Little trees, big investment

A MAJOR $7m upgrade to OneFortyOne's Glencoe nursery will produce an additional four million seedlings annually and improve working conditions on-site.

The significant investment will introduce state-of-the-art technology to the site from July, including an improved irrigation system to deliver efficiencies in irrigation, fertigation, and pest control.

Among those to benefit from improved on-site working conditions is nursery manager Craig Torney (pictured), with a bulk of the operations to be relocated under cover.

Vaccine hub mothballed

PLANS to establish a COVID vaccination clinic at the Millicent Italian Club have been axed, with Wattle Range Council footing a $4000 bill for preparation work ahead of SA Health hiring the site.

Council chief executive Ben Gower said council had since been advised SA Health would not establish a vaccination clinic following "government changes to how they are going to roll their vaccines out".

Bump in city birth issues

A NOTED increase in pregnancy complications within the Mount Gambier district has led an experienced obstetrician to act in the hope of preventing issues pre-conception.

Dr Monique Kanters said several health factors among women and men were contributing to complexities with pregnancies and childbirth, triggering a free seminar next week to support couples' decision-making.

Rates rise and fall

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

HUNDREDS of ratepayers across the Limestone Coast could receive an unexpected rate cut next financial year, while others will be hit with increases running into triple digits.

The region's seven councils have released their draft annual business plan and budgets, with proposed rate increases ranging from 7.4pc to 1pc.

Grant District Council has taken the top spot in terms of rate rises, proposing a 7.4pc increase in total rate revenue to collect an extra $746,089 next financial year.

Naracoorte Lucindale Council has flagged a 1pc increase in general rates and expects to post the only surplus of any council in the region.

Average residential rates in Port MacDonnell will increase by $74, while Compton ratepayers can expect to pay an additional $102.

Rate increases for the average residential properties in Allendale East, Caroline, Carpenter Rocks, Dismal Swamp, Donovans, Kongorong, Mingbool, Mount Schank, Pleasant Park, Racecourse Bay, Tarpeena and Wepar will be less than $20.

Yahl and Pelican Point ratepayers can expect to pay an additional $89 a year.

Almost half (46pc) of ratepayers in the Naracoorte Lucindale Council will experience a decrease in rates and another 6pc can expect an increase of between 0 and 1pc.

Rates are also expected to decrease across Wattle Range Council, with residential properties expected to decrease by $16 on average.

But Wattle Range's primary producers will face rate increases of up to 10pc, with the average increase estimated at $139 per year.

Wulanda branding released

MOUNT Gambier City Council has endorsed the branding for the Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre.

The design incorporates elements of local First Nations artist Belinda Bonney's artwork and will be featured throughout the centre.

According to council, the logo takes inspiration from the rounded corners featured within the building design with overlapping shapes reinforcing the idea of connection.

Ms Bonney said she was proud to have her artwork, the symbol for waterways, included in the centre branding.

"If we keep our waterways strong and flourishing for the next generation, we'll be able to continue to meet, connect and enjoy being on Country, which is everything the centre will offer us when it is finished," Ms Bonney said.

Adelaide Design Agency KWP worked with Ms Bonney to ensure design elements were incorporated respectfully within the logo and brand through culturally appropriate digital design elements.

Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre Committee presiding member councillor Ben Hood said the Wulanda brand was a clean, personable and aspirational design.

"The new brand is a highly professional mark and at the same time, familiar and approachable," Cr Hood said.

"It will allow council to promote the new centre and our city throughout the state and country. I cannot wait to see the new brand realised in all its forms."

Little trees given big investment at Glencoe

A MAJOR $7m upgrade to OneFortyOne's Glencoe nursery will produce an additional four million seedlings annually and streamline the growing process.

The significant investment will introduce state-of-the-art technology to the site from July, including an improved irrigation system to deliver efficiencies in irrigation, fertigation, and pest control.

On-site working conditions will also be improved with new shedding to house all operations, except for the growing phase, while a new automatic vacuum seeding will allow trays to be filled, seed sown and covered in one pass.

OneFortyOne Nursery manager Craig Torney said planning for the upgrade started four years ago, aiming to improve the site's sustainability and workforce well-being.

"By introducing technology to assist and streamline the process, the upgrade will increase container growing capacity three-fold with the potential to grow an additional four million container seedlings per year," Mr Torney said.

"Instead of needing to bend or crouch down to work at ground level, we'll have a process where trees will be grown in trays at a bench set to a more ergonomic height," he said.

"The move away from field growing into bench supported containers will improve our working conditions, site safety and sustainability, and ultimately result in a better end product for forest growers and local timber processing customers across the region.

"The investment is a sign of OneFortyOne's confidence in the future of the industry and our commitment to remaining part of our local community."

The upgrade moves almost all winter production under cover and includes improved facilities such as new amenities and lunchroom, as well as internal road upgrades and nursery beautification.

Works will start in July with the project due to be completed in 2023.

The Glencoe Nursery has been in operation since 1982 and supplies over 10 million trees for OneFortyOne and other forest growers in the region.

Eagle given fighting chance

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

AN INJURED wedge-tailed eagle rescued from a roadside near Nelson has had a strong start to its recovery thanks to several Limestone Coast animal carers.

Mount Gambier wildlife rescuer Julia Dangerfield and South East Veterinary Clinic both played a key role in treating the raptor, which had suffered feather loss and lacerations.

The bird has since been relocated to Adelaide for specialist care where it is expected to endure a long road to recovery.

Ms Dangerfield said the eagle was found on a roadside between Mount Gambier and Nelson and showed visible signs of injury and disorientation.

"The vets reviewed him and did a medical assessment and found he was missing a number of feathers needed for flight," Ms Dangerfield said.

"Although it has a bit of a limp, there were no broken bones which is fantastic because if everything goes according to plan he will make a full recovery and regrow his feathers."

Ms Dangerfield said the optimism was not typically shared with birds found in similar shape, urging the public to be wary of birds while travelling.

"The issue with eagles around here is that they eat roadkill, they are not huge into hunting and are happier eating the kill on the road and because people hit roadkill and just leave it, eagles are then eating right on the side of the road," she said.

POSITIVE OUTLOOK: Mount Gambier wildlife carer Julia Dangerfield said it was rare for a rescued wedge-tail eagle to not have broken limbs.

"When wedge-tailed eagles try and fly off they actually need a run up to take off because they are so heavy so vehicles come along and the eagles can't get out of the way fast enough and they either end up getting hit or rolled by the turbulence."

Ms Dangerfield said rescued eagles were often found with serious injuries such as broken legs and wings.

The wildlife rescuer said it was critical animals struck by vehicles were also checked to see if care can be rendered or if a dependent animal, such as a joey, required rescuing.

"We do encourage people to stop and report if they see any injured animals because it's common for people to just drive around and not do anything," Ms Dangerfield said.

"I think people have just grown up around it so much now they don't think to stop and check pouches or move the carcasses off the side of the road because it is so common here," she said.

Blue Lake Vet's Doctor Caroline Weston said the clinic treated a diverse range of wildlife, including koalas, possums and bats.

"They are typically hit by cars, attacked by domestic animals or hurt through people hunting wildlife," Dr Weston said.

"Most injuries are too severe to treat resulting in euthanasia with only a quarter being treatable and relying heavily on experienced careers with specific knowledge."

Healthy start to reduce pregnancy issues

leon.georgiou@tbwtoday.com.au

A MOUNT Gambier Obstetrician will hold free preconception counselling sessions in a bid to reduce complexities experienced during pregnancy and childbirth.

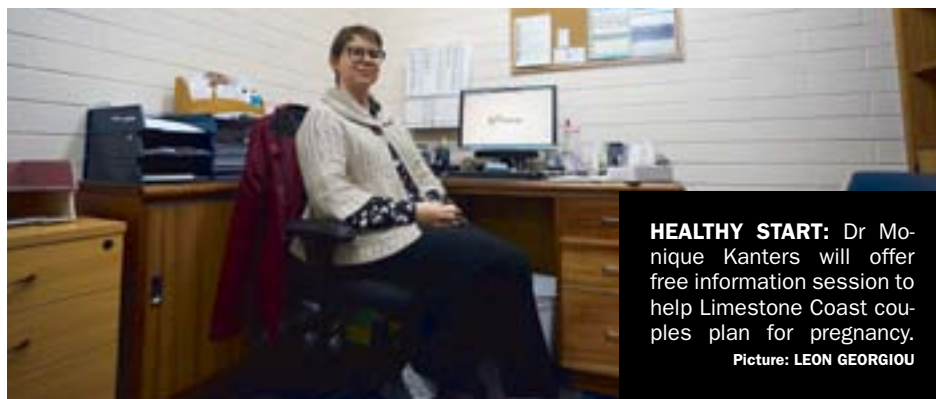

Dr Monique Kanters said the Before the Baby session would help couples plan for pregnancy to increase their chance of having an uneventful labour.

Held at Mount Gambier Library on May 27 from 6.30pm, Dr Kanters aimed to give the community access to accurate medical information prior to falling pregnant.

"I think in the long term, we need to get good information out there to people, not just whatever they've happened to get on Google," Dr Kanters said.

Dr Kanters has noted a rise in births in the district, accompanied by an increase in complexities experienced during childbirth.

smoking during pregnancy, which Dr Kanters said remained a minor ongoing issue within the community.

Other issues are more widespread and can be attributed to the general increase in the average age of women falling pregnant.

"We do have a fairly young-ish cohort of mothers here, but we're also seeing more women at the older end of the spectrum, in their 30s and even into their 40s. (These women) may tend towards having more complicated medical issues," she said.

Dr Kanters said weight remained another big issue, explaining it was harder for women with a high Body Mass Index (BMI) score to conceive a child.

Similarly, men with a high BMI are more likely to encounter fertility problems.

From a facilities perspective, the Mount Gambier and Districts Health Service is unable to facilitate women with a BMI score of 45 (the extreme obesity category).

"Ultimately, these women have to be referred to larger centres for their antenatal care, as well as their deliveries, which is not ideal... we like to be able to offer services locally, but we do have limitations on us because of the level of complexity that comes with those really high BMI scores," Dr Kanters said.

Dr Kanters said the preconception sessions were not just designed for women.

"There are things that the guys have to do as well, so this is not just a women's only session because it's a team effort, and both members of the team have to be up to scratch really."

Depending on the interest, Dr Kanters hoped to increase the frequency of sessions each year.

Council back in black

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

ALMOST half of Naracoorte Lucindale Council's ratepayers will experience a decrease in rates next financial year as under its draft annual business plan and budget.

Council is proposing a 1pc increase in general rates in 2021/22, estimating 2890 - or 46pc - of ratepayers will experience a decrease in rates as a result. ??

Around two-thirds (67pc) of ratepayers will have a general rate increase of less than $52 next financial year, with another 13pc of properties having an increase of less than $100 for the year.

Naracoorte Lucindale expects to collect $10.7m in rates in the upcoming financial year, with almost half (56.6pc) derived from the primary production sector.

Council chief executive Trevor Smart was confident the proposed budget was an appropriate balance between the current economic climate and ensuring staff and elected members continued to deliver on the community's expectation for effective services. ?

"In 2021 we see the continued impact and recovery efforts of the COVID-19 pandemic and council has worked hard to retain a low rate increase to reflect the pressure on families at this time," he said.

Despite the modest increase in general rate revenue and a proposed $11.5m for capital works and projects, Naracoorte Lucindale is estimating a $580,000 budget surplus - the only Limestone Coast council to be in the black in 2021/22. ??

Council's draft budget includes a $2m allocation to the redevelopment of the Naracoorte Library, which will be housed in the former Naracoorte Herald building on Smith Street. ??

The recently released plans include creating a new extension to the library for a dedicated children's and parent's area, a social gathering and reading area and a refreshed street facade with new landscaping and urban seating.

Almost $700,000 has been allocated for continued upgrades of the Naracoorte Regional Livestock Exchange, including solid settling areas in the sheep yards and truck wash, a sprinkler system and yards and walkway improvements.

Council has allocated $240,000 to implement the Naracoorte Creek and Creek Walk Plan, which aims to establish a high-quality linear park through the Naracoorte township area, including the installation of weirs.

Lucindale will receive a upgrades to its skate park and centennial park, a pump track and town entrance and wayfinding signage as a result of a $323,363 allocation, while Frances has been allocated funds to implement its masterplan - including the installation of artwork, entrance statements and completion of the town centre focal point.

McTernan Park's aged playground infrastructure will be replaced following a $177,000 allocation, while funding for major events including the Tour of the Great South Coast Bike Race, Fringe Festival and the World Heritage Run will continue.

Rates up 6.6pc

KINGSTON District Council's planned dredging campaign has been identified as a primary contributor of a $681,096 operating deficit in the upcoming financial year.

The coastal council's draft annual business plan and budget proposes a 6.6pc increase in general rate revenue to raise $4.2m in 2021/22.

Kingston's Community Wastewater Management System charge will increase by 16pc for property units, with unoccupied units to be charged $300 and occupied houses slated to pay $450.

The increase has been prompted by a review of the system including costs, maintenance considerations, future capital and ongoing compliance which found council was not recovering sufficient funds to ensure the long-term sustainability of the service.

Council will finalise options for the Maria Creek Boat Launching Facility following a joint council and community decision not to reinstate the ramp due to the capital outlay and ongoing operational costs, allocating $50,000 towards Kingston Jetty planning.

A further $50,000 has been allocated to Kingston Foreshore Precinct planning, including upgrades of the Lions Park on Hanson Street.

Kingston has also earmarked $100,000 to develop detailed plans for a staged approach of Rosetown infrastructure and $80,000 towards footpaths.

Council will allocate $90,000 of funding received as part of the Federal Government's Local Roads Community Infrastructure Program towards lighting the 1.2km Maria Creek walking trail and a replacement of all ageing boundary signage at all of council's road entrances.

Volunteer Support Officer

12 month Fixed Term - Multiple roles across the state

St John is a charity in the South Australian community working for the Service of Humanity. Our vision for the future, whether acting alone or in partnership with others, is the provision of charitable and humanitarian services to individuals, groups and organisations. Our relief work for persons in sickness, distress, suffering or danger recognises no barrier of race, colour or creed.

Within South Australia, St John SA engages some 1,000 volunteers supporting the community in the provision of First Aid services and community services. St John SA also employs approximately 100 paid staff, located across the state.

Make your mark in these newly created roles, which will capitalise on your generalist HR experiences coupled with your training expertise. St John is seeking experienced personnel to fulfil the following vacancies:

- Adelaide metro - 2 fulltime roles
- Regional SA - 1 part time role of up to 0.6 FTE within each of the Whyalla, Port Lincoln, Mt Gambier and Riverland areas.

Initially reporting to the Executive Manager People Performance and Culture, the successful candidates will administer the effective recruitment, engagement, on-boarding and development of volunteers within programs including Operations, Cadets and Community Care. The role is a key influencer in relation to recruitment activities, protocols and related compliance, as well as taking an active role in people related matters such as selected training and conflict resolution within the volunteering population.

Incumbents must be prepared to work within flexible arrangements including weekends and out of business hours in order to satisfy business needs and requirements. Successful candidates will be:

- experienced in conducting interviews and selection
- capable to deliver training and educational requirements
- well versed in providing generalist and contemporary HR advice and support
- have the ability to engage with and interact with third parties in an effort to drive recruitment initiatives

Please apply with your updated resume and cover letter addressing the key requirements of the role as detailed within the Job and Person Specification (available on the St John Ambulance SA website) and advising of your preferred working location. Your cover letter should include a succinct description of how your experience, abilities, knowledge and personal qualities would enable you to achieve the key accountabilities and succeed in the position.

St John SA values diversity in the workplace and is an equal opportunity employer.

Enquiries may be directed to the Executive Manager People Performance and Culture on (08) 8306 6969 or at hr@stjohnsa.com.au

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

WATTLE Range Council has allocated $1.1m towards the construction of a new machinery shed for its Millicent Works Depot in its 2021/22 draft annual business plan and budget, but has yet to select where the new facility will be located.

But no funds have been allocated to the proposed $5.5m new council office, which councillors voted to build on corner of North Terrace and Williams Road in Millicent, with Wattle Range chief executive Ben Gower saying it was "premature to include it in this budget".

Council's draft annual business plan and budget proposes a number of upgrades for the Aberle Street works depot, including $55,000 for automatic gates, $33,000 for office and lunchroom floor renewal and $11,000 to upgrade lighting to LED lights. Rates will increase by 2.5pc across Wattle Range, plus growth from new developments.

Mr Gower said the new machinery shed, which is one of the largest capital works projects proposed for the next financial year, was required to house councils' equipment.

"We can't fit any graders, trucks or any plant machinery in the current shed, so we have a lot of the equipment that is not being stored inside," he said.

"We have got to build a fit-for-purpose, all season, all weather facility to store our equipment."

Mr Gower said a site for the new machinery shed had yet to be finalised, but expected it would be located in close proximity to Millicent's industrial sector.

The surprise inclusion of the machinery shed is in addition to a renewal of the premiss shed at council's Millicent depot, which is currently underway and expected to be complete in July.

Originally earmarked as a $110,000 upgrade,

DRAFT BUDGET: Wattle Range Council director corporate services Paul Duka examines the 2021/22 draft annual business plan and budget, which is currently out for public consultation. The average residential ratepayer in Wattle Range is estimated to receive a saving on their rates if the budget is adopted.

additional funds have been required for the upgrade resulting in an increase of $57,000.

According to council's third budget review, a further $33,000 has been spent on building designs for the Millicent Depot.

Mr Gower floated the potential for the depot to be relocated in the future, saying the Depot Masterplan would assist council in determining the viability of the current offices.

Despite preliminary work moving ahead at proposed office site on North Terrace and Williams Road, no funding has been allocated for the new administration office in the draft document.

"It will be premature to include that in this budget, because we still need to bring detailed designs back to council," Mr Gower said.

"The broad concept has been agreed to, but we need to get costings to ensure the new facility is within the figure councillors have previously endorsed."

Mr Gower said if an allocation was needed to progress the $5.5m, it could be included in one of councils' budget reviews.

A bulk of council's $26.7m budget will be spent on capital expenditure, with the $3.5m construction of Tower Road the biggest expense in 2021/22.

Council has allocated $1m the Border and Casterton Road intersection, in addition to $500,000 for Border Road, $150,000 on the Gordon Street and Dergholm Road intersection and $330,000 on the Mount Burr Service Road.

Approximately $1.9m has been allocated towards resheets and reseals across the council areas and a further $264,000 will be spent on footpaths, including Millicent's Kentish Place, Williams Road and Ridge Terrace.

A new machinery shed is also slated for the Beachport Works depot, with council allocation $275,000 towards the project in the draft budget.

The Beachport Boat Ramp will receive $130,000 to repair the concrete ramp and renew pontoons, on top of the recurrent $150,000 allocated for the facility's dredging campaign.

Council has allocated $22,000 for furnishings, signage and equipment at the Millicent dog park, which is located behind Centennial Park, $55,000 to seal the Lake McIntyre car park and $26,000 to repair the Geltwood anchor shelter in Southend.

After being saved from closure earlier this year, $138,000 will be spent on lighting replacements and timber railings at the Millicent Saleyards in addition to $35,000 for "various infrastructure repairs".

City Council tables $45m loan borrowings

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

ALMOST all of Mount Gambier City Council's proposed $54m capital expenditure for 2021/22 will fund the Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre, with its draft annual business plan and budget showing it will owe $45m in loans.

The draft document shows council has allocated $45.1m to the facility, formerly known as the Mount Gambier Community and Recreation Hub, in the upcoming financial year.

Loan borrowings will increase by $26.8m next financial year to fund the project, which is co-funded with Commonwealth and State Government grant funding.

Mount Gambier mayor Lynette Martin said the completion of building works - which is now scheduled to be finished mid-2022 - was a key influence on the draft document.

"The budget continues to ensure that service delivery is maintained while council oversees the development of its largest ever infrastructure project, the Wulanda Recreation and Convention Centre," she said.

"The build at Olympic Park is expected to be completed in Autumn 2022 and I am very excited for the community to have access to his much needed state of the art facility.

"Wulanda will be a place for all, providing aquatic, sports, cultural, youth, cafe and creche facilities as well as a convention space for the benefit of the entire community."

Acting chief executive Barbara Cernovskis said rates will continue to increase by 4.5pc in line with council's 10-year plan, but was unable to provide details on average rate increases until next month.

"Council is notified about the differential rating outcomes in mid-June each year, so we can't provide the details for 2021/2022 at this time," she said.

A majority of capital works under the draft plan will focus on asset renewal, including $2.1m on road reconstruction, $400,000 to refurbish the Valley Lakes toilet, $145,000 towards upgrades at the Mount Gambier Library - including Bookmark Cafe - and $300,000 towards the Railway Lands play space. Council is proposing to spend $1.1m - including $800,000 in State Government funding - to extend the shared walking/cycling path from Wandilo Road to Wireless Road and install solar lighting and $600,000 towards its LED street lighting project.

According to the organisation's long-term financial plan, which was endorsed at the February meeting, council plans to run a deficit for the next five financial years, peaking next financial year at $2.2m, before returning to surplus in 2026/27.

