantage to develop a long list of youngsters and bring some new faces in.

Not only that, coach Brayden Kain said the numbers have exceeded all expectations, with close to 50 players available for selection in the Seniors and Reserves for the opening round.

That equates to plenty of team work on the training track and added depth to a side which has relied on young club players at the senior level for several years.

Back will be Brodie Foster, fresh from a stint in Darwin and the Super League season.

Jack Casey has come over from Kalangadoo, while Scott Enderl returns to South.

Heywood 2019 premierships player Dane Handreck - a leading goal kicker for the club and high up the list in the league - will also join the Demons.

Kain said while he would have liked one of the new players to be a backman, it provides plenty of versatility to his lineup.

"I might push up the ground a bit more," he said.

“These players are versatile enough to play multiple positions on the ground.

"Jack Casey played a bit down back and rucked a bit over the years - the type of player he is we can throw him anywhere on the ground."

Kain said the advantage of playing Superleague was the chance to keep his group together.

"We have had a bit of youth over the years and I think that was another chance to help fast track guys into senior footballers," he said.

"I think it also created a bit of maturity in our group."

The first test for the Demons will be Millicent at McLaughlin Park, which Kain said he was taking seriously, despite Millicent's poor showing in the last full season.

"I haven't heard a lot about what is going on at Millicent - I have tried to focus on ourselves," he said.

“Clint is a very good leader so they are pretty much an unknown.

"They have lost a few and picked up a few but I don't think any games will be easy this year."

Kain said much of that would come from the desire to return to the ground.

"I think those guys who have been sitting on the couch for 12 months will be itching to get back out there," he said.

"We were worried blokes would have found other hobbies, the older guys might have retired early and be hard to get back into it or the younger guys might have other social interests."

"I think now it is all back and firing, that hunger has come back and that burn is still there for country footy."

THE Demons have been decimated with player losses, mainly to young talent heading to Adelaide for university, but debut coach Belinda Scanlon, who will also be injecting her experience and hard running to the mid-court, is as credentialed as any coach in the competition and will ensure her young group continues to improve and develop.

Brandi Bouchier will hold up the defensive end with her smarts and ability to have an impact in the air and on the ground and her combination with daughter Ellie, who is a serious emerging talent, Victorian recruit Renee Pluckhahn, who can also play mid court, will ensure South is not an easy team to score against.

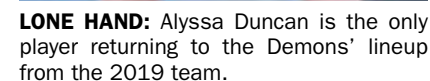

Scanlon will be joined in the mid court by West recruit Hannah Witherow, who has speed to burn, with Alyssa Duncan no doubt set for time both in the mid court, where she is a smart feeder and in goals, where she has already shown great promise in 2019.

Lara Munro will make her A Grade debut for the Demons, the junior player set to ply her craft in the shooting circle where her height and speed will make her a dangerous prospect.

Grace Edwards also looms large, whether she takes a defensive role or in the shooting circle.

Year off deals recovery time

TREVOR JACKSON
trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

MILLICENT Football Club is one side keen to regain the glory of the 2018 Western Border Football League season.

The club broke a long premiership drought with a stirring win over East Gambier at the Kennel but have struggled to perform since then.

The return of Clint Gallio last year was hoped to bring change - enter COVID-19.

Millicent sat out the "Super League" season which in itself provided something of a silver lining.

The injured Gallio had plenty of time to recover from a knee injury, which he says in now 100pc.

"A year off footy has its pros and cons for everyone," he said.

"It was a good thing for me but others wanted to play.

"I am feeling pretty good.

"I have done all I can to make sure I am ready.

"I haven't played footy since July 2019, so in a trial game against Glencoe it was good to just get back."

Gallio said he did not feel the break for COVID affected the players too much.

It did provide the chance for the juniors to play, which kept them in touch with the competition and the sport, while the club could focus on what it needed player-wise.

"It gave us a chance to try to target what we wanted, what direction to go in," Gallio said.

"No one who was going to play last year has pulled the pin and we have recruited a couple of blokes."

While Gene Robinson was set to line up last year, he is this year joined by Adelaide's Jacob Carger and former successful Mount Burr playing coach Tom Renzi.

It will be a huge task for the Saints to slot straight back into the winner's circle and Gallio is under no illusions what they face in Round 1.

"There has been a lot of hype about South (Gambier) lately," he said.