Council expects to post a $4m surplus in 2030/31.

GRANT District Council will facilitate negotiations for a joint occupancy agreement between two groups for the use of Donovans Hall following a recommendation from an independent review.

But members of the Donovans Recreational Advisory Committee are apprehensive of granting joint occupancy, claiming the Glenelg River Classic Boat Club has indicated it was not interested in a shared agreement.

The future leasing and licensing arrangements for the community facility has been put on hold for almost a year, after the advisory committee sought a review of a council resolution granting leases to the Victorian-based boat club.

At council's June 2020 meeting, elected members awarded the lease over the building to the boat club, which has held concurrent leases over the facility from December 1999.

At the time, a staff report said several options were available for consideration, including offering individual leases to the boat club and the progress association, or a licence to occupy to both parties for joint use of the facility.

While the report said the Donovans committee would "consider" allowing the boat club to use their building, the group have since claimed it had been "taken out of context and added by council and considered an unfair input by council".

Following council's resolution, the Donovans-based association lodged an internal review, with president Steve Gillett telling elected members the group "struggle to understand council's decision to choose a non-South Australian club which has three facilities in their own town of Nelson, Victoria over ratepayers in their own council district

In a review, Norman Waterhouse Lawyers partner Felice D'Agostino said there was "significant merit" to grant occupancy rights to both the Donovans group and the boat club.

"It wasn't clear to me, based on the information I had, there had been an explosion of the possibility of both these organisations being accommodated," she said.

"If there is a possibility they both can be accommodated, in my view, it is worth exploring".

At Monday night's council meeting, Mr Gillett said the association would be willing to share the facility with the boat club, but said the boat club was not interested in a joint agreement.

"If they are not allowing us to share it with us or have part control so we can use it, we're back to where we were 12 months ago," he said.

In a letter to council, boat club president Allan Wilkinson and secretary/treasurer Bruce Mackereth said the group had provided access to the facility to a number of organisations, including the Donovans Shack Owners Group, Donovans Recreation Association Group, Glenelg River Angling Club and SA Health since securing the lease 21 years ago.

The club stated it had undertaken significant maintenance and upgrade works to the building, including rebuilding the slipway to enable access to anyone, including people who are not members of the boat club.

Elected members authorised Grant chief executive Darryl Whicker to facilitate an agreement and report back to council in 60 days.

PLAQUES REMAIN: The memorial plaques located on Port MacDonnell's Sea Parade will not be moved to the town's war memorial.

Soldiers set to move on

THE Port MacDonnell and District RSL sub-branch has shelved plans to remove 10 soldier's plaques from under the trees of Sea Parade and relocate them to a new memorial area.

In one of the final activities before the sub-branch permanently closes, members are undertaking a major beautification project on the coastal town's war memorial.

The group intends to commemorate the Port MacDonnell War Memorial with a new area and garden on Sea Parade to recognise those who paid the supreme sacrifice in Australian theatres of war.

In addition to installing a black granite structure with the crests of the Australian Defence Force, the project also included relocating the soldier's plaques to the memorial area.

However, the sub-branch has since decided not to pursue the relocation of the memorial plaques and instead incorporate the details on the plaques into the memorial design.

At this week's Grant District Council meeting, Port MacDonnell ward councillor Gill Clayfield said the town's returned soldiers were "really cross" with the proposed relocation.

Cr Clayfield said discussions with a heritage advisor also recommended against the relocation.

MOUNT Gambier's iconic Cave Gardens will light up this winter as the region is given receive a sneak peek into the Illuminate Adelaide art, light and technology showcase.

Digital Garden in Mount Gambier is the first of three regional installations as part of the extensive program, which will largely take place in Adelaide from June 9.

The inner-city garden will be illuminated by art installation from international and Australian artists, with an immersive experience to also explore the union of future technologies and creative industries.

A trail of installations, lasers and light projections will feature at the tourist site as part of the free exhibit. South Australian Tourism Commission chief executive Rodney Harrex said the exhibit would be for the community but would aim to bring visitors to the region.

"The great thing about Mount Gambier is it has central access to both the Limestone Coast and Western Victoria, which is an important market for the state," Mr Harrex said.

Mr Harrex said prior to the COVID-19 pandemic and the closure of the South Australian-Victorian border, Victorians accounted for close to 40pc of tourists entering South Australia.

"We see this event as a great taster in the build up to the Adelaide event, which we know works well," Mr Harrex said.

"We are giving Mount Gambier and its surrounds a look ahead of everyone else, which is really exciting for the region.

"Mount Gambier has a good population base and a fantastic environment for the installations and the Cave Gardens is really a natural amphitheatre where everyone can enjoy themselves."

LIGHT COLLABORATION: Mount Gambier Library manager Georgina Davison celebrates the up and coming Digital Gardens event with SATC chief executive Rodney Harrex and Events South Australia executive director Hitaf Rasheed.

Despite being a winter event, the chief executive encouraged residents and visitors alike to don their best coats and enjoy a meal at the gardens while observing the show.

"The exciting thing is that it will be exhibited for an extended period of time giving residents and visitors the opportunity to experience it over and over again," he said.

Given the exhibit needs to be viewed at night for full effect, Mr Harrex said it would mean people would need to stay overnight in the region.

The Mount Gambier Library will host a series of events throughout June to coincide with the installation.

Urged to voice view

SOUTH Australians who want choice and compassion at end of life are being urged to get loud and contact their local Member of Parliament.

With Lower House MPs set to begin debate on Wednesday, May 26, the 80pc of South Aussies who support reform now have a critical role to play.

Despite overwhelming community support for this legislation and similar laws already passed in three states, many South Australian MPs remain undecided.

Many of these MPs are actively seeking feedback from their local community ahead of a final vote, so if South Australians want the right to die with dignity, now's the time to act.

There are three quick ways everyone can play a role:

1. Email or telephone your local MP to ensure they know how strongly you feel about choice and compassion. The full list of MPs and contact details is here: <https://www.parliament.sa.gov.au/en/House-of-Assembly/Members>
2. Send a short, sharp Letter to the Editor of your favourite newspaper, reinforcing that Victorians have had access to the scheme for nearly two years, and our laws will have the same 68 safeguards while providing choice and compassion at end of life.
3. Urge your family, friends and neighbours to take action too, including contacting their local MP and joining Voluntary Assisted Dying South Australia on Facebook to share posts about campaigns and upcoming events, such as the Candles for Compassion Rally on Wednesday, May 26.

We're holding the rally to honour all those who've suffered at end of life while waiting decades for reform, and to call on Lower House MPs to act swiftly to pass a law that's already been adopted in Victoria, Western Australia and Tasmania.

LAINIE ANDERSON, VOLUNTARY ASSISTED DYING SA SPOKESPERSON

Editor's note: A Candles for Compassion Vigil will be held at Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre tonight from 5pm to 7pm. It has been organised by Voluntary Assisted Dying advocates Jane Qualmann and Jacqui Possingham.

I HAVE Neurofibromatosis Type 2 Schwannoma (NF2) and I viewed the Centenary Tower Monday night from my back deck.

Up until then had no idea of Neurofibromatosis Day and I want to say thank you to Mount Gambier for taking part in this world-wide event I didn't even know existed till Monday.

This has given me a great relief (feel like I've been let out of the closet) as 99pc of people including doctors have never heard of NF2.

It is not easy to live with and so uplifting for me to know someone out there cares and research is happening.

Prostate foundation says thanks

THIS National Volunteer Week (May 17-23), Prostate Cancer Foundation of Australia is shining a light on volunteers across the country who are making a tangible difference in the fight for a cancer free future.

Dedicated volunteers run more than 130 prostate cancer support groups around Australia, helping thousands of men and their partners through what is often, the most challenging experience of their life.

In addition, thousands of fundraisers volunteer their time every day to help us fund lifesaving research into more effective treatment options, to ultimately save lives.

Volunteers are the heart and soul of our charity and are the reason that survival rates continue to improve for Aussie men impacted by prostate cancer.

In Australia, nearly 17,000 men are diagnosed with prostate cancer each year, and around 95 per cent of men will survive their diagnosis.

There's still more work to be done, but for now, we want to say thank you. If you're reading this, and you volunteer, thank you. Your efforts save lives and charities, like PCFA, can't survive without you.

At times you need to retreat

MOIRA NEAGLE

now here's a thought

I THINK we should forgive ourselves if we are finding that we are suffering from moral fatigue. Watching the evening news can be an exercise in self-inflicted pain.

A media building or a housing tower in Gaza disintegrating, family members weeping at the burning embers of their loved ones in India, politicians arguing incessantly in a mire that has long left behind 'for the good of the people.'

Sometimes, it is simply too much and I choose not to be informed.

It is too difficult to be engaged. For a news junkie like me, this is a serious cold turkey turn away.

It's not wilful ignorance which is a whole other issue. I simply and temporarily have had enough and need to retreat.

I have written previously about making a resolution to contact a Federal Member of Parliament every day to express my outrage at Australia's refugee and offshore detention policies. I would alternate between all parties with my emails.

I seldom received a response and if I did it was an example of many words saying and committing to nothing. I got to sometime in April and I could feel myself writing without any conviction that what I was doing was going to make any difference.

To put it in the vernacular, 'it was doing my head in.' I stopped. Then I felt guilty because I had stopped.

Too many years on, there are still people in limbo on Nauru at extraordinary expense to the Australian taxpayer and a family of four still on Christmas Island.

The practice of recycling, or the lack of, can erode my spirit. I get so frustrated at how so little thought or action is given to what has to be a daily habit for us all in order to manage our own excesses.

Schools out for university graduates

CHARLOTTE VARCOE

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

A SEA of around 90 mortarboards and draping gowns lined Sir Robert Helpmann Theatre last week as University of South Australia students celebrated their graduation.

Students from across the Limestone Coast and south-west Victoria who studied at the Mount Gambier campus celebrated the culmination of their latest academic pursuit, which had been impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

A record number of graduates received their degrees on stage, including several 2019 graduates who were unable to have a formal celebration due to restrictions.

Students and guests, which included family and friends, heard how a significant number of the regional campus's graduates had secured employment in local hospitals, schools, social work agencies and businesses, bolstering the region's professional services.

Among the speakers, which included Uni-SA chancellor Pauline Carr and vice chancellor David Lloyd, was Wattle Range Council chief executive Ben Gower who spoke highly of the students' continued efforts and contributions to the community.

"I did not perform well academically and struggled to find my feet for quite a few years," Mr Gower said.

"Life teaches some really interesting things along the journey, it knocks us out but the key is how we pick ourselves up, dust ourselves off and how we embrace the next journey in life," he said.

"For many of those who graduated, this is that first step in their learning and I encourage them all to continue to learn, embrace study and education as it really does broaden the horizons, not just career wise but also personally."

Ms Carr praised the resilience of the graduates and said learning was significant, encouraging further education.

"This year's graduates' resilience over the past year is proof that their attitude and work ethics give them the freedom to work independently and proves they will let nothing stand in their way of achieving what they set out to achieve," Ms Carr said.

"I am sure one of the keys to their success has been the love and support of those closest to you, including you family and friends, and I am sure they are all aware as a model that without their support the graduates would not be where they are today."

University of South Australia regional manager Ian McKay said the formal graduation ceremony was a highlight for many students and was an opportunity to celebrate their achievements.

"It is a memorable closure of an important chapter of a student's life," Mr McKay said.

"It is important to celebrate this milestone with friends and family alike."

Included in this year's graduation celebration were eight teachers from Warrnambool's Emmanuel College who graduated with a Master of Education degree as part of the successful partnership between the college and university.

Uni set to grow

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

STUDENTS studying throughout 2020 have received high praise for their resilience by University of South Australia vice chancellor David Lloyd.

Visiting the regional Mount Gambier campus last week to celebrate graduations alongside students and colleagues, Mr Lloyd said although 2020 was a difficult year for those studying, it remained a successful period for the university.

While COVID-19 impacted each individual campus differently, Mr Lloyd said students studying at Mount Gambier still exceeded expectations despite having to adhere to restrictions imposed on other areas of the state considered COVID-19 hot spots.

"The Mount Gambier campus was only closed for three days and that was during the Parafield cluster and when you think about how far away that is from Mount Gambier it is quite crazy but rules are rules and we always need to put community health first," Mr Lloyd said.

"We had staff on campus the whole time throughout 2020 and even when we had people working from home there were those on campus to assist anyone who decided to come in."

Mr Lloyd spoke to a number of students during his visit and said many felt they had not been disadvantaged during the peak of the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Much of the educational experience here on the Mount Gambier campus is blended anyway," the vice chancellor said.

"We have a combination of online and then face to face learning so the shift to online learning was not as jarring for some students as it could have been.

"But all in all we went pretty well and we did have a few students who decided to drop out for various reasons but they have actually come back again as they know we are back to normal and able to help the students with anything they need."

Mr Lloyd also congratulated staff on their ability to adapt to working online, stating regional campuses had an upper hand on metropolitan campuses.

"We have the teaching innovation unit which we used to support staff to be online and the Mount Gambier staff had more experience of remote education and technology because a lot of what they do is connected back to the cities," he said.

"The overall transition was pretty okay and we made sure we had the right supports in place but we also have an employment assistance program for anyone who may be stressed or struggling and made sure there were a lot of flexible arrangements in place."

While the city's student numbers have remained steady since the COVID-19 pandemic was declared, Mr Lloyd said transport to the Wireless Road West facility remained an issue.

"One thing that kept coming up when we were speaking with students was accessibility of the campus for those outside of Mount Gambier who are struggling to get to campus," Mr Lloyd said.

"We are really focussed on keeping up that connectivity as we have students coming from Millicent who struggle because of public transportation, so it is something we will have to look into."

Alongside improved transportation, Mr Lloyd said the university would enter discussions with the neighbouring TAFE SA facility to enquire about childcare services in order to maintain a family friendly and flexible learning environment on campus.

"We have been good in terms of program numbers as well and as we increase the number of programs online, there will be opportunities for the Mount Gambier campus to be a learning centre and more of a study hub so people can come in and have access to our tutorials through our infrastructure," he said.

"Education will be one of the learning areas we are looking at expanding as we have seen growth in education offerings because we supply both the primary and secondary specialist degrees, so we will see how that continues in regards to demand."

Campus caught in cyber attack

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

STAFF at the University of South Australia Mount Gambier campus were among those affected by a recent cyber attack which prevented email access and disrupted internal systems.

The university's campuses were subject to the cyber attack on Sunday morning but a university spokesperson said the issue was now being contained with no data breaches identified.

The attack has left staff unable to receive or access emails, with impacts expected to continue in the coming days.

University vice chancellor David Lloyd said university officials notified the relevant authorities as soon as the university was aware of the issue.

"We are working to restore affected systems as soon as possible, but unfortunately it is quite likely that staff emails will be impacted for the new few days," Mr Lloyd said.

"I am very grateful to our information technology team for their diligence and hard work to remedy this matter and also want to thank all concerned for their patience as we work through his inconvenience."

Alongside emails, other internet-based facilities have been interrupted including online bookings and student virtual applications.

Show given green light

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

PLANNING is underway for the Penola Pastoral Agricultural and Horticultural Show with the event to proceed so long as COVID-19 restrictions allow.

The popular country show was one of many cancelled across South Australia last year as a result of ongoing restrictions but show society secretary Kathy Fennell said preparations were underway for this year's event, scheduled for the last weekend of October.

Ms Fennell said the society expected strong support this year following the May cancellation of the 2020 event.

"The crowd will be looking forward to it as they have been talking about it all year," Ms Fennell said.

"Exhibitors are also excited to be able to showcase their produce once again and we have really gone out of our way to organise and provide fantastic entertainment."

While the traditional show is back on the community's social calendar for 2021, Ms Fennell said there would be some differences to comply with ongoing COVID-19 requirements.

"We will have mandatory QR codes for visitors to sign into and there will be sanitising stations and all the rest of it," she said.

"There are still a lot of restrictions and it is a big job to prepare for the show, which is something a lot of people don't realise.

"It is going to be hard work to get the event organised but we are moving with everything now so it can all be approved before showtime."

Ms Fennell predicted the community would be pleased for the event to go ahead with many already asking about the October 29-30 date to lock into their calendars.

"A lot of the cookery people start making their fruit cakes now and the crafty people get a move on this time of the year," Ms Fennell said.

"Not to mention those who enter into the cattle, they choose which cow they want to exhibit and begin working on them now.

"The show is not just one weekend for us or for exhibitors, there is a lot of work leading up to it and we are at that stage where we are getting started now."

Big festival crowd

PENOLA and Coonawarra welcomed art lovers from far and wide over the weekend for the annual Penola Coonawarra Arts Festival.

Organisers have hailed the three-day event a success with over 50 events held from Friday to Sunday.

Friday night's official festival opening was headlined by the announcement of the John Shaw Neilson Acquisitive Art prize, Louis Hodge Local Art prize and the annual Design prize.

Julie Kent won the grand prize with her painting Undressed, inspired by John Shaw Neilson's poem As Far As My Heart Can Go.

The oil painting featured the interior of the private sanctuary of a room with gestural brushwork, capturing the tonal shifts of light and shadow.

"I feel so honoured to have received the prize and was very surprised the judges chose my artwork as there were a lot of fabulous paintings," Ms Kent said.

"I have been painting for 35 years and to win this award is fantastic because it is so prestigious.

"The artwork did take me a lengthy amount of time to complete because there were a lot of hours building the different layers and it was quite thought provoking to pick a poem and paint from there."

Rose Milton won the Local Prize with her artwork Once Upon a Time, inspired by the poem From a Coffin.

Significantly detailed and textured, the portrait of an aging farmer featured an equally rough bark frame and was a meditation of aging and labour with a compelling portrait painted with sensitivity.

Highly commended was David Braun's artwork When the Angels Nearest, inspired and named after the poem.

The masterful ink on paper landscape drawing captured the layered complexity of the poem and showcases technical sophistication and detail.

This year's design winner was Olivia Balk with her colourful, dynamic, fun and well-illustrated piece.

The sense of joy and liveliness showcased the festival with its simple and iconic design will adapt to various formats and requirements of the prize.

Residents and visitors alike braved wintry weather on Sunday for the annual Bendigo Bank Kids Program with face painting, dress up and nature play on hand for young minds to explore.

Play zone nears completion

charlotte.varcoe@tbwtoday.com.au

WORK is progressing on the new nature playground at Penola's McCorquindale Park, injecting a new space to entice learning, imagination and skill development.

Positioned between the football oval and netball courts, construction is progressing and is due to be completed within the month.

McCorquindale Park committee member Josie Abbey said the new playground was progressing better than expected and the feature would add to the facilities at the town's central sporting hub.

"We are so happy with the way the playground is going and think it is a fantastic addition to the area," Ms Abbey said.

"McCorquindale Park is on a roll at the moment with the number of upgrades happening across the board and it is developing into a great community and sporting hub for the area."

Ms Abbey said the nature playground would give children another central play area and would be used heavily over the weekends during sport season.

"It is going to be great for families because it is located in a more central area, it will be easier for parents to keep an eye on their children," she said.

"Although we would ideally love for a bigger space, we are hoping children will enjoy it because it is something different for them to climb on and do during football or netball games."

The playground features a number of natural wood elements for children to enjoy, including a climbing wall and a number of logs and obstacles.

Priorities for Penola

THE Penola Stadium will undergo a $240,000 facelift if Wattle Range Council's draft annual business plan and budget is formally endorsed.

Council has proposed allocating the funds for renewal works, including roofs, gutters and internals at the facility located within the McCorquindale Park complex.

The project will be partly funded by a $120,000 grant from the Education Department.

Almost $90,000 will be spent on upgrades to Penola's Arthur Street toilets - including automatic locks and external painting - with a majority of funds earmarked for floor tile replacement.

Council has allocated $55,000 for landscaping in Penola's town centre and $15,000 towards landscaping around the drainage reserve on Clarke Street.

A further $30,000 has been earmarked to demolish the current storage shed at Rymill Park and construct a new facility at the same site.

Council's Penola works depot is slated for external upgrades with a $22,000 allocation to repair stonework and painting and an additional $22,000 to replace the rear boundary fence at the site.

A $3.5m allocation has been provided to upgrade of Tower Road from Casterton Road to the Riddoch Highway, while $500,000 has been allocated to upgrade 1.8km of Border Road from Dergholm Road.

$15,000 to move Millicent sculpture

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

WATTLE Range Council will spend almost $15,000 to relocate a $138,000 public artwork piece less than 300m from its original proposed site.

The artwork, which was scheduled to be installed last month, will now be located at its original proposed site on the corner of Williams Road and Ridge Terrace after elected members endorsed the new location.

Councillors requested a site relocation feasibility report for the Millicent entry marker statement after raising concerns about the visibility and effectiveness of the art sculpture on the corner of Williams Road and North Terrace.

In the Millicent Parklands and Civic Precinct (Domain) Masterplan, which was adopted by council in 2018, the art sculpture was proposed for the corner of Williams Road and Ridge Terrace.