"I am looking forward to that challenge.

"Round 1 is always exciting.

"We have put in a solid pre-season, worked on everything game wise, got ourselves fit and everyone is raring to go.

"I think the players and supporters are keen to see some footy back."

NEW NAMES AND FAMILIAR FACES: Jacob Carger will join Millicent, with coach Clint Gallio and Finn Grimes adding plenty of experience in the Saints' strip.

Reigning premiers still favourites

THE reigning premiers have again had to face player losses but as always, there is some strong young talent ready to fill the void.

Coach Donna Denton has retired and Madi Haggett has headed to Mount Burr, where mother Tamara is the head coach, but the core of the premiership line-up remains and the Saints still loom as the team to beat.

The goal circle will see long range specialists Demi Verbena and Paige Nitschke making life difficult for defenders, with Tabatha Sanderson and her ability on the hold at the post also set to cause opposition defenders some issues.

In the mid court they do not come any better than Lisa Duldig, a mid-courter who is as damaging defensively as she is with ball in hand.

Her combination with Lucy Denton, Kimmi Tincknell (Varcoe) and Hannah Nitschke, with Paige Nitschke also set for some mid court time, will see the Saints enjoy their usual speed of ball.

Tincknell and Hannah Nitschke will also be called upon in the defensive circle alongside class act Hayley Dunn, while Sophie Ellis, who could also pick up a role in the shooting circle, is another defensive option for the talent-rich Saints.

Portia McRae is a junior on the rise who could also earn some A Grade court time as a defender and at this stage everything points to Millicent being premiership favourites as they gun for a 12th consecutive title.

SPECIALIST: Demi Verbena will cause headaches for defenders as she looks to continue her strong play up forward for Millicent in season 2021.

Tough task for loyal Cats

ACROSS the border times have been tough for Casterton Sandford.

COVID-19 affected the club severely. Since the last time the Cats played a Western Border fixture, around 10-15 players have departed.

That placed a huge responsibility on the shoulders of the club administration.

The club looked to play in a Victorian league, namely the South West District league, but many internally felt it was better to stick with the WBFL.

Dylan Ayton returned as president, Kane Forbes took over the senior coaching role and the Cats looked to continue its future in the WBFL.

Forbes said players departing was always going to happen at some stage.

“There was always going to be a time when this would happen and we would be back to basics,” he said.

“Now our aim has been to get as many locals as we can to train together as often as possible.

“We have a good young group who are really invested.”

Forbes said the club would always face challenges to gain the services of top-end players and may have been more competitive had they moved to the SWDFL.

However, with some changes off-field he is confident the club can continue to improve.

“Ever since we made the decision to stay in the Western Border everyone has backed it up,” he said.

Despite the tough run through the COVID-19 pandemic, Forbes said the club was now on track.

“They weren’t ideal circumstances by any stretch but I think now we are going well,” he said.

“We had a hitout against Kalangadoo and while we didn’t get the result we wanted, we had 45 players in a practice match.

“From a numbers point of view I think people are just glad to be back playing with their mates, having a run and a laugh.

“With the people down there watching you could see how much the footy means to them.

“It had a real good buzz around it.” A big test comes for the club in the opening round, up against North Gambier at Vansittart Park.

It may sound somewhat daunting for a club rebuilding but Forbes is keen for the challenge. “I think our boys are travelling well,” he said.

“I have some good young kids I have my eye on who have been doing well at training.

“We will back them in as long as they keep doing the right thing.

“We will have our work cut out for us this week but we will get over there and give it a red-hot crack.”

Rebuilding phase for confident Cats

INJURY and pregnancy have decimated Casterton Sandford ahead of the 2021 season but with some quality young talent at Island Park, the club has put together a solid squad that will only improve with every outing.

Scarlett Jarrad looms large as the leader of the mid court.

With the ability to play every role in the mid court, the tight marking, hard running player will also need to use her voice to guide her inexperienced team mates.

Leadership will also be required from reliable goaler Tori Broomby (Perry), who will no doubt be the general in the attacking goal third, combining with the speed of Paige Murrell (Cameron) who is a crafty netballer with an accurate finish.

They will be backed up in goals by rising star Charlotte Rice, who is developing her game as part of the Victorian talent pathway.

Caeleigh Humphries, who is also part of that talent pathway, will take a defensive role and her athleticism, speed onto the ball and ability to read the play will be critical, as will her ability to combine with experience defender Meg Fennell, who is known for her strength in the air and work over the shot.

The mid court welcomes back Isobel Cleary and her experience and reliability with ball in hand will be important, while young talent Madison Mutch runs hard all day and has had some senior experience which will hold her in good stead.

Claire Foster, who is another junior on the rise, can hold a defensive role and she will get her chance on the defensive wing or in the defensive circle.

It is a rebuilding year for the Cats who have lost Madalene Cleary to a season-ending knee injury, with Gaby Tomkins, Marlee Gartlan and Christine Harris tied up with duties as new mothers.

LEADERSHIP: The experience of Tori Broomby will be called upon as the Cats look to rebuild in the 2021.

Mansell makes his run

WORLD renowned ultra marathon runner Kevin Mansell has many trophies in his cabinet following his feats of running between Melbourne and Sydney and his duels with the legendary Cliff Young.

He will need to make more space in his cabinet for his latest trophy as the winner of the GEM Easter Tournament best nett at the Blue Lake Golf Club.

Mansell is a much loved ornament of the club and his victory was well earned and well received. With the usual maximum numbers setting out in this prestigious event and the course set to its maximum, Mansell did what was required over the opening nine, playing to his handicap.

Having got the longer holes out of the way he could now get into his rhythm and pace himself, his three pars on the inward nine seeing him come in with a 97-30-67 for a very popular win.

Sharing the accolades in the marquee event was visiting Heywood golfer Brad Koenig who took out the best gross award with his 73 off the stick.

Koenig reaped the benefit of his length and consistency, making short work of the par 5 third hole with a birdie.

With the tee placements as far back as possible, bogeys were to be expected and Koenig registered three on his outward nine.

His back half resembled the opening nine with another birdie on the 11th hole, followed by two bogeys on the 12th and 16th for splits of 37 and 36.

His birdie on the 11th was vital as it meant he just managed to hang on to the title after he and Brad Talbot tied on 73.

Unfortunately for the local golfer Talbot double bogeyed that same hole for an inward 37.

It was a disappointment for the talented Talbot who challenged with birdies on the first and third holes for splits of 36 and 37.

Two local golfers, Tim Bates and Marc Dalton, tied for third with 74 apiece, the former getting the nod in a count-back.

Both had 38 on the back nine requiring a double count-back, with Bates' 25 over the last six holes being one better than Dalton's.

A grade golfers filled the minor prizes behind Mansell in the best nett category, with

BEST GROSS AGGREGATE: Trevor Little claimed best gross aggregate at the Blue Lake golf Club's GEM Easter Tournament.

Tim Von Stanke (75-6-69) just edging out Nick Wilson (76-7-69) for second and third.

Von Stanke's 35 off the stick, with birdies on the 11th and 12th holes was always going to be hard to beat.

Mansell added to his trophy collection by also taking out the GEM Easter Tournament Veterans title with his 67 seeing off Beachport's Peter Buckley's score of 87-18-69.

Russell Armstrong finished third on nett 70. Sunday saw most competitors tee up again for a chance to add their names to the honour board. Scott Manning led the way in the best nett competition with his superb 76-12-64.

Manning took advantage of a slightly easier set up, his first six holes producing either pars or birdies.

A slight stumble on the eighth with a double was made up for with birdies on the 13th and 17th to see him run out a two-stroke victor.

Another visitor, this time from Rosebud Country Club, Rod Heinrich took second, winning a count-back from Zach Westwick after both tied on 66.

Heinrich's two birdies on the 12th and 17th was enough to secure the result from the unfortunate Westwick who impressed with a 36 off the stick on the inward nine.

Westwick was rewarded for his great round by taking out the best gross from Trevor Little on 73 and MGGC's Sam Letizia revisiting his old course for third place on 75.

The women also competed for prestigious awards and prizes in the GEM Easter Tournament with their own best nett, best gross and Veterans competitions.

It was a local who took out the best nett prize with Bev Pascoe just seeing off Gemma Winterborn after both tied on nett 70.

Pascoe had her struggles early, turning with 53 but stormed home, thanks to pars on the 15th and 16th holes, her 46 on the inward nine was always going to be hard to beat in a count-back situation. Winterborn's round was the opposite, her good golf on the outward nine with 47 and closed with a 49.