However, the Domain Planning Committee - which comprises Corcoran Ward elected members, senior staff and a group of local educational staff proposed moving the sculpture due to concerns with the line of sight and a lack of parking.

In October 2020, elected members selected the former netball courts on the corner of Williams Road and North Terrace for its new council office site.

At the same meeting, councillors received and noted an officer report which confirmed the updated location of the marker and entry statement.

"Taking this as a directive, the project team programmed the works, conducted a site survey and developed detailed designs for the sculpture, landscaping and path works between October 2020 and March 2021," a staff report said.

MARKER ON THE MOVE: Millicent's proposed entry sculpture will be moved to the corner of Williams Road and Ridge Terrace at a cost almost $15,000.

Councillors heard a change of site would require an additional site review, including infrastructure assessment, landscaping and reassessing pedestrian and traffic approaches.

The total cost to undertake the additional works was estimated at $19,980 and the new completion date was flagged for July 2021.

The report said council has spent $25,994 from the $138,000 budget allocated in the project.

Elected members supported moving the structure, which depicts a large white hand holding a streamer, to the Williams Road and Ridge Terrace corner.

A model of the works was displayed to the community in the Millicent Public Library and public comment was invited on the designs.

LINE OF SIGHT: Concerns about the proximity of the Millicent marker statement sculpture to Wattle Range Council's proposed $5.5m new office has prompted the relocation of the artwork.

A total of 478 responses were received in the online and ballot polls, with the Exhibition Studios design narrowly winning the public vote with 28pc.

Mount Burr CFS truck delay

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

SHIPPING and manufacturing issues as a result of COVID-19 has delayed the delivery of a new Mount Burr Country Fire Service (CFS) truck, but authorities expect the new truck will be delivered by the end of the year.

The ageing single cab truck has been flagged for replacement as part of the CFS's ongoing maintenance program, with CFS operational infrastructure and logistics director Lee Watson telling The Border Watch in October a new appliance was due to arrive in "coming months".

However, Mr Morgan said the truck has been delayed due a backlog caused by CO-VID-19 shipping and manufacturing delays.

"It is expected that their truck will be delivered before the end of the year," he said.

The Mount Burr truck is one of the oldest in the Wattle Range Group fleet and sits two people in the front and up to four in the back outside of the cab, providing little protection in the event of a burn over.

Currently, crew members are required to sit on a bench seat in the tray of the truck, roll down a curtain and stick the fire hose outside of the curtain.

Volunteers must not only spray the area in their vicinity but also the cabin in front as there is no spray system around the cabin.

The only protection for volunteers who are inside of the cabin is a blanket.

It is one of four single-cab trucks remaining in the Wattle Range group, along with Kalangadoo, Maaoupe and Monbulla.

Previously, Mr Watson said planning was underway to replace the Maaoupe and Kalangadoo trucks in the next 18 months.

Mr Watson said the Kalangadoo station has been identified for replacement as part of the CFS's capital program and planning to start on the new station was slated in the next financial year.

Earlier this year, the Mount Burr CFS station was upgraded to a two-bay shed and includes a meeting room, toilets and washing facilities.

The previous Mount Burr CFS facility was built in 1973 on Pettman Terrace but became unsuited to larger fire trucks.

Morning Melodies to return

MORNING Melodies will make its return to Millicent next month with Allan and Maureen Webster combining with Ian "Bidge" Boyd for three hours of entertainment.

Mr Webster (pictured) and Mr Boyd have previously partnered to bring live music to Millicent, as well as interstate and New Zealand audiences.

They will perform at the Millicent United soccer clubrooms on June 3 from 11am to 2pm.

Preparing for a sold-out event, the Websters plan on donating some proceeds to charity after show expenses have been met.

ity after show expenses have been met.

Tickets are $10 with a 'bring your own lunch' format.

Next month's return of Morning Melodies will be a trial with the Websters hopeful of making it a regular event.

Mr Webster has been involved in the music scene for just over 60 years, and prides himself in delivering a professional performance while attracting quality artists to the region.

Before the demise of the Millicent and District Community Club the Websters presented many successful shows at the club, including Morning Melodies.

Millicent vaccination hub axed

PLANS to establish a COVID vaccination clinic at the Millicent Italian Club have been axed, with Wattle Range Council footing a $4000 bill for preparation work ahead of SA Health hiring the site.

Council chief executive Ben Gower told elected members an unbudgeted $4000 was spent on maintenance works to prepare for a community vaccination clinic.

Mr Gower said council had since been advised SA Health would not establish a vaccination clinic following "government changes to how they are going to roll their vaccines out". Limestone Coast Local Health Network chief executive officer Ngaire Buchanan said authorities conducted a scoping exercise earlier this year to access and explore opportunities for potential vaccination sites, with an increased number of individuals able to access COVID-19 vaccine via general practitioners.

"With GP's now expanding their vaccine delivery to Phase 2a groups, this has allowed more people to access the COVID-19 vaccine in their community," she said.

"We are continuing to plan for the next phase of the rollout and will provide further information on where people can get vaccinated once details are finalised.

"While we continue to progress through the COVID-19 vaccine rollout, GPs, respiratory clinics and pharmacies have played an instrumental role in the vaccine delivery across our region and we continue to support them in their role."

Ms Buchanan said 587 vaccines had been administered at the Millicent Hospital and vaccinations would continue to be rolled out for aged care residents, frontline healthcare and emergency workers and staff across the region in line with the Commonwealth Eligibility framework.

Public Consultation 2021/2022 Draft Annual Business Plan

In accordance with Council's Community Engagement Policy, members of the public are invited to make written submissions to Council in relation to Council's Draft Annual Business Plan for 2021/2022.

Written submissions marked '2021/2022 Draft Annual Business Plan' must be addressed to the Chief Executive Officer, Wattle Range Council, PO Box 27, MILLICENT, SA, 5280, or forwarded by email to council@wattlerange.sa.gov.au and must be received by 5pm on Friday, 11 June 2021.

Members of the public are also invited to attend a Special Meeting of Wattle Range Council to be held on Tuesday, 15 June 2021 in the Civic & Arts Centre, Ridge Terrace, Millicent, commencing at 5 pm, to make submissions to Council in relation to the Draft Plan.

Persons intending to attend the meeting to make a submission are respectfully requested to advise Council's Executive Assistant, Catherine Allen by telephone on 8733 0900, by 5 pm on Monday, 7 June 2021.

Copies of the 2021/2022 Draft Annual Business Plan are available from each of Council's Offices and the Millicent Library, during normal office hours, or can be downloaded from Council's website at www.wattlerange.sa.gov.au/haveyoursay.

A CHILD who became stuck in mud in Mount Gambier's Valley Lake after their pontoon bike became immobilised was rescued without incident.

Emergency services responded to the Valley Lakes precinct on Monday around 3pm after a dislodged propeller caused the aqua craft to become lodged in thick mud.

The child was not considered in immediate danger but was unable to access the shore, with emergency services assisting them back to solid ground.

State Emergency Service Mount Gambier District crew leader Mark Smyth said his team and the city's Metropolitan Fire Service devised a plan to bring the child to shore using a ladder as a bridge back to land.

"We worked together to devise a plan to get the minor out of there, so we got a ladder to him through the weeds and he was able to make his way back to shore before we also got a hold of his pontoon bike," Mr Smyth said.

"It's not very often we get called down here but it is a timely reminder for the public to be mindful of the area when they are here because the mud can catch you out pretty quick.

"Overall it was successful and both teams worked very well together."

Farmer story makes Vogue

LIMESTONE Coast personality and George the Farmer co-creator Simone Kain will be interviewed by Vogue as part of the Vogue Codes Country next week.

The online seminar will feature a number of leaders across the nation and aim to empower future female innovation.

Ms Kain is set to speak on the topic 'Thinking Bigger: Growth Through Connection' and said she looked forward to speaking about her George the Farmer journey, while also shining the spotlight on the Limestone Coast.

"Vogue magazine is synonymous with culture, quality and trends," Ms Kain said.

"I'm honoured to have been recognised as a leader in regional Australia to inspire other young women to start innovating".

The event will be held virtually on May 26 from 9am until 12pm with Ms Kain speaking at 9.15am.

Kingston man hits the Keno jackpot

ALMOST 10 days after the draw, a Kingston man discovered he won a $50,000 Keno prize.

The ecstatic winner scored the Keno Spot 8 prize in the May 8 draw.

Speaking with an official from The Lott, the Limestone Coast man said he was still coming to terms with the exciting news.

"The pub was closing for the night and so I decided to quickly check a few of the tickets I had, they told me they couldn't pay the prize out, so I knew it was a good win," he said.

"Once it was confirmed, I was very, very happy and honestly, it just feels a bit surreal, I think I will get the boys over this afternoon for some beers and a BBQ to celebrate."

When asked how he planned to enjoy his Keno prize, the surprisingly calm winner said he already knew exactly what he was going to do.

"I will definitely pay off the mortgage," he said.

"I also wouldn't mind going on a few little holidays as well."

The winning entry was purchased at Crown Inn Hotel in Kingston with bar manager Tom Gardner said he was celebrating the major prize win.

"When the winner checked his ticket, he was so excited, he had a huge smile on his face," Mr Gardner said.

"We enjoyed some celebratory beers with him, it was great fun, hopefully the winner thinks of our venue as the venue that delivered him a win.

"We couldn't be happier for our winner, not only do we serve great food and have excellent service, but now we're the place to find big Keno wins too."

READY TO GO: Brittany Close will face her fears as part of the Ronald McDonald House fundraiser.

Brittany taking the plunge for charity

JOURNALIST

TOUCHED by the generosity of the Ronald McDonald House in support of her younger brother, Mount Gambier's Brittany Close will face her fears in a bid to raise over $1000 for the charity.

Ms Close will be one of 100 people abseiling down Adelaide's InterContinental Hotel, braving the 25-storey descent for her younger brother Joseph Lockwood, a beneficiary of the Ronald McDonald House program.

Joseph was born 24 weeks premature and Ms Close recalls staying at the Ronald McDonald House as an 11 year old while her mother and brother received specialist care.

Joseph endured a brain hemorrhage during the birthing process, which was complicated for both mother and child.

Since his birth, Joseph has had multiple surgeries, including on his brain and hip, while also being developing cerebral palsy.

"I was only 11 at the time Joseph was born and because I was so young we all had to go up to Adelaide as well," Ms Close said.

"Mum couldn't really be away from us for too long so we stayed at the Ronald McDonald House and they were just fantastic and because (Joseph's) disorder is a bit too complicated for regional hospitals, whenever he gets sick we usually have to go up to Adelaide," Ms Close said.

"Sometimes it would be on short notice or for longer periods of time and we wouldn't know where to stay or wouldn't be able to afford it, which is when we usually stay at the charity."

Ms Close said although her brother's health had now improved, she wanted to raise awareness of the critical service.

"They always had things for us to do if we were missing school and the people there helped us so much, especially mum emotionally," Ms Close said.

"They are like our friends and family and I want to ensure regional families are aware of what they do there and how they help because one day it might be them that need to go and stay there."

Speaking on the event at hand, Ms Close said it was something out of her comfort zone but was a worthy cause.

"I am nervous because I have never been abseiling before so it is out of my comfort zone, but Joseph thinks it is hilarious and wants to see if I burst into tears on the day," she said.

"What I am calling for now is the community to support this cause because the Ronald McDonald House itself is a community.

"I am not a super outgoing person and so it is out of my comfort zone to ask people to donate but it is for such a good cause and is close to me and my family so I am happy to do it."

Donations are able to be made to Ms Close's charity through the Ronald McDonald House website before her descent down the building on August 27.

More support to age well in the Mount

STAYING independent and at home is important for many people as they age.

But it can be confusing to work through all of the options and figure out what will best suit you.

Uniting Communities is making this easier for older people in Mount Gambier and surrounding towns, welcoming two new staff members to its Wehl Street office in recent months.

"There's so much to think through when you're looking for support to stay in your home, as well as an assessment with the government's My Aged Care team," care worker Debbie Lynch said.

"Many people find it overwhelming and don't know where to start," she said.

"That's why we're here. Together, our team has worked in aged care for 15 years, so we know the system well.

"We're all Mount Gambier locals, too, so have had a lot to do with the community in town and throughout the Limestone Coast."

Uniting Communities offers two support programs funded by the Australian Government Department of Health: the Commonwealth Home Support Program and Home Care Packages.

It also offers private, fee-for-service programs.

"You might want help with things like showering, cooking, gardening or cleaning - or even support to get out and about a bit more and catch up with friends," Ms Lynch said.

"We can help you and your family to work all of that out.

"The main thing is to help you explore your choices, then find a way to support you to stay independent, happy and safe."

The Uniting Communities' team can visit you at home, or speak to you on the phone, to find the options that will work best for you.

And they're not only supporting people in Mount Gambier - care workers will help you if you're living in a nearby town.

"It doesn't matter if you're in Penola, Millicent, Port MacDonnell or somewhere in between, you can access our services," Ms Lynch said.

"We're happy to visit you at home to talk through the options, write up a quote and advise you about how to get the most out of your budget.

"We'll also support you to make changes to your plan at any stage."

If you would like more information, call Joumana at Uniting Communities on 1800 615 677 to talk through your choices for living independently at home.

AGE INDEPENDENT.

With a Home Care Package from Uniting Communities, you can tailor a package of services to support your lifestyle and your wellbeing at home. You may want support with personal care, health & wellbeing, cleaning & home maintenance, gardening, shopping & errands. Whatever you need, we're here.

Celebrating new citizens

WHEN Oanh Whicker came to Australia from south Vietnam in 2014, she knew no English, had no family and had big dreams.

This week, Ms Whicker's young family proudly beamed as she recited the citizenship pledge and was welcomed as Grant District Council's newest Australian citizen.

Ms Whicker's naturalisation ceremony is the culmination of a journey that started almost eight years ago, when her father urged her to leave her hometown.

"My dad was sick and he got some money to have surgery on his kidneys, but then he decided not to do it," she said.

"He gave me the money because he wanted me to go overseas, so I decided to go to Australia."

Ms Whicker migrated to Adelaide where she started a university degree at Flinders University in aged care.

After a three-year courtship, she married her partner Darryl in July 2017 and the couple moved to Quorn, with Mr Whicker securing a role at the Flinders Ranges Council and Ms Whicker working as a registered nurse at the Quorn Hospital.

In October 2019, the couple and their young daughter Olivia moved to the region after Mr Whicker secured Grant District Council's top job.

Their second child Darson was born in January 2020 and Ms Whicker is currently employed as a registered nurse at Mount Gambier Hospital's surgical ward.

In a nod to her heritage, Ms Whicker wore a red áo dài - a Vietnamese national garment - to Monday's naturalisation ceremony, with the colour symbolising prosperity, happiness and luck in the South East Asian culture.

"My mum wanted me to wear red because it is lucky and I wanted to wear the áo dài to remember where I come from while I celebrate my new home," she said.

"I am nervous about becoming Australian because I can now vote, so it is important for me to understand the politics of the country."

"Darryl has helped me a lot because he has worked in council and my work in an Australian environment has also helped my language skills and understanding of how things work."

In a further attempt to bring her culture to the region, Ms Whicker is currently planning to open a Vietnamese restaurant in Mount Gambier later this year.

She expects the restaurant to be open by July.

AIRBORNE GEOPHYSICAL SURVEY

Geoscience Australia in collaboration with South Australia, Victoria and NSW, is conducting an airborne geophysical survey over a large area of eastern Australia in 2021, as seen in the map below.

The survey will be carried out by a fixed-wing aircraft fitted with specialist geophysical equipment flying on 20 km – spaced lines. The aircraft and the equipment that it tows will be flying at approximately 100 metres above the ground. There will be no ground contact within the survey area.

Whilst flyovers will not present any known COVID 19 risk to the population, all appropriate preventative actions will be undertaken by ground staff and flight crew

Tips to improve home security

1. DOOR LOCKS

HAVE key-operated two-cylinder deadlocks fitted to all external hinged doors.

A quality knob-inlock set will have a 'dead latch' mechanism to stop burglars using a credit card to open it.

While looking at external doors, you may also want to check that they are solid and robust.

If not, perhaps you should replace them, or add a security screen.

You may also want to consider fitting a wide angle peephole on your front door.

2. SLIDING DOORS

A favourite point of entry for burglars!

Fit key-operated locks or patio bolts to all external sliding doors, such as patio/veranda doors.

Sliding doors can also be made more secure by inserting a wood or metal dowel into the track to limit movement.

3. WINDOWS

AN open window, visible from the street, may be the only reason that your home is chosen by a burglar.

Ground floor windows are more susceptible for obvious reasons.

Make sure you have a security grill, security screen or burglar bars applied to all accessible windows, or alternatively have key-operated single cylinder window locks fitted.

4. LIGHT TIMERS

INSTALL light timers to switch on automatically if you aren't home when it gets dark, or have gone away for a few days.

The timers should mimic when you would usually switch lights on or off.

They are not expensive and are available at most hardware stores.

5. EXTERIOR LIGHTING

EXTERIOR lighting is also a good deterrent, provided it is switched on and off as though someone is at home.

Make sure the approach to your house, especially any entryway, is brightly lit, controlled by a light timer if necessary - this also makes it safer and more comfortable if you come home after dark.

Students march into May

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

LIMESTONE Coast students descended onto the Canunda National Park last week to learn about the region's Indigenous culture, pioneer history and natural environment as part of the March in May event.

Students from Newbery Park, Beachport, Melaleuca and Kangaroo Inn Area schools alongside Year 6 and 7 students from Tenison Wood College explored the history, culture and environment while enjoying a loop walk of the park.

Starting from the Coola Outstation carpark, students trekked more than 8km to four interpretation sites, including wetland ecology, shorebirds, Indigenous culture and the pioneer history of Canunda.

Friends of Canunda and Beachport president Mike Bleby said the event, which is run in collaboration with the Limestone Coast Landscape Board, aimed to educate students about the importance of the national park.

"There are a lot of local children who are not aware of the existence of Canunda and what it has to offer and we hope the event might stimulate them and their families to stop and revisit sometime," he said.

"Each year we work with the department who work with the schools and since the event started more than 20 years ago, it has become more dovetailed to the schools' curriculum.

"We have had good support from Woolworths Millicent and Foster's Foodland who provided snacks for the kids and we also had involvement from the Friends of the Shorebirds South East for the first time in recent years."

Limestone Coast Landscape Board education coordinator Vanessa Freebairn said organisers hoped the event would familiarise local students with the outdoor environment and encourage youth to minimise disturbance while in national parks. "One of our education stations was focused on wetland ecology and how we have lost a lot of wetlands since the South East was first settled," she said.

"Pre-European settlement, 44pc of land surface in the South East was wetlands and now we have around 1.5pc to 2.5pc left.

"We told the students how important it is to look after our remaining wetlands as 70pc of our threatened species rely on wetlands.

"Another of our stops focused on shorebirds and how to behave at the coast in a way it will not impact the shorebirds or minimise the disturbance."

Newbery Park senior school student Stella enjoyed the shorebirds walk station, with Friends of Shorebirds South East and National Parks staff providing an informative session on the shore of Lake Bonney.

The Year 7 student said the walk station was of particular interest, due to the school raising funds to purchase a geo-locator to track the migration pattern of a wader.

"It was really interesting to hear about the shorebirds and how they migrate from here to Siberia," Stella said.

"They can fly 11,000km in 10 days without stopping."

Newbery Park Year 7 student Evan said his favourite stop was the Indigenous culture, which centred around the Bungandij people.

"I thought it was good to learn about the wildlife of the area and the key things to survival out in the land," he said.

COMMUNITY COLLABORATION: Newbery Park Primary School student Stella had fun at the March in May event.

MARCH IN MAY: Melaleuca Primary School students Sierra, Christopher, Lachlan, Slater, Lauren and Chloe were among the 160 students who participated in the March in May event last week.

CANUNDA HIKE: Tenison Woods College students Owain, Ki and Nash walked a 8.5km trail loop as part of the March in May event.

NATURAL ENVIRONMENT: Tenison Woods College students Jett, Riel and William enjoyed the opportunity to hike 8.5km across Canunda National Park.

NATURE LEARNING: Newbery Park Primary School Year 7 students Evan and Peter were excited to learn about the migratory pattern of shorebirds.

ENVIRONMENTAL PLAY: Friends of Shorebirds South East chair Geoff Campbell, volunteer Helen Bawden and National Parks and Wildlife South Australia park ranger Cath Bell with Newbery Park students Evan, Peter and Stella on the shores of Lake Bonney.

National conference success

A SURPRISE presentation of a Governor-General's Medal for community service was a highlight of the Ryder-Cheshire Australia national conference held in Mount Gambier over the weekend.

More than 50 people attended the biennial conference at University of South Australia's Mount Gambier campus, which linked virtually with hubs in Ballarat, Casterton and Melbourne, as well as Timor-Leste, India and New Zealand.

Melbourne resident Anthea Swann was announced as the Governor-General's Medal recipient by the daughter of the charity founders, Dr Elizabeth Cheshire, who joined the conference via Zoom from England. "It's been such a privilege to work with Ryder-Cheshire - for 21 years now, since Peter Newton recruited us and we went to East Timor," Ms Swann said.