Standing alone in third place was Jo Ashby who will be happy with her consistent golf af-

Off the stick there was a clear winner, with Jennifer Van Rijthoven from MGGC easily taking the cup with her 86 off the stick.

Posting a double bogey on the par 3 second hole was impetus for Van Rijthoven to get her game together and she then parred the next three holes.

It was a similar story on the back nine, a double bogey on the 11th leading to pars on the 13th, 15th and 16th holes.

She finished five strokes clear of Ashby in second, with Helen Stratford a further four strokes adrift in third.

Bev Pascoe cleaned up in the Veterans competition with her 99-29-70 too good for Ashby (91-19-72) and Stratford (95-21-74) taking the bronze medal.

Busy time at the lakes

A FULL program faced the women at the Blue Lake Golf Club last Wednesday which included the second round of the Collins Court Butcher Captain's Trophy, the March monthly medal sponsored by Grant and Dianne Perryman and the second and final qualifying round of the Handicap Championships all played in stroke format.

Women's president Beryl Mahoney claimed the monthly medal win and will be presented at the end-of-year presentations.

The long set up of the course and difficult pin placements presented some challenges for the majority but at least the sun was shining after the previous week's dismal conditions.

Division 1's Ronda Edwards led the way to take the top voucher by one stroke from Sue Agars.

Edwards had a slow start on the front nine, playing seven strokes over but the back nine was a different story as she scored three under to finish with nett 76.

Agars also struggled on the front nine with five strokes over but was able to finish the back nine square to her handicap to sign for nett 77.

Beryl Mahoney was the runaway winner in Division 2, carding 101-30-71 which included par's on the fifth and 12th holes.

Once again it was Lesley McPherson on the podium, this time as runner-up, after posting 109-32-77.

Her card included par's on the ninth and 12th holes.

Annette Ford was the pro-shot winner

on the par three fifth hole and nearest to the pin second shot on the 16th were Division 1's Cheryl Hill and Division 2's Karen Panagopolous.

Winners with the flat stick for the putting prize, Division 1's Rosemary Maryland and Division 2's Beryl Mahoney both had 28 putts.

At presentation's Dianne Allen was announced as the winner of the 2021 Sorrentos Cafe Summer trophy after points were tallied for the best three of four round scores.

Knee injury: Season over before it begins

THE Castec Rural Pioneers have been dealt a big blow on the eve of the 2021 NBL1 season.

After fighting to be part of the league, then the cancellation came last year due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Pioneers were on track to make their debut next weekend at the Icehouse.

That will still happen but without Nik DeSantis.

DeSantis was expected to play a big roll in the roster this season but a season-ending knee injury suffered at the pre-season competition in Dandenong sees the star guard out for the rest of the year.

Coach Richard Hill said it was disappointing for the team and for DeSantis.

"I have high hopes for Nik as a basketball player," he said.

"He worked so hard to get in unbelievable shape and did all the things I spoke about during COVID to be a better player.

"He wasn't that good in Millicent but in Portland when we played Geelong he was great.

"The first half of the game where he hurt himself in Melbourne he was very good.

"He was going to play a big part in what we are doing and we aren't going to be able to replace him."

Hill said the responsibility will be shared by the likes of Tom Daly, Erik (Eze) Burdon and a few others but the loss will be felt.

"He brought something different because he is an incredible shooter," Hill said.

"He is as good as I have seen at this level and that includes Eze, who is an unbelievable shooter.

"We will miss that and his athleticism.

"Unfortunately our people won't get a chance to see him now."

It is incredibly disappointing for DeSantis, who moved down from Adelaide last year to prepare for the season which was cancelled.

Again he moved down this year and now cannot play.

"You have to feel for him," Hill said.

"That sort of injury is bad for anyone but moving down here twice as well makes it worse."

Apart from the obvious disappointment, Hill said the side was coming together well.

He said they had improved substantially since the Millicent tournament and were fit and ready to go.

Titus Robinson will still join the team but is still trying to leave Cypress.

He will likely miss three games due to quarantine requirements.

The Pioneers have another pre-season game this week against Ballarat, before hosting Bendigo in the first round at the Icehouse on April 17.

Tight battles before break

IT was a classic tussle between Danny Quintel and Glen Atkinson in the Millicent Squash Club Division 1 match of the night.