"It's just been a really important part of our lives." The humanitarian organisation's Klibur Domin facility in Timor-Leste has grown to become an 85-bed healthcare centre that caters for sick, disabled and destitute people, and also provides a specialist service for tuberculosis patients.

Governor-General David Hurley and Ms Swann expressed in a letter addressed to Ms Swann that time and time again they had been "struck by the selflessness and generosity of Australians".

"It makes us both enormously proud to be Australian and hopeful for our future," they said.

SOUTHEND residents should prepare for further foreshore construction works with Wattle Range Council approving a further $52,000 towards additional works at the town's caravan park and bush camp.

Council chief executive Ben Gower says council hopes to meet its extended mid-year deadline despite a number of additional works required prior to reopening the caravan park and bush camping facility.

Elected members heard the construction of a new ablution block with disability access would cost approximately $30,000, an additional $5000 will be required for a water softener and $10,000 required for boundary fencing. ?

The unbudgeted works also include a $6750 new electrical meter board.

Economic development manager Roger Babolka said of $135,610 of council's $193,364 had already been spent on the site, including $35,000 of unknown costs relating to underground infrastructure.

"The original concept here was to develop this as a self-contained RV park and the reason behind this was based on the potential cost to council," he said.

"We are not in a position to hand over to the new operators until the site is fit for purpose and it is not fit for purpose given what needs to be done to make it into a caravan park."

Council has undertaken extensive demolition works - including removing the main office, permanent vans and cabins and other infrastructure - to facilitate its operation and management as a caravan park and camp site.

It follows an independent report which identified considerable physical risk to the park and other assets from coastal erosion.

A staff report said additional works have been progressively required throughout the reinstatement process due to the overall condition of both sites and the variation from the initial concept of a self-contained RV park.

However the project delays have stirred concern with individuals from the coastal town, with a letter from residents Brian and Jillyann Herdman tabled in the agenda.

"We are very concerned about the slow progress to date regarding proposed renovations and redevelopment of the parks. We have attended the forums, read the submissions and followed the progress with keen interest. "But we fail to understand as to why there has been little progress. It is our opinion that all of these studies and submissions are just a total waste of time and taxpayers money - if nothing is implemented as a result of these actions".

DIRECTOR CLINICAL TRAINING, JUNIOR DOCTOR MEDICAL EDUCATION PROGRAM AND DIRECTOR WORKPLACE BASED ASSESSMENT PROGRAM

Flinders University in partnership with the Limestone Coast Local Health Network, are seeking to employ appropriately trained medical professionals in the following two positions, Director of Clinical Training, Junior Doctor Medical Education Program and/or the Director of Workplace Based Assessment of rural Doctors.

Based in Mt Gambier, the positions are offered together or separately and are aimed at enhancing the rural learning experience for pre-vocational learners and international medical graduates.

Director Clinical Training, Junior Doctor Medical Education Program

Ref JR0000001627

The Director Clinical Training will provide rural clinical education with a focus on teaching clinical skills and knowledge through clinical simulation, Indigenous health and educational research for pre-vocational medical training as part of the Junior Doctor Medical Education Program in collaboration with the Limestone Coast Local Health Network.

The position will work collaboratively with the Medical Education Officer, academics, clinicians and professional staff to coordinate and facilitate the training and assessment requirements for the program.

- Available on a fixed-term, part-time (0.2FTE) basis until 31 December 2021. May be extended based on external grant funding. Secondment arrangements negotiable.

COST SAVING: After four months of rebuilding fences, BlazeAid's Lucindale camp will close today.

RAQUEL MUSTILLO

raquel.mustillo@tbwtoday.com.au

LUCINDALE'S BlazeAid camp will close today after four months of voluntary efforts, saving fire-affected landholders more than $300,000 by helping to rebuild fences destroyed by the Avenue Range-Blackford fire.

The camp was established in the wake of the fire, which started in the Blackford, Avenue Range and Lucindale area on January 11 in hot and windy conditions.

The fire burned more than 17,000ha of grass and scrub and destroyed three structures, numerous sheds, thousands of livestock and incurred a significant loss to fencing.

Since opening the camp, more than 200 volunteers devoted a collective 1675 days, cleared 78km of fences and assisted rebuilding over 300km of fencing.

BlazeAid Lucindale co-ordinator Rob Edwards said work had been completed on 36 properties, with work expected to be complete on the final property today.

"A majority of the work we have done is assisted contractors with rebuilding fences, so we have put a lot of droppers in and running wires," he said.

"There are some areas where we have been doing total fencing, but the bulk of it has been helping out the contractors.

"We averaged four teams going out each day, which is made up of four to five people, who average around six hours a day."

Mr Edwards praised the Lucindale and broader Limestone Coast community for its strong support for the BlazeAid camp, with a number of organisations and individuals donating supplies for the volunteers.

"BlazeAid is just one organisation, but we couldn't do what we do without the help of other community groups," he said.

"The Lucindale Lions Club has let us stay at Yakka Park and they have been absolutely tremendous, if there's anything we need they are happy to help us out.

"The Lions throughout the South East itself has been amazing, clubs such as Mount Gambier donated a whole bunch of frozen meals for the volunteers and there are other organisations and people who have come in from Naracoorte every now and then to bring us in food and sweets.

"We have made some great friendships and as well as making a difference to the lives of farmers, they have made a big difference to the lives of volunteers."

CELEBRATING BEES: Rex Clarke, from Greenhills Raw Honey, will celebrate World Bee Day this Saturday while selling a wide range of homemade products.

The market to 'bee' at

THE Mount Gambier Farmers Market will be a buzz tomorrow as it celebrates World Bee Day with hive displays, bee suit try-ons and a raffle to celebrate.

The bee-themed event coincides with weigh-in day for the annual giant pumpkin competition with competitors able to weigh their vegetable for judging between 9.30am and 11.15am.

Regular stallholder Greenhills Raw Honey will be at the market to mark the special occasion with their family owned and operated company which produces honey, honey-based products and beeswax.

Among the items for sale will be wax wraps, soaps, beeswax and lip balm, while regular stallholders will also offer produce.

Market committee president Josh Praolini said it was important to mark World Bee Day to recognise the hard work bees do for the ecosystem.

"It's thought the work of bees contributes $4-6b to the Australian community," Mr Praolini said.

"Our farmers and producers are passionate about their food and recognise how vital the bees are to them.

"Bees and pollinators in general, affect our everyday life in more ways than we realise."

World Bee Day acknowledges the important role bees and pollinators play in the ecosystem with the flying insects needed to grow food, eat well, sustain the food system and foster sustainable agriculture and diverse ecosystems.

The Mount Gambier Farmers Market is held every Saturday morning from 9am to 12pm in the Mount Gambier Library precinct.

MOUNT GAMBIER CATTLE Wednesday, May 19

NUMBERS eased a little as agents yarded 515 head of live weight and open auction cattle.

These sold to the smaller field of trade and processor buyers along with feeders and restockers.

Quality was mixed over the offering with strong feeder activity on most pens with dearer rates being seen over most of the market.

Yearling cattle were small in number making quoting difficult as the steer section all went to feed from 420c to 480c/kg.

Yearling heifers to the trade ranged from 365c to 440c with feeders operating from 362c to 465c/kg.

Grown steers to the trade lifted 20c as they made from 350c to 404c while there was strong feeder activity on any cattle lacking finish or condition from 392c to 453c/kg.

Grown heifers to the trade returned from 350c to 395c with feeder support here from 366c to 400c as manufacturing steers made from 315c to 350c/kg.

Heavy cows lifted 10c as they ranged from 288c to 332c with the lighter types making from 230c to 292c to the trade as feeders operated from 266c to 312c/kg.

Heavy bulls ranged from 260c to 290c/kg.

NARACOORTE CATTLE Tuesday, May 18

NUMBERS fell a little as agents yarded 830 head of liveweight and open auction cattle.

These sold to the usual array of trade and processor buyers along with feeder and restocker orders.

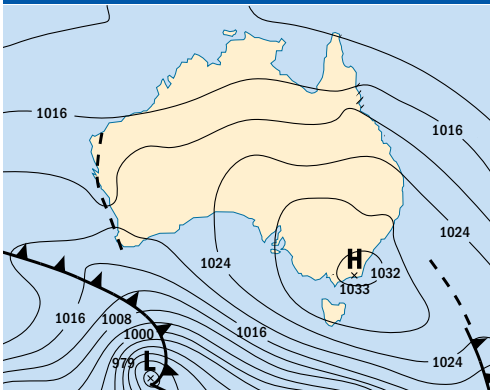

Quality improved this week with more weight and condition over the pens and when combined with a larger number of cattle off supplementary feed this helped the market sell to dearer rates this week.

Yearling steers to the trade ranged from 405c to 488c to lift 4c to 6c, as similar heifers made from 406c to 476c/kg.

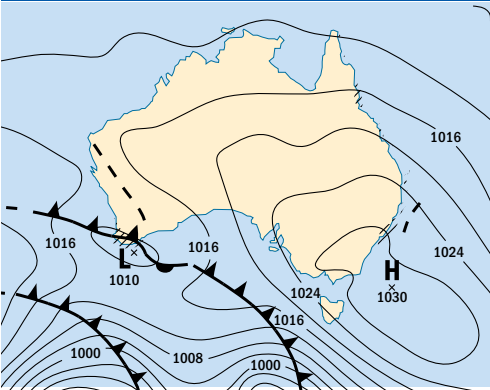

Feeder orders continue to be strong as they sought steers from 394c to 473c, and heifers from 372c to 490c/kg.

Restockers had less to chose from this week as they operated on steers from 338c to 506c, and on heifers from 372c to 475c/kg.

NARACOORTE SHEEP

Tuesday, May 18

NUMBERS rose and agents yarded 7579 lambs and 1530 sheep, to total 9109 head overall.

These sold to the usual field of trade and processor buyers along with a number of active restockers.

Quality was very mixed from light weight store types up to extra heavy lambs off feed, with something to suit all orders in between as the market sold to softer rates this week.

Light lambs to the trade ranged from $77 to $152 with the light weight trade 2 and 3 score selection selling from $138 to $162/head.

Restockers operated on light shorn Merino lambs which sold from $30 to $60/head.

Light lambs returning to the paddock sold from $111 to $148, with those showing more condition selling from $160 to $185/head.

Trade weight 3 score lambs made from $152 to $175, easing up to $7/head.

Heavy lambs made from $173 to $209 and the extra heavy pens returned $212 to $240/head.

Hoggets sold from $128 to $206 and light sheep made from $58 to $105/head.

Medium weight sheep ranged from $118 to $158, and heavy pens sold from $156 to $239/head.

Wethers made from $156 to $194 and rams ranged from $73 to $130/head.

The Guide

TOP PICKS OF THE WEEK

SATURDAY JURASSIC WORLD

A couple of decades after Jurassic Park scared the bejeezus out of audiences, this new instalment, produced by original director Steven Spielberg, takes the tale of over-eager humans at the mercy of prehistoric animals to a whole other level. Jurassic World is a fully functioning dinosaur theme park that attracts thousands of visitors a day. But when a genetically modified hybrid dinosaur experiment creates Indominus Rex, well, things don't go so well. Stars Chris Pratt.

SUNDAY CELEBRITY APPRENTICE AUSTRALIA

Before he was the Twitter-freewheeling US President, Donald Trump did something else with gusto: uttering the catchphrase "You're fired!" as host of The Apprentice. The saying became a cultural phenomenon and is still used on the show's offshoots - this one included. CEO Lord Alan Sugar (right) has fronted the British variant for 15 seasons and brings his expertise to this Aussie season, premiering tonight. He is joined by Boost Juice founder Janine Allis and activewear entrepreneur Lorna Jane Clarkson as advisors. While this format is all about charity, pride is also on the line, with the competitive cast including Michelle Bridges, Anthony Callea, Shaynna Blaze and The Veronicas.

SATURDAY THE SAVOY

Featuring cameos from potty-mouthed chef Gordon Ramsay (whose production company made this fly-on-the-wall doco), and Baywatch star David Hasselhoff, The Savoy is a mildly entertaining diversion into the lives of the rich (or those who enjoy spending a fortune on hotel accommodation in London). Now that a deadly pandemic has put a pin in most of the world's luxury overseas holiday plans, this series has a slightly sad, almost outdated, sheen to it. Nonetheless, there is humour to be found. Tonight, it's Valentine's Day and the staff are under pressure to cope with the bookings, while florists prepare $36,000 worth of

TUESDAY ANH'S BRUSH WITH FAME

Over six seasons, comedian, writer and painter Anh Do has interviewed and effortlessly painted a portrait for a who's who of Australian celebrity and talent. From TV stars, to politicians, sports people, musicians, actors and fellow comedians, Do has been spoilt for choice. Interestingly, tonight's guest may be a name many have never heard of but it will be one they remember after hearing his compelling story. Tonight, Chinese-Australian ballet dancer Li Cunxin sits down for an expansive chat about his extraordinary life. Better known as "Mao's Last Dancer", Cunxin overcame severe poverty in communist China to become a star on the world ballet stage. Anh Do hosts ANH's Brush With Fame.

Renovated Character Filled Cottage on Two Titles

A beautifully renovated, solid stone character home with attractive street presence...this is one not to be missed. Situated on one of two adjoining titles, almost 1400m2 (approx.) with immaculate lawns, mature shady trees, and a long list of improvements. The house itself has been recently renovated to a very high standard including new flooring and painting throughout. The galley style kitchen has been completely replaced - finished in bright, white tones, and set off by stylish window shutters. From here, connect through to the dining / living area - a space with a lovely feel about it... Enjoy the gorgeous views through the colonial style windows; Expansive lawn, garden and a pepper tree that is like something out of a story book. Here, you will be comfortable year-round with slow-combustion fire, air-conditioning and a ceiling fan. The quality wool carpet extends to the far end of the house and into all three bedrooms - The two larger rooms having wall to wall built in robes. A bathroom, laundry & separate toilet complete the house. To the rear of the house, directly off the kitchen is a large outdoor covered entertaining area. Here you can sit back and take in the quite surrounds and enjoy the garden. Other improvements include; Shed with concrete floor & power, rainwater, equipped bore, garden shed and horse stables.

Solid Stone Charmer on Riddoch

Set on a huge 1063m2 (approx.) block, on arguably one of Penola's most sought-after streets awaits this solid stone charmer. The visual appeal of high ceilings and timber floor boards blend seamlessly with the practicality of (all replaced) aluminium windows and doors as well updated fittings and fixtures throughout. A living / dining space is the heart of this home with feature corner windows and mantle and the practicality of a reverse cycle air conditioner, and slow combustion fire; A must have for the South East. Setting this space off is the glass sliding doors out to the private garden to the side of the property. The kitchen is contemporary and well thought out with cupboards literally to the ceiling. A neutral colour pallet gives a clean, light and airy feel to the space both in the kitchen and the bathroom. The bathroom is spacious and has a touch of luxe with black accent tapware. All three bedrooms are generous in sizing, with two of them boasting floor to ceiling built in robes. Continuing outside, improvements include a single stone shed and a plethora of secure enclosed yard for kids to play or dogs to roam.

LIMESTONE COAST
PROPERTY GUIDE

487 Capirco Road, Compton

Lifestyle property

WELCOME to 487 Capirco Road, situated on a picturesque 2.5 acres, you'll find this immaculately presented solid veneer stone home. Located just minutes from the western edge of Mount Gambier and in particular Tenison Woods College, the Icehouse Basketball Stadium and other sporting facilities. Built in 2013, the home has been well maintained and boasts a flexible open floor plan with a wonderful outlook of the surrounding countryside.

As you enter the property you will be instantly treated to the high ceilings and timber look flooring which encompasses the spacious dining and living area. With the bonus of a separate carpeted lounge room with ambient slow combustion heating you are provided with lots of space to spread out. The home offers a large master suite with walk-in robe and ensuite, 2 bedrooms with built-in robes and a 4th bedroom or study. The modern kitchen features gas hotplates and dishwasher, double sink leading through to the open plan dining space. With the convenience of an island bench, you can keep the chef of the house company whilst they cook up a feast.

Extra features of the home include instant gas hot water system, slow combustion wood fire, entry to the pergola from the hallway and entry to the verandah from the living area.

Outside features include a 5000 gallon rainwater tank plus an equipped bore, double car garage UMR with remote and internal access. The newest and most exciting addition to the property is the recently constructed 24m x 10m colorbond shed which also contains mezzanine floor, separate toilet with handbasin and kitchen area. Fully powered and concreted, this is a shed with pure Wow factor!

Families are well catered for, with school buses providing pick up and drop off from the property to most primary and secondary schools in Mt Gambier.