Close games were the order of the day, with the match going to a fifth and deciding game which gave the match to Atkinson after a 17-15 victory.

The final point scores saw Quintel with 70 and Atkinson 68.

The other game of note was Mark Oliver turning the tables on the experienced Brenton Abbott 3-0.

In Division 2 the match of the night was played between Patricia Salmon and Nic Atkinson, with first timer Atkinson taking two games off the experienced Salmon.

This was a great turn around from the first time these two met in Round 2 when Salmon won 3-0.

The final point scores for the match saw Salmon with 61 and Atkinson 53.

The other Division 2 match of note was between Ewan Wood and Liam Ca-wood.

Wood took the first game 15-7 but Ca-wood, playing his first pennant, took the second 16-14 for his first game victory.

Wood then dug in to take the next two games for a 3-1 win.

Millicent squash now has a break for the school holidays, with the next pennant game scheduled for Tuesday, April 27.

Games heat up after dark

NIGHT football at two venues rounded out the Veolia Limestone Coast Women's Football League minor round last Thursday.

Millicent hosted Penola at McLaughlin Park in the early game, with the Eagles across the line comfortably in the end.

A four-goal first quarter set the scene, with Penola out to a 25-point lead after holding the home side to a solitary behind.

The Saints found something extra in the second term with two goals, but the Eagles kicked three to extend the margin.

Trailing by 31 points at the main break, Millicent needed something in the third term but instead went scoreless while the Eagles banged on another seven points.

That all-but sealed the victory and the game went in favour of Penola 10.4 (64) to 3.3 (21).

Georgina Jacobs kicked four goals for the victors.

In the early game at Vansittart Park again it was the hosts who struggled.

Kalangadoo ran out comfortable 55-point victors over a North Gambier side which could only muster a solitary goal for the game.

That came in the first term and the Tigers never bothered the scorers again.

The Magpies did much of the damage in the third term, where after leading by 23 points, doubled their score with four majors and six minors to put the game to bed.

That was the last major score for the game, with Kalangadoo adding another two minors in the final stanza, for an 8.13 (61) to 1.0 (6) scoreline.

Only Chloe Pratt registered multiple goals, with two to her name.

Back to McLaughlin Park for the late game and Mundulla suffered from a zero to five-goal first term, which set South Gambier's victory up.

While the scoring slowed somewhat from there, a three-goal third term left no doubt about the Demons' win.

The final term saw Mundulla add two major scores, but the damage had been done, as South ran out 9.5 (59) to 3.4 (22) victors.

Neave Delaney kicked four goals, while Chelsea Frost added two.

In the final game at Vansittart Park, Kybybolite easily accounted for Casterton Sandford.

After scoring just two behinds in the opening term, the Cats hit back with three majors in the second.

However, Kyby added two goals to remain with a comfortable 14-point advantage at the main break.

From there it was all Kyby in the last half, as the Cats were held scoreless and the final result 10.5 (65) to 3.5 (23).

Della Hannaford was on fire in the forward line for the victors with five majors, while Susannah Maber added two.

Visitors on the mark

A VISIT from two Mid North Archers (MNA) club members spiced up the local Blue Lake Archers Sunday afternoon outdoor event.

Mark Goulding and Andrew Thompson from the Port Pirie based MNA joined four of the local archers in a WA 60/900 event.

Goulding, Paul Freeman and Graham Lock were flying in close formation in the off-the-bow scores throughout the afternoon with just six points between them as the day drew to a close.

Len Bayley was chuffed to notch up another All Gold at the 50-metre range to add to his tally.

Ben Kilsby had streaked ahead of the group to take the bragging rights for the off-the-bow scores by an unassailable 56 point from Lock.

The mild conditions and a relaxed holiday mood helped Thompson post a new personal best for the round.

When the adjusted scores were viewed at the end of the day to determine the overall winner Thompson had blitzed the field to win the day by 23 points from Kilsby.

Indoor archery continues at the Blue Lake Gymnastics Club, Malseed Park Friday night at 7.30pm followed by outdoor archery at Corriedale Park from 12.30pm Sunday.

WA 60/900 outdoor round, handicap scored, benchmark 900 points: Andrew Thompson MNA (off the bow 666 PB) 924; Ben Kilsby (871) 901; Paul Freeman (809) 887; Graham Lock (815) 886; Mark Goulding MNA (814) 879; Len Bayley (687) 866.