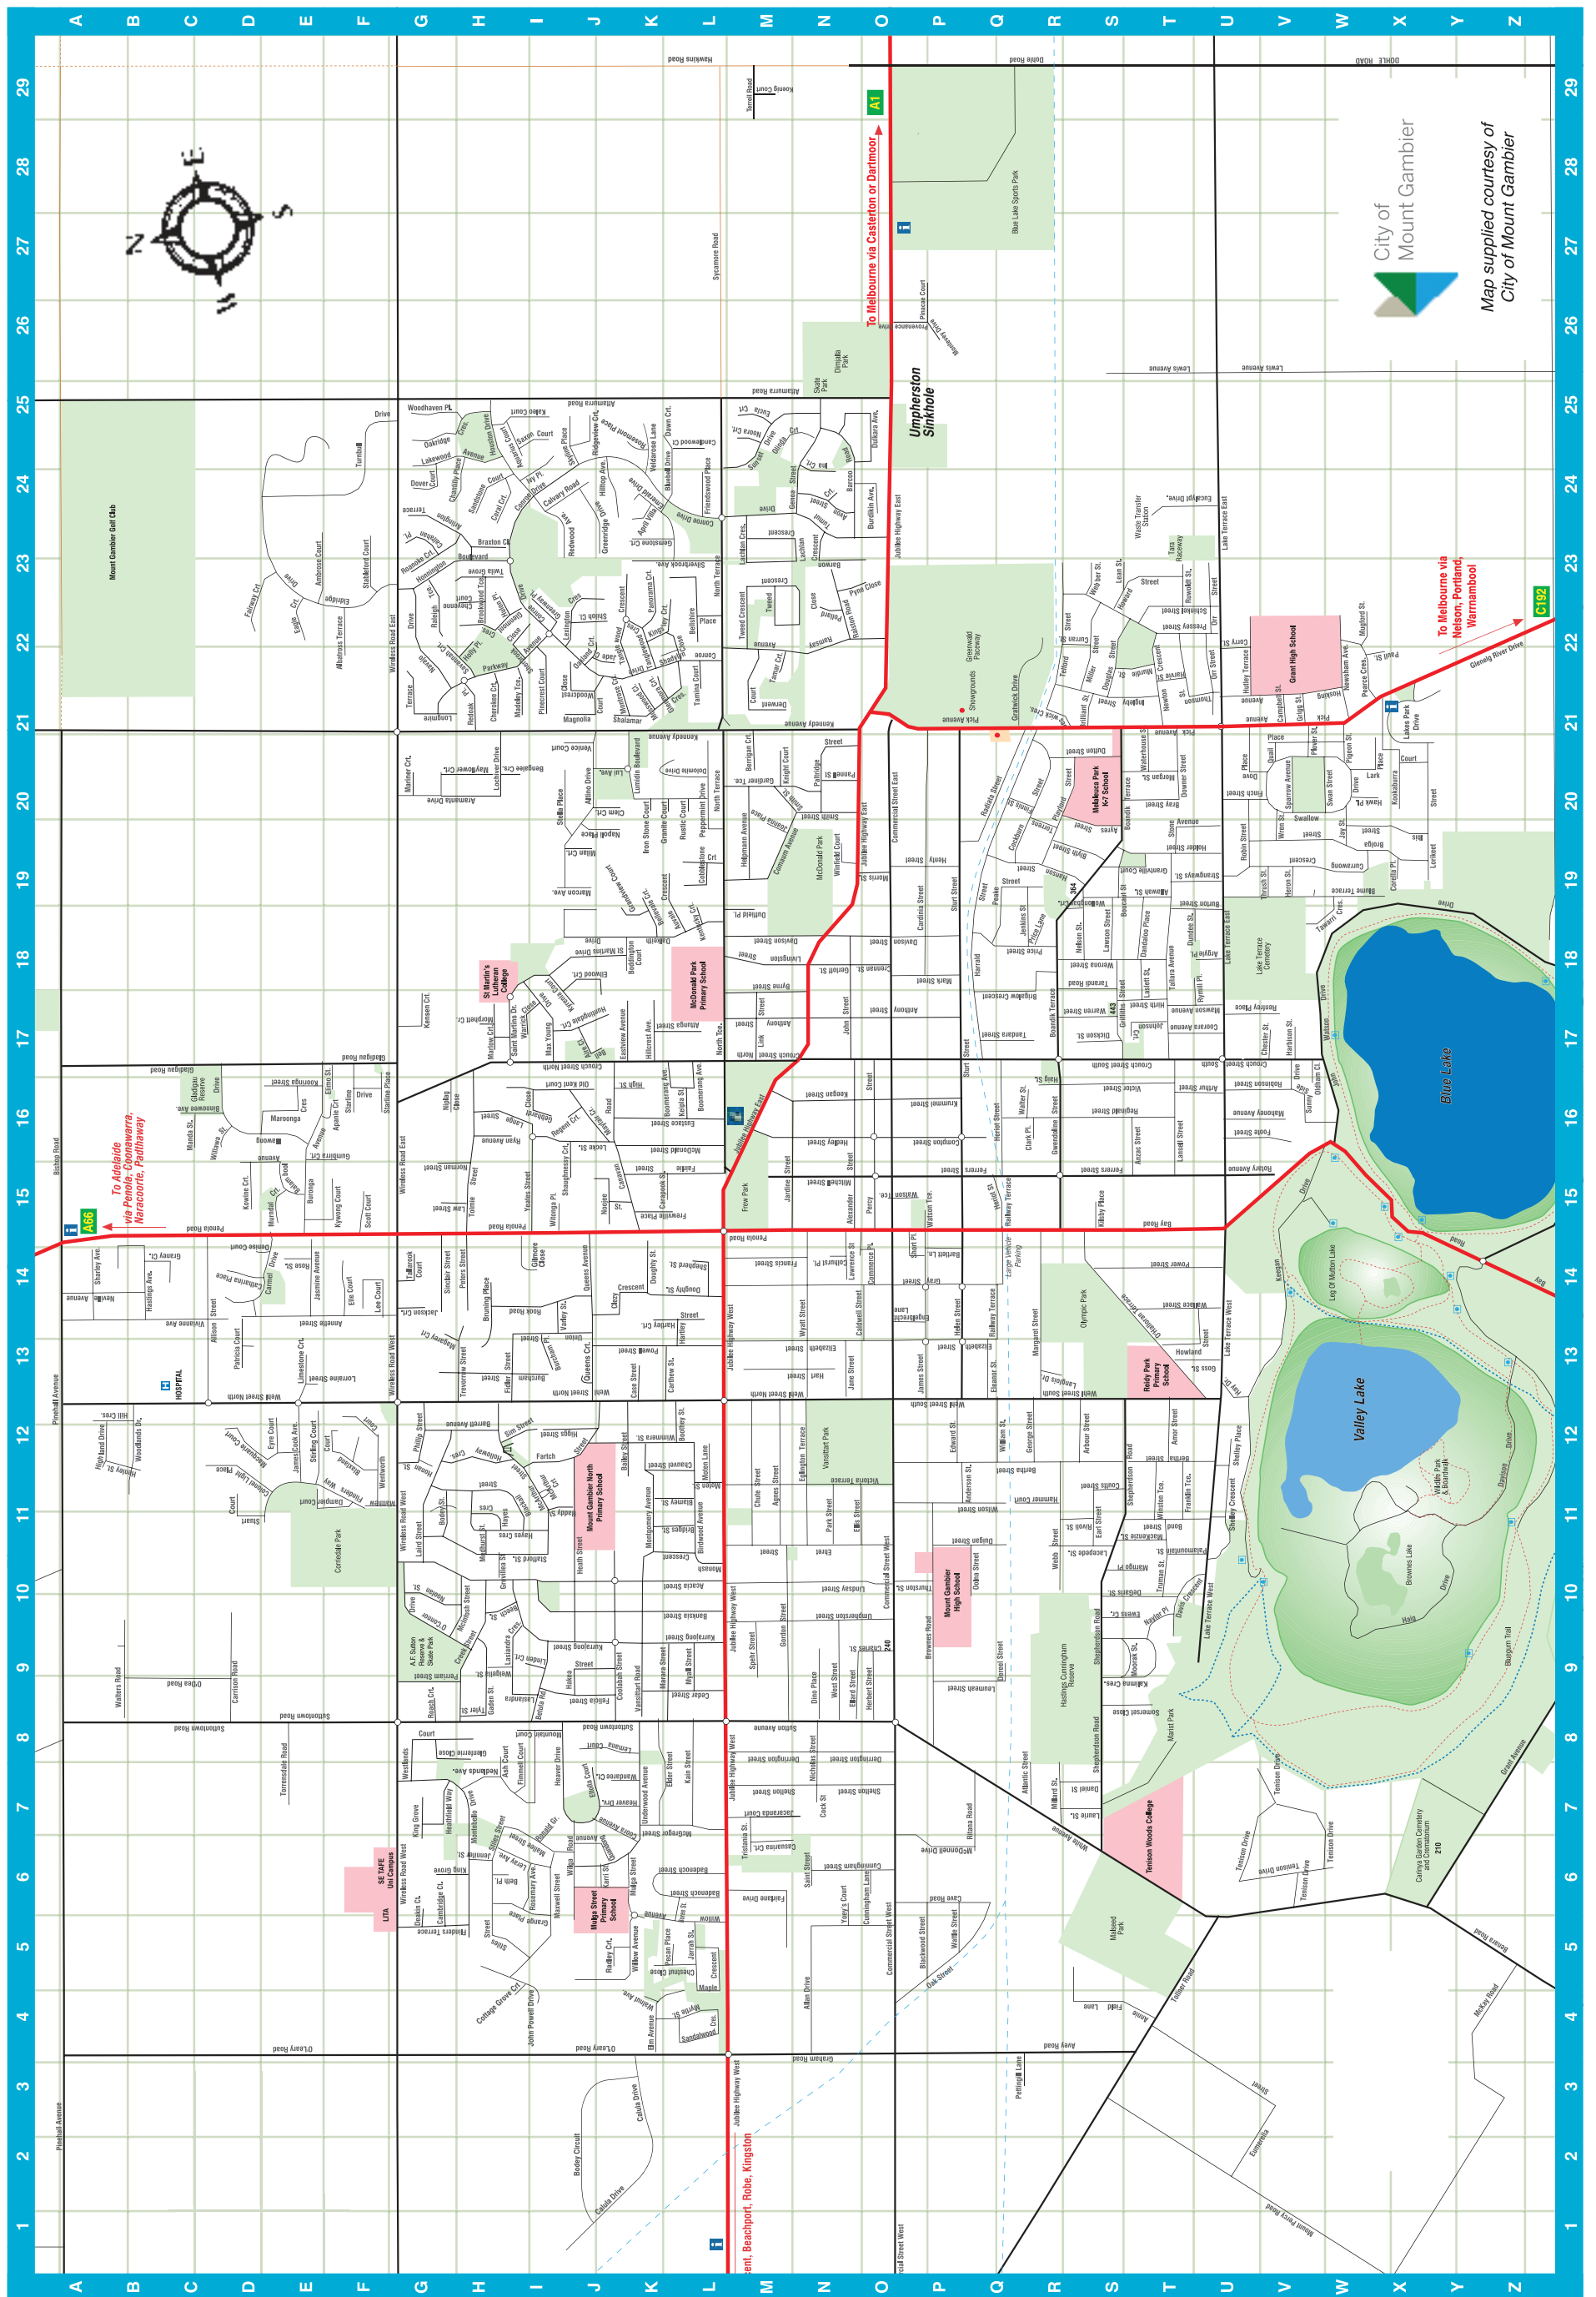

Disclaimer: Floor Plan measurements are approximate and are for illustrative purposes only. While we do not doubt the floor plans accuracy, we make no guarantee, warranty or representation as to the accuracy and completeness of the floor plan.

Youths connect to nature

Over 150 photos were received from students across the Limestone Coast region, making it a tough task for the panel of judges to decide on just two winners.

The panel included OneFortyOne employees Andrew Burston, John Cannon, Melissa Smith, Bella Walker, Mae Steele and local photographer Tim Rosenthal, as well as Environment and Water Minister David Speirs.

Year 2 student Cohen Minter and Year 9 student Lucy Collins were awarded top honours in the competition, which was launched in celebration of International Day of Forests in March.

OneFortyOne external affairs manager Charlene Riley said students were asked to send in their photos, along with an explanation of what the forest means to them.

"The photos we received were awesome, and even better were the stories students sent in to share their connection with the forest," Ms Riley said.

"We received such a range of stories - from a Year 6 sharing their aspirations for a career in forestry, to a story from our primary school category winner Year 2 student Cohen Minter, who just loves to explore and hopes to one day see a monkey amongst the pines."

Ms Riley said the competition highlighted the different relationships young people in the community had with local forests and the forestry industry.

"Thank you to everyone who shared their stories and photos with us," Ms Riley said.

YOUNG PHOTOGRAPHER: Year 2 competition winner Cohen Minter - "I like exploring in the forest because you never know what exciting things you might find. When I go there I always hope I will see some animals like a kangaroo or a monkey. In the forest there is heaps of peace and quiet and it makes me feel nice and calm."

"They're too good to keep to ourselves, so we'll be sharing a selection on our OneFortyOne socials over the coming months."

International Day of Forests is observed in March each year, to celebrate and raise awareness of the importance of all types of forests.

CHILDHOOD MEMORY: Year 9 winner Lucy Collins - "The images I have taken shows new growth and youth. I have always enjoyed the pine forest, exploring with my brothers. The beautiful fresh air, all the different pine trees, no two the same. The forest reminds me of when I was little and we used to try to get lost on and around the tall trees."

New art hits The Riddoch

NEW exhibitions FEM-aFFINITY and Other Homes and Gardens by Nicholas Folland will open at The Riddoch Arts and Cultural Centre tonight.

Celebrating female artists, FEM-aFFINITY is an Arts Project Australia (APA) exhibition curated by associate Professor Catherine Bell.

Featuring 14 female artists, FEM-aFFINITY draws upon interdisciplinary approaches, such as painting, printmaking, drawing, performance and photography.

The exhibition also considers how artworks are a complex and nuanced way of thinking about embodied knowledge and how it aligns with identity politics explored in contemporary art.

Exhibiting artists Yvette Coppersmith and Lisa Reid have painted portraits of prominent figures in the arts while, abstract artists Helga Groves and Wendy Dawson share a similar creative process of layering pigment and surface detail as their works in metallic mediums explore abstract patterns.

"At The Riddoch, we've always believed art is for everyone and can be by anyone and this exhibition is a great way to really emphasise this," Mount Gambier arts and culture development officer Serena Wong said.

"Art is a way for anyone to tell their story and this exhibition draws on unique and distinct stories from artists across Australia - including some real superstars in Australian art."

Other Homes and Gardens is an animated installation featuring Nicholas Folland's absurd interior design sensibility.

The Adelaide-based artist is a sculptor and installation artist who reconfigures familiar household objects, such as soft furnishings, interior fixtures and whitegoods, found crystal and glassware, to create new and highly refined constructions.

"The chance to show an artist of Folland's calibre, and for it to be an ambitious and large scale installation is not something we get to do every day, and I think will really give our community something to talk it about," Ms Wong said.

The exhibitions will be on display until July 4 with tonight's official opening held from 6pm.

Naracoorte Gallery open day

NARACOORTE Regional Art Gallery will swing open its doors to budding artists next week as part of the Exploring Drawing and Valuable Volunteers open day.

Held on May 30, Naracoorte artists Julie Earl and Alison Rowe will tutor participants in a two-hour workshop from 10am.

All materials will be supplied and participants will be taught basic drawing techniques and encouraged to unleash their inner artist.

Suitable for beginners aged 10 years and above, positions are limited with bookings essential.

The gallery will also hold a tour of the gallery from 1.30pm to examine the current exhibition, the Ibis Awards, and the permanent art collection.

It forms part of the gallery's focus on attracting new volunteers and members to the facility.

The tour will also highlight the reading and research resources available and touch on the history of the building and gallery.

Current volunteers will be in attendance with their efforts celebrated.

Booking for both events are essential and can be made by contacting the gallery.

LIMESTONE COAST IN FOCUS

NAME: Kristy Janeway

HOME: Mount Gambier born and bred!

AGE: 41

YEARS IN PHOTOGRAPHY: I have been in the photography industry for 14 years.

STYLE: My style of photography is what I would call timeless and classic. I don't follow editing trends mostly, as I feel like they could be like an 80's hairdo - something we look back on and don't enjoy as much.

INSPIRATION: My main source of inspiration is people. I just love people and I am a hairdresser by trade and if that doesn't say I like a good gas bag and people nothing does. I get to spend the most joyous occasions with all types of people and it is a really humbling profession to be able to be apart of.

DREAM SHOOT: I don't really have a dream location or subject as every session I give 100pc to and there is a saying that if you have taken your best shot ever then its time to give up - and I have lots of favourite images but no where near ready to stop anytime soon.

VIEW THE WORK: People can view my work on my website, on Facebook or on my Instagram @KristyJanewayPhotography.

WEDDING LOVE: Kristy Janeway captures Jessica Lewis on her big day early March this year.

SAFETY ALWAYS IN MIND

ONE caravanning accident is one too many! There are over 750,000 registered recreational vehicles in Australia, and with many nomads looking to head north as the seasons change, now is an important time to bring road safety front of mind.

In line with other initiatives during 2021 National Road Safety Week last week, Caravan Industry Association of Australia is taking action to provide tips and timely reminders about ways that campers can travel safely, have enjoyable experiences, and get home to their loved ones safely.

You may have noticed across Australia, the country's favourite buildings, bridges and icons light up yellow every night of this National Road Safety Week (16 – 23 May) in remembrance of the 1,200 lives lost, and more than 39,000 people seriously injured on Australia's roads each year.

"During National Road Safety Week we are asking all drivers and road users to 'Drive So Others Survive!' As a very large and very important road user group we welcome the support of the Caravan Industry because like us, they recognise that everyone has a right to get home safe to their loved ones, every day, with no exceptions," explained Peter Frazer, President, SARAH Group and Founder National Road Safety Week.

"With more caravans on our roads during peak holiday and traffic times, it's even more important for both their drivers and others around them to be aware of keeping a safe distance to make sure everyone safely reaches their destination," Mr Frazer said.

Regular breaks are important when it comes to road safety during caravanning trips.

Picture: IAN SUTTON/FLIKR

This comes at a time when campers traditionally look to head north in search of warmer weather.

While there remains some hesitance and uncertainty when it comes to the risk of border closures, a recent survey showed that 65 per cent of caravanners and campers were intending to travel north this season.

The research also indicated increased desire from Australians who would not normally travel north, a likely result of the increased popularity of caravan and camping following the pandemic.

"We are eager to support this important initiative promoting road safety. This is timely for our industry as nomads plan their migration north, driving long distances on unfamiliar roads" said Keelan Howard, GM Marketing and Communications.

The past 12 months has seen many Aussies towing newly purchased campers and caravans, driving new motorhomes or dusting off product that might have been sitting in the shed during the lockdowns.

"This week we are taking the time to remind all caravanners and campers, both new and experienced, about how to be safe and courteous on the road. We are sharing tips about pre-planning your trip, managing fatigue, appropriate use of rest stops including truck rest areas, vehicle preparation, sharing the road with trucks, UHF communication and towing," Mr Howard explained.

Caravan Industry Association of Australia has worked in partnership with other state caravan associations, service providers and other relevant bodies, such as the National Heavy Vehicle Regulator and Queensland Trucking Association, to develop educational assets for campers to access for free, both online and printed. This is in the form of easy to digest videos, engaging online quizzes, booklets and stories across email, social media, and websites.

The 2021 Mitsubishi Pajero Final Edition is limited to 800 units for Australia. 237767
Picture: CONTRIBUTED

MITSUBISHI PAJERO FINAL EDITION REVEALED

THE Mitsubishi Pajero has been around nearly as long as Mitsubishi Australia itself, but now it's being farewelled after a 39-year production run by the Mitsubishi Pajero Final Edition.

Due in showrooms within weeks, the 2021 Mitsubishi Pajero Final Edition will be limited to just 800 units for Australia, where the first two-door Pajero arrived in 1983 – three years after Mitsubishi Motors Australia was established – followed by the four-door in 1984.

It will be available in all three model grades – GLS, GLX and Exceed – and, like all Pajeros, fitted with seven seats and a 141kW/441Nm 3.2-litre turbo-diesel four-cylinder matched with a five-speed auto and four-wheel drive.

Pricing is yet to be announced, but the existing models are priced at $54,990 (GLX), $59,990 (GLS) and $62,990 (Exceed) – all plus on-road costs – and the Final Edition is likely to command a small price premium, if any.

There are no mechanical changes, but there will be a Final Edition badge and a range of locally fitted accessories including a tinted bonnet protector, leather cover for the owner's manual and service book, carpet floor mats, plastic cargo liner and a protective boot lip cover.

All Mitsubishi Pajeros come standard with heavy-duty equipment including a rear differential lock, 3.0-tonne towing capacity, 700mm wading depth, 36.6-degree approach angle, 22.5-degree ramp-over angle and 25-degree departure angle.

Also standard across the range is Apple CarPlay and Android Auto connectivity, and while the base GLX rides on 17-inch alloys, GLS and Exceed variants add 18s and Rockford premium audio.

Mitsubishi announced it would axe the Pajero – whose name lives on with the Triton ute-based Pajero Sport seven-seat off-roader – in July 2020, when it posted its biggest operating loss in 18 years and said it would exit Europe and slash costs by 20 per cent.

Killing off rather than replacing the current Pajero, which is now 15 years old but rides on a platform that dates back to 1999, was a direct result of that cost-cutting.

The Mitsubishi Pajero has found more than 3.3 million sales globally over four generations since 1982, including more than 150,000 in Australia, where sales peaked at about 8500 in 2002 but shrank to a third of that last year when less than 2400 were sold.

UPDATE: Pricing for the 22MY Mitsubishi Pajero Final Edition has been confirmed at a $500 premium over the three existing variants on which it's based, with a starting price of $54,990 plus on-road costs.

However, all three variants are available at lower drive-away prices: $52,490 DA for the GLX, $59,490 DA for the GLS and $62,990 DA for the Exceed.

Fish on the move

JAMIE COATES

FISHING

A BIT of rain about over the weekend was not enough to stop anglers from trying their luck on the water, with some nice catches reported.

The offshore guys had a bit of wind and swell against them for the most part of last week, but those who were able to sneak out when conditions allowed found plenty of tuna.

Southerly Fishing Charters put their clients on to some mixed bags of fish, with tuna, gummy shark, snapper and a nice mixture of other bottom fish which made for a great few days on the water.

There has been the odd whisper of big fish this week from way down the east, but I am yet to see any pictures.

School shark have been on the move in close along the coast for the last few weeks, making them a good target for both surf and boat-based fishos.

Danger and Green Points are the hot spots for the bigger fish, with some being right up near the 30kg mark.

There are plenty of gummy shark mixed in with the schoolies, so get down there and have a crack.

Salmon fishos have managed some lovely fish this week to 2kg and better along Canunda NP and into the Oil Rig.

Bait fishos still seem to have the upper hand and while the fish are not super concentrated yet, the signs are encouraging for a big season ahead.

I have to keep reminding myself it is still only May and the best is yet to come.

There were some nice fish to around 1kg caught in both the salmon hole and Light-house Bay over the weekend on a mixture of baits and lures.

The size is slowly getting better and the numbers seem to be improving.

I have heard of some nice flathead to 50cm caught in the Lighthouse Bay area by the bait fishos, so if you can manage one or two of those on top of some salmon, you are doing well.

There have been some good reports again this week of nice gar from the Cape Douglas and Livingstons Bay areas.

Waders and boaties are sharing the success - the only secret is to get the burley happening, then wait until they come to you.

There are plenty of areas to chase the humble old gar - inside the Port MacDonnell breakwater is a great spot if you are new to the game, but any sheltered bay with a nice sea-grass bed is worthy of a dabble.

Tommies, mullet, salmon trout, small whiting and other bits and pieces will all frequent the same areas, so there is plenty of variety on offer.

There are a few nice redfin still being caught this week even though the weather has cooled down a lot.

Mill Swamp is popular and fishing well and although the size has not been like what were used to in summer, it is still a great place to go and get into a few fish.

I have heard of some nice redfin from Lake Koonongwootong in Coleraine, but remember its electric motor or paddle power only on that lake.

There are some nice trout in there too, but they are getting pretty cagey and harder to catch.

The Glenelg River is starting to heat up, be it from more fish on the move, or more anglers down there having a crack, SMALL BUT FUN: Nathan Leggett's small redfin provided plenty of fun inland.

The mulloway news has been spread - I know of a 97cm fish boated in the Sandy Waterhole area on bait over the weekend, plus quite a few in that 65cm to 85cm bracket.

Darren Brown managed a 68cm model around the caves area, plus a few smaller fish too.

The bream have been spread out again this week.

NICE CATCH: Darren Brown with a nice Glenelg River mulloway.

Baits seemed to be the go this week, with prawn and crab being the front runners, but those targeting perch did well on galaxia minnows and other small deep diving lures.

The forecast for this week looks to be improving, hopefully enough so the offshore guys can get an opportunity to get onto the water.

If not, the river or heading inland is another great option.

Until next week, safe fishing.

Major event huge success

THE Mount Gambier RSL Bowling Club's two-day Men's Fours competition on the weekend has been hailed one of the most successful ever.