Country footy back on track

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

FOOTBALL returns this weekend, with the Mid South Eastern Football League to join its Western Border counterpart to play its opening round.

After a year of no football, apart from Kalangadoo which competed in the Super League competition, it will be a welcome return to the small towns of the MSEFL which dot the region.

According to league president Peter Mitchell everything is set for a good season ahead.

"We had a delegates meeting recently with all clubs present and no real concerns were raised," he said.

"One thing that is a bit of an unknown is the response from the general public.

"I think some clubs may not have all their volunteers back which is to be expected and it will be interesting to see how the Reserves grades pan out.

"Umpires positions are always hard to fill and we have a few who have retired but we have enough for our main games.

"Things are as good as they could be and once the ball is bounced I think everyone will be pleased."

However, Mitchell accepted the response from the public was hard to judge at this early stage.

"I reserve judgement until after the first couple weeks," he said.

"I think because people had the year off, they have done other activities.

"Some might feel they don't want to return, perhaps to volunteer in the canteen or stubby booth but I think the response should be fairly positive.

"People are happy to have footy back and for our clubs, which are from small towns, it is a social outing for them to catch up with friends or people they haven't seen for a year.

BACK IN ACTION: Country football is back, with the Mid South East games set to kick off this weekend.

"I'm pretty certain the general public and those who love footy and netball will still support it."

According to Mitchell Nangwarry is well on the way to recovery, while several other clubs should see improvement.

By all accounts it should be a more competitive year for most.

"I think Glencoe might come back a bit without Brodie Foster there," Mitchell said.

"Kalangadoo would definitely be around the mark I would suggest.

"I think Hatherleigh and Robe will improve - in fact there are a number of sides which will improve.

"For the top four I would suggest Kalangadoo, Hatherleigh, Port Macdonnell and possibly Glencoe."

Mitchell has been a huge advocate for the MSEFL - "the family league" - over the years and by no mistake.

His father played for Glencoe and is a life member of the club and the league.

Mitchell followed in his footsteps and is now in his 13th year as league president.

He began playing football for Glencoe in 1972 and has been secretary of the club since 1995.

While a certain amount of responsibility comes with the president's role, Mitchell said it was an honour to do the job.

"I take great pleasure in catching up with different people from different clubs," he said.

"I see every club twice a year and sometimes more.

"I enjoy catching up with not just the hierarchy of the club but the general supporters and players as well.

"I feel privileged to be able to do that."

As for this week's games. The reigning premiers Kalangadoo have the week off.

Glencoe will face Port MacDonnell in what should be an interesting clash.

Kongorong takes on Mount Burr which should provide the Mozzies with their first win of the season, although an improved Kongorong should take the game up to their more-fancied rivals.

Robe should also have a positive outing against Tantanoola, while Hatherleigh will claim the win over Nangwarry.

Competitive games for opening round

THE Mid South Eastern Netball Association joins its footballing counterparts in this week's 2021 season kick off.

As 2019 runners-up, Glencoe will take on Port MacDonnell, with a similar side.

Jenna Paproth will lead the team, while Rebecca Edwards joins and junior Emily Thompson goes up into the senior ranks.

Port MacDonnell sports a different side to 2019, losing Tegan Merrett who has taken on the A Grade coaching role at Hatherleigh and they also have a couple of players sidelined due to pregnancy.

Kirby Carrison has taken on the A Grade coaching role and will likely be a playing coach filling the GS role.

Morgan Amy heads to the Bay from East Gambier, along with Michelle Moore from Penola.

There will be some good match ups around the court but Glencoe should take the points at home after a good contest.

Kongorong take on Mount Burr at home in a match which will create a lot of interest.

Mount Burr seems to have recruited well, while Kongorong has done some recruiting of their own.

Tamara Haggett returns to Mount Burr to take on the A Grade coaching role after spending many years at Millicent.

She brings her daughter Madi who has been an impressive junior player but also played her fair share of senior games.

They have also picked up Heidi Clark from Penola and Sarah Nulty from North Gambier.

Sonya Beare will lead the Kongorong A Grade side.

They have recruited goalie Emalee Stoker from Nangwarry, Riley Buckingham from South Gambier and Georgia Seidl from Mount Gambier association netball.