The prestigious event was well supported by main sponsors The City of Mount Gambier, Dycer Constructions, KFC and Commodore on the Park, plus numerous other sponsors to ensure all went to plan.

The competition attracted 30 teams from bowling clubs Ascot Park (Adelaide), Warrnambool, Warrnambool City, Deddington, Horsham City, Kingston, Nhill, Millicent, Hopetoun, Naracoorte, Robe, Edenhope, Mount Gambier, Mount Gambier RSL and numerous composite sides.

The format for the weekend was to play a total of eight games, consisting of four games of 12 ends on each day, with the team finishing with the most points over the two days declared the winners.

Prizes were handed out to the first six places and individual day winners.

The weather was changeable, with Sunday being the most inclement, but all games were completed with some of the best bowlers on show from around the South Australia and Victoria regional areas.

After the first day's play there were only five teams undefeated and it was clear it was going to be close at the end of the competition.

The second day continued to produce tight games and other teams found their form to come into contention for prizes.

At the conclusion it was the strong team from Ascot Park, skippered by Mark Denton, which hung on to take out the main prize with seven wins and a total of 123 points.

Close runners-up were from the Mount Gambier RSL Bowling Club and Millicent Bowling Club skippered by Michael Fox, with seven wins and 120 points.

Bill Richards led a composite side to third place with six wins and a draw to register 118 points.

Andy Ashby skippered his Mount Gambier RSL side to fourth place with five wins, a draw and 109 points.

Kingston's Jack Vanser skippered his composite side also to five wins and a draw and 108 points to finish fifth and the final prize position went to the Straw Masters skippered team who had four wins and three draws to finish on 105 points.

Winner for day one was the Mount Gambier RSL team skippered by Lawrie Franklin and day two was another composite side skippered by Adam Wilson (Mount Gambier).

All presentations were performed by Mount Gambier mayor Lynnette Martin who expressed her congratulations to all bowlers, helpers and sponsors in making this a major success for the city.

Old body still going strong

TANTANOOLA Football Club's Adam Linder - or Patto as he is better known - chalked up his 200th senior game for the Tigers recently.

Lindner was recruited to the club back in 2003 from Millicent as a silky smooth on-baller.

He soon made his mark, with runner-up honours in the A grade best and fairest awards in 2005.

In 2006 he played in the drought-breaking A Grade premiership under coach Adam Walden.

In 2007 he was named most consistent, playing the majority of the year on the ball, with his ability to win the ball and dish it out to his team mates a feature of his game.

2015 and 2016 saw Lindner coach the senior colts and claim the 2015 premiership in a nail-biter against Mount Burr with fellow coach Scott Bowering.

In 2016 he was also vice president of the club in a year he played in the successful B Grade premiership side.

Supported by his wife Morgen and children Keelie, Ashton and Ryder, Lindner helped his side to a win to celebrate his 200th game.

The Tantanoola Football Club congratulates Lindner on his milestone and hopes there are still a few more in the old body to come.

DAVID LEWIS

On The Lure
GREYHOUND RACING

APRIL 2017 whelping Just Kenny was certainly the baby of the field in last Sunday's Commercial Hotel Stake - a Masters event at Tara Raceway over 305 metres for greyhounds four years and older.

In fact, he was giving Ramified, the oldest runner in the race, close to two years on the age-scale but very little when it came to the number of race starts.

Ramified, an August 2015 son of Magic Sprite and Hey Sexy Lady, lined up for his 121st start on Sunday, while Just Kenny had previously raced on 111 occasions.

Young Harry Trengrove of Lewiston is Just Kenny's third trainer, only taking over the son of Kinloch Brae x Glass Roof in March and winning his first race with the black dog at Mount Gambier's time-graded meeting last week.

Just Kenny did his 20-year-old owner-trainer proud when leading all the way in the Winningformula.net.au 5+ Wins Stake over 400 metres, holding out Ask Me Now to win by a head in a best-of-day 23.28 seconds.

Back at Tara Raceway for the second time in the space of only a few days, he looked well placed in the Masters.

He quickly found the front before running away to a 4¼ lengths win in 17.94 seconds over Ima Maldini, Ramified and Azumi Spirit who virtually crossed the line as one.

But the Trengrove family's day was far from over.

Lining up in box two in the Trackside Meats Mixed Stake (600m) was Hold On, trained by Harry's step-mum Shelley.

Hold On, a son of My Bro Fabio and Asteroid Miss, and a brother to Let's See, a 720-metre Wentworth Park winner earlier this month, was back at Tara Raceway for the first time since April 11 when defeating Oakvale Impact over 600 metres.

Connections were hoping a change of scenery might do the trick for the Michael Wallworth-owned black dog whose past two starts at Murray Bridge and Gawler had seen him finish unplaced.

As it turned out, he was always on the pace, little separating him and Lee Bartholomew's Rough Pearl for the entire journey.

In fact nothing separated the pair on the line after the judge declared a dead-heat in a time of 35.41 seconds.

Doing his best to make it a triple dead-heat was Mick's Kimmy who came from a mile back to be beaten a head.

Her trainer Peter Crawley continues to keep an anxious eye on the 732-metre start as the club awaits the delivery of a set of starting boxes.

Then it was the turn of Clint, father of Harry, with Mootwingee, back at Tara Raceway for the first time since defeating Two Hands George in a 400-metres Juvenile in January.

Only fairly away from box four, the daughter of Worm Burner and Batty Allen quickly worked into third spot down the back before finishing strongly to defeat Fernando Deeds by 1½ lengths in 23.28 seconds.

Bred and owned by Grant Daubeny, Mootwingee has been in the Trengrove kennels prior to racing, Harry Trengrove describing her as a tough and tenacious little chaser.

Meanwhile, completing a good day for the family was Mootwingee's litter sister It's Smudgy, owned and trained in the same interests, and winning on Sunday night over 531 metres at Gawler.

Two trebles in four days

GREYHOUND RACING

A TREBLE up the straight at Murray Bridge last week with Bourne Brett, Aston Olenka and Aston Hayato for David Peckham preceded another three winners at Sunday's Tara Raceway meeting for the Allendale East trainer.

Kicking off what would ultimately be his fourth treble this year at the local track was Midnight Incy, the pint-sized 22½ kilograms daughter of Fernando Bale x Midnight News lining up from box eight in the Exchange Printers Stake over 400 metres.

Looking to make it back-to-back wins, Midnight Incy took the lead off the back before running out a three-quarters of a length winner over Jack Be Quick in 23.52 seconds.

Then it was Maximum Refusal, who twice has run near track record times over 600 metres.

He dropped back to 512 metres last Sunday but from box one the son of Fernando Bale x Kilkee Flex was always going to be a strong chance in the South Eastern Hotel Mixed Stake.

When the rails run came on the final turn he was home for all money, eventually holding out Galactic Horizon to win by three-quarters of a length in 30.01 seconds.

Out Of Gas, a litter brother to Midnight Incy, after crossing quickly from the outside box was never in any danger of defeat when running out a 4¼ lengths winner over Lektra Violet in the Produce Store Stake (400m).

The treble brought up Peckham's 38th winner at Tara Raceway this year.

BACK-TO-BACK: The pint-sized Midnight Incy was one of six winners in the space of several days for David Peckham.

GREYHOUND RACING

GALACTIC Dreamer's all-the-way win in last Sunday's 305-metre Progreyhoundtips.com Maiden Stake was the first for Moorak breeder Robert Chuck's litter by US sire Flying Stanley out of Galactic Cat (Milldean Panther x Galactic Rumball).

A winner at Mount Gambier, Bendigo, Traralgon, Warrambool and Horsham, Galactic Cat is a litter sister to former smart chasers Galactic Panther and Faster Bolt.

Also owned and trained by Chuck, Galactic Dreamer defeated Compton Redeemer by 1¼ lengths in 17.74 seconds.

The runner-up is another promising newcomer, being by My Redeemer out of Headline. He is raced by Tracie and Karen Price.

Meanwhile, a suggestion has been made by the Grading Review Panel juvenile 305-metre events are run to complement the maiden 305 metres at Tara Raceway Sunday meetings.

Greyhound Racing SA Racing Manager, Shaun Mathieson, said the introduction of juvenile racing (for greyhounds two years and under) over 305 metres could assist in younger greyhounds' progression through the grades.

"As things stand at the moment, with 305 metres maidens graded youngest-up, some winners are finding themselves in a grade six over 400 metres at a young age and with little race experience.

"With SA-bred greyhounds able to win six juveniles there should be sufficient time for them to gain further experience before progressing through the grades and distances," he said.

All happening for Opperman

DAVID GILBERT

david.gilbert@tbwtoday.com.au

LIFE refuses to stand still for one moment for local apprentice jockey Jacob Opperman.

The latest achievement to put him in the spotlight was the announcement he has won the Carbine Club scholarship for 2021 here in SA.

That meant a trip to Adelaide last Friday for Opperman to accept the scholarship and be interviewed at the Carbine Club luncheon at Morphettville racecourse.

It is the first time a jockey has won the scholarship which entitles the winner to spend $3000 over the next three years on needs for their career.

"Normally a footballer or a cricketer wins the scholarship but this year I was the lucky winner after Briony Moore (full time manager of the SA Apprentice Academy) submitted my name for the award," Opperman told The Border Watch.

"I have made up a list of gear I intend buying to help my career."

Then, next week the 17-year-old will represent South Australia in the annual series for Australian apprentices in Queensland.

Opperman, accompanied by Moore, will fly to Brisbane on Tuesday and will ride in two races solely for the apprentice's series at Doomben on Wednesday before returning home on Thursday.

"Jacob has already received plenty of media publicity in Queensland regarding his career and there is every chance he will have extra rides at the meeting as he has his manager chasing up rides," Briony Moore said.

FIRSTS ALL ROUND

CASTERTON cup day last Sunday was fruitful for the Limestone Coast with locals providing the quinella in the $45,000 Casterton Cup.

Naracoorte trainer Sue Murphy won her first Casterton Cup and her second country Victorian cup in the space of just over two months when Farooq ($4-$5.50) thrashed his rivals, defeating the Mount Gambier trained Jester Halo 5.5 lengths.

Murphy is the first female trainer to win the Casterton Cup since Millicent mentor Helen Frusher won it in 2008 with Llaynbe, ridden by Clare Lindop.

In early March, Farooq also won the Edenhope Cup and went into the Casterton a month after finishing sixth in the Terang Cup.

Has there ever been a more impressive Casterton Cup winner than Farooq?

Certainly not in my time span of 45 years of attending the cup meeting.

His time of 2.03.43 for the 2000 metres was exceptional for a wet track (Soft 7) and only 1.67 seconds outside of the track record.

Murphy was born in Casterton and raised in nearby Dunrobin, and the beaming smile on her face immediately after the race showed it meant something special to her.

"To come home and train my first Casterton Cup winner is really special," Murphy confided.

"The result was also good for Jacob (Opperman) who has now had three rides on Farooq for three wins.

"We thought of running Farooq over 1700 metres during the Warrnambool cup carnival but decided to scratch him after all the heavy rain Warrnambool received on the Monday night.

"It looks like we pulled the right rein by coming here to Casterton instead, plus there were no suitable races for him in Adelaide.

"Farooq is going for a spell and I'm going for a break as well," Murphy concluded as she prepares to head to Darwin for her first holiday in two years.

For Opperman, it was his first cup winner and did it in style after Farooq was worse than mid field early and caught three wide.

"I did have some good cover and let him roll at the 600 metres and then pressed the button near the 400 metres," Opperman said.

There was good money in the cup for the Mount Gambier trained Muntham Missile ($11-$7) who surprisingly led and then tired badly to finish last.

Opperman made it a double for the day in the final event on the favourite Faithful Diamond for Hamilton trainer James Bull.

Tatiara trainer Darryl Dodson was in the winner's circle after Just Chipping Away returned to winning form in the 1200-metre BM 64 handicap.

Just Chipping Away is a hard horse to follow for punters but the six-year-old mare put it all together on Sunday for replacement jockey Jack Hill.

The old saying "it's never over until the fat lady sings" certainly applies to the jumping game as we saw in two of the four hurdle races at Casterton.

Scriba and Double Bluff seemingly had their races at their mercy as they approached the final flight, but both put in sticky jumps and they were relegated to second and third respectively.

AIR OF EXCITEMENT FOR MILLICENT CUP

FOLLOWING successful cup meetings at Warrnambool and Casterton, the third leg of the treble for the month of May will be the Millicent cup meeting on Sunday, May 30 at Penola.

There seems to be a buzz of excitement in and around Millicent with livewire secretary Simone Berry and new president John Payne revved up to make it a great day for all concerned.

Accepting the invitation to be a guest celebrity for the day is SA Hall of Fame recipient and former top jockey in John Letts who is always good value at any function with his gift of the gab.

Letts is looking forward to being part of the Redelva luncheon, as he rode the great sprinter to eight of his 21 wins, all in the early part of Redelva's career.

He will speak at the function and also wander around the crowd to speak to anyone who may wish to have a chat.

More good news is the public can buy tickets at the gate for Millicent cup day, unlike the current Victorian ruling at cup meetings where tickets have to be pre-purchased.

NEW CHALLENGE FOR HOLLAND

FORMER jockey Darren Holland is best known these days as a track rider and the supervisor of track work here at Glenburnie.

This week, Holland started a new position as the district steward here in the Limestone Coast and his first role was to check the Bordertown track last Tuesday in preparation for the race meeting the following day.

Wednesday was his first day as a steward on race days and the new role means Holland can no longer be a track rider.

PLUNGE CAME OFF

PLENTRY of money was won on the Jamie Opperman trained Rohlon Drunk, an easy winner of the 1200-metre BM 64 handicap at Warracknabeal last Saturday.

Ridden by his son Jacob, Rohlon Drunk ($6.50-$3.80 fav.) left his rivals in his wake at the top of the straight to register career win number five.

"Jacob may have let the cat out of the bag when interviewed at the Carbine Club luncheon the day before when he told the audience that Rohlon Drunk was his best winning chance for the weekend," Jamie Opperman said.

It was the second leg of a double for the teenage hoop, having won the opening event on Damask Rose ($7.50) for Ballarat trainer Yoshimoto Shima.

COMING UP

TUESDAY night (May May 25): Mount Gambier trots.

Sunday week (May 30): Millicent gallops (cup) at Penola.

Up and down for a top round

A ROUND that came out of the blue has justified David Anderson's decision last year to put his bowls away and dust off his golf clubs.

The 70-year-old turned in the best score of the day at Attamurra on Saturday, signing for a +3 in the par round in the field of 106 players.

Anderson first joined the Mount Gambier Golf Club back in 1973 after moving from Clare and was good enough to get his handicap down as low as nine.

These days he is off about 22, a result largely due to playing very little golf over the past couple of decades.

"Work and family took over in the 90s, which meant golf took second place," the former ETSA worker-turned vegetable seed grower said.

"I ended up playing bowls for about 10 years, but then last winter I had a knee replacement and when it got better I decided to see if I could still swing a golf club."

His form in recent weeks had been improving and on Saturday it finally came together.

"The difference was I hit some fairways and then got close enough to the greens to get up and down a few times," Anderson said.

"I hadn't been hitting many fairways until Saturday ... I'm usually off to the right."

He hit the ball so well from the start of his round he raced to +3 after the first five holes, helped by pars on the first, fourth and fifth.

Unfortunately he undid that good early work, falling back to square after wiping the eighth, ninth and 10th.

Luckily he stopped the rot just in time, managing halves on the 11th and 12th before picking up shots on the 13th and 14th.

He gave one of those back by wiping the par-five 15th, but came home with two more pluses to finish at +3.

That saw him top the leaderboard, one clear of a group of five players, including three-time club champion Darren Bilney.

Playing off a handicap of +2, Bilney shot 68 off the stick after birdies on the fourth, seventh, ninth, 15th and 16th.

His only blemish was a bogey on the par-four fifth hole, although he also picked up a minus on the 18th despite making a par four and only halved the 15th despite making a birdie.

Even that fantastic effort was not quite good enough to snare a top-two finish in A Grade, as Jason Millhouse edged out Bryan Walsh and Bilney on a count-back.

The B Grade winner was Moryn Sullivan who finished with +1 to beat David McPheron by a shot.

Anderson's +3 in C Grade saw him beat

RIGHT DECISION: David Anderson would be pleased with his decision to dust off his golf clubs, with a win on the weekend at Attamurra.

Mitchell Broome, also by a single shot.

While Saturday's weather left players with no excuses, Thursday's field was decimated by heavy rain and strong wind in the morning which reduced the field to just 60.

In the end a count-back was needed to separate Peter Dempsey and Tim MacLean after both carded 40 stableford points.

Dempsey got the nod thanks to his better back nine, managing 21 points - despite a four putt (if you count one from just off the green) on the 17th for one point - to go with 19 on the front.

MacLean on the other hand did his best work on the front nine, despite teeing off mid-morning.

Playing off a 13 handicap, he shot an excellent two-over par 38 off the stick to notch 23 points and was on track for a real day out after reaching the 16th tee with 37 points.

Unfortunately he stumbled at just the wrong time, a wipe on the par-three 16th ultimately costing him victory.

Sunday saw the second of four short course events scheduled for 2021, with David Boyce scoring 40 stableford points to beat men's club captain Peter Waters on a count-back.

HAPPY GOLFERS: Kerry Pedlar, Bev Pedlar, winner and sponsor Helen Gregory, Heather Barry and Yvonne Shirley enjoyed the sunshine at the Mount Gambier Golf Club last week.

Sun comes out for two-person ambrose

PERFECT conditions greeted 18 pairs of women at the Mount Gambier Golf Club for a popular two-person ambrose.

The course presented well, with good fairways and the greens running true.

Scores were evenly distributed, with only 2½ shots separating the top four cards.

Claiming the win was sponsor Helen Gregory and a newcomer to golf Jess Parsons.

Playing off a 15 handicap, the pair had a commendable 85 off the stick, which resulted in a nett 70.

The pair had 41 on the front nine and 44 on the long back.

Just one shot behind were Yvonne Shirley and Heather Barry, who had a nice 37 off the stick on the front nine but fell away with 45 on the back.

The pair played off an 11 handicap and registered nett 71.

In third position by a quarter of a shot was the mother and daughter combination of Kerry and Bev Pedlar, who had 79 off the stick, breaking down to 39 on the front nine and 40 on back, for a nett 71.25.

The pro shot on the eighth hole was won by Shirley.

The combined third shot on the 12th hole - approximately 31 cm from the flag - was the pairing of Andrea Pegler and Karen Forster.

Meanwhile, 17 women contested a par round last Saturday in opposite conditions.

A cold and showery morning greeted the keen golfers, but the conditions did not deter Lyndal McInerney, who had finished 4-up for the day.

She finished the front nine at 3-up, with 1-up on the difficult back.

Included in her score were four wipes and a birdie on the eighth hole to secure the pro shot.

The only other player to play above her handicap was Sharran Waters who claimed second place with 1-up.

Waters also had a strong front nine, registering 3-up but blotted her card with 2-down on the back.

Carol Smith finished third with 1-down after a consistent effort.

Golfers are right on target at the Lakes

IT was a double celebration on Saturday in the Blue Lake Golf Club's stroke competition, with one player dominating over the 18 holes and one player dominating over just the one hole.

Claiming the overall win was Jacob Reed with a round of 90-31-59.

It is every player's dream to shoot a sub-60 score and while it is normally off the stick, it is still a great accomplishment to do it as a nett score.

Reed started off steadily, playing to his handicap, but then turned the screws on the back nine with a superb birdie on the difficult 13th hole.

A par on the 16th had him on track for a dream score and a bogey on the last two holes saw that come true to take out the win by five strokes.

Just as happy, but just taking one shot to do it, was Alan Stewart who aced the long par 3 14th hole.

What made it even more remarkable is Stewart walked off the 13th green with a 10, so perhaps the anger/adrenaline was flowing, but that one shot certainly eclipsed the disappointment of the previous hole.

In A Grade a count-back was needed to separate Josh Ransom (73-9-64) and Ben Gordon (75-11-64) after both scored well in the difficult conditions.

While Ransom birdied the fourth and fifth holes, he needed a strong finish over the inward nine to fend off Gordon.

It was a superb inward nine, with Ransom showing his ability with four under his handicap.

Splits of 37 and 36 was enough to secure the win after Gordon's splits of 36 and 39 with his only birdie being on the third hole.

Jay Ilsley finished in third place with a score of 73-6-67, with birdies on the 13th and last holes.

In B Grade Ben Wilson took the win with 80-13-67.

Wilson is on the verge of seriously improving his golf and cementing his spot in A Grade with a run of successive pars on each nine.

As soon as he irons out the doubles there is a big win waiting for him.

He would still be happy to take out the main prize with his round of 80-13-67.

In second place, Justin Ploenges is another player who should feature in the prize list more often than he does.

Reeling off pars at will he can also drop in the occasional double bogey which hurts his score, but he is not far off another win.

Stephen Von Duve was a model of consistency with his splits of 42/41 to take third place.

C Grade required another count-back, with club handicapper Geoff Munt and rabid Tigers supporter Trevor Gartside tied on nett 70.