Heidi Clark and Madi Haggett could line up in defence together and make Stoker and Samantha Fox earn every goal.

Kongorong also have a strong defensive team in Riley Buckingham, Emily Lightbody and Ella McIntyre who will likely take on a strong duo of Nulty and Ebony Clark in goals for the Burr.

Mount Burr should take the points and would be expected to be the big improvers this year.

Hatherleigh takes on Nangwarry and Tegan Merrett will be keen to chalk up a win as playing coach at her new club.

Keston Green has returned to Hatherleigh after a few years away from the game and will provide a wealth of netball knowledge and experience.

With names like Maddie Redman, Sarah Faulkner and junior Lacey Haines all expected to line up in A Grade, Hatherleigh should be a force to be reckoned with.

Nangwarry will be led by playing coach Cassie Dinnison and have picked up Hayley Burner and Kylie Heaven.

Dinnison can play anywhere and will provide strength and experience to those players around her.

However, experience should see Hatherleigh take the points.

Robe takes on Tantanoola at home and will be sporting their brand new playing strip.

Kimberley Austin takes on the role of playing coach, Kim Ross returns after having a baby and they have also picked up Hannah Perkins and Tori Gluyas, both from Adelaide.

Robe was dealt a cruel blow with 2019 League A Grade best and fairest winner Annie Hunter going down with a knee injury in their pre-season.

Tantanoola will be led by Kate Varcoe and Jami Walker.

Simone Little and Kate Bromley in defence for the Tigers will make Robe's goalies work hard, while Casey and Jami Walker along with Emma Gould will form a strong attack line for Tantanoola.

Tantanoola should take the points in a close one.

Kalangadoo has the bye.

ONCOURT: Mid South East netball returns this week for the opening round of the 2021 season.

Solid grandstand finish

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

A BIG crowd turned out to watch a classic sprintcar event at the Borderline Speedway on Saturday night.

The spectators would not have been disappointed, as Darren Mollenoyux claimed the A Main feature win for the second night of the Easter Sprintcar Trail tri-series.

Mollenoyux did not have it all his own way, as first-night winner Jock Goodyer was on the pace and pushed him for the latter half of the race.

However, despite a couple of stoppages throughout the feature race, including a restart with two laps remaining, Mollenoyux held on after a solid drive to claim the win.

The pace was on early, as Australia #1 Jamie Veal laid the groundwork for a bit night in the opening heat.

He started out of second and jumped to the lead but a first-lap incident saw a full restart.

Veal then repeated his performance and led to the chequered flag from Ryan Jones and Jesse Attard.

In the second heat Brad Keller started on pole alongside Brock Hallett, with Limestone Coast entrants Daniel Pestka (fourth) and Glen Sutherland (sixth) keen for a good result but made up no positions.

Hallett led Keller throughout but a last-corner pass gave the latter the win.

The third heat saw Marcus Dumesny on pole from Goodyer.

Goodyer was hot off a win on the opening night of the series and cleared out from the start to stamp his authority on the night.

After an incident six laps in Jesse Nicholas sported a wing which resembled a sail, flapping around as he pushed hard through the turns.

It hung on, as did Goodyer for the win.

Heat four heralded the inverted grid races, with Steven Spark off pole.

Pestka started out of ninth, while Jones and

PODIUM: Night 2 of the Easter Sprintcar Trail podium - third Ryan Jones, winner Darren Mollenoyux, second Jock Goodyer.

Hallett filled the back two positions.

Jones had a lightning start and began to round up cars with an impressive drive to the race win.

Pestka finished in fifth place.

Veal struggled in heat five, while Brett Millburn drove from mid-field to the win.

Enderl dropped one spot to cross the line in sixth place.

Heat six saw a result Limestone Coast fans did not want to see.

After starting mid-field, Sutherland appeared to have a wheel clipped through turns one and two, with a big roll the result.

He climbed out of the car uninjured but his night was over.

Enderl was left to run through the B Main feature race to qualify for the A Main.

Starting off the front row alongside Adam King, he soon settled in to a solid drive, creating space between himself in second and Joel Heinrich in third.

Heinrich began to close the gap and when a caution period arrived with just six laps remaining a transfer position for Enderl was under threat.

He survived that scare, before another with three laps to run added more pressure.

In the end Enderl greeted the chequered flag in second place with a transfer to the A Main completed.

More carnage came in the A Main feature race, with Veal taken out on the opening lap.

Having started out of seventh place, Veal was caught up with another car, which saw a light roll and contact with Dumesny and Brett Millburn.

Meanwhile Jones, Goodyer and Mollenoyux began a good battle for the lead after the restart.

Mollenoyux eventually passed Goodyer for second then set about chasing down Jones.

That came with nine laps gone as Mollenoyux began to stamp his authority on the feature race.

However, with 15 laps to run Goodyer began to close in on Jones for second place, then used the high line well to close the margin to the race leader but Mollenoyux looked home, out in front with just two laps remaining.

But as speedway goes, another curved ball was thrown when Enderl spun just before the white flag was shown.

Two laps were then put on the board and Mollenoyux had to hold off the fast-finishing Goodyer and Jones.

He did just that as he cleared out from the green flag and claimed the win after an impressive drive.

Goodyer crossed the line in second place and Jones third.

Pestka finished in fifth place, with Enderl able to restart and finish in 14th.

Mollenoyux went on to win the final night at Warrnambool but after his opening night win and two second place finishes, Goodyer claimed the series honours.

New season to kick off

THE Lower South East Hockey Association 2021 season commences tonight, with Tigers, West, Riddoch Strikers, Redbacks, Cavaliers and Naracoorte to play off across 10 separate competitions. The Division 1 men's and women's competitions will comprise four teams - Tigers, West, Strikers and Redbacks.

In the men's competition Tigers will start as outright favourites, boasting a huge depth and high numbers returning to the sport.

The women's competition is expected to be close between all four teams, with a levelling of the competition due to key player movements between clubs.

Association president Lochie Nisbet said he is pleased by the enthusiasm from clubs and players toward the 2021 season.

"With the shortened 2020 season, we were worried many players may decide to hang up the stick for good," he said.

"We are pleased to see a number of familiar faces playing again.

"Portland advised us early in the new year they would not return this season, so we are hopeful once things settle down they may again return to our competition.

"It is great to be able welcome Naracoorte Division 2 women back this season as well."

Nisbet said along with the familiar faces, most clubs have reported good numbers of new players.

NEW SEASON APPROACHES: Lower South East hockey returns this week, with a 20-round 2021 season penciled in.

An 20-round, 18-week minor season has been scheduled before finals.

The competition kicks off tonight with West and Tigers Division 1 and 2 women facing off.

The match of the round will be between West and Tigers in the Division 1 men on Sunday at 2:30pm.

It is a replay of last year's grand final which Tigers won.

West will field some new talent and this game will be a barometer for them and the competition in general.

Junior games will commence after the school holidays.

Former Crow visits Demons

Jacobs said it is a part of the job he enjoys.

"It was good to get down and spend some time with our rural members and supporters and visit some of our partners as well," he said.

"Being a country boy is was a good opportunity for me to get out of the city as well."

Jacobs said he was comfortable with his decision to retire but was also pleased to still be involved with the Crows.

"I always wanted to come back to the club in some capacity and this opportunity came up which worked really well for me and the club," he said.

"I am happy in retirement but it is good to have a connection with the playing group and the club itself."

Jacobs hails from Ardrossan on the Yorke Peninsular where he has taken on a role of playing coach for the A Grade side.

He said it was important for him to be able to return to where it all started and finish his playing days.

"I am very connected to the grass roots level of sport," he said.

"I always wanted to play at home which is exciting for the town and the competition."

Jacobs said it was also important to visit regional areas like Mount Gambier and the Limestone Coast, which he said offers great support to the Adelaide club.

As for the young Demons, he was impressed.

After sharing an interesting yarn about Brendan Fevola in his playing days, Jacobs ran a couple of drills to finish his visit.

"They are a talented playing group," he said.

"They have good numbers at South Gambier which is a positive for them.

"Coaching is a passion of mine so it was good to be able to get there to run some drills even if only for a few minutes and have a chat to them."

ADELAIDE Crows fans and South Gambier young footballers were given the chance to engage with former Crow Sam Jacobs this week when he made a whirlwind tour to the region.

Now retired from football, Jacobs has taken on the role of Club Engagement Executive with the Crows and part of that sees him out and about in the country regions.

The young Demons were impressed and were given a treat as Jacobs ran them through a couple of drills before he was whisked away.