Munt got the verdict thanks to shooting one under his handicap over the back nine compared to Gartside's one over.

Veteran Russell Lingham took third with his 93-21-72.

The list of ball winners is dominated by A Grade players, Josh Gale leading the pack with 68, followed by Bryan Scott and Adam Saunders 69, Tim Bates, Zeick Dalton 70, Anthony Williams, Chad Chewter, Bryce Smith 71, David Dowie, Adam Dunn, Michael Dedonatis and Scott Sawyer on 72.

Inward nine decides

THERE was a tight tussle for the outright win in the women's stroke round at the Blue Lake Golf Club on Saturday.

Luckily for Lynn Annand she did her better scoring on the inward nine, the 33-handicapper having splits of 54 and 51.

Annand just managed to outlast Fiona Punton who was on track for an outright win until a disastrous 17th hole.

It was a disappointing wipeout for Punton who has shown steady improvement over the last year and has worked hard to try and get the red ink off her scorecard.

It is hard to imagine what Beryl Mahoney will be more happy with - her third place prize or her birdie on the seventh hole.

With splits of 52 and 54 she will be happy to claim both.

In the novelty event Annand picked up another prize for her putter working on the day and having least putts.

TOUGH WIN: Lyn Annand survived a tight finish to claim the win at the Blue Lake Golf Club on Saturday.

Tough day to score

ONLY two players were able to break the 70 barrier in Tuesday's stroke round at the Blue Lake Golf Club, both fighting it out to the finish for the outright win.

Eventually Tayte Spencer prevailed by the barest of margins, despite almost throwing it away on the 16th hole.

Luckily he enjoyed a run of pars on the 12th, 13th and 14th holes to set up his win.

Hot on his heels was David Dowie, the A-grader doing almost enough with a birdie on the 10th on his way to 38 off the stick.

Dowie fell one stroke short which he could have made up on the front nine with a couple of double bogeys.

It was still a welcome return to form for Dowie who had the unfortunate experience recently of being run over by his own golf cart.

Three A Grade players fought out a tussle for third place, with the likeable John Millhouse able to bank the prize.

After a run of three pars, a birdie and two more pars, Millhouse was all set to challenge for the win but let it slip through his fingers.

It was still a good enough score to see off three other players who also finished on 71.

Cam Saint, Andrew Ferguson and Ben Pudney all had to settle for a ball prize, along with Noel Gosden and Stephen Von Duve.

Top performance in prestigious tournament

THE prestigious district-run Shylie Rymill foursomes combined with the Blue Lake Golf Club women's foursomes championship was played in perfect weather conditions and saw some close finishes for the top spots.

The partnership of Helen Myers and Lee-Anne Medhurst saw a repeat performance of their pre-COVID 2019 win, claiming the club championship with a gross score of 101.

Playing off a combined handicap of 24.5, the pair will now represent the club in the district foursomes championship to be played at the Bordertown Golf Club in June.

The runner's-up pairing of Ronda Edwards and Rosemary Martland had 104 gross off a combined handicap of 16.

Lucy Richards and Rose Case won the handicap section of the Shylie Rymill foursomes with nett 71 off a combined 35 handicap after edging out runner's-up Josie Ashby's and Annette Ford's nett 71.5 off 20.5 handicap.

Nearest to pin on the long par 3 14th hole was won by Sue Agars in Division 1 and Lesley McPherson in Division 2.

The pro-shot on the downhill fifth hole went to Ronda Edwards.

The Blue Lake Golf Club women's annual open day sponsored by Noel Barr Toyota is on Thursday, May 27, with entries to close on May 24.

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

A CONSISTENT four-quarter effort handed the Castec Rural Pioneers a solid victory in Round 5 of the NBL1 South conference.

Mount Gambier hosted Knox Raiders at the Icehouse and were in form from the outset.

The Pioneers were outscored in just one quarter - the final term - on their way to a 118-93 win.

They opened the game with a blazing first term, hitting 28 points to the visitors' 13 to set the scene.

Knox rallied and lost the second by six points, then the third by just five, before winning the final stanza by a solitary point.

There were clearly baskets aplenty to keep the crowd entertained, as 13 players from the two sides reached double figures, seven of those being Pioneers.

Nick Marshall was again impressive for the home side, with 21 points to top the sheets.

That included three shots from outside the arc, along with eight rebounds and three assists.

Tom Kubank put in a solid performance to show the home crowd what he is made of, with 19 points at 50pc from the field.

He achieved a double-double, with 11 rebounds, eight at the defensive end of the floor.

Tom Daly was in good touch, finishing with 19 points, 11 rebounds and seven assists.

Kane deWit played his usual tough game around the court, rewarded with 14 points and 10 assists, while Erik Burdon and Titus Robinson finished with 13 points each.

Duom Dawam rounded out the double-figure scorers for the Pioneers with 12 points.

Coach Richard Hill said he was pleased with the result, with the team's performance improving each outing.

"We got out to a good lead and played pretty well," he said.

"We were pretty happy, but we feel we have a bit of improving to do.

"We are getting to know each other a bit better ... we are pretty brand new, so it is a work in progress.

"We plan on getting better and we will need to."

Hill said while the Pioneers were the highest scoring team in the competition, they also let other teams score, which is something which needs to be addressed.

That will certainly be put to the test this weekend when Mount Gambier welcomes the Ballarat Miners to the Icehouse.

"Ballarat has a good team and that will test us out," Hill said.

"They have two seven-footers, so we will have to find a way to slow them down.

"They also have three or four high-level guards.

"Their record is not great but they have been playing some good teams and have lost some close games.

"They have plenty of talent and this will be our toughest test for the year so far.

"If we can get a win I will be really pleased." Saturday night's game tips off at 8pm.

Coach takes the positives

TREVOR JACKSON

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

A SLOW start set the One Forty One Pioneers women up for a tough night as they hosted Knox Raiders at the Icehouse on Saturday night.

The NBL1 Round 5 clash saw the win-less Pioneers take on the class of the undefeated Raiders in a match which was always going to push the home side.

With the likes of Kara Tessari, Kiera Rowe and Klara Wischer all playing big minutes for the visitors, Knox was simply too strong in all areas, claiming a 69-40 win.

The 7-23 first term gave the Pioneers a taste of what to expect and while they evened the contest in the second term with a 10-11 result, the Raiders just continued to push and keep the home side at arm's length.

To the Pioneers credit they never let up and continued to work hard, losing the last two quarters of the game by just six points each.

Sherrie Calleia was again a strong hand, with nine points, four assists and two steals.

Jasmin Howe also hit nine points, pulled down three rebounds and managed five steals.

While Hannah Young contributed just six points, she was strong at the opposite end of the floor, with 13 rebounds - 11 of those defensive.

While coach Matt Sutton said his players were disappointed, there were some positives to take from the contest.

"Knox is a good team and we probably didn't give them our best," he said.

"They have a deep and experienced team and can rotate pretty consistently.

"The girls are really disappointed because we feel we didn't capitalise on our opportunities to keep the scoreboard ticking over and keep us within reach.

"Defensively we had a plan and the girls took away some of Knox's strength and gave ourselves a chance keeping them to a low score.

"But we were pretty sloppy at times with the basketball and our offence gave them more opportunities to score."

Up against such a strong side, Sutton said it was the hard work of the Pioneers which was beginning to show.

"The girls work really hard and their defensive output is really good," he said.

"We kept a really good team to a manageable score.

"We just have to find more ways to capitalise on our opportunities and create more scoring opportunities."

The Pioneers will welcome the Ballarat Rush to the Icehouse Saturday night and Sutton is confident of a tight contest.

"I think we match up good with Ballarat and I think we are a real chance," he said.

"We just need to find more ways to put the ball in the hole.

"We have been working hard at training on offensive execution and ball security to give ourselves more opportunities to score.

"The team is starting to develop a real trust in their defensive and I think we can rely on that, but we have to find a better way to look after the ball and score."

Saturday night's game tips off at 6pm.

New strip for Lions and new name for stadium

GAMBIER Centrals Soccer Club recently held its season launch for 2021, which included the unveiling of the new home and away look for the next three years.

The club also announced a new deal for naming rights at the Den, now known as MGA Park.

The club worked hard in the off-season to ensure everything was ready for the new season, which also includes new coaches boxes and the redevelopment of the northern side of the ground.

The club thanked local businesses Dycer Constructions, Gordon Refrigeration, Galpins, MG Plasterers, Herron Todd White and MGA Insurance for their contributions and ongoing financial commitment.

Senior men's coach Chris Fleetwood announced the leadership group headed by Cameron Saint as captain, Jake Blackwell, Brodey Koop and Mitchell Cutting as vice captains for the 2021 season.

Senior men key signings include Sam Shoemark (White City State League), Justyn Saint (Millicent United) Tom Van Reit (Cumberland/Yorke Peninsula) Steve Crowther (Queensland).

Kiah Connolly heads the senior women's side as captain for the defending champions.

The young, new-look team will be coached by Scott Dickson in the newly-amalgamated LCFA women's competition.

NEW SIGNINGS: Gambier Centrals Soccer Club senior men welcome Sam Shoemark and Justyn Saint to the Den.

MATT BEGGS

VICTORIES to both Kingston and Keith set up an intriguing Round 6 of Kowree Naracoorte Tatiara football this weekend.

Both teams now remain undefeated at the pointy end of the ladder after victoried in Round 5, with a real blockbuster to take place on Saturday.

Kingston took care of Penola last round with a hard-fought 33-point win to keep its unblemished record alive and remain at the top of the ladder.

Ben Warner was solid in front of goals in the Saints' win, with five major scores and Jacob Fisher contributed two, while Warner, Tyler Baker and Hagan Wright were named in the best.

Penola had single goal kickers and could not find an outstanding offensive force all game.

Brock Egan, Scott Merrett and Brad Bryant worked hard, but the Eagles could keep up with the hungry Saints.

Luke Harder kicked five goals for Padthaway in a solid fighting effort.

Patrick Curpurso, Lachlan Johnson and Will Schreiber were best for Keith, while Jason McCarthy, Luke Harder and Tom Moyle-Read were the better players for Padthaway.

Bordertown was in total control against Naracoorte.

The Roosters jumped out to a nine-goal lead by half time and never looked back.

Curtis McCarthy kicked four goals in the victory, while Joshua Searle and Thomas Whittlesea added three goals each.

Searle, Thomas Gough and Whittlesea led the way for the Roosters.

Naracoorte had just three players who kicked goals, led by Rory Taggart with six, Aaron Slorach with three and Sam Willson with two goals.

William Limbert, Sam Bates and Bartley Nolan were the better players for Naracoorte.

Border Districts won its second game for the season after a close victory over Kybybolite.

The Eagles kept Kyby goal-less in the first half and held on in the last quarter as the Tigers tried to fight back.

Borders were led well by Shawn Mansell

Daniel Skinner, Mark Quinn and Rodney Oliver were best for the victors.

Tyler Harris kicked two goals for Kyby, while Dylan Brodie, Bill Munn and Luke Cooper were named best.

Mundulla put in a workman-like performance to overcome Lucindale who could not kick straight in the second half as they attempted to comeback from a 42-point half-time deficit.

The Roos kicked 5-9 to 6-2 in the second half but could not find the middle of the big sticks as they went down by 41-points.

Harry Dowling kicked five goals for Mundulla, while Sam Luckett, Brayden Redden and Dowling were named best.

Lucindale's goals came from solo efforts, while Riley Milne, Tom Logan and Henry Tregoweth were named in the best.

Round 6 this week has many great match ups and none better than the clash for top spot between Kingston and Keith at Kingston.

Both teams will be pumped and ready to test each other in front of what should be a huge crowd.

Kingston currently has the bragging rights with top position, but not by much.

The battle of the Eagles takes place at Francis as Border Districts hosts Penola in a game that could go either way.

Penola would be desperate for a win, with just one victory so far this season.

Lucindale hosts Kybybolite and the Roos would be warm favourites at home to get the win.

Kyby is yet to open its account this season and will be keen to change that statistic.

The big rivals Mundulla and Bordertown face off at Mundulla in a clash that will test the Roosters, as Mundulla's roster begins to settle.

They sit third and fifth respectively on the ladder, with plenty to play for.

In the final game Padthaway hosts Naracoorte and both sides are in the mix.

Some consistent wins are required to stave off the chasing pack, which should provide an entertaining contest.

Archery skills

A WORLD Archery 18-metre format was the Blue Lake Archers' Friday night indoor round last week, followed on Sunday by a short outdoor practice and tuning session in lieu of a competitive round.

The indoor round was more of a friendly hit out and had a more relaxed atmosphere where all of the archers recorded scores marginally below their benchmark.

However, the final adjusted scores still resulted in a close contest with a narrow point spread across the group.

National and state indoor championships are coming up in July and competition nights will become much more focused from here on as the archers preparations start to ramp up.

Graham Lock and Paul Freeman had occasional self inflicted inaccuracies during the night, but Kilsby kept his score sheet clean of arrows outside the gold coloured centre of the target faces.

A perfect 60-point end is a difficult achievement for compound archers during a WA 18 round, with the 10-point ring for the compound division the same size as a $2 coin - a very small area to hit from 18 metres away.

Kilsby defied the odds to achieve a perfect 60 points toward the tail end of the round.

Surprisingly the adjusted score line was closer than the trio expected to see, two points divided Lock and Kilsby as the top two finishers, Kilsby adding the adjusted score win to his off the bow score bragging rights.

Indoor archery continues at Blue Lake Gymnastics Club, Malseed Park, Friday at 7.30pm followed by outdoor archery at Corriedale Park from 12.30pm Sunday.

WA 18 metre Indoor, handicap scored, benchmark 600 points: Ben Kilsby 583 (off the bow 570); Graham Lock 581 (536); Paul Freeman 570 (525).

Top players rise

THE Division 1 match of the night for Round 11 of Millicent squash lived up to expectations.

Scott de Bruin and Steve Gray went head-to-head and took the game down to the wire.

While de Bruin is one of the hard hitters of the competition, it was his first game for several weeks after recovering from an injury.

Gray is known for his determination and the contest showed the best of both players, with de Bruin taking the first game 15-13.

Gray worked his way back into the contest and took the next two games 15-10 and 15-6 to apply the pressure.

However, de Bruin dug deep and took the fourth 15-11 to set up an enthralling decider.

The final game saw tight rallies as the two battled to the end, with Gray finally winning 15-13.

The Division 2 match of the round was between Fiona Oliver and Mick Millhouse.

The first game was an indication of how good the match would be, with Millhouse claiming the win 18-16.

Millhouse took the second game 15-13 for the advantage, but Oliver found form in the third and fourth for two 15-13 wins to set up a final showdown.

Both players made the most of their opportunities in the fifth, with Oliver finally succumbing to Millhouse 13-15.

Slipping and sliding through SEAC Super Series

TREACHEROUS conditions greeted competitors in Round 2 of the SEAC Super Series took place on Sunday at SEAC Park on Sunday.

Weather conditions were less than ideal in the days leading up to the event which presented a sloppy race surface for the 48 competitors.

After a look around lap, competitors were given an option to proceed or stay and watch, with a few taking the latter option.

Starting from last years Number 1, Dale Cagney had the dubious honour of exploring the track and, as did quite a few who followed him, drove a cautious Heat 1.

Heat 1 went the way of a deserving Damien Brand pedaling the Can Am Pro Buggy around the layout as though it was a dry track, setting the pace at a quick 1:53.75 seconds - a very respectable time for a track in the best of conditions.

Round 1 top driver Simon Feil had to settle for next in line some 1.5 seconds in arrears, but around three seconds better than Nicholas Cagney's WRX for third.

Paul Heenan had a competitive drive around the SEAC Park track in his Galant VR4 for the first time in what seems like years.

He showed he can still put a good lap together and came home in fourth place, a couple of seconds in front of John Whitehead's Phoenix Buggy in fifth.

Heat 2 saw a changing track surface with a little more grip, where mud and water had been relocated by the competitors, which meant an increase in speed.

TOUGH CONDITIONS: Simon Feil lines up for another run on a wet and treacherous surface at SEAC Park.

Picture: STEPHANIE HOPPER

These changes did catch a few people off guard, resulting in off-track excursions, or a couple of belt tightening moments.

Nicholas Cagney found a good groove and locked in top spot, nine-tenths of a second in front of Brand's Can Am, who stole a position from Feil down in third.

John Whitehead bettered his previous run by 10 full seconds and claimed fourth spot, three seconds clear of Dale Cagney.

The track began to dry for Heat 3 and Feil made it home in 1:44.78 to edge out Nicholas Cagney at 1:45.29 and Whitehead's Buggy at 1:49.72 for second and third respectively.

Dale Cagney lifted his game with the better grip level and stopped the clock at 1:50.41, just bettering Brand's effort of 1:50.69 and Heenan's VR4 time of 1:51.78 for fifth and sixth.

As the track continued to dry, the times dropped, with Heat 4 showing the effect.

Nicholas Cagney put in an excellent effort to set the standard at a well-driven 1:43.28, closely followed by Feil in second with a time of 1:44.03.

He was well clear of Dale Cagney at 1:46.50, Brand at 1:47.47 and Whitehead at 1:48.19.

As Heat 4 finished, Mother Nature added a little rain for those last few to contend with.

Nicholas Cagney found enough grip to take the top spot from Feil, Brand, Paul Heenan, Dale Cagney and Whitehead.

The next event listed on the SEAC calendar is a double header on the June long weekend with the club holding a round of the SA Autocross Championship over Saturday and Sunday, June 12 and 13.

Demon juggernaut rolls on

trevor.jackson@tbwtoday.com.au

SOUTH GAMBIER 15.8 (98) d MILLICENT 13.3 (81)

SOUTH Gambier remains undefeated at the top of the Bendigo Bank Western Border football ladder despite a big challenge from Millicent on Saturday.

It was only a strong third term at Blue Lake Sports Park which made the difference, after an even first half of football.

The home side led at the first break by four points, but the visitors turned the game on its head in the second and claimed a one-point advantage at the long break.

South opened the game up in the third term with six major scores to just one Millicent goal.

That provided a 31-point advantage which was always going to be hard to chase down.

The Saints gave it a crack, with five final-quarter goals to just two from the Demons, but in the end it was not enough and the home side remained unblemished for the season.

Up forward it was a battle of the big guns, with South coach Brayden Kain banging on six majors, while Saints spearhead Gene Robinson contributed seven.

Colby Munro and Brent Howard added four and two goals respectively for the Demons, while Saints coach Clint Gallio added two for Millicent.

South is still four points clear at the top of the ladder, with Millicent in fourth place, trailing East Gambier by percentage only.

While it is hard to see anyone beating the Demons at this point, Millicent showed there are some chinks in the armor.

WEST GAMBIER 13.10 (88) d EAST GAMBIER 9.7 (61)

West Gambier did its season hopes a favour on Saturday, with a handy win over East Gambier.

The Roos have had a tough start to the season, with just two wins from six outings, despite some competitive quarters of football.

Saturday they pulled four quarters together at Malseed Park to run out comfortable victors.

The Roos led at every change, thanks in part to a 34-12 first term.

The Bulldogs fought back in the second term, but still trailed by four points at the long break, before West again piled on scoreboard pressure, with four major scores to East's one, then ran the game out to remain in front.

Matt Waldron banged on five majors for the Roos, while Ben Papps kicked two.

For East, Mark Rumbelow was the focus up forward with three majors, while Giancarlo

Cooper and Jayden Eldridge kicked two each.

The Roos have now closed the margin to the fourth-placed Saints as they look to get their season back on track.

NORTH GAMBIER 21.17 (143) d CASTERTON SANDFORD 5.6 (36)

It was a tough day for Casterton Sandford down at Island Park, with North Gambier running rampant to hand the hosts a massive defeat.

An eight-goal opening term stamped the Tigers authority on the game and they never relented.

By half time it was all over, with an 89-15 scoreline, but the Tigers just kept pushing.

Unfortunately for the Cats they could only find single-figure scorers, while North was back to its best in front of the big sticks.

Tigers' coach Justin McConnell was back among the goals, with eight to his name, while Tom McLennan, Sam Stafford and Joel Griffith all kicked three.

Nick McInerney also added two.

While the results has little effect on the Cats' fortunes, it pushed the Tigers up a position on the ladder, now in second spot, two points clear of East Gambier.

In the league goal kicking honours, a handful of players have begun to open a margin.

Millicent's Gene Robinson leads the charge with 34 goals, after his bag of seven on Saturday.

Stafford remains one goal clear of McConnell, on 27 and 26 respectively, while Brayden Kain sits in fourth place with 20 goals.

MILLICENT 66 d SOUTH GAMBIER 48

IN a solid effort, the inexperienced South Gambier line-up challenged the reigning premiers Millicent and in the end only went down by 18 goals - a margin not seen for many seasons.

It was certainly a surprise to those at Blue Lake Sports Park for Round 6 of Western Border netball when the home side held a one-goal quarter-time lead.

Missing tall shooter Tabatha Sanderson, who injured her finger early in the precious round's loss to East Gambier, Millicent already had a new-look line-up and at quarter time the bibs were swapped and while South was still right in the contest, the wheels did start to turn.

Kimmi Tincknell moved out to the defensive wing and immediately started to win some turnover ball, while Lisa Duldig, who moved into centre, gave her side good drive and a calm head at the offensive end.

It was hard work but the Saints started to gain control and by half time the one-goal deficit had become a five-goal lead.

It was in the third the real scoreboard damage was done, when the Saints again shuffled their line-up.

Demi Verbena moved into goal attack, sharing the shooting duties with Lucy Denton and Paige Nitschke moved out to the attacking wing.

It was a slight tweak but with it came the Saints' trademark speed of ball as Nitschke hit the top of the circle with monotonous regularity, finding Denton in space and Verbena on the drive.

In the first half, the defensive efforts of Brandi Bouchier, Renee Pluckhahn and Elsie Bouchier had the Saints second guessing themselves and coughing up possession, but that all changed in the third term as the space opened up and the ball kept finding its way into Denton's hand, seeing her convert 15 from 17 as the lead blew out to 13 and the Demons challenge was all but over.

Just as Millicent coach Donna Denton would have been pleased to see her side work its way out of a tight situation, South coach Belinda Scanlon would be pleased her side regrouped after the dominant performance from the Saints in the third term, to be competitive again in the last and keep the scoreboard damage under 20 goals.

Grace Edwards and Lara Munro continue to develop as a shooting combination for South and they certainly tested the Millicent defenders Portia McRae and Hannah Nitschke, while Pluckhahn and Bouchier continue to punch above their weight - and height - to create turnover ball.

In the end, the composure of Lucy Denton, the hard running of Duldig and the critical touches from Tincknell turned the match in the visitors' favour.

EAST GAMBIER 59 d WEST GAMBIER 43

East Gambier's success has been built on a lot of things, but fast, ruthless starts have been the hallmark of their 2021 success.

That was again the case on Saturday, as the Bulldogs dominated the opening half, generating 44 scoring opportunities to 20 in the first half and given the Bulldogs were uncharacteristically inaccurate on the finish, the half time scoreline, which saw West trailing by 13, could well have been worse.

The Bulldogs led by 10 at the first break and in the end that really was the difference in what turned out to be a 59-43 final scoreline - a vastly improved effort from the Roos on their opening-round clash.

The third quarter was all about the young shooters on court, with West's Sarah Ritter ensuring her side stayed in the contest, netting a perfect 11 from 11, while at the other end of the court, East's Amryn Bosko also put in a perfect quarter, with 10 from 10.

It left the deficit at 15 going into the final quarter and again Ritter was the target for the Roos.

While they were unable to make inroads into the scoreline, they reduced the damage.

Ritter was the beneficiary of some accurate feeding from the consistent Carlee Ransom, who hit the circle's edge hard and put the ball to the open space for Ritter.

Coach Lisa McGregor also played a role in Ritter's dominance, using her strong front cuts to open up the back space for her young shooting partner, as well delivering some clever feeds of her own to cash in on Ritter's accurate finishing.

Bosko, who was her side's best, continues to shine in top company and her partnership with the always-dangerous Tenille Gray continues to grow.

In the end, the ability of the Bulldogs to create turnover ball early, limiting West to just eight opening-quarter scoring attempts, compared with their own 24 told the tale of the day.

NORTH GAMBIER 76 d CASTERTON SANDFORD 29

Caroline Davey has been a thorn in every team's side and on the weekend at Island Park, the star North Gambier shooter was again prolific and accurate as the Tigers bounced back from their last-round loss to West with a convincing win over the Cats.

Davey netted 61 from 69 as North powered to a 76-29 victory over the injury-ravaged Casterton Sandford line-up.

With no Meg Fennell or Caeleigh Humphries and coach Tori Broomby not on court, the Cats relied heavily on the experience of shooter Paige Murrell and tough mid-courter and captain Scarlet Jarrad.

The two were easily Casterton Sandford's best as they looked to support and encourage their young team mates.

Zhane Crawford earned a call up to help cover the missing players and did some good work on either wing, while the young defensive combination of Claire Foster and Ebany Jarrad competed hard but faced a tidal wave of supply.

North's defensive unit - Maddie Whaites, Noni McConnell and Mel Renko - are arguably the most experienced in the competition and ensured the Cats' frontline was never allowed an easy ball.

The speed in the mid-court of Brianna Walters, Ellen Brown and Teneille Barry ensured the Casterton Sandford defenders had little time to set up and try to limit the supply to Davey.

Lauran Norman made her A Grade debut in the clash, replacing Brown at goal attack in the final quarter for a taste of senior action and she slotted a credible five from seven.

A Saint for life

ANGELA Pratt is the latest Saint to reach a major milestone, with 150 senior games played for the Nangwarry Netball Club.

Pratt has played her whole life at Nangwarry, through the junior ranks and into the seniors.

She has been a vital part of Nangwarry's senior teams, playing A Reserve for most of those years and earning club awards along the way.

This year Pratt stepped up to A Grade for the first time and has held her own on the court, making it tough for her opponents.

She has also coached and been an active member of the committee.

Pratt is always willing to help where she can and is a passionate Nangwarry person.

The Nangwarry Netball Club congratulates Pratt on her 150 games.

PASSIONATE: A passionate Saint, Angela Pratt reached her 150 senior game milestone for Nangwarry on the weekend.

Two sides unbeaten

ROBE 20.17 (137) d GLENCOE 4.4 (28)

INACCURATE kicking was all that saved Glencoe from a real thrashing at the hands of Robe on the weekend, although the 109-point deficit was certainly just that.

The weight of possession was clearly with the home side, as the Roosters simply ran rampant.

Six-goal quarters book-ended the game for Robe, as it finished the contest as it started.

Glencoe had no answers, unable to even score after the second quarter.

Only Alex Hentschke found the goals more than once for the Murphies, with two to his name, while several Roosters put their hands up for a shot at the big sticks.

Zac Deane topped the list with five, James Francisco kicked four, while Egan Regnier, Jack Kelly and Sam Clements all kicked two.

Deane sits down in fifth place on the goal kicking ladder, with 18 for the season and the only Rooster in the top 10.

Robe remains one of just two unbeaten teams in the competition, top of the ladder.

KALANGADOO 9.10 (64) d HATHERLEIGH 5.8 (38)

WHILE Kalangadoo was a less-convincing victor than Robe, the Magpies remain unbeaten this season, second on the ladder behind the Roosters.

The Magpies had to fight for every score against Hatherleigh on Saturday, with the game well in the balance at the final break.

The Eagles led at the first change by six points, then Kalangadoo turned it around in the second to lead by just one point at the main break.

A relatively even third term saw the Magpies remain in front, but by just four pints to set up an enthralling final term.

However, with a sniff of victory, Kalangadoo ran the game out hard, holding Hatherleigh goal-less in the final stanza while adding a further three majors for a well-deserved victory.

PORT MACDONNELL 38.18 (246) d NANGWARRY 4.6 (30)

THE Nangwarry football oval was certainly a happy hunting ground for Port MacDonnell on Saturday, as the Demons kicked a cricket score to run out convincing victors.

It was quite simply a no-contest, with the Port MacDonnell forwards having a field day.

In fact 13 Demons contributed major scores, with Brandon Newton and Ned Wilke adding six each.

Kevin Thomson and Tim Sullivan kicked five each and the list went on.

The result saw the Demons leap-frog Hatherleigh to claim third spot on the ladder, after a tough loss for the Eagles.

TANTANOOLA 10.5 (65) d MOUNT BURR 6.11 (47)

TANTANOOLA recorded its first win of the season on Saturday at the expense of the struggling Mount Burr.

The Mozzies sat with two wins, while the Tigers were win-less heading into the clash, down in seventh and eight spots respectively.

While those positions have not changed, the Tigers move one win closer to the Mozzies and just as importantly, one game clear of the bottom rung of the ladder.

As for the game, it was certainly in the balance for the majority of minutes, with the tigers leading tentatively at every change.

A four-point lead in the opening term was reduced to just two points at the long break, before Tantanoola began to pull away.

While the Tigers added just one goal and two behinds to the coffers in the third term, they kept the Mozzies to a solitary behind to stretch the margin to nine points.

Mount Burr was unable to find the big sticks again in the final stanza, while Tantanoola added a further two majors to run the game out.

Jack Dawe kicked five for the victors, while Jak Ryan added four.

TOP FORM: Robe's Jordan Pettit continued his good form on the weekend with a best-on-ground performance for the Roosters.

Tight contests in Mid South East netball

KALANGADOO 45 d HATHERLEIGH 41

A CLOSE and entertaining contest played out between Kalangadoo and Hatherleigh in Round 6 of Mid South East netball on Saturday.

The visiting Kalangadoo claimed the win, but not without a fight.

Hatherleigh scored the first goal and capitalised on any missed shots by Kalangadoo.

Strong defensive work by both sides caused many turnovers in the mid-court which saw Hatherleigh take the lead by three goals at the first break.

The home side came out firing in the second term and created a six-goal lead, but Kalangadoo pulled it back.

Solid defensive efforts at both ends of the court ensured all goalies worked hard for every shot.

At the main break Hatherleigh held the advantage by six goals.

Kalangadoo's defence combined well, creating plenty of turnovers, with Melissa Russell dangerous in the third term to help the Magpies turn the game around and claim a three-goal lead at the final break.

In the final term Hatherleigh pulled back early to get within one goal, then continued to push hard, but Kalangadoo pulled away to finish strongly and take the win by four.

Best for Hatherleigh were Maddie Pulmer and Lara MacGregor.

Kalangadoo's best were Melissa Russell and Mikaila Pitt.

GLENCOE 42 d ROBE 32

GLENCOE ventured to Robe and claimed a 10-goal victory on the back of a solid third term.

The first quarter went goal-for-goal in an even contest, with some strong defensive pressure from both sides.

Georgia Perkins and Emily Thompson were having an impressive tussle in Glencoe's goal ring, with Perkins getting her hands to many loose balls.

The second quarter was also tight, with Robe working the ball into the goal ring better.

Scores were tied up at 18-all at half time.

Glencoe picked up the pressure in the third quarter, with some accurate shooting from Thompson, shooting nine of the Murphies' 11 goals.

Robe still claimed some turnovers, but struggled to capitalise, as the visitors pulled away to a seven-goal advantage at the final break.

22 to 29 at the break. From there the Murphies held on with a strong final quarter to claim a much-deserved win.

Best players for Robe were Tori Gluyas and Keryn Moore and for Glencoe were Laura Edwards and Ashlea Edwards.

PORT MACDONNELL 59 d NANGWARRY 44

NANGWARRY used its home court well to apply plenty of pressure on Port MacDonnell, but the visitors were simply too strong in the end.

The Demons scored the first three goals before the Saints were on the board, with the home side making some minor errors in the attack line.

Once they settled it was goal-for-goal, with Hayley Burner running hard for Nangwarry and feeding her goalies Angela Pratt and Cassie Dinnison accurately.

At the other end of the court Brooke Williams worked overtime as a focal point for her team and finished off with accuracy, only missing one shot from 12 for the quarter.

The visitors led at the first break by just three goals.

Both teams kept up the intensity in the second term, as Kirby Carrison entered the game for the Demons, while Carly Ploenges and Hayley Vanderhorst were forced to work hard for possession.

Michelle Moore and Burner had a good tussle through the middle, while Saint Ebony Lawson used her pace well against a tough Jess Trench.

By the main break Port MacDonnell had wrestled some control over the contest, with a handy 11-goal lead.

The margin remained static until the final term, where the Demons picked up the pace and ran the game out hard.

Both teams worked hard in every position, but small errors let Nangwarry down, with Port MacDonnell claiming a hard-fought victory.

Nangwarry's best were Burner and Ploenges, while for Port MacDonnell, Williams and Trench were given the nod.

TANTANOOLA 51 d MOUNT BURR 44

ANOTHER tight game played out between Tantanoola and Mount Burr, with the Tigers claiming the win on their home court.

Mount Burr started the match with the first centre pass resulting in the first goal of the game and both sides played with intensity from there, with a goal-for-goal contest for much of the term.

All shooters shot at 100pc to ensure their side had the best opportunity.

Mount Burr went to the first break one goal up.

In the second term the defensive pressure by Mount Burr's Heidi Clark and Madi Hagggett caused havoc for the Tiger's attack line.

The pressure in the goal circle made it difficult for Tantanoola's Vic Lucas and Casey Walker to feed into the goalies.

It seemed to be a defender's day out as the Tiger's Kate Bromley and Tayla Rowe were also causing trouble for Ebony Clark and Sarah Nulty in goal, with the pressure over the ball resulting in crucial turnovers.

The result saw the Mozzies hold their one-goal lead at the main break.

The third quarter saw Mount Burr make changes, with Hagggett coming out to goal defence and Clark back into goal keeper, while the Tigers were unchanged.

Bromley and Rowe continued to play strongly and their intensity grew causing multiple turnovers the Tigers were able to convert from.

Bromley's defensive pressure kept Nulty out of the game and down the other end Emma Gould had her eye in and capitalised off the turnovers her team created to shoot 12 goals for the quarter.

The Tiger's took control and headed to the final break with a six-goal lead.

The intensity continued in the final term, with the Tigers holding on for a hard-earned victory.

Regional areas on national radar

WITH the 100 Mile Classic and South Australian kermesse championships done and dusted, the importance of the weekend to cycling in Australia has not been lost on the powers that be.

South Australian state manager for AusCycling Lachy Ambrose was happy to speak about the subject at the Blue Lake on Sunday, while the remaining riders completed a gruelling closed-circuit race.

He noted the difficulty the governing body has hosting such events in the metropolitan area, making such regional locations as the Limestone Coast more important for the development of the sport.

"If we didn't have these regional centres willing to support these prestigious and historic bike races, I think they would be part of our history," Ambrose said.

"In places like Mount Gambier we have the support of the council and the whole community.

"We are really appreciative of that support."

The 100 Mile Classic itself is becoming a rarity, with few long handicap events held anywhere in the country.

Many of the competitors enjoy the challenge of what is known as a tough, but rewarding course.

"A lot of the riders who did the 100 Mile, also did Melbourne to Warrnambool and went to Wagga recently," Ambrose said.

"The riders say the 100 Mile Classic is the harder.

"It is a handicap so you have to ride pretty hard, but in both the men's and women's paces you weren't in the top 10 unless you had some prestige to your name."

It is a similar scenario with the state kermesse, with the closed roads around the Blue Lake making for a safe and competitive event.

"This is a really great course," Ambrose said.

"You have no interaction with traffic so it is safe and it is something we can close without affecting too many residents, which is important to us.

"From a rider's perspective they love this course.

"It is one of the courses people go back to Adelaide or Melbourne or wherever they are from and talk about how good it is.

"From a racing perspective there is a bit of everything - one year you might get a bunch win and another a breakaway."

Economically Ambrose said the two events injected financial benefit to the region, but also made an impact which was harder to measure.

"It is becoming more important from a strategic point of view to have these marquee events on the calendar," he said.

"It is great for the cycling community and for the local community as well.

"There is the direct tourism impact of having 150 people stay in the town for a few days.

"Then the Australian track team visited a few schools, so there is that impact, about the importance of a healthy lifestyle.

"Cycling has always been a super accessible sport and these guys racing are some of the best in the world.

"It is so accessible to the community and you don't get to see that in other sports."

REGIONAL FOCUS: South Australian state manager for AusCycling Lachy Ambrose is pleased to be involved with regional areas for marquee cycling events.

Double to O'Brien

AUSTRALIAN Olympic cyclist Kelland O'Brien backed up his 100 Mile Classic victory on Saturday with the SA Open Kermesse Championship on Sunday on another tough day for racing.

It was back-to-back titles for O'Brien, who won the event last time it was staged in 2019.

The elite men rode for 75 minutes around the closed Blue Lake circuit, before two final laps to decide the victor.

An early breakaway saw Leigh Howard take the initiative, before moves were made and the field split.

O'Brien joined Howard, along with Luke Plapp and Sam Welsford and the Australian Olympic cyclists controlled the pace from there, with little chance of the main group closing the growing margin.

In the end it came down to a race to the line between O'Brien and Howard, with the former again saluting.

O'Brien said he was pleased to back up his 100 Mile victory with the state title, despite the tough conditions around the back of the Blue Lake.

"There was a bit of rain and the wind picked up more towards the end," he said.

"The climb around the back is pretty hard - at the start you don't think much about it but after an hour and a half that hill, with a cross wind, it hurts."

As with the 100 Mile Classic the day before, O'Brien said there was no real race plan in place, just to ride it out and see how it unfolded.

"We ended up in the right place at the right time," he said.

"At the end we saw two laps to go and went hard to the finish."

The women's championship was claimed by Annette Edmondson, from Ruby Roseman Gannon and Maeve Plouffe.

In an impressive effort, Mount Gambier's Tess Wight crossed the line in seventh place.

For the junior riders, Mount Gambier's Molly Opperman claimed the Under 11 honours, from first male and state champion Austen Decker.

Liam Underwood claimed the Under 13 honours from brother Ryan, with Freya Miller female champion.

Paige Squire won the Under 15 female race, while Darcy Greenwood sprinted to the line ahead of Ewan Landman to claim the championship honours.

The Under 17 event saw a tightly-contested race, with the 10-rider group together for the full five laps.

A sprint to the line saw Kalan Tucker claim the win from Will Mathwin and Jamie Anderson.

B and C Grade races were also held over 50 minutes plus two laps.

In an interesting twist, Australian Olympic endurance team coach Tim Decker claimed the B Grade honours in a sprint to the line, while Phil Crick claimed C Grade.

O'Brien crossed the line with team mate Luke Plapp, after the pair broke away from the front group in the final kilometres.

Fellow Australian rider Leigh Howard finished some 10 seconds back in third place, while Dave Bryant crossed the line as the first Mount Gambier rider home.

It was an impressive performance, with O'Brien and his Australian team mates starting from the scratch group, around an hour after the first riders headed off.

The weather was always going to play a part, with cross, head and tail winds all combining for an uncomfortable ride.

The scratch riders did not catch the front group until late in the race on the way back from Port MacDonnell and then faced plenty of opposition as riders jockeyed for position.

Eventually O'Brien took his opportunity and was joined by Plapp at the top of the Blue Lake as the race drew to a finish.

A salute across the line showed the joy of the victory, with a clear gap to the remainder of the field.

O'Brien said it was a tough race and one he was pleased to win.

"There are not too many handicaps over this distance in Australia any more, so it is great to still have a really long handicap going," he said.

O'Brien said kit choice was as important as any other preparation, with the cold wind sapping energy and morale.

The pace was on from the outset, with a desire to close the big gap to the limit riders.

"There wasn't too much talk to begin with amongst the scratch group," O'Brien said.

"You know you are giving away a full hour, so basically 30 kilometres.

"The wind was interesting on the way out to the first turnaround and we averaged 50kph for the first hour, which was crazy.

"It put a lot of people under pressure early, then coming up over the Range Hill was pretty tough."

Once back in Mount Gambier, the riders headed down to Port MacDonnell for the final turnaround, which again tested the stamina.

"There were a few attacks on the way down to Port MacDonnell and that was where the race-winning split happened," O'Brien said.

"Getting across to the front group in the head wind was pretty hard and mentally it is pretty hard too because it is still 25kays to go from Port MacDonnell."

O'Brien said the front group was caught with around 15km to run and from there the race continued a frantic pace.

"It was pretty good handicapping," he said.

"There were a few guys in the front of the race who were super strong and they got in with us and started racing.

"Sam Welsford, Luke Plapp, Leigh Howard and myself from the Australian Olympic team were at the front, but we didn't think about the tactics, we just let the race unfold.

"The first point is to chase everyone down and catch the limit, then once that happens you race full gas and everyone can take their own opportunities."

With the two Australian team mates coming together at the top of the Blue Lake it was always going to be an enticing sprint to the line.

O'Brien raised his arm in celebration after a tough few hours in the saddle.

"It is as hard as it gets," he said of the time-honoured event.

"It is a world-class race.

"We averaged over 47kph for the whole 100 miles and I can't imagine there would be many races in the world that quick."

Despite the difference to the Olympic event the team competes in, O'Brien said it was important preparation.

"It is super important," he said.

"We have had a good block of country Australian racing in the legs now, the Melbourne to Warrnambool, Wagga to Albury, a few races at Casterton and now this one.

"The Olympic race we do is four kilometres and this is 100 miles, but getting that base in and suffering all day helps with the four kilometre team pursuit."

The women raced for their own honours over a 110km course.

Alexandra Manly claimed the win and a record fastest time in a sprint to the line with Ruby Roseman Gannon, with Eloise Sandow in third place.

Young Mount Gambier rider Tess Wight finished eighth after starting from the 14-minute mark, while Hamilton's Nikki Menzel came home in 14th.

For the younger riders, the Under 11/13 race went to Molly Opperman, from Austen Decker and Eddie Buckland, with Ryan Underwood fastest time.

The Under 15/17 race was won by Jami Buckley, from Harry Opperman and Riley Hill, with Will Mathwin fastest time.
